DAVIS CENTER OF ROUSING PARTY RALLY AT TOPEKA

Civic Welcome, With Bands and Parade, and Music and Convention - Like Display at Hall.

NEBRASKA OUT IN RAIN TO HEAR HIM

Presidential Candidate Says Democratic Aim Is to Promote Welfare of All Citizens.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 13.—John W. Davis let loose tonight a terrific denunciation of the corruption which has "strained the national honor" in the present Republican administration. The acts of Fall, Forbes, Denby and Daugherty, he said, were the natural outgrowth of the doctrine of special privilege by which the Republican party is ruled.

An audience of nearly 5000, filling the municipal auditorium, roared their approval as he recited the details of corruption and incompetence, and scathingly criticised the lack of a "burning zeal" on the part of the President to get rid of the offenders and see that justice was done.

It was the best speech by Davis on his trip and the reception given him by Topeka was the most enthusiastic he has had.

At one significant point in his speech, when recounting the effects of the McCumber-Fordney tariff act, he told how the aluminum interests had benefited, and added that some in high offices had an interest in aluminum. The tariff on aluminum ware, he said, was increased three-fold.

Davis' speech, delivered extemporaneously, was built around a contrast which he drew between the Hamiltonian and the Jeffersonian theories of government. He was applauded generously. Eastward bound after his invasion of the Western farming country, Davis delivered a speech with a "punch" which he has shown himself increasingly able to get into his extemporaneous remarks.

Given a Great Welcome.

Topeka gave Davis a civic welcome. A red-coated band met his special train on its arrival at 5 o'clock and headed a parade of the Davis party in motor cars through the business section. Davis, in the first car, was kept busy doffing his hat to crowds that lined the streets. A Boy Scout band brought up the rear. After the parade Davis went to the home of the Governor, whose guest he was at dinner.

The Auditorium, which seats 6500, was packed half an hour before the time set for the speaking. A band on the stage played "Dixie" and the crowd cheered lustily.

A group near the stage, members of the League of Young Democrats, turned loose the greatest enthusiasm that has prevailed at any Davis meeting on the present trip. The cheering of this party was incessant.

The Young Democrats—men and women—were armed with a liberal supply of banners, bearing such inscriptions as "Better Days With Davis," "Davis Can Save Us," "All We Want Is Common Honesty," "Why Keep Cool With Coolidge? We Don't Have Cold Feet," and "Count On Us, John." There was also a huge white teapot labeled: "Teapot Dome Is G. O. P. Doom." Led by a cheer leader, the Young Democrats sang "Better Days With Davis" to the tune of "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No More."

Parade in the Hall.

The singers with their banners and cowbells paraded around the hall several times. When Davis entered the whole crowd rose and cheered. Fred J. Robertson Democratic State chairman, introduced Sam Amidon, the National Committeeman, who introduced Gov. Davis, who introduced Senator Key Pittman of Nevada. Everybody got a great hand, and the Governor caused a laugh when he referred to himself as a "Kansas" farmer who had been an intermittent candidate for President and Vice President at the New York convention.

Pittman eulogized John W. Davis, laying special stress on his services to labor, as a young legislator in West Virginia, as Congress-

40,000 WATCH PRINCE WHILE AMERICAN POLO TEAM BEATS BRITONS

Wales Chief Attraction of Throng at First Match—Stevenson Badly Injured When Pony Stumbles.

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
A Staff Correspondent of the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

MEADOW BROOK, L. I., Sept. 13.—Even a Prince can't have everything. Wales saw America win the first international polo match at Meadow Brook today by a score of 16 to 5. This is the largest total ever made in an international match and the most crushing defeat since the British won by 14 to 2, in 1886.

In the last chukker, Malcolm Stevenson of the American four was knocked out. His mount, Aguila, stumbled and Stevenson was thrown heavily, landing on the back of his head, suffering a slight concussion of the brain.

Aguila, a brown Argentine mare, sensed at once that something was wrong. Her rider was lying on the turf. This was not part of the game. Aguila knew that. The ball had racketed down the field, but even before the whistle blew to call time out the pony wheeled and stood still beside the fallen player. The mare waited for him to get up and go on with it. It seemed queer to her that the man had dropped his mallet and was content to let it lie ten feet away from him.

Stevenson Lost to Team.

But Stevenson could not get up. He did not stir, even when his fellow players tried to lift him. A doctor rushed out from the stand and a moment later Mrs. Stevenson and a woman friend ran across the field. It was almost ten minutes before the player recovered consciousness. He made a feeble attempt to stand, but he was still groggy and flopped back.

They took him in a blanket then and carried him off the field. The chattering, cheering stands were silent as the 40,000 watched the bundle in the blanket trundled out. And Aguila was self-conscious and sober as they led her away. She knew that she had not been helpful.

It was not until the game was over that word came that Stevenson's injuries were serious. As a result of his fall he will not be able to play in the remaining games of the series.

Invaders Make First Score.

The accident sobered the spectators, but the players went about their business as fiercely as ever. In the last period England scored twice to America's once through the brilliance of Luis Lacey from the Argentine. It was only then in the first chukker and the last that the visitors were able to hold their own. The first score was made by the invaders in the opening period, when Lacey scored after a foul. Webb put the score at 1 to 1 30 seconds later. And then Hitchcock made a goal. Thereafter it was all America.

Whether or not the Prince cried "Hold 'em, England," or waved a pennant or gave long cheers could not be ascertained by the observers in the press stand. And yet as the game became lopsided, it was hard for most of the 40,000 to keep their eyes on the ball. The most brilliant down the field dash was required to divert attention from the young man in the gray suit in the field box. I think it was a gray suit, but I will not testify under oath, so great was the throng around about as Wales came in. Gray with a white stripe, is my guess. I'm sure it was a gray felt hat and as soon as it was spied above the heads of the crowd, 9450 men with flappy Panamas felt foolish.

Crowd Awaits Prince Patiently.

The crowd waited patiently for the coming of the Prince and never a Rolls drove up to the field without the shout of "There he comes" being raised. Finally, a decrepit Ford wheezed up to the gate and a subtle-minded spectator spread the word that this was the complete incognition and here, indeed, was his highness. It wasn't. But the next limousine disgorged the royal visitor. On his way to his box he walked almost the length of the field and there was hearty handclapping.

At this point the bank played a mean trick, or at any rate it worked out disadvantageously to a number of patriotic Englishmen. "God Save the King" was struk up and that was all right, except for thefact that a group of British chauffeurs were perching precariously on top of a roof overlooking the field. They knew their duty, one and all, and stood up teetering dangerously on the roof and one would have fallen as he lost his balance if a companion had not grabbed him.

For a time the game more than held its own with the Prince. There was gorgeous galloping, long hit-

MOVIE AND WORK FOR LEOPOLD AND LOEB

Slayers of Bobby Franks in Rattan and Chair Shops; Both Appear Depressed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 13.—The dull routine of prison locked itself about Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb for the first time today, and the slayers of Robert Franks began to realize what it will mean to expiate their crime.

Loeb worked his first "stretch" in the chair factory; Leopold his in the rattan shop. They went to a motion picture show early in the morning, but this was over at 9 o'clock and they were then for the first time assigned to their respective shops and duties.

And there is no Saturday afternoon off in the Joliet Penitnetiary. From the time the moving picture was over they worked right on through the day with the exception of the regular stop for the noonday meal.

Average for 'Lifers,' 10 Years.

Warden Whitman doubts the youthful murderers will survive 15 years. He says the average life of a prisoner in for life, is ten years. Leopold and Loeb are both high strung and the dull monotony of prison life will cause them to deteriorate rapidly. Warden Whitman said they might survive 20 years, which would put them in a class by themselves and that if they lived 33 years, it would be miraculous.

That motion picture the two slayers were sent to see before they took up the tasks of the unrelenting years before thm was an ironic trick of fate. For it was "Monsieur Beaucaire," a picture tale depicting the romance, high adventure and royal splendors of another age; and when they awakened from its magic there came the contrast of sordid surroundings, the disheartening restraint and the first bitter hour of manual labor the two boys had ever known.

Thoroughly Depressed.

Guards who had charge of the two youthful slayers during the picture show and who later assigned them to their duties in separate shops assembling chairs and wrapping wicker furniture, said the effect of the sharp contrast of the splendid unreal of the motion picture and the real of what is to become their life picture, had a palpable effect on Loeb and Leopold.

They were thoroughly depressed and dispirited and went about the tasks set for them with listless and despairing hands, and sober, somber, sad brooding countenances.

BELLEVILLE MAN, 75, OFF ON HIS 15TH BIG GAME HUNT

Cyrus Thompson and Son Will Go Into the Wilds of New Brunswick.

Cyrus Thompson, 75 years old, president of the Harrison Machine Works of Belleville and probably the oldest big game hunter in Illinois, departed yesterday for the wilds of New Brunswick on his fifteenth big game hunt.

His son, William A. Thompson, departed a week before to arrange for the trip to camp. It will require three days, after father and son reach the last railroad station to get into camp, which must be made on foot and horseback. The Thompson home in Belleville is filled with mounted trophies of big game hunts.

The Car of Coolness

At no time of the year is a car a greater boon than in the early Fall, when the warm weather persists, and the continued heat has almost exhausted your vitality.

Tired after a trying day, and disinclined for effort, you can escape from heat into coolness with the aid of a car—a good used car, if necessary.

Later Fall brings greater joys in the charm of a countryside brilliant in Autumn tints.

A car of your own is so worth while — and worth while cars are obtainable in the Classified "Automobiles" columns of the Post-Dispatch. Investigation will bring to light the one that is suitable from every viewpoint.

SECTION OF NEW STATE HIGHWAY IS DEDICATED

Stretch of 26.5 Miles From St. Charles to Foristell Opened With Exercises at Wentzville.

BARBECUE PRECEDED BY AUTO PARADE

Completed System Visualized by Speakers for Measure Providing Funds to Speed Up Program.

The 42-mile trip from St. Louis to Foristell, Mo., on the western edge of St. Charles County, which consumed two days by wagon before the coming of the automobile, was made in one hour and thirty minutes of moderate driving yesterday by persons who attended the dedication at Wentzville of the 26.5 mile strip of 18-foot concrete roadway entirely across St. Charles County.

An unbroken pavement of brick and concrete spans the entire distance to Foristell the St. Charles County section, just completed at a cost of $1,000,000, having been constructed entirely of funds from the $60,000.000 road bond issue. It is the first completed portion of the State road system extending entirely across a County. The St. Louis County section, extending the road across two counties, was partly paid for by county funds.

St. Charles County last year contributed $28,000 less than the cost of one mile of the road to the State automobile license fund, which goes to retire the $60.000,000 in bonds.

Persons who skimmed over the ribbon of concrete yesterday began to visualize a completion of the 7600-mile State road system, with its 1500 miles of high type pavement such as they were using. Dedicatory speakers pictured the completed system, but said it could not be finished unless there is a favorable vote in November upon Proposal No. 5, which would provide additional funds for road construction and maintenance by placing a two-cent State tax on gasoline and increasing State automobile license fees 50 per cent.

Thirty-nine automobiles participated in a parade which left St. Charles court house at 10:30 a. m. and proceeded to Foristell, with stops at St. Peters, O'Fallon and Gilmore, to give official notice of the opening. At Gilmore B. H. Piepmeier, chief engineer of the Highway Commission, opened the barricade which prohibited traffic on the last section of the 26.5 mile stretch, most of which has been in use for some time.

Piepmeier was the principal speaker at the dedication exercises in Musick's Grove, at Wentzville, 21 miles from St. Charles. He said that a mile and a half of concrete road has been laid west of Foristell and will be opened in 30 days. The road will be completed to Wright City, four miles beyond Foristell, by spring. A 25-mile stretch of the road is being constructed of concrete in Jackson County and another ten miles is under contract in Gaallaway County, he said. The cross-State road will be completed in two years if Proposal No. 5 carries, Piepmeier said. Every part of the road is under contract for grading.

Argues for More Funds.

Piepmeier urged support of proposal No. 5. He said the increased price of gasoline and license fees would more than be made up by the saving in tires, gasoline consumption and deterioration of automobiles which would result from improved roads. He said statistics show its cost 2½ cents a mile less to operate an automobile on hard surfaced roads than on dirt roads.

Other speakers at the dedication were Recorder of Deeds Charles H. Kamsteimer of St. Charles; Congressman Clarence Cannon of the Ninth District, and State Auditor George E. Hackmann. Mayor J. C. Brown of Wentzville presided. About 3000 persons attended. A barbecue was a feature.

The new road cuts the distance from Wentzville to St. Charles from 25.5 miles to 21 miles, by reason of changes in location. The old road, reputed to be the route taken by Daniel Boone in exploration of the territory in 1794, is followed only occasionally. Daniel Boone settled at a point 14 miles southwest of Wentzville in 1795. He and his

MUSICAL DOG FED TO FISH WHEN HE WANDERS INTO COUNT'S ESTATE

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.

COUNT FRANZ ESTERHAZY got into serious trouble recently when the supervisor of his Czecho-Slovakian estates caught a wandering dog and cut him up and fed him to the fish in the Count's artificial lake.

This dog, named Bodri, was an ordinary looking dog, but, according to Herr Finion, his owner, he was the most remarkable musical dog in Europe. Bodri had appeared in all the great European music halls as vocalist, trumpeter and drummer. He is said to have been the sole means of support for his master, who valued him at $1000.

STONE BRUISE TREATMENT FOR NERVOUS DISORERS

German Doctor Says Sore Feet Take Patients' Mind Off Things They Worry About.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

BADEN-BADEN, Sept. 12.—bruises on the feet are a sure cure for nervous disorders, in the opinion of a German specialist who sets many of his patients to walking in their barefeet over stony fields. The more tender the patients' feet the quicker will be the cure in the opinion of this specialist on nervous disorders.

He holds that many nervous persons are unable to take their minds off troubles which they brood over constantly and has found over a long term of years that it is not possible for many patients to worry about other troubles if they have bruised and swollen feet.

MOTHER HOPES TO SAVE SON, 19, FROM GALLOWS

Appeals to Gov. Small, Claiming Alibi for Youth Convicted of Killing Policeman.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Regaining new hope from the life sentence imposed upon Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, Mrs. Mary Grant, mother of 19-year-old Bernard Grant, today began anew her fight to save her son from the gallows. Young Grant, his hair turned white since conviction, is sentenced to be hanged Oct. 17, for the murder of a Chicago policeman during a holdup.

The mother has employed an attorney to present to Gov. Small a petition in her son's behalf. Walter Krauser, also under conviction for the same crime, has denied that Grant was with him during the holdup of a tea store when the policeman was shot.

"My boy is innocent," the gray-haired mother faltered, fingering the petition that she hopes will save her son from the gallows. "He was home, asleep, when they say he killed the policeman."

GERMANS MAKE FLAPPER DOLLS FOR AMERICA'S CHRISTMAS

Old Blue-Eyed Flaxen-Haired Type Gives Way to Bobbed Brunettes —saxophone Toys.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Flapper dolls, patterned after the supposed denizens of Greenwich Village in New York City, are the most striking contributions which the Thuringian toymakers will give this year for American Christmas trees. Most of the dolls are about two feet long.

The old blue-eyed, flaxen-haired doll, with the Marguerite braids, has given way to bobbed-headed brunettes of dark complexion and mannishly dressed.

The Leipzig fair displayed dolls of this type in a great variety of sizes. There also were displayed at the fair hundreds of miniature saxophones with which juvenile America may organize junior jazz orchestras.

GIRL HAS HER 5-YEAR-OLD BROTHER HIT HER WITH AX

Daughter of Texas Planter Probably Fatally Wounded—Child Strikes Her Three Times.

By the Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Tex., Sept. 13.—Miss Anatasia Boudreaux, 18 years old, is near death in a sanitarium here with three wounds in her neck, inflicted with an ax. According to her own story, and verified by her brother, 5 years old, the latter hacked his sister as she directed.

The two had been left at home alone. The girl said that she was tired of living and had sought this means to end her life. She placed the ax in the hands of her little brother and then placed her own head on the chop block and directed at what point the blow was to be struck. It did not prove deadly and she again directed the second and then the third. The boy became frightened then and ran.

It was said at the hospital she could not recover. Her right ear was severed.

The girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ovey Boudreaux, wealthy planters.

WORLD FLYERS GREETED BY THOUSANDS AS THEY REACH DAYTON FROM WASHINGTON

WAR DANCE OF JOY ON RETURN OF 'HOME' BOYS

McCook Field, Where Nelson, Harding and Wade Were Stationed, Stages Homecoming Celebration.

LIBERTY BONDS GIVEN TO ALL.

"More Hungry Than Tired," Says Smith After 420-Mile Journey in Six Hours and 40 Minutes.

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., Sept. 13.—Lieut. Lowell H. Smith and his world-girdling flyers were in the homes of their friends here tonight after a tumultuous and heartfelt welcome when they landed at McCook Field at 5:33 p. m., completing their 420-mile hop from Washington.

The first long leg of their transcontinental flight, which will end in Seattle, their final objective, was made without incident, Smith said. The flight time was six hours and 40 minutes, low clouds encountered this side of Cumberland, Md., and fog near Uniontown, Pa., cutting down the running time.

The flyers will remain here until Tuesday, according to the flight commander, who said that new engines may be installed in two of the planes. The airmen will work all day tomorrow on their "ships."

Real Homecoming Celebration.

Dayton, "birthplace of the airplane," spared no pains to stage a real homecoming celebration for the six aviators, who were welcomed as the most famous representatives of that industry for which the city is most noted.

It was a genuine homecoming for Lieutenants John Harding and Erik Nelson, for McCook Field is their home station. Lieut. Leigh Wade also was stationed at the field two years ago, and all of the flyers have scores of personal friends at McCook and Wilbur Wright fields. McCook Field is the army aviation experiment station.

The aviators, escorted by a convoy of 19 planes from the two local fields, including the Barling Bomber, the world's largest airplane, were sighted over the eastern edge of the city at 5:25. Flying in their famous formation, they slowly circled over McCook Field, where thousands were craning necks skyward, then dipped earthward while all sorts of noise-making devices dinned.

The Boston II, carrying Wade and Lieut. H. H. Ogden, was the first to land. Then came the New Orleans, with Nelson and Harding. Smith's flagship, the Chicago, was the last to taxi into position. His flight companion is Lieut. Leslie Arnold.

War Dance for Harding.

Wade and Ogden received vociferous welcome, but when Harding vaulted over the side of his plane he was virtually smothered by cheering, shouting mechanicians and officers who hoisted him to their shoulders and staged a war dance of joy.

"Glad to get back," grinned Harding.

While greetings were flying back and forth between the six flyers and their friends, they were hustled before cameramen, then lined up for a few words of welcome from Mayor Hale. The local Kiwanis Club presented each with $50 in Liberty bonds, they each were given traveling bags by the Citizens' Welcoming Committee, and presented with parchment sheets containing a formal "Welcome Home" inscription.

"More Hungry," Smith Says.

After that the men were loaded into automobiles and whisked to the home of Maj. J. F. Curry, com-

VETERAN OF SEVERAL BATTLES KILLED IN DEFENSE DAY TEST

Capt. Howard Sanders, 36, Won Commission in Fighting in France.

By the Associated Press.

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 13.—Capt. Howard Sanders, 36, a World War veteran who enlisted as a private at the outbreak of the war and won a commission in the fighting in France, is dead of injuries sustained yesterday when his horse fell with him and ran away as the officer dangled by one stirrup. The accident happened at Exposition Park, north of Aurora, where Capt. Sanders had gone with his command, the 129th Illinois Field Artillery, following a defense day parade in Aurora in which the battalion had taken part. The armory is at Exposition Park.

Capt. Sanders served during the war with the 122d Regiment, commanded by Gen. Abel Davis, who pronounced him "one of the two best bayonet men in the whole 33d Division."

In July, 1918, Capt. Sanders, then a second lieutenant, was cited for bravery and advanced to a first lieutenancy. He was wounded in the fighting on the Albert sector in this month. He was cited for gallantry again in October while engaged in the Meuse-Argonne fighting. Oct. 10, he was gassed. He remained in a Government hospital after this until January, 1919. After recovering his health, Capt. Sanders was assigned to command the Battery B, 124th Field Artillery, Illinois National Guard.

The Captain was to have been married in a few months.

EGYPTOLOGIST ENDS LIFE, FEARED A CURSE

H. G. Evelyn-White, Who Removed Coptic Manuscripts to Cairo, Shoots Self.

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Has the curse of ancient Egypt been called down again on alien disturbers of her buried treasures?

This is once more the talk of London since the suicide of H. G. Evelyn-White, Egyptologist of Leeds University. A farewell letter read at his inquest yesterday said: "I knew there was a curse on me, though I had leave to take those manuscripts to Cairo. The monks told me the curse would work all the same. Now, it has done so."

He shot himself in a cab a few days ago while responding to a summons to an inquest on Miss Mary Helen Nind, a school teacher who poisoned herself on account of unrequited love for him.

White was a noted Egyptologist who had spent many years in Egypt conducting excavations. During 1920 and 1921, working in Coptic monasteries at Wadi-Natroun Valley about 70 miles from Cairo, he discovered a secret room about 10 feet square. There he found a number of Coptic and Arabic manuscripts.

After working on them there in the heat and dust and tormented by insects, he finally obtained permission from the dignitaries of the monastery to take the most important of the manuscripts to the Coptic Museum at Cairo.

The permission was grudingly given, the monks telling him any one interfering with relics of the past came under the ban of an ancient curse.

PRESIDENT RESTING FOR WEEK-END ON MAYFLOWER

Heard Many Political Reports During Week—California Situation Discussed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—President Coolidge left the White House late today for a week-end cruise down the Potomac River aboard the Mayflower, after a busy week at his desk, marked by numerous visits from political leaders and intensive work on Government business.

With the President and Mrs. Coolidge on the yacht, are Secretary and Mrs. Hughes and Chester Rowell, of California. Mr. Coolidge is expected to go over the political situation in California with his guests. Another California visitor at the White House this week, G. S. Lenoir, of San Francisco, told of some local difficulties but predicted the national ticket would carry the State. Postmaster General New told the President today prospects for Republican success in Indiana are bright.

The President has not determined, however, on his speaking program for October. Some advisers believe he will accept some invitations to speak in the Middle West.

The party expected to remain on the Mayflower until early Monday.

Girls Fight With Knives Over Man

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 13.—Miss Grace Boone and Miss Marjoris Shrout fought a duel with pen knives here early today over the affections of a well-known man who had been paying attention to both. The Boone girl suffered severe cuts in left arm while her adversary received several stabs about the face, chest and shoulders, according to authorities at local hospital where both were taken for treatment.

PERSHING RETIRES PLEASED WITH DEFENSE TEST

'Satisfied Mission He Set for Self on Return From France Is on Road to Success.

REPORT ON TURNOUT BY WAR DEPARTMENT

General to Continue to Occupy Present Offices as Head of Battle Monument Commission.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. — Gen. Pershing passed to the retired list of the army today, satisfied that the mission he set for himself when he turned his face homeward from France—establishment of a national defense system to safeguard the nation in the future against any such concussion and turmoil of improvised preparation as it knew in 1917-18—was well on the road to accomplishment.

The former commander of the American army in France—at his desk for a half day—found the officers of the War Department awaiting him to pay their respects, a mass of messages and letters of greeting and reports testifying to the success of the defense test yesterday. He was happy over the showing made all over the country.

Gen. Pershing feels that the test demonstrated conclusively that the American people desired some such workable program as has been devised under his guidance to be a part of the permanent policy of the nation. He believes that annual tests of the sort conducted yesterday should become a part of the nation's life.

Today's additional reports on the test showed that the total number of regular army troops mustered for the day was 92,581; national guard, 167,633, and organized reserves, 59,168.

"Volunteers to fill the ranks of these forces exceeded 1,000,000," the War Department's statement said.

Millions in Exercises.

Millions of other citizens besides volunteers shared in the exercises. The War Department officials are confident that the final check up will show that the full war-time strength provides for in the organization tables of the three-part army — more than 2,000,000 men, was actually assembled during the day.

"The two million figure means the filling-out for the day of every unit provided for in the organization tables the great majority of which never will be actually organized except in the event of war.

It means also that for the one day the United States had enrolled a volunteer army twice the size of the force for which it has reserve supplies, arms and equipment in storage.

"The Test a Success."

In its recapitulation today of the defense test, the War Department said: "The vast majority of public officials and practically the entire membership of patriotic societies have devoted themselves to making the test a success. Every community in this country can picture what happened in it on Sept. 12. Multiplying this picture by the number of communities in the country, the average citizen can visualize the national response to defense test."

The statement then said that the test was "a serious effort to determine the weak points in our new plans for expansion of the army based upon co-operative community effort."

Adaptability of Plans.

"As a test of the adaptability of the plans prepared by the general staff—for the initial assembly of those divisions and other military organization necessary to form the basis for a complete and immediate mobilization for the national defense in the event of a national emergency declared by Congress'—it has been effectively demonstrated that these plans are sound and well adapted to the psychology and temperament of our people and to our form of government,' in any such emergency our country will be able to take full advantage of its initiative and resourcefulness of its citizens and communities and secure the maximum benefit from that aid and support that they are always so eager to give to their country in times of national stress and danger."

Through the courtesy of Secretary Weeks the General will continue to occupy his present offices as head of the Battle Monuments Commission. Remaining as he will in the War Department, he will be at hand to advise with Secretary Weeks or other secretaries of war.

Text of the Order.

The text of the President's order on Pershing's retirement, which will be read to the army as a general order, follows:

"Gen. John J. Pershing, General of the armies, having this day reached the age of 64 years, is retired from active service in conformity with a requirement of an act of Congress approved June 30, 1882.

"In announcing the termination of this distinguished soldier's active military career, it is deemed appropriate to remind the country of his eminent services and of the nation's obligation to one whose accomplishments contributed so largely to the defense of the world's liberties.

"Entering the army as a commissioned officer, after graduation at the United States Military Academy in 1886, he endured the hardships of the Indian campaign, then necessary for the pacification of the Western frontier. In the war with Spain, he participated in the Santiago campaign in Cuba. In the Philippine Islands, after their acquisition by the United States, it fell to his lot to assist in the suppression of the native insurrection, and his remarkable success in bringing under control some of the most turbulent tribes is a matter of history.

Service in Mexican Campaign.

"Becoming a general officer in 1906, he was intrusted with many important commands, and when the the unsettled conditions on the border of Mexico, in 1916, made it necessary to send a military expedition into that country, he was selected for its command. In exercising this command, as well as in the others that had fallen to him, he demonstrated his capacity for the highest military functions, and his selection as the commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in the World War was a natural consequence.

"His conduct of that high command fully justified the selection as well as his elevation to the highest ranks in our military service, which was conferred upon him permanently, under authority of a special act of Congress, in recognition of his fulfillment of his country's expectations. The American troops, under his command, by their presence, high qualities and skillful management, assisted materially in the defeat of the Central Powers of Europe which resulted in the freedom of civilization from autocratic rule.

"He is one of the very few officers who have held the rank of General in the permanent military establishment and the one who has exercised supreme command over much the largest body of troops ever called into action by the United States Government. His services to the world in the greatest conflict in which military forces have ever been engaged have been recognized through the award of the highest decorations by the governing authorities of Belgium, Great Britain, China, Czecho-Slovakia, France, Greece, Italy, Japan, Montenegro.

"In his position as chief of staff since the termination of the world conflict he has been a mainstay to the executive in preparing an army of modest dimensions to be the nucleus of any military force the country may be obliged to place in the field. He has taken a leading part in the development of the citizens' components of the army of the United States.

"Retirement Richly Earned."

"Gen. Pershing has already received from the Congress the thanks of that body and of the American people, and now I extend to him anew the thanks of the nation for his eminent services and feel certain that I voice the sentiment of the entire citizenry of the republic in wishing him long life, happiness and prosperity in the retirement he has so richly earned."

Wales Is Excited Rooter for British at Polo Match

Applauds Countrymen's Scores, But Is Silent at U. S. Shots—Sympathetic When Player Falls.

By the Associated Press.

SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The Prince of Wales was an excited spectator at the international polo match today at Meadowbrook. Leaning forward, his elbow on the rail of his box, cigarette in his mouth, gray felt hat turned down, he followed every play intently. Sometimes he applauded, but more often he simply smiled the appreciation of a fellow-player when a good shot was made.

While he showed his interest by shifting his position, now toying with his cigarette holder between his teeth, now clenching his fist against his cheek and blinking excitedly, he was far less demonstrative than the rest of the 40,000 persons who filled the grandstand.

When the British rally began in the seventh period, instead of clapping his hands as he had done before, he stood up, pulled off his hat, grinned broadly and applauded with vigor for half a minute.

Kirkwood's goal, the second for the British team, broke his restraint. When Stevenson scored for the Americans immediately afterward, he was silent. Kirkwood then scored another, followed by Lacey's two, bringing the British score to five.

The Prince laughed with satisfaction, gripped the rail and let himself go like a baseball fan.

Frowns at Photographers.

When Stevenson fell in the eighth period there was a commotion in the Prince's box. The Prince expressed concern and remarked: "It's like in hunting. When your pony falls you go down, and sometimes you get knocked out."

Leaving his motor at the public gate instead of the club gate, the Prince, accompanied by Maj. Metcalfe, his equerry; Maj. O. N. Solbert, his aid, and four secret service men, walked through the gate and half the length of the field in full view of the grand stand. The band in the center of the field played "God Save the King" as he entered his box. Then it played the "Star Spangled Banner." The Prince, who had been followed by photographers, stood during the music, frowning a little while the cameramen snapped him.

At the end of the fourth period he strolled to the opposite end of the field to greet the British players. As he passed the entire western stand had a good look at him and applauded.

Surrounded by Crowd.

Then the 64 ponies of the two teams, one led by the British flag, the other by the American, paraded around the field.

On the way out, the Prince walked across the field to the club house while the band played a medley of Scottish airs, including "Auld Lang Syne." As he passed the eastern grandstand, a large crowd surrounded him and secret service men and police had to make a path for him.

Before leaving for Meadowbrook, the Prince played polo himself, more skillfully than at any other time in his almost daily games since his arrival.

He entertained Long Island friends at dinner tonight and afterward went to a dance.

Prominent among those in the royal guests' party at the international game were Assistant Secretary of State J. Butler Wright and Mrs. Wright; Maj. Oscar N. Solbert, the Prince's American military aid, and Mrs. Solbert; Kermit Roosevelt and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr.; the Argentine Minister and the Duke and Duchess of Alba, representing the King of Spain; Louis E. Stoddard, chairman of the United States Polo Association and Capt. Frederick Guest, chairman of the Hurlingham Club, England's governing polo body.

ting and superb team work by the Americans. For the British there was Luis Lacey. He was pretty much the whole invading team on defense and on attack. Three of England's goals were scored by him and he was directly responsible for the other two. And when the American attack was in full swing it was Lacey again and again prevented a score by marvelous back-handed swipes as Hitchcock or Webb tore down on him. It was easy to follow Lacey about the field for where the ball was there was Lacey. Besides, he wore upon his right shoulder a great leather brace as the result of a shoulder injury and only last week he had shingles. After today's game it would seem to be an excellent idea for the British to shingle the other three team members as well.

American Teamwork Brilliant.

There were ample individual brilliance in the American four, but the outstanding quality was the smoothness of the team work. When an American player missed there was almost invariably another right behind him to take a second swipe at the ball. Once, when Milburn scored on a long drive almost from mid-field, both Webb and Hitchcock convoyed the ball through the posts ready to give it an additional flick if more momentum should be needed.

The goals were pretty evenly divided among the Americans and five each for Hitchcock and Stevenson, four for Webb, one for Milburn and one for Strawbridge, who acted as substitute when Stevenson was injured.

There did not seem to be much to choose between the ponies. Practically all the races down the field were an even thing, but the Americans always had more men on the ball, and they stroked better. Milburn, in particular, was amazing in some of his long smashes. The ball rose from his mallet almost as if Babe Ruth had taken hold of one.

The Prince, as far as one could judge from a distance of 100 yards, took the defeat serenely. The British were obviously good losers. In fact, it was a fine afternoon for everybody, but Aguila, who is now worrying in her stall because she threw her rider while 40,000 watched. And perhaps her anguish is all the more acute because she knows that one of the 40,000 was the Prince of Wales.

Stevenson's Loss Big Blow.

The loss of Stevenson will be a severe blow to the American polo team, as it will break up a combination which has perfected an offense which today swept Britain's best four off its feet by the speed and dash of its attack. Stevenson is 37 years old and played his first international polo match today.

R. E. Strawbridge Jr., of Philadelphia, was tonight chosen to succeed Stevenson at No. 3 on the American team for the remaining matches. Strawbridge, who substituted for Stevenson today, played brilliantly during the short time he was in the game.

LABOR FROWNS AT MACDONALD FOR TAKING GIFT CAR

Premier's Acceptance From Millionaire of Auto, Endowed With 30,000 Pounds for Upkeep, Arouses Workers.

OTHER CLASSES SEE NO WRONG

Donor, Who Later Received Baronetcy, Says He Gave Car Because Premier's Health Was Endangered in Subways.

London Correspondent of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Prime Minister MacDonald's Daimler motor car, endowed with £30,000 by Sir Alexander Grant to pay the cost of upkeep, dominates the political situation and may attract crowds when—if ever—it reappears in Downing street, equaling the crowds that gape at the Prince of Wales in New York or mob Jackie Coogan on his appearance in the London streets.

The Baronet who made the gifts to the Prime Minister explained his position today, confirming what MacDonald has already said. Grant emphasized the illness of the Prime Minister when his guest in Edinburgh shortly after taking office.

"He had very bad health because he was working so hard and all the newspapers were speaking about how ill he was," he said. "When I learned he was moving about on the underground railway I felt he was taking too much out of himself.

"For instance, on the night he went to the Pilgrims' dinner and delivered that fine speech, after he left the hall, he had to take a tube to Baker street and from there tube by the Metropolitan out near Chequers, where there was an old Ford car waiting for him.

Couldn't Afford a Car.

"I spoke to him about the way he was using himself, telling him that it was not fair, and suggested that I should give him a motor car at once.

"He said: 'I might be out of office tomorrow, and I could not then afford to keep a motor car.'

"I replied: 'If you will accept a car from me, I shall put aside so many shares for you to pay the expenses of this motor car and these shares will come back to me or my son at your death.'

"'Well,' he said, 'there are few people that I would accept such an offer from and you are one of three men that it is possible for me to take it from.' That is the whole story and I think the nation ought to be very grateful to me that I have done something to preserve the health of the man whose aim above everything is to work in a national way."

It appears from this statement that Grant not only gave MacDonald the motor car but also endowed it. The newspapers print the facts but all are careful in accordance with English tradition in such matters not to make editorial comment.

Hurt in Labor Circles.

Among Liberals and Tories in private conversation, regret is heard and sympathy for MacDonald, who is known to be a poor man and for whom no car could be provided out of his ministerial salary.

It is said everywhere by politicians that Sir Alexander Grant by his gift of £500,000 for the Scottish Library, richly deserved his baronetcy. MacDonald's indiscretion is termed one of innocence and the names of ex-Premiers are mentioned whose aid from wealthy friends is said to have been accepted in more artful ways that never could be brought home to them.

The most serious damage to MacDonald is in Labor circles, especially on the Clyde and among his left wing. The acceptance from a millionaire and a big capitalist of a large sum of money for personal use under whatever conditions cannot but harm him greatly with a section of the workers. Labor politicians frankly express dismay in private.

A prominent Labor executive said to me today, alluding to the fact that Lord Beaverbrook's press first printed the full facts: "Beaverbrook got Asquith out; he got Lloyd George out; he certainly helped mightily to get Baldwin out, and I leave the rest to your imagination."

Storm Warnings on Gulf.

man and as Solicitor-General of the United States.

Mention of Woodrow Wilson, whose picture was hung at the back of the flag-draped stage, brought a storm of applause.

Pittman brought the meeting, an old-fashioned Democratic love feast, to a fever heat of enthusiasm by predicting the election of Davis. The formal introduction of the candidate was finally performed by Gov. Davis, who said the New York convention had picked "the finest member of the family available" for the presidential nomination. It was not till nearly 9 o'clock that the meeting was turned over to John W. Davis.

Davis Given an Ovation.

Davis got an ovation when he arose, the biggest demonstration yet given him on the trip. He strengthened his hold on the crowd by declaring that the Democratic national convetnion wouldn't have done badly if it had taken "both the Davises" as nominees.

Davis said that Senator Pittman, in reviewing his (Davis') services in Congress, had overlooked what he himself regarded as the most important. This was the part he had played in restricting the use of the injunction in labor disputes.

After expounding his conception of the difference between the Hamiltonian and Jeffersonian theories of government, Davis said he wanted to show how these theories worked out in practical application.

The one theory, he said, produced the Payne-Aldrich tariff act, which he described as an infamous surrender to privilege. The other, the Jeffersonian, produced the beneficent legislation passed under Woodrow Wilson, including that which laid down the principle that "labor is not a commodity."

Effect of Hamiltonian Theory.

Further tracing the effect of the Hamiltonian theory in practical operation, Davis told how the Republican cohorts moved on Washington in 1924 "to claim the rewards of their financial and personal valor." He recalled the passage of the McCumber-Fordney act, which, he said, was branded by Republican papers the day after its passage as an "outrage and imposition on the consumers of the country."

This tariff act, he said, laid an annual indirect tax on Kansas amounting to $60,000,000.

He cited a heavy increase in the tariff on aluminum ware, and added: "It is said that there are some in high office who have a large interest in the United States Aluminum Co."

The obvious reference—though he did not name him—was to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Later in his speech, he came to the Mellon tax plan. Those with net incomes exceeding $67,000, he said, had reason to regret that this plan was rewritten by the Democrats in Congress; those with net incomes under that amount had reason for satisfaction.

"Will all in the audience who have incomes of $67,000 net please rise and stand?" he asked. Nobody rose. The crowd laughed.

"They don't crowd the room," said Davis, adding that the 1921 returns showed but nine tax payers of that class in Kansas.

Fall, Daugherty and Forbes.

Davis passed on to merciless excoriation of Fall, Daugherty and Forbes and to a characterization of Denby as "stupid, even if honest."

Forbes he characterized, with biting emphasis, as "but another seeker of special privilege into whose slimy hands were poured $450,000,000 per annum, "to distribute for the benefit of war veterans."

"And how was it done?" he asked. "I need not recall the details of that sorry transaction."

But he did recall some of the details that were brought out by the congressional investigation of the bureau—how, among other things, 84,000 sheets sold at 20 cents each were wheeled out at one door of a supply depot while others purchased at $1.20 were coming in at the other door.

"There is no one chapter in all this record," said Davis, "that is as black and disgraceful as the administration of the Veterans' Bureau under Charles R. Forbes and his allies."

Scorn was in the speaker's voice as he declared that Daugherty had prostituted the Department of Justice to serve his private and political vengeance.

What Has Become of Them?

He asked what had become of these men. Fall, he said, went out of office of his own will; Daugherty was allowed to resign on a "sorry pretext," while the "hand of a man now dead reached out and plucked Forbes from his seat of power."

"I do not doubt the honest purpose of the distinguished citizen who is now President," said Davis, "but what has become of these men?" It was true, he said, that Fall and Forbes had been indicted. "But," he added, "I do not detect the eager, burning zeal to drive the prosecution to an end or the creative indignation that cannot rest till justice has been done."

Coming to a climax which set the audience cheering, Davis called on the voters of America "who feel a stain on the national honor and who long for the return of a government of which they can boast in the sight of all mankind" to register their indignation at their polls. Davis was cheered vociferously at the close.

Theories of Government.

At Maryville, where Gov. Davis of Kansas introduced John W. Davis to a large crowd of farmers as the "next President of the United States," he spoke of the two conflicting ideas of government.

"There is the idea," he said, "of those who think, in the language of Alexander Hamilton, that government is the province of the rich and the well born and the able, and that they have some sort of providential mission to govern the country for the benefit of themselves and their fellow citizens as well. There is the other doctrine, which Gov. Davis and I are proud to stand for, that government is not the prerogative of any class or section, no matter how rich, no matter how well born, or how able, but is the prerogative of all citizens from the highest to the lowest, the greatest to the humblest. That is the Democratic theory.

"And those two theories of government work out in action in two different characters. Those who hold the first theory believe that it is the business of the Government to promote the well being of the rich and the well born and the able, to make them prosperous create profits for their business, to insure them possession of the privileges they hold, on the theory that they, in their good time and in their wisdom, will let that prosperity filter down to all their fellow citizens. Sometimes they do and sometimes they do not. It is very hard for any human being who is given a privilege or advantage ever to surrender it or to think of it as anything but his vested right.

The Democratic Idea.

"And there is the other theory of Government, that the business of Government is not to look after the well being of the few, but to promote the welfare of the many, and the test of its success is the welfare of the average man and the average woman and that is Democracy."

In all his Kansas speeches, Davis put in a good word for Gov. Davis, who is a candidate for re-election.

"When the fourth of November comes," he told a crowd at Frankfort, "when the people of Kansas see two Davises on the ticket, one named Jonathan and the other John, I hope they won't be too anxious to find the difference between them but will vote for both at the same time.

"I think we believe in the same things. We stand for the same principles. We believe in the great doctrine of equal rights to all men and special privilege to none and that is at the basis of the Democratic creed. We believe that it is the duty of government to be the servant and not the master of the people, and the duty of the government to serve, not a portion of the people, or class or section, but to serve all the people without discrimination of any sort or character.

View of Partisanship.

At Onaga, the last stop before Topeka, Davis spoke against hidebound partisanship. "No free-born American citizen ought to say to himself," he declared, "'my party, right or wrong, but nevertheless my party.' 'My party when it is right, and some other party when it is wrong,' that is the motto that Americans ought to follow."

That made a hit with the crowd, a crowd in this state which showed the independent character of its political thinking in 1916, when it gave Wilson its electoral vote by 39,000 but elected a Republican Governor by 152,000.

"And if, when November comes," continued Davis, "you find that the party to which Gov. Davis and I belong is a little nearer right than any other—we can hardly hope to be perfect, but if we are a little nearer right than any other, we ask that you put your cross in the Democratic column."

On the Kansas leg of his tour, Davis was accompanied by Gov. Davis, Samuel Amidon, the Democratical National Committeeman of the State; Fred Robertson, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and Jouett Shouse, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who was one of the McAdoo leaders in the New York convention.

Umbrella Audiences.

Coming across Nebraska in a drenching rain, Davis was greeted at each of several stops by a sizeable crowd, ranging from 200 at Kearney to more than 1000 at Grand Island. At each place he fired the dripping crowd to enthusiasm with his praise of Gov. Bryan, who was with him on the train from Grand Island to Fairbury, with his shots at the record of the Republican party, and particularly with his vigorous championship of the courts as defenders of constitutional guaranties, including the guaranty against unlawful search and seizure.

Davis, in the first speech at 7:15 in the morning, at Kearney, again preached the doctrine of "common courage, common justice and common honesty" in government.

"Honesty is what he wants," shouted one of his hearers.

"Honesty is what we want," repeated Davis.

The rain was falling in sheets throughout his talk. Telling the crowd good-by, he expressed his gratitude to them for coming out in the rain and then, in a graceful windup, "remitted them to their homes and firesides." The crowd gave him a big cheer as the train pulled out.

Audience Under Umbrellas.

A sea of umbrellas stretched away on both sides of the station at Grand Island. Davis again paid a tribute to Gov. Bryan, describing him as "a bold and fearless champion of the essential doctrines and principles of the Democratic party," and as "one of the most distinguished and efficient administrators presiding over the States of the Union.

It was here that Davis launched his heaviest broadside against the La Follette policy that would permit legislative overriding of court decisions. "Never from the people of this broad and open region," he declared, "shall one fraction of their liberties be filched. And what are those liberties? Freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, trial by jury, the right of religious worship according to the dictates of our own conscience; freedom from search and seizure; freedom from conviction by bill of attainder at the hands of any Legislature; and all of that long calendar of things that make every man a free-born and independent citizen.

"Shall we surrender them? Never. Shall we surrender them at the will of the majority of the people? Not so long as one individual remains to claim them. Shall we surrender them at the demand of any Legislature, or a majority of the Legislature? Never. Shall we surrender them at the demand of a majority of Congress? Never.

Protection of the Courts.

"And, if we are disposed not to surrender them, what is our guarantee and our protection for their when Hastings was reached but again there was a crowd of several hundred at the station.

"This is the sort of weather," said Davis, "that keeps people indoors and gives them time to think, and the more they think the more certain they are to be Democrats."

He said that, if he could campaign the United States with Gov. Bryan at his side "as exhibit A," there would be no question of the result next November.

Speaking again of human liberty, Davis said that "the great principle of equal and exact justice to all men and special privilege to none, is at the bottom of everything that is rightly called human freedom." It was because the Democratic party was based on that essential doctrine, he said, that it had been able to live through "storm and shadow and prosperity and adversity."

"There are no differences among Democrats today," he said. "We are a united and a harmonious party, and we recognize among our fellow countrymen no classes, no section, no creed. We treat them all as entitled to the same equal and exact justice at the hands of their Government—a government administered in common honesty for the common welfare of all. That is our ideal, that is our purpose, and that, with the suffrage of the American people, we are sternly resolved to furnish after preservation? It is that, when any Congress, any Legislature, or any executive, passes a law or undertakes to enforce a law, that would deprive us of them, we will ignore the law and declare that it has no value or substance.

"And then, if we are arrested for its disobedience, what happens? We stand before the court and say, 'This law under which arrest has been made is no law at all, and we call upon you so to declare that our liberties have been invaded, and to demand release from this unlawful custody.'

"That is the American theory, my friends, and so long as that power remains in an impartial court, so long our liberties are safe. And, whenever the power is taken from the court and vested in a mere majority, some day a gust of passion or prejudice will come and sweep us from the possession of the things we hold most dear."

The rain was still coming down the fourth day of March, 1916.

"The Next Vice President."

The two candidates—Davis and Gov. Bryan—stood together on the rear platform of the train at Fairbury, and the face of Bryan lighted up with a broad smile when the presidential nominee described him as the "next Vice President of the United States."

Referring to an introductory speech by Gov. Bryan, Davis said that the Governor was entirely correct in asserting that the two of them had been "fighting for 20 years for the same principles and the same Democratic ideals," when he added a eulogy of William J. Bryan which provoked an outburst of handclapping in the crowd of several hundred massed about the car.

"I enlisted long ago under a banner raised by a great citizen of Nebraska," Davis said; "and in sunshine and in storm, in adversity and prosperity, I have followed the lead of William J. Bryan from that day to this."

Davis said that, in pursuit of the Jeffersonian doctrine of equal rights, the Democratic party had fought for the rights of labor, and that he himself had borne a share in the fight. He mentioned briefly his defense of the eight-hour law before the Supreme Court, and added that he had had a part in the framing of the law.

The People as a Whole.

"If we stand for the rights of labor," said Davis, "it is not alone that labor may be benefited but that society and the Government and the people as a whole may benefit from the fact that among them there are prosperous and contented and happy men who say:

"'We have no hostility to the man of wealth, as long as that wealth is honestly acquired. We have no hostility to commerce, or to business, or to banking, or to railroads as long as their business is honestly conducted. All that we ask of any man is that he shall not come by devious and secret methods and ask from his Government a privilege that his fellow citizens do not enjoy. That is honest government as we conceive it."

Gov. Jonathan Davis of Kansas was expected to board the train at Marysville, Kan., to confer with the party to Topeka.

'BETTER DAYS WITH DAVIS,' SUNG BY YOUNG TOPEKA DEMOCRATS AT MEETING

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 13.

THIS is the song, "Better Days With Davis," which the League of Young Democrats of Topeka sang, to the tune of "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No Mo'," at the John W. Davis meeting tonight:

BETTER DAYS WITH DAVIS.

We hope to save the country,
And we must do it soon,
For Coolidge has the oil vote
And La Follette wants the moon.

Better days with Davis,
Soon we all shall see.
For he's the man to save us
From the grafting G. O. P.

We must have "common honesty."
For "Silent Cal" we doubt,
And Davis is the man for us
To throw the grafters out.

Teapot Dome is Coolidge doom,
Remember Forbes and Fall,
And they would rob us once again,
So let's get rid of all.

La Follette wouldn't fight the Hun,
And Cal condoned the crook,
But along about November
They both will get the hook.

So all you loyal Democrats,
Come lend a willing hand,
For there is work for us to do
To help the Davis band.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, D. G. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

TUDOR WILKINSON DID NOT PAY TAX ON $286,000 INCOME

GOVERNMENT CLAIMS HE OWES $85,000

Former St. Louisan, Now Residing in Paris, Married Dolores, Noted Follies Beauty, in 1923.

William Tudor Wilkinson, who left St. Louis in 1917 to serve with the American air forces in France, and who subsequently acquired an interest in horses which raced in France and England, had an income of $286,461 in the five-year period following the armistice.

This fact was disclosed yesterday when it became known that a criminal warrant had been issued charging him with evasion of Federal income taxes from 1919 to 1923, inclusive. The Government claims he owes $85,841.27 in taxes and penalties for that period.

His income had its ups and downs, according to the report of Internal Revenue Bureau investigators, who placed it as high as $100,000 last year and as low as $15,000 in 1921. It is stated without explanation that his income of $29,909.24 in 1922 was all in French coin. The figures for other years are: 1919, $94,201.92, and 1920, $47,250.

Operated Stock Farm.

Wilkinson, who is about 44 years old and a son of the late John C. Wilkinson of Kirkwood, a director of the defunct Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., formerly was the successful operator of a stock farm near Eureka, St. Louis County.

In 1917 he entered the army air service and went to France with the A. E. F. After the war he remained in that country and acquired an interest in race horses through an acquaintance with one of the Vanderbilts. He established an imposing apartment in Paris, became a familiar figure in the American colony there, and took his stable to race at various French and English tracks.

In May, 1923, Dolores, a noted beauty of the Ziegfeld Follies, who was born in England as Kathleen Marie Rose, sailed alone from New York for the culmination of a romance with Wilkinson. They were married in Paris and the bride said soon afterwards that domestic life so attracted her that she thought she would forsake the stage. Winkinson has two sisters here.

Said to Have Sought Passport.

The Government has established to its own satisfaction that Wilkinson should make an income tax return here because, it is declared, some time ago he made application to an American Consul in France for a passport to the United States, and made an affidavit then that his residence was in St. Louis.

All of Wilkinson's property that the Government could find—his 250-acre farm near Eureka and a $7000 bank account in New York—has been attached, to go towards satisfying the claim for taxes.

The warrant against Wilkinson is the first issued in this district charging evasion of income taxes. The offense is a misdemeanor under the internal revenue law, punishable upon conviction by the maximum of a $10,000 fine and a year in jail. The United States Marshal filed a return yesterday signifying his inability to serve the warrant, whereupon the fact of its issuance last Thursday became known.

WIFE SUES REALTY DEALER, NAMING OTHER WOMEN

Mrs. Emily Zimmerer Says Husband Intends to Adopt One as His Daughter.

Mrs. Emily Zimmerer, 5220 Washington boulevard, yesterday sued to divorce George L. Zimmerer, a real estate dealer with office in the Wainwright building.

She charges general indignities and names Mrs. Maud Frank of 4943A South Grand boulevard, whose husband, Peter, has sued Zimmerer for $100,000 for alienation of affection, and Miss Ede Mae Smith, whom Zimmerer intends to adopt as his daughter, according to Mrs. Zimmerer.

The petition asks for alimony and places Zimmerer's wealth at $150,000. Mrs. Zimmerer also asks that her husband be restrained from disposing of his property and that she have custody of their 14-year-old son, George Jr. They also have a grown son and daughter.

Mrs. Zimmerer asserted in her action that Zimmerer had threatened to cut off his daughter, Emily, with nothing unless she came to live with him and accepted Miss Smith as her sister. They were married in 1899 and separated in 1917.

STOLEN DIAMOND FOUND IN BED OF GIRL FORTUNE TELLER

Young Woman Arrested in Omaha Accused of Taking Woman's Ring.

St. Louisans who have been swindled recently by a woman supposed as a gypsy fortune teller got away with money, jewelry and apparel, will be asked to look at a 19-year-old girl arrested yesterday in a camp at 3600 South Broadway. She gave her name as Jessie Rhea.

A diamond ring found in her bed was identified by Mrs. Walter Drake, 5704 South Compton avenue, as one stolen from her home last month. She said the Rhea girl took the ring from a dresser while Mrs. Drake left the room for a minute, just before having her future foretold.

nd we call upon you so to declare: o declare that our liberties have been invaded, and to demand re- lease from this unlawful custody."

"That is the American theory, my friends, and so long as that power remains in an impartial court, so long our liberties are safe. And, whenever the power is taken from the court and vested in a mere majority, some day a gust of passion or prejudice will rise and sweep us from the possession of the things we hold most dear."

The rain was still coming down the fourth day of March, 1925."

"The Next Vice President."

The two candidates—Davis and Gov. Bryan—stood together on the rear platform of the train at Fairbury, and the face of Bryan lighted up with a broad smile when the presidential nominee described him as the "next Vice President of the United States."

Referring to an introductory speech by Gov. Bryan, Davis said that the Governor was entirely correct in asserting that the two of them had been "fighting for 25 years for the same principles and the same Democratic ideals." Then he added a eulogy of William J. Bryan which provoked an outburst of handclapping in the crowd of several hundred massed about the car.

"I enlisted long ago under a banner raised by a great citizen of Nebraska," Davis said, "and in sunshine and in storm, in adversity and prosperity, I have followed the lead of William J. Bryan from that day to this."

Davis said that, in pursuit of the Jeffersonian doctrine of equal rights, the Democratic party had fought for the rights of labor, and that he himself had borne a share in the fight. He mentioned briefly his defense of the eight-hour law before the Supreme Court, and added that he had had a part in the framing of the law.

The People as a Whole.

"If we stand for the rights of labor," said Davis, "it is not solely that labor may be benefited but that society and the Government and the people as a whole may benefit from the fact that among them there are prosperous and contented and happy men who toil.

"We have no hostility to the men of wealth, as long as that wealth is honestly acquired. We have no hostility to commerce, or to business, or to banking, or to railroads, as long as their business is honestly conducted. All that we ask of any man is that he shall not come by devious and secret methods and ask from his Government a privilege that his fellow citizens do not enjoy. That is honest government as we conceive it."

Gov. Jonathan Davis of Kansas was expected to board the train at Marysville, Kan., to continue with the party to Topeka.

TUDOR WILKINSON DID NOT PAY TAX ON $286,000 INCOME

GOVERNMENT CLAIMS HE OWES $85,000

Former St. Louisan, Now Residing in Paris, Married Dolores, Noted Follies Beauty, in 1923.

William Tudor Wilkinson, who left St. Louis in 1917 to serve with the American air forces in France, and who subsequently acquired an interest in horses which raced in France and England, had an income of $286,261 in the five-year period following the armistice.

This fact was disclosed yesterday when it became known that a criminal warrant had been issued charging him with evasion of Federal income taxes from 1919 to 1923, inclusive. The Government claims he owes $85,841.27 in taxes and penalties for that period.

His income had its ups and downs, according to the report of Internal Revenue Bureau investigators, who placed it as high as $100,000 last year and as low as $15,000 in 1921. It is stated without explanation that his income of $29,909.24 in 1922 was all in French coin. The figures for other years are: 1919, $94,201.92, and 1920, $47,250.

Operated Stock Farm.

Wilkinson, who is about 44 years old and a son of the late John C. Wilkinson of Kirkwood, a director of the defunct Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., formerly was the successful operator of a stock farm near Eureka, St. Louis County.

In 1917 he entered the army air service and went to France with the A. E. F. After the war he remained in that country and acquired an interest in race horses through an acquaintance with one of the Vanderbilts. He established an imposing apartment in Paris, became a familiar figure in the American colony there, and took his stable to race at various French and English tracks.

In May, 1923, Dolores, a noted beauty of the Ziegfeld Follies, who was born in England as Kathleen Marie Rose, sailed alone from New York for the culmination of a romance with Wilkinson. They were married in Paris and the bride said soon afterwards that domestic life so attracted her that she thought she would forsake the stage. Winkinson has two sisters here.

Said to Have Sought Passport.

The Government has established to its own satisfaction that Wilkinson should make an income tax return here because, it is declared, some time ago he made application to an American Consul in France for a passport to the United States, and made an affidavit then that his residence was in St. Louis.

All of Wilkinson's property that the Government could find—his 250-acre farm near Eureka and a $7000 bank account in New York—has been attached, to go towards satisfying the claim for taxes.

The warrant against Wilkinson is the first issued in this district charging evasion of income taxes. The offense is a misdemeanor under the internal revenue law, punishable upon conviction by the maximum of a $10,000 fine and a year in jail. The United States Marshal filed a return yesterday signifying his inability to serve the warrant, whereupon the fact of its issuance last Thursday became known.

WIFE SUES REALTY DEALER, NAMING OTHER WOMEN

Mrs. Emily Zimmerer Says Husband Intends to Adopt One as His Daughter.

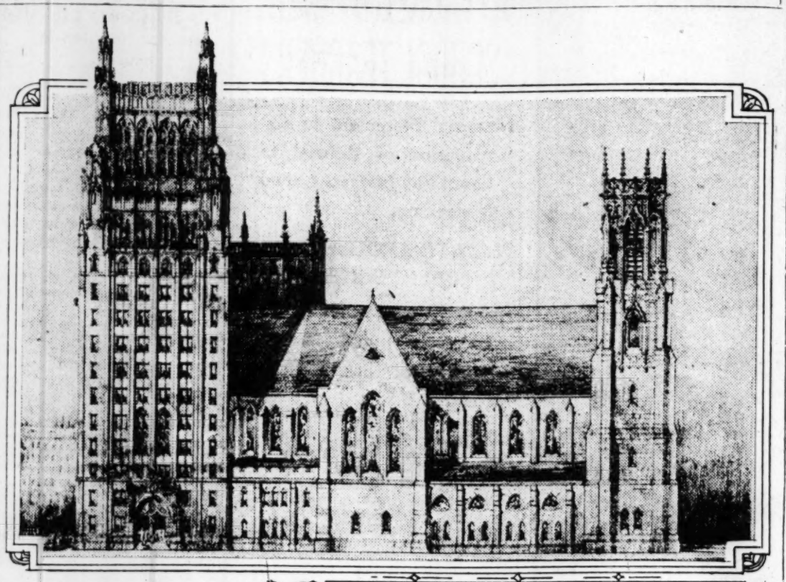
Mrs. Emily Zimmerer, 5220 Washington boulevard, yesterday sued to divorce George L. Zimmerer, a real estate dealer with office in the Wainwright building.

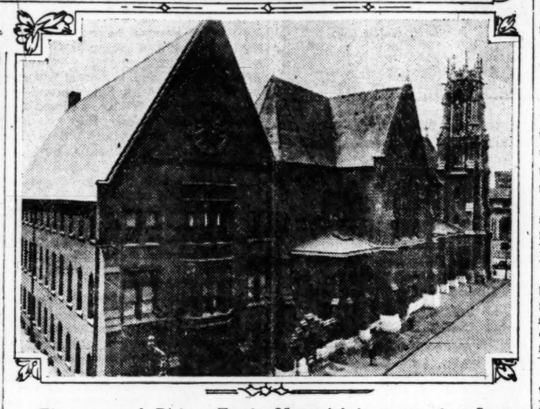
She charges general indignities and names Mrs. Maud Frank of 6442A South Grand boulevard, whose husband, Peter, has sued Zimmerer for $100,000 for alienation of affection, and Miss Ede Mae Smith, whom Zimmerer intends to adopt as his daughter, according to Mrs. Zimmerer.

The petition asks for alimony and places Zimmerer's wealth at $150,000. Mrs. Zimmerer also asks that her husband be restrained from disposing of his property and that she have custody of their 14-year-old son, George Jr. They also have a grown son and daughter.

Mrs. Zimmerer asserted in her action that Zimmerer had threatened to cut off his daughter, Emily, with nothing unless she came to live with him and accepted Miss Smith as her sister. They were married in 1899 and separated in 1917.

Plan for Bishop Tuttle Memorial, and Schuyler House, Which It Is to Replace





The proposed Bishop Tuttle Memorial is to stand on Locust street at the rear of Christ Church Cathedral, and on the present site of Schuyler Memorial House, which has been outgrown. The design shown here is tentative, and is in architectural harmony with that of the Cathedral, which is to remain unchanged.

The lower photograph shows the present building and side view of the Cathedral adjoining. It is planned that an auditorium in the new building shall bear the name of Dean Montgomery Schuyler, for whom the present building is named.

BANKER AND DAUGHTER REPORTED INDICTED

Grand Jury Completes Investigation of Egger Failure at Lamar, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAMAR, Mo., Sept. 13.—The Barton County grand jury, which has been investigating the closing of the bank privately owned by Thomas Egger, adjourned this morning and is reported to have returned five indictments against Egger and five against his daughter, Anna, cashier of the bank. Four indictments in each case are said to charge accepting money when the bank was known to be insolvent and one indictment is reported to allege embezzlement.

The Egger bank, the most popular one in Lamar, was closed in May by State bank examiners. All of Egger's property and holdings, including thousands of acres in Barton and adjoining counties, a grain elevator and a city block facing the town square, are in the hands of the State Commissioner of Finance.

At the time of the State investigation Egger's bank seemed sound, his statement showing $140,000 in deposits against $191,000 in resources. But the day the examiners took charge Egger surrendered a secret book in which for years he had recorded certificates of deposit equaling $99,500. This increased the claims to about $240,000, and, many of the resources proving worthless, it is believed the bank's deficit will run between $80,000 and $100,000.

Egger has been Mayor of Lamar and a member of the School Board and for 20 years his bank held the School Board funds.

FOUR HOLDUPS REPORTED AS POLICE ROUND UP 129 MEN

Concealed Weapon Is Found on Only One Suspect; Hotel Clerk Robbed.

One hundred and twenty-nine police characters and suspects were arrested between 7 p. m. and last midnight in the campaign against "gun toters" begun by Chief O'Brien last week. Only one concealed weapon was found, it being carried by Goernor Buckner, a negro, of 2606 Wash street. A warrant will be applied for against Buckner Monday.

During the period the police were rounding up suspects four holdups occurred. Max Kaiser, a grocer, of 2301 Benton street, was held up by a lone robber, who took $25; Bernard Barth, a grocer, of 918 North Newstead avenue, was robbed of $90 in his store by a man, who was driven from the scene by another man in a Ford coupe; Alfred Basil, 6407 Darby street, reported that he was robbed of $6 by an armed negro at High and Wash streets; a negro held up the clerk of the Tremont hotel, 3300 Morgan street, escaping with $27.

IDENTIFY MAN FOUND DEAD

The body of the man found on Hanley road, a short distance south of Washington boulevard, in University City, Friday night, was identified yesterday as that of Charles L. Moore, about 40 years old, of Union, Mo., who had been visiting a sister in St. Louis. A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from heart disease. The body will be shipped to Union for burial.

Two Months in Boat With Family.

mandant of the field, where they received newspaper men. They were left more or less to their own devices tonight, but were to "visit" with Curry at his home.

"Tired?" Lieut. Smith was asked, as he talked to newspaper men on the Curry porch.

"More hungry," he smiled.

"What was the hardest part of your trip?" he was asked.

"All of it," he shot back. "It was just a lot of hard work."

Their planes were wheeled into hangars at McCook Field almost as soon as they left them, and mechanics swarmed over them to give the engines a complete overhauling. Crews will work on the "ships" all night, new men going on the job at midnight. Smith probably will decide tomorrow whether new engines will be installed.

The next hop, to Chicago, is 175 miles in an airline.

Hop-Off Delayed by Adverse Weather Reports.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The army world flyers began the last stage of their journey today, hopping off from Bolling Field here for Dayton, O., at 10:50 a. m., Eastern standard time.

The hop-off was delayed more than two hours by adverse weather reports from points along the route.

Brigadier-General Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, accompanied the flyers for a short distance in an escort machine. A photographers' plane also went along.

Over Arlington Cemetery.

The planes circled over the city and over Arlington Cemetery before starting westward. Although the sun was shining, there were still clouds overhead and the pilots flew very low.

No ceremony attended the departure.

As soon as the planes were cleared the following message was sent by Bolling Field to the commanding officers of fields along the route:

"Lieut. Smith, Nelson and Wade pilots, in DT twos with Lieut. Arnold, Ogden and Harding, passengers and Lieut. Wright, pilot, with Sergeant Kennedy, passenger, in escort DH, departed for McCook Field at 10:50 a. m."

Wait for Rain to Stop.

The adverse weather reports came from the West Virginia mountains. The weather bureau at Moundsville, W. Va., sent frequent reports describing the steady rain and "low ceiling," which obtained there, and Lieut. Smith decided against taking a chance among the ranges under those conditions. Later reports from Moundsville declared the clouds had lifted to about 1500 feet and while there still was a slight drizzle indications were more favorable. Rather than risk arriving at Dayton after nightfall the take-off was decided upon in the hope that the world cruisers might "catch up with" the clearing weather.

Cost of World Flight Not Expected to Exceed $100,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Expenses of the round the world flight have not been computed but army and navy officials denied today reports that the expense ran into the millions.

Maj.-Gen. Patrick, Chief of the Army Air Service, said the cost has been approximately $50,000, the amount specifically set aside by army appropriation for the purpose. This is exclusive of the cost of the planes, which he pointed out would have been purchased in any case and will continue to be used, and does not take into account the costs to the navy.

However, the added expense to the navy would be relatively small, according to officials and would be mainly for fuel oil. If maintenance charges of the army and navy, which would go on whether or no there was a world flight, were counted in the bill might be made to run into large figures. But the actual expenses legitimately charged to the enterprise would bring the total within $100,000 according to army estimates.

Chicago Plans Dinner to Globe-Girdlers Tuesday Night.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Preparations to welcome the army world flyers, who are expected to land in the air mail field at Maywood about noon Tuesday, will be completed at a special meeting of the Reception Committee, called for tomorrow afternoon. At a previous meeting it was voted that silver cigarette boxes will be presented not only to the flyers, but to Maj. F. L. Martin and Sergt. Alva Harvey, the flyers who set out on the round-the-world trip but met with grief in Alaska.

Preparations will be made to serve 500 at the dinner to the flyers Tuesday evening. Several relatives of at least one of the flyers, Lieut. Leigh Wade, are expected. An illuminated laudation on parchment will be presented to each flyer.

AUTO HITS GIRL, DOESN'T STOP

Her Skull Fractured by Car With Dealer's License.

Policemen are looking for the driver of an automobile who failed to stop after striking Esther Burack, 14 years old, of 2237 Lemp avenue, at Jefferson avenue and Wyoming street, at 8:30 last night.

The girl suffered a skull fracture and lacerations of the body. Witnesses described the automobile as a dark touring car with a dealer's license.

Grocer Robbed of $150.

Three young men, all armed, held up Joseph W. Hurst in his grocery at 1256 Morlin avenue, at 8:10 last night, took $150 from the cash register, and escaped in a touring car.

CAMPAIGN FOR TUTTLE MEMORIAL BEGINS OCT. 12

Committees, Organized on Broad Civic Lines, to Conduct 12-Day Drive for $1,250,000 Fund.

ST. LOUIS' QUOTA IS SET AT $750,000

Building to Late Bishop to Be on Locust Between Twelfth Boulevard and Thirteenth Street.

A 12-day campaign for the Bishop Tuttle Memorial, a building to be erected adjoining Christ Church Cathedral, will begin Sunday, Oct. 12. The objective of the campaign is $1,250,000, of which it is planned to raise $750,000 in St. Louis and the rest outside this city.

The building is to serve as both a local and national memorial to the Rt. Rev. Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, who was presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States for 20 years before his death in April, 1923. He had been a Bishop for 56 years, and the early period of his service as Bishop was spent in Utah, Montana and Idaho, where his work is historic.

Of the $1,250,000 which it will be sought to raise, about three-fourths represents the cost of the structure, and the remainder an endowment fund for its maintenance.

Institutional Features.

The proposed building is to take the place of the present Schuyler Memorial House, but while that comparatively small building, now inadequate for the big community program of the cathedral, will be demolished, its memorial purpose will continue. An auditorium in the Bishop Tuttue Memorial, seating several hundred persons, will bear the name of Dean Montgomery Schuyler, rector for nearly 42 years of Christ Church.

The proposed building, standing at the rear of the Cathedral, and fronting on Locust street between Twelfth boulevard and Thirteenth street, will have a tower of Gothic architecture, to conform with that of the Cathedral. This tower, as provided in the tentative plans, will be an architectural feature of the Twelfth boulevard district. A somewhat similar Gothic tower, that of the Methodist Temple, is now one of the most prominent features of Chicago's downtown skyline.

Plans for the memorial building were drawn by Jamieson & Spearl, as a contribution to the campaign. The plans embody institutional features, such as club and class rooms, gymnasium, swimming pool and little theater. It also will have the offices of the Bishop of Missouri, and of diocesan organizations, and will have quarters available for the use of the National Council of the church whenever it may desire to use them.

Other Churches Co-operate.

More than 50 Bishops of the church, who were colleagues of Bishop Tuttle, are members of the National Memorial Committee, headed by Bishop Frederick F. Johnson. The St. Louis committee is organized on broad civic lines and some of its members are not connected with any church. The St. Louis committee is headed by W. Frank Carter, chairman, with Thomas W. Dysart as vice chairman. John R. Shepley is campaign director and Clinton L. Whittemore treasurer. Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd and Mrs. Frank G. Hammar are co-chairmen of the Women's Committee, Festus J. Wade chairman of the Press Committee, R. King Kauffman of the Organization Committee, Dean William Scarlett of the Co-operation Committee, Mrs. Walter Fischel of the Junior Women's Committee, John G Lonsdale of the Publicity Committee, John A. Love of the Young Men's Division, George C. Hitchcock of the Ways and Means Committee, and L. Wade Childress of the Committee on Lists.

The Episcopal parishes are organized under their rectors, with a chairman and chairwoman in every one. Other churches are to co-operate through a committee headed by the Rev. Dr. W. C. Bitting, pastor of the Second Baptist Church.

AUTOPSY REPORT SAYS BOOTLEGGER WAS GARROTED

Sam Palazzolo Probably Was Dragged From Auto by Rope Around Neck, Coroner Suggests.

BODY WAS FOUND ON PUBLIC DUMP

Inquest Being Held Open Pending Police Investigation Into Activities of Man Killed.

A Coroner's autopsy report, made public yesterday in the case of Sam P. Palazzolo, 21-year-old Italian found beaten and choked to death on a public dump at Columbia and Sulphur avenues early Friday, set forth that the man came to death by "asphyxiation from strangulation" from a rope or cord passed twice about the man's neck, and added that great force was used, suggesting the victim was dragged, with the rope about his neck, by a moving automobile.

The two welts encircling the neck appeared as though "burned by friction from a rope," the report stated, and were more pronounced and defined than the similar manifestations in the cases of two criminals hanged in St. Louis recently. Further, the report added the victim probably was alive, though perhaps unconscious from head injuries, when garroted. Though the victim apparently had been beaten on the head, the blows were superficial, none of them capable of causing death, the report stated.

Where Body Was Found.

The man's body, as has been told, was found at daylight, lying apparently where it had been tossed down a 20-foot embankment, and was traced and identified through a tailor's mark, the identification later being confirmed by the man's brother, Joe Palazzolo. The inquest has been held open, pending investigation of the victim's activities in the illicit manufacture and distribution of liquor.

Detectives have learned that the murdered man was last seen in company with his brother and a cousin, Louis Carbone, of 4960 Odell avenue, with whom he had recently made his home, at 9:30 p. m. Thursday in a poolroom at 2120 Cooper avenue. At that hour he departed in his Ford coupe, alone or accompanied—a circumstance detectives have been seeking to establish—and was seen no more. His automobile was placed, as usual, in a garage at 5200 Bischoff avenue, sometime during the night. It bore no signs of a struggle.

Had Been Bootlegger.

From the brother and cousin, the police learned that Palazzolo had been bootlegging about five months. He formerly lived in the rear of 2118 Cooper avenue, in a cottage twice raided by the police last March, at which each time a large still was found in operation. Investigation also has been made as to a possible connection of his murder with that of Peter Aiello and Dorothy Kite of Alton, whose bodies were found on a roadside near Edwardsville, June 11, last. In that instance, Joe Palazzolo, the brother, was questioned as to the ownership of the automobile used in the murder.

Two weeks ago Sam Palazzolo's Buick automobile was reported stolen and later found, ruined by fire, near Granite City. It has not been established whether the fire was by accident or design.

FIRES STARTED FOR THE BIG BUNCETON BARBECUE

By the Associated Press.

BUNCETON, Mo., Sept. 13.—Finishing touches were added today to preparations for the mammoth barbecue on the farm of Arthur W. Nelson, Democratic nominee for the governorship of Missouri, at which John W. Davis Democratic candidate for the presidency will open his Missouri campaign Monday.

On the grassy ampitheater floor of Dr. Nelson's front yard pasture fires were lighted tonight in 450 feet of trenches where meat for 30,000 persons will be barbecued. Large stacks of green hickory have been piled along the trenches to make the beds of coals over which the 12,000 pounds of beef and 3000 pounds of mutton will be slowly cooked.

In addition to the barbecued meat there will be 2400 double loaves of sandwich bread, 15,000 buns, four barrels of pickles and preparations have been made to boil 1900 gallons of coffee. Thousands of baskets containing chicken, sandwiches, pie, cake and other things will have been prepared by housewives of Cooper and surrounding counties.

The town of Bunceton has not had such publicity since the Stokes divorce case hearing was held here a year ago, and everyone of the townsmen is doing his part to make the day a huge success. Forty thousand persons are expected to attend the barbecue and hear Davis speak.

British Labor Premier's Son Feted in Wall Street

—Copyright Underwood & Underwood.

MALCOLM MacDONALD.

WHILE all New York has been agog over the son of the nominal head of the British Government, the Prince of Wales, the son of the real head of that Government has been quietly visiting in that city without attracting much attention. Curiously enough, the most interest in him has been among Wall street bankers. Otto Kahn, international banker, brang his host at a luncheon which was attended by many Wall street magnates.

Young MacDonald, who is the elder son of Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, is in the United States as a representative of the Oxford Union debating team which will hold a series of debates with teams of American colleges. He is also writing a series of articles on America and Canada for a London paper.

FISHERMAN, WITHOUT FOOD, IN SAIL BOAT FOR 5 DAYS

Is Rescued by Standard Oil Tanker Off Florida Coast—Driven 500 Miles by Storm.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13.—Without food and water for five days while his 16-foot sail boat was tossed about in heavy seas off the coast of Floriad, Jouze Sikusias was rescued by the Standard Oil tanker Miskianza and brought to Baltimore today.

Sikusias, who said he had been fishing off Miami, Fla., when the storm broke, was picked up off Savannah, Ga. Capt. Thomas Dow of the Miskianza, said his men sighted a small boat crudely constructed of tin, and altogether at the mercy of the sea.

Capt. Dow ordered his vessel to overhaul the smaller craft.

Braving the heavy seas, men from the Miskianza went aboard the sailing craft. There they found Sikusias on the floor in a stupor. When he was revived he related that his food and water had lasted only one day. With $300 in his pocket, but nothing to eat, he fought five days to keep his frail boat from capsizing. His collapse, he said came about six hours before he was rescued.

Capt. Dow said Sikusias' boat was carried along by the storm for over 500 miles.

SAN PEDRO SULA ATTACKED

By the Associated Press.

SAN SALVADOR, Sept. 13.—Gen. Gregorio Ferrera, Honduran rebel chief, is attacking San Pedro Sula with 6500 men and has captured the heights dominating the city, according to revolutionary news dispatches received here today.

Skirmishes between the Government forces and rebels have occurred at Siguatepeque, but without serious results.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Sept. 13.—The Government announces that its forces have routed the rebels at Angosturas, San Isidro and Siguatepeque. It is expected that the main body of the rebels will soon come into contact with the Government troops and a decisive battle is looked for.

HOUSE WRECKED BY UNINVITED CALLER

Woman, Who Once Killed Man for Similar Offense, Only Has This One Arrested.

For the second time in a little more than a year, Mrs. Archie McCoy of 3531 Easton avenue yesterday had an uninvited caller, who broke into the house and behaved threateningly and destructively.

Sept. 1 of last year, Mrs. McCoy borrowed a revolver from neighbor and shot the intruder, who was Walter Hudson of 2802 Franklin avenue. Hudson died four days later, and on Sept. 6 a Coroner's jury rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide, and Mrs. McCoy was released. But she seems to have decided that there was a better way than homicide, however justifiable, to deal with such a situation.

At 1 p. m. yesterday, Martin Lawless of 2917 Franklin avenue, who was a friend of Hudson, went to Mrs. McCoy's. He knocked at the front door and demanded admittance, but Mrs. McCoy pushed him down the steps. He got up and broke the door in, and entered the house, Mrs. McCoy fleeing at the rear.

Lunch was on the table, and Lawless threw the food about, broke a vase, and dipped a fur neckpiece in a dish of beans, then tramped fur, beans and all into the rugs. He broke 12 panes of window glass and a screen door.

This was more damage than was done by Hudson, whose chief offense had been his threats to cut Mrs. McCoy's throat. Again she called at a neighbor's house, but she did not ask for a revolver. Instead, she telephoned for a policeman, and one came in time to arrest Lawless as he was leaving. He will be charged with malicious destruction of property.

At the time of last year's occurrence, Mrs. McCoy was living at 2820 Franklin avenue. Hudson was a former boarder at her house, and was 34 years old. Lawless is a shoe worker, and is 40.

HEAD OF TYPOTHETAE IS SERIOUSLY HURT BY AUTO

George K. Horn and Two Companions Injured When Run Down by Drunken Driver.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—George K. Horn of Baltimore, international president of the United Typothetae, was seriously injured here today, and Edward Rollman, also of Baltimore, had a wild ride on the bumper of a careening automobile, whose driver later was arrested charged with operating the car while intoxicated. Ralph Packwood, head of a Washington printing establishment, also was injured.

Horn and his companions had been riding in the machine they said, and they left it after remonstrating with the driver, Reginald Fitzgerald, for operating the car in such a condition. While walking, the machine suddenly swerved and ran the three down.

SAYS KLAN HAS INDORSED DYER

J. F. Duggan Assails Republican Opponent for Congress.

Jerome F. Duggan, Democratic nominee for Congress from the Twelfth District, speaking last night at a meeting of the Duggan-for-Congress Club, charged that the Republican nominee for re-election, L. C. Dyer, had been indorsed by the Ku Klux Klan in St. Louis and had not repudiated the indorsement. Duggan also said Dyer campaigned in Indiana at the primary for the Republican State ticket, which was indorsed by the Klan. Duggan was active in the successful fight to mention the Klan in the Democratic platform.

The meeting was held at the Weis Cafe, 4065 Laclede avenue, and the attendance was estimated at about 200. Dr. A. D. Brix and James J. Noonan were elected chairman of the Finance and Executive Committees of the club, respectively.

'MANY HUNGRY,' SHAVER'S REPLY TO G. O. P. CHAIRMAN

Democratic Chieftain Points to Unemployment as Cause of Decreased Bread Consumption.

BLAMES POLICIES OF REPUBLICANS

Asserts Mr. Coolidge Could Save Housewives $145,000 Daily by Cutting Duty on Sugar.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Clem L. Shaver, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, replied to a statement issued yesterday by Chairman Butler of the Republican National Committee as follows:

"Chairman Butler has evidently been perusing French history, judging from his latest interpretation of American economics. It was a French queen who said, when the people complained they had no bread, why don't the poor things eat cake?

"Chairman Butler acknowledges a decrease in bread consumption in the United States, but attributes it to the tremendous prosperity of the country. Bread consumption has been decreasing, he says, in a prepared, official statement, and declares that the fundamental reason therefor is the increasing prosperity and higher standard of living of the people.

Blames G. O. P. for Unemployment.

"This line of reasoning undoubtedly will appeal with cheering force to the thousands of mill workers of the textile industry, in which Mr. Butler is supposed to have more or less interest, who are out of work and hungry because of wholesale unemployment throughout New England, a condition due to unsound, Republican policies of the last three years.

"In the same statement, Mr. Butler's attitude on the sugar tariff puts it squarely up to President Coolidge whether he is to be guided by the Tariff Commission of experts, created by the Government, or by his political campaign managers.

Coolidge Silent on Sugar Report.

"Mr. Coolidge has had before him since July 29 the recommendation of the Tariff Commission that he reduce the sugar duty ½ cent a pound, and thereby save $145,000 a day to American housewives. He has failed to act. Following my statement on this subject of a week ago, it was announced he would immediately take up the Tariff Commission report for 'consideration.'

"Now comes Mr. Butler with a defense of the Fordney-McCumber sugar tariff. He emphatically opposes the reduction.

"Senator Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Finance Committee, which handled the Fordney-McCumber bill, and William V. Hodges of Colorado, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, are both personally interested in sugar companies. It will be interesting to see which influence Mr. Coolidge gives greater weight.

"The pocketbooks of the housekeepers of America or the pocketbooks and advice of his campaign managers."

Decrease Due to Higher Standards of Living, Butler Says.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, ILL., Sept. 13.—William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee last night issued an attack on the address with which Robert M. La Follette opened his campaign for the presidency on Labor Day.

"There is not a single soup line in the country," said Butler, after quoting La Follette as saying, "The consumption per capita of such a staple food as bread is much less than it was a few years ago. It means that there are many people in the United States today who are hungry for bread." Butler added:

"Bread consumption has been decreasing, but Mr. La Follette distorts the fundamental reason therefor—the increasing prosperity and higher standard of living of the people. Every population decreases its bread consumption by an increase in proportionate consumption of meats, fruits, sugars and other more varied foods."

Butler said of the La Follette speech as a whole:

"His speech is an appeal to class prejudiced The facts which he mentions are capable of analysis and are an indication of the entire falsity of the premises on which he bases his denunciation.

"The way to increase the bread consumption of the United States is to impoverish the population, and that is what would happen if these policies were carried out.

"Exactly what do we gain by the system?" asks Senator La Follette. He says, 'We mean the coal monopoly.' There are 8000 operators busy at the present time cutting each other's throats in competition and fully one-half of them are now selling coal for less than cost."

"Coolidge Caravan" on Its Way Across Country

THE caravan is moving across the country over the Lincoln Highway. Noted speakers are to address crowds from it along the route. The leading truck bears a huge painting of President Coolidge's birthplace and Gen. Dawes' slogan, "Common Sense and Brass Tacks."

CORONER INVESTIGATES DEATH OF ILLINOIS PASTOR'S WIFE

Will Have Contents of Stomach Examined—Doctor Said Ptomaine Poisoning Was Cause.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 13.—An investigation of the death yesterday of Mrs. L. M. Hight, 40 years old, wife of the pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Ina, 12 miles from here, has been started by Coroner Reece.

Mrs. Hight was taken seriously ill last Sunday and complained of internal pains. The attending physician, after she died, stated his belief it was a case of ptomaine poison. The Coroner, however, after an autopsy had been performed, ordered the stomach sent to Chicago to have the contents analyzed. A Coroner's jury has been impaneled to inquire into the death, but is withholding its verdict pending a report from Chicago.

The Rev. Mr. Hight has been pastor of the Ina church about two years and has been in this conference about 14 years. There are three children, two girls and a boy. Funeral services for Mrs. Hight will be held tomorrow.

ST. PAUL IN GALA ARRAY FOR LEGION CONVENTION

Downtown Section of City Decorated With Flags and Posters; Many Visitors Expected.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 13.—St. Paul is ready to welcome the thousands of banners and posters pro-annual convention of the American legion, which opens a five-day session Monday.

Fluttering flags and pennants are stretched across the streets and buildings festooned in red, white and blue have transformed the downtown avenues into canyons of color, with windows showing thousands of banners and posteres proclaiming a "Welcome, Buddy."

Business sessions will be held each forenoon by the Legion in the auditorium, and committee meetings and entertainment features will occupy the afternoons and evenings with the legion parade and band competition set for Tuesday afternoon.

JOHN J. M'MAHON DIES

Two of His Sons to Officiate at Funeral.

Funeral services for John J. McMahon, a retired contractor, who died at his home, 4016 Lexington avenue, Thursday, will be held at 9 a. m. Monday from St. Mathew's Catholic Church. Two of McMahon's sons, the Reverends Joseph A. and Gerald McMahon, will officiate at the requiem high mass.

McMahon, who was 71 years old, had been ill several years. He is also survived by his widow, a daughter, and six other sons. One of the latter is Brother Mark Philip, a Christian Brother, of Chicago. The Rev. Joseph McMahon is pastor of St. Luke's, Richmond Heights. The Rev. Gerald McMahon is assistant pastor of the Holy Rosary Church.

Skull Fractured by Auto.

John O'Gara, 60 years old, of 4410 Athlone avenue, suffered fractures of the skull, left leg and forearm and internal injuries when struck last night by an automobile on Rosalie avenue, near Adelaide avenue, as he was crossing the street. Michael Theiss, 30, a baker, of 2808 Carter avenue, who was driving the automobile, said O'Gara stepped from the curb in front of the car. O'Gara is in critical condition at Kullanphy Hospital.

MOTOR BUS CONTROL BILL IS EXPECTED

Truck Manufacturers Believed Behind Move to Put Lines Under Service Commission.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 13.—A bill to place all motor bus lines operating in Missouri under the control of the State Public Service Commission, and subject them to regulation such as is exercised over steam railways, street railways and other carriers, probably will be introduced at the next session of the legislature, it was learned today. Motor truck manufacturers are behind the proposed bill, it was said, but identity of the author was not disclosed.

Under the present law defining powers of the Public Service Commission, that body has no control over bus lines. There is no State law regulating operation, rates or safety requirements of such lines, it was said.

A representative of an automobile manufacturer recently visited Jefferson City seeking information on the State's power to supervise bus operation, but was informed the commission had no such authority. He stated an amendment to the law, to extend the Commission's power to include bus lines, would be introduced at the next session of the legislature. The manufacturer had a buyer for a large motor bus fleet for operation in Missouri, it was said, if commission control was assured.

Numerous Inquiries.

Commission control is desired by the larger operators, it was stated, to insure regulation of smaller competitors who do not operate on regular schedules, have no regular rates, and are not bonded to indemnify passengers in event of accident.

Numerous inquiries and complaints concerning bus line operation are received by the commission, Chairman Thomas J. Brown said today, but the commission has taken no steps toward recommending regulatory legislation, preferring to leave the initiation of such a move to legislators.

Brown recently received a letter from E. T. Hopkins of Popiar Bluff, general manager of the Butler County railroad company, suggesting legislation authorizing the commission to regulate traffic of motor truck companies and motor bus lines.

Many Lines Operating.

He pointed out that truck companies should be under State control, and license fees for motor trucks should be fixed at a figure that would pay for the heavy wear on public highways.

Hopkins suggested that such companies, together with bus lines, should be required to file tariffs with the commission and post schedules. Bonds should be required of the operators, Hopkins continued, to protect passengers in event of injury, or protect shippers of freight from loss or damage.

Numerous small motor bus and automobile lines have sprung up over the State, operating in competition with the railroads, but none is required to obtain a franchise or operate under any official supervision, except in some cities, as in St. Louis, where the lines operate within the city and are subject to local ordinances.

HANS HACKEL OBSERVES SILVER WEDDING TODAY

President of Westliche Post Company Joined Paper After Return From Spanish-American War.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hackel of 3720 Michigan avenue will observe their silver wedding anniversary today. Mrs. Hackel was formerly Miss Julie Schrade. They have one son, Otto Carl Hackel, who resides with his parents.

Hackel is president and editor-in-chief of the Westliche Post Publishing Co., publishers of the oldest daily newspaper in St. Louis. He served in Battery A during the Spanish-American War as a volunteer, and, after being mustered out, became a reporter on the Westliche Post in 1899. Last January he was guest of honor at a banquet given by friends to celebrate his 25 years' connection with the paper. His son is manager of the Westliche Post Steamship Agency.

18 MEXICAN SOLDIERS REPORTED KILLED BY REBELS

Slain Men Were Acting as Guard on Passenger Train Which Was Robbed.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 13.—Eighteenth Mexican soldiers, who were acting as guards on the passenger train running between Jalapa and Teocelo, Vera Cruz, were killed Friday by rebels who robbed the train, according to a Mexico City press dispatch to La Prensa, Spanish language newspaper here.

LABOR CONVENTION ADJOURNS

Federation in Illinois Unable to Form "Unemployed" Councils.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 13.—Making his concluding address at the forty-second annual convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, which adjourned here today, President John H. Walker, advised the delegates that the federation is powerless to form "unemployed councils" in this State. Such action, as recommended in a resolution presented by miners from Dowell, he said, could only be taken individually by the various unions, which compose the federation.

He added that the adoption of the resolution for unemployment relief, would be construed as instructing the officials to co-operate in every way possible with the unions who have unemployment programs. The resolution referred to provided "that we declare ourselves in favor of the organization of unemployed councils, which shall conduct agitation through public meetings, demonstrations and deputations sent to factories and local governmental officers for the purpose of agitating for relief for unemployed. Such unemployed councils shall consist of delegates from trade unions and other labor organizations."

LEOPOLD COLLECTION TO ELGIN

Slayer Gives Bird Specimens to Audubon Society.

By the Associated Press.

ELGIN, Ill., Sept. 13.—Nathan F. Leopold Jr., serving a life sentence in the State penitentiary for murder, has given his fine collection of ornithological specimens, about 1500 in number, to the Elgin Audubon Society, according to announcement today of B. F. Berryman, president. Berryman interviewed Leopold in the Cook County jail last week and obtained his consent. The transfer of specimens is being arranged by Attorney B. C. Bachrach, counsel for Leopold.

Leopold made one provision in the presentation of his collection to the Elgin society, that six of the finer specimens be given to Field Museum of Chicago. The Leopold collection will be housed in the local society's museum in Lord's Park.

CONSTITUTION DAY WEDNESDAY

General Observance Arranged for Sunday at Municipal Theater.

Wednesday marks the 137th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States. A committee, named to make arrangements for a suitable observance, will ask that teachers in the public and parochial schools, on Wednesady, make special mention of the occasion.

For greater public convenience, the general observance of the day has been deferred until next Sunday, Sept. 21. A meeting will be held at 3 p. m. on that day in the Municipal Theater, and several speakers will deliver addresses. Gen. E. J. Spence is chairman of the committee, named by Mayor Kiel, and other members are L. W. Baldwin, W. Palmer Clarkson, Chancellor Hadley, Mrs. Philip N. Moore, Charles J. Riley, M. L. Wilkinson, H. D. McBride, W. Frank Carter, A. L. Shapleigh, Arthur Siegel and Herman Spoehrer.

Twins Die Within 24 Hours.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Sept. 13.—When Mrs. Florence Miller Sandidge, wife of Dr. J. C. Sandidge of Mulberry, learned that her twin brother, Clarence Q. Miller, probably could not recover from an illness with which he had been stricken, she was so shocked that her death occurred shortly before 7 o'clock yesterday morning. At 12:30 o'clock this morning the brother died. Mrs. Sandidge and Mr. Miller were heirs to one of the largest fortunes in Southeastern Kansas, that established b W. L. Miller, pioneer of Mulberry. They were 52 years old.

EDUCATION BOARD ATTACKED BY HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS

Financial Statement in Explanation of Refusal to Grant Pay Increase Called Misleading.

PLAN TO AROUSE PUBLIC SENTIMENT

Assert They Have No Intention to "Acquiesce in Any Such Disposition of Their Request."

The action of the Board of Education in refusing last Tuesday to grant increases in salary to high school teachers, as requested, is criticised in a formal statement to the public issued last night by the High School Teachers' Association.

"Words are inadequate to express the disappointment" of the teachers, it is stated. The statement continued:

"We are amazed beyond measure that the Board of Education pleads a lack of funds as the reason for disapproving the salary recommendations of the Superintendent of Instruction. We are amazed for two reasons: First, that we are unable to understand how the board figures that there is any lack of necessary funds; second, that the board would justify its action upon the basis of inadequate funds when for four years the high school teachers have tried to impress upon the board the need of planning its financial program so as to make it possible to pay the teachers adequately.

Board's Explanation Criticised.

"The Board of Education has made no attempt to explain its action on the salary question by making with the representatives of the high school teachers a critical analysis of its financial conditions. Aside from having access to the official records, we have received from the board only such information as has been brought to public attention through the press reports of interviews given by the president of the board. This information, as everybody knows, has no meaning or value as an explanation to the general public of the board's financial condition. Judging from these reported interviews, one would be forced to conclude that the public schools of St. Louis are bankrupt. The public is led to believe that the two new high schools now under construction must be paid for from this year's income. As a matter of fact, as we understand, the funds to pay for these buildings, and all others, had to be in the treasury and set aside for that purpose before any contract was let, or could be let. These funds have been accumulating for three or four years. The Roosevelt High School is nearly completed and as nearly paid for.

"If, as the board contends, a lack of funds prevents the increase of salaries, it is inexcusable for the board to be compelled to deny the high school teachers their increases upon that score. For four years the teachers have tried to impress upon the board their needs, and for four years their solicitations have been ignored. In April, 1923, despite the protest of the High School Teachers' Association, the board reduced the school tax and so cut off nearly $350,000 of last year's possible income. Yet within a few weeks' time we were denied the increase on the plea of no funds, and now again, more than a year later, the board says—'In order to dispose of the question of the several recommendations for general increases of salaries, it is the sense of the Committee of the Whole, on account of the present condition of finances of the Board of Education, that no general increases should be made at this time in the salaries of any department. It is the further sense of the committee, of there be any case of individual injustice as to salary in any department, that the head of such department be requested to refer the matter to the board through his committee.'

Unjustly Treated, They Say.

"In view of the fact that the high school teachers have pressed this question for so many years, and have borne patiently the financial embarassment caused by inadequate pay, the board need look no further for isolated cases of injustice. The high scool teachers cannot help but feel that unjust treatment has been meted out to all of them, and the Board of Education may as well understand that the high school teachers have no intention to acquiesce in any such disposition of their salary request, the justice and propriety of which is now completely vindicated by the superintendent's recommendation."

Hugh H. Barr, president of the High School Teachers' Association, said the declaration that "The Board of Education may as well understand that the high school teachers have no intention to acquiesce in any such disposition of their salary request," was not to be interpreted as a threat to strike. The teachers, he said, merely deny that the salary question has been "disposed of," as the board intimated. The teachers plan to continue their campaign to arouse public sentiment in their favor.

OLD ILLINOIS PAPER SUSPENDS WHEN ONE MAN STAFF RESIGNS

W. W. Bloss Quits Cairo Bulletin for New Job in Indiana.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., Sept. 13. — The Cairo Bulletin, one of the oldest daily newspapers in Illinois and the only morning paper south of Springfield, today was forced to suspend publication for the first time in the 56 years of its existence because it had no editorial staff.

The staff, himself, W. W. Bloss, son of a St. Louis newspaper man, resigned today to become city editor of the Logansport (Ind.) Morning Press. For the past month Bloss has been city editor of the Bulletin, acting managing editor, editorial writer and business manager due to the resignations of the men who formerly filled those positions. In the absence of the owner of the paper, H. E. Halliday, prominent grain man, their positions had not been filled.

An announcement issued by the Bulletin this morning stated:

"With this issue the Bulletin will suspend publication temporarily. As soon as an editorial staff capable of continuing the traditional policy of the paper has been gathered together, publication will be resumed."

An effort will be made to hold the mechanical force together until the editorial and business departments are able to function again.

The exodus of department heads started with the retirement about two months ago of E. W. Thielecke, veteran editor, who attracted attention through his scathing attack on the Ku Klux Klan. A month later Clyde Sullivan, business manager, resigned to enter another line of business. Bloss, in addition to carrying on his own duties as city editor, shouldered the burden of the positios vacated by Thielecke and Sullivan until today. Lawrence Kelly, reporter also resigned today to resume his studies at St. Louis University.

Bloss was given a farewell dinner by the Cairo Kiwanis Club.

MRS. SARAH RAWLINS DEAD

Resident of St. Louis Since 1853; Six Grandsons Pallbearers.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Rawlings, who died Friday at the age of 96 years, will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. at the Second Baptist Church. Six of her grandsons will be pallbearers.

Mrs. Rawlings had been a resident of St. Louis since 1853, and had been a widow more than 50 years. She lived in recent years at the home of a daughter, Mrs. George W. Dudley, 5237 Waterman avenue. Her husband, George Shepherd Rawlings, was in business in St. Louis up to the time of his death in 1873, and had interests in the Northwest, being one of the founders of Silver City, Mont. Of their seven children, four now survive, Mrs. Dudley and two other daughters, Mrs. Emma Kate de Courcy and Mrs. Annie R. Teuscher, and a son, Arthur D. Rawlings. Thre are 14 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Huge Pipe Organ Being Installed.

Installation of the massive pipe organ at the recently completed $2,000,000 Scottish Rite Temple on Lindell boulevard, just west of Grand, has begun. It will be completed in time for demonstration the latter part of October. For that event an organist of national fame will be engaged. There are to be two concerts, one for members of the Rite and their families, the other for the general public.

Honolulu Powder Magazine Burned

HONOLULU, Sept. 13.—As a spectacular finale to defense test day, the powder magazine at Schofield Barracks, near here, ignited early this morning, apparently spontaneously, and in two hours had completely burned out. The loss was estimated at $300,000.

DEFECT IN MOTORS DELAYS FLIGHT OF ZR-3 TO U. S.

Five Engines to Be Dismantled for Repairs; Dirigible May Not Start Until October.

By

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 13.—The trans-atlantic flight of the dirigible ZR-3 has been postponed until late in September or early in October. This announcement was made after a day's cruise, when another defect was found in the motors.

The five engines will be dismantled and the ZR-3 will not make its thirty-hour demonstration flight before Sept. 24.

The motor trouble was caused by a defect in the thrust bearings of the crank shaft in the rear motor. Owing to this defect the Maybach engineers requested time so that they might remedy the trouble and change the thrust bearings on all the motors. It is estimated that the work will require a week longer.

The ship was in the air this afternoon for five hours cruising over the most part over the lake region, making various tests of equipment.

ERMANY MAY APPLY FOR ADMISSION TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS WITHIN FEW DAYS

rnstorff and Gen. Allen Both Report Public Opinion Is Favorable—League Puts Off Arms Discussion.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

GENEVA, Sept. 13.—"German opinion is ready for the League of Nations," says Gen. Tasker H. Allen, who has just arrived in Geneva after a fortnight in Germany.

"I wouldn't be surprised," he continued, "if the German Government decided within the next few days to ask for admission to the League.

"It is not easy for the German government to take this step, though the Government and the people back it are already prepared to take it. The difficulty lies in the fear of a rebuff. Germany is touchy about its position and not as an equal, so there is a feeling on the German side of being treated as a small second rate power.

"These fears were not for that. I am sure Germany would be in the League of Nations very quickly. Hundreds of people I talked with in Bremen, Hamburg and Berlin gave me no doubt of the German desire to enter the League.

Swing in Last Month.

Count Bernsdorff, who has been for years the President of the German League of Nations Union, arrived in Geneva, and he also says Germany has swung around practically during the past month. Germany is much nearer to applying to the League than many of us," Count Bernsdorff declared. "Big business and the big shareholders have decided for the League. They forced the Nationalists to accept the London accord and will do the same with the Geneva question.

"From everything I hear in Berlin, Germany can be sure of being received into the League and of the importance of a first-class power.

"With that settled, the Marx government may decide to act at once," Count Bernsdorff concluded. "Compulsory arbitration and the sanctions necessary to make it effective probably will be agreed to by a practical form before the end of the present assembly of the league. Disarmament will be carried out by a general disarmament conference, which the league will call at the end of the present assembly here.

"Compulsory arbitration, providing penalties for sanctions agreeable to and realizable, is considered certainly. The general assurance of compulsory arbitration given by Great Britain and France has been repeated in the committee and subcommittees which are working on a compromise, and the declarations are falling into line. Britain and France Closer.

"Economic sanctions—a boycott, for instance—have been agreed to by the British, having in principle gained the support of the French for the contended British proposals to seizure on the high seas in the event of Great Britain and France are much closer together on the question of military sanctions. At the meeting of the subcommittee of the Third Committee this afternoon the British and French contentions on military sanctions were altered and Dr. Benes of Czecho-Slovakia was drawn to combine them into a possible form.

"Progress is successful there will be a first meeting Monday afternoon between the subcommittees of the First and Third Committees, which means a final draft of an arbitration and security protocol based on the covenant of the League approaching a form which will be presented to the Assembly. Agreement has been facilitated by imposing the whole question of disarmament until the disarmament conference to which all members of the League signing the arbitration-security protocol will be invited to come.

"America and Germany, whether in or out of the league, will be there.

Win Debate in Assembly Committee on Security.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 13.—Differences were characterized the meeting today of the subcommittee of the League of Nations Assembly charged to draft a project of security and disarmament, either in addition for or amendment of the Briand pact of mutual assistance which now has been before the League of Nations for three years.

Finally the French won the day, that is, that any convention relating to arbitration and security should be distinct and separate. It would be clearly understood that when the Powers signed the convention they pledged themselves to take part in a disarmament conference.

A dramatic incident of the meeting was the statement of Rene Viviani, France, honorary president of the Federal Union of Mutual Former Combatants, that the men who fought in the great war stood solidly as one in behalf of acceptance of arbitration in all conflicts between nations.

Security through arbitration was the keynote of a speech with which Desmond Fitzgerald, of the Irish Free State Cabinet enlivened the discussions by the disarmament commission.

The slim, youthful red-haired Irish Foreign Minister enriching his remarks with dashes of typical celtic spiciness, faced the British delegation smiling in friendly fashion across the narrow table as he proceeded and when the speech was translated into French all the delegates joined in expressions of keen enjoyment.

"When it comes to doing business," he continued, "I think we shall get on better if we consider insecurity rather than security. Instead of speaking of security and arbitration we might speak of security by arbitration."

"If we all stand for right and justice," he added, "Then we have nothing to fear."

The Irish Minister's allusion to "Our old friend, France, and our new friend, England," delivered in the face of the British delegation, provoked hearty applause.

SHIFT IN POSITION BY STRESEMANN MAY SAVE CABINET

By SAMUEL SPEWACK,
Berlin Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Foreign Minister Stresemann receded abruptly last night from the sensational position he had taken up yesterday with regard to the proclamation of Germany's war innocence, and her entry into the League of Nations.

By thus softening the harshness of his first utterances to Berlin editors, Stresemann has probably averted the smash of the Marx Cabinet which this morning appeared inevitable.

Whether the Chancellor, who is still away from Berlin, will find it possible to continue in collaboration with his too outspoken colleague, will become known after the Cabinet meeting scheduled for Monday under the chairmanship of President Ebert.

In talking with German newspaper men this afternoon, Foreign Minister Stresemann said his remarks immediately after his return from his vacation last night have been misconstrued. He did not insist on an immediate transmission of a diplomatic note denying the Kaiser's war guilt, he indicated, nor was he opposed to Germany joining the League so long as she was assured a seat on the league council—and that this act was not to be taken to imply reacceptance of the war guilt clauses in the Versailles treaty.

Realizing how the Nationalists welcomed his previous declarations, which called for the immediate dispatch of the proposed note, simply because it promised to wreck the Marx Cabinet and give them a chance at inheriting the executive power, Stresemann lost no time in regaining his own imperilled equilibrium by drawing in his horns.

He was made to see that any personal victory over the Chancellor which he might achieve, would not keep him in office if Admiral Tirpitz and his followers got control of things.

In the meanwhile, it is learned that the Catholic Church has intervened through one of the German Cardinals, to prevent Marx's downfall, not only because the Chancellor is himself a good Catholic, but also because his participation in league affairs would assist the Vatican's ambition itself to be admitted to membership in the League of Nations. This was pointed out to Stresemann today on the Cardinal's behalf.

It has also become known that the Socialist leader, Greitscheid, was the bearer of Chancellor Marx's letters to Herriot and MacDonald at Geneva. Assigning this role to Breitscheid obviously strengthens the Cabinet ties with the Socialists and further antagonizes the Nationalists.

LEFT-HAND TURNS TO BE TABOO IN DOWNTOWN CHICAGO

Street Cars and Busses to Be Rerouted Before Order Goes Into Effect.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Left-hand turns in the traffic of the downtown district will be eliminated within a few weeks, Superintendent of Police Collins announced today. Rerouting of street cars entering the congested central district will start tomorrow, to be followed by routing of busses, and then the motor traffic will be taken up, the Chief said.

Confers on Problems of Jews.

David A. Brown of Detroit, will confer here tomorrow and Tuesday with a group of prominent Jews on problems confronting Jewish citizens in this country. He is chairman of a National Committee of twenty-five to devise plans for the strengthening of the work of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, an organization devoted to the advancement of liberal Judaism in America.

ART AND SCIENCE CLASSES TO BE RESUMED THURSDAY

Several Changes in Personnel of Faculty; Enrolment of 400 Expected.

The College of Arts and Sciences of St. Louis University will resume classes Thursday, with the annual registration being held tomorrow, and advance indications point to 400 young men in this branch of the Grand avenue institution. More than one-third of these are students in the pre-medical scientific course who eventually will work their way into the school of medicine.

Several changes have been made in the personnel of the faculty of the college, one being due to the appointment of the Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S. J., to be president of the university. His former work as professor of philisophy will be taken over by the Rev. James J. O'Regan, S. J.

William D. Cummings, Ph. D., of the Catholic University at Washington, will be instructor in psychology; Thomas E. Larkin, Ph. D., also of the Catholic University, will assume the duties of registrar; Clarence T. Hagerty, M. S., of the State University of New Mexico, will be instructor in mathematics, and William Schrier, A. M., of the University of Michigan, instructor in public speaking. The Rev. Leo J. Vollmayer, S. J., will be instructor in physics, Joseph M. Egan, S. J., instructor in Greek and Latin, and Joseph A. Ormsby, S. J., instructor in English.

CAN'T RECOVER LOSS FROM BOOSTER OF WORTHLESS STOCK

Belleville Jury Decides Against Woman Who Sued Man She Said Advised Her to Buy.

An investment of $1000, which Mrs. Helena Obernagel made in purchasing coal mining stock that proved worthless, is not recovarable from the man who accompanied the salesman and upon whose advice she claims to have invested, a jury in the Circuit Court at Belleville held last week.

She had sued for that amount against Herman Neff, a contractor, of Belleville, alleging that Neff accompanied Anthony Jakoubeck to her home, when Jakoubeck induced her to buy $1000 worth of stock in the Star Coal Mining Co. of Freeburg.

She alleged that Neff, on her inquiry, replied the stock was a good investment and that he intended to purchase some himself. Neff denied accompanying Jakoubeck to sell the stock, but said he went along merely for the automobile ride. The coal company failed. Five other members of the Obernagel family, who made investments of $1000 each, have similar suits against Neff.

REPUBLICANS IN FEAR OF AN EARLY CORN BELT FROST

"Would Spell Disaster for Coolidge," but the Weather Bureau Is Unable to Help Them.

"WHY DID THEY WAIT TO PUT UP PRICES?"

Question of Farmers Who See Hand of Food Speculators in Advanced Quotations on Grain.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Republican leaders today were anxiously studying the weather maps and endeaoring to work out an average calculation of when frost might be expected in the Middlg West. Reports coming in from the Mississippi Valley have brought consternation to the Republican leaders and are to the effect that La Follette is making inroads upon their forces—in normally Republican states.

Increased prices for wheat have encouraged the Republican strategists but in the corn belt there is already a crop shortage and experts say an early frost will spell disaster to the Coolidge cause.

It is for this reason that recourse is being had to the Weather Bureau where little comfort is offered on the ground that the bureau does ont indulge in long-range forecasting. Without a frost, Coolidge has a chance, is the slogan, while an early frost will work to the advantage of La Follette or Davis.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa was a Washington visitor today. Reports brought here by him and other visitors from the West all tell of increasing La Follette strength. The Iowa Senator, who is believed to be giving quiet encouragement to the La Follette cause, was significantly silent on the Coolidge issue. The Senator is devoting himself fervently to his own campaign and says there is keen interest in his section evidenced by the innumerable meetings which the farmers are holding. Senator Brookhart said he had addressed 130 of them, while he had declined initations to address 200 more because of lack of time.

Why Not Long Ago?

The La Follette forces deny the increased prices for wheat or corn will affect the political situation in the Mississippi Valley States. They say their reports are to the effect the farmers are saying that, if the food speculators can gamble up the prices of grain now, why didn't they do it long ago. Senator Brookhart joins with the avowed La Follette people in believing the rise in the price of wheat and corn will not affect the political results.

The forces of organized labor supporting La Follette and Wheeler are concentrating their offensive against Charles E. Dawes in the Middle West. The recent speech of Dawes in Milwaukee, where he described La Follette as a demagogue, is regarded as inviting attention to Dawes, regarded by the Progressives as the weakest spot in the Republican armament.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, before leaving for New York tonight to confer with President Samuel Gompers, said:

"The circus performance of Gen. Dawes is making votes for La Follette, though, of course, that is not what Dawes is trying to do. His condemnation of every Progressive feature as 'Socialistic' shows his utter ignorance of political philosophies and his complete determination to protect big business to the limit. Being connected with one of the powreful banks of Chicago, this is natural."

Movement for Davis.

An aggressive movement in support of John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate, has been started under the leadership of William B. Wilson, former Secretary of Labor. An organization known as the "Davis Congressional Colleagues Club" has been formed for the purpose of calling attention to the splendid record of the Congress in which Davis served. It is made up of former members of that Congress.

The leaders of the club are Gen. Isaac Sherwood of Ohio, a veteran of the Civil War, and Major Charles M. Stedman of North Carolina, a Confederate veteran, who are the oldest living members of Congress and who served in the House of Representatives with Davis. Two former chairmen of the Democratic National Committee, who also served with Davis in Congress, are vice chairman of the club, namely Cordell Hull and George White. James Cox, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920, is a prominent member of the club.

"Mr. Davis, during his Congressional service," said Wilson "achieved marked distinction by his work on the judiciary committee of the House of Representatives, where his outstanding legal ability brought him rapidly to the front as a leader in the important tasks that developed when the national government broke away from the reactionary influences of the Taft and Cannon regime and assumed progressive and agressively constructive force under Democratic leadersip.

Davis and Legislation.

"He took an active interest in workmen's compensation legislation and assisted in securing the passage of the measure through that Sixty-second Congress. It passed both houses but too late to even get into conference. At the beginning of the Sixty-third Congress he re-introduced the compensation bill, H. R. 21, with certain amendments and made an argment in favor of the measure on June 27, 1913.

"In the Sixty-second Congress he prepared the final draft of the anti-injunction and anti-consrirracy features of the Clayton anti-Trust bill for presentation to the committee. On May 14, 1912, he made an extended speech in which he dealt exclusively with the anti-injunction features of the bill.

"On July 9, 1912, he made a speech in Congress defending the merits of the bill to provide trial by jury in contmpt cases where the alleged contempt did not occur in the immediate presence of the court and made a strong legal argument sustaining the constitutionality of the measure."

RAIL LABOR BOARD ACTS TO AVERT STRIKE ON PENN ROAD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Action taken by the United States Railroad Labor Board today may result in staving off a threatened strike of the telegraphers of the Pennsylvania railway. Upon learning that a committee of the road's telegraphers had voted unanimously to take a strike vote as the outcome of a wage fight, Chairman Ben W. Hooper immediately called a session of the board, at which it will be decided to assume jurisdiction of the dispute.

The ground upon which jurisdiction was assumed was the same as that upon which the board recently assumed jurisdiction of the wage dispute between Western lines and their engineers and firemen, that a strike would result in tying up transportation. The board set Sept. 22 for a hearing in the telegrapher's case.

E. J. Manion, head of the railway telegraphers, informed the board that the committee had unanimously voted to call a strike subject to his approval. The board cited for appearance at the hearing representatives of the road's telegraphers' committee, of which J. E. Hindmarch of Troy, Ill., is chairman.

While the telegraphers' dispute is said to mainly concern itself with wages and rules, the question of recognition of the union also is involved.

U. R. EMPLOYES GET BIG SAVINGS DIVIDEND

Many Members of Loan Association Are Building or Buying Homes.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the United Railways Savings and Loan Association last week, a semiannual dividend was declared at the rate of 6 per cent interest per annum to accounts of stockholders as of record of Aug. 31, 1924, amounting to $71,000. This brings the total dividends paid for the past 12 months up to $134,700, making a grand total of $487,000 that has been paid to members of the association since it was organized nine years ago. The association never has paid less than 6 per cent interest compounded semi-annually, and has paid a dividend every six months.

The 5369 members are employes of the United Railways Co. and members of their families. The purpose is to assist members to acquire homes of their own, in which the association has been very successful, having placed 1558 members in their own homes, and by the plan of operation enabled one stockholder to do business with another and divide the profits among themselves.

With the profits earned and credited to the stockholders, together with the stockholders' monthly deposits or savings, many members reach the objective where they are in a position to pay the down money on a home.

At a special meeting of stockholders Tuesday, the capital stock will be increased from $8,000,000 to $9,000,000. This will make the second million dollars in authorized capital stock that has been voted in the past 12 months, which is occasioned by the big demand for homes from employes of the United Railways Co. and others who desire to start saving for this purpose.

At the recent annual stockholders' meeting of the United Railways Savings and Loan Association the following directors were chosen for the ensuing year: Martin Arhelger, Thomas Benish, William L. Brizius, Walter E. Bryan, William P. Cushman, F. C. Irwin, John M. Jaas, Robert J. Richardson, John Rippen, Paul B. Rippetoe, Lawrence D. Simon, James Stewart, George Thomson, E. P Walsh, Frank A. Wilson. Walter E. Bryan is president and Robert J. Richardson secretary and treasurer.

BUILDING PROGRAM FOR RUSSELL PARK

Erection of Many Apartments and Bungalows Being Planned.

Construction calling for an outlay of $300,000 is to be launched at once in Russell Park, it was announced yesterday by S. C. Hardin, general manager of the Security Guarantor Realty Co., subdivision owners.

Sixteen apartment buildings are to be erected on Miami street, 11 double by E. O. Wells, and 5 single apartments by the French Contracting Co. These buildings will be of high order of construction.

A total of 30 bungalows is to be erected. John Gilbane will build five buildings of this type on Tholozan, F. S. Devereux will build five on Oleatha and the Johnson Construction Co., 10 on the west side of Russell place either on Fairview, Potomac or Oleatha street. The Caldewey Construction Co. has five 5-room bungalows and one 4-family apartment under construction, while others already have broken ground or perfected plans for buildings of these types.

A. W. James is building a 5-room bungalow on Park avenue, and Albert A. Kuhn one on Tholozan.

The sewer system of Russell Park will be completed in its entirety in 10 days, and the sidewalks within the next 30 days, according to Hardin. The Riley Contracting Co. and the Reed and Steuver Co., respectively, have the contracts for this work. Construction of water and gas mains, as well as streets, will be started within the next 90 days, Hardin announced.

The Security Guarantor Co. has met with notable success in the sale of Russell Park, only a sprinkling of the lots remaining unsold in this addition, due, perhaps to the fact that the subdivision is situated only two blocks west of Grand boulevard and only five blocks south of Tower Grove Park on Arsenal street, on Russell place.

Russell place will be built through first, thus forming the main artery from Arsenal street to Gravois avenue for many who will travel Russell place to avoid the congestion of Grand boulevard in reaching Gravois avenue.

RESIDENCE OF NORMAN BROWN IS APPROACHING COMPLETION

The residence of Norman Brown, 7360 Westmoreland drive, in Maryland Terrace, now nearing completion, is one of the largest semi-suburban homes in this sub-division. Study & Farrar, architects, designed the house, which is about 110 feet in length, long and low and built near the ground after the manner of English houses. The walls are of hollow tile and plaster with cut stone trimmings. This front entrance doorway is an unusually happy combination of brick and Bedford cut stone. Above the door is a sun dial. Leading from the entrance hall on one side is a long living room with three exposures, the walls in a semi-rough old English plaster. The fireplace is of Bedford stone. At the end of the living room looking out over the city at the East, is a large bay. The entrance hall floor is covered with Moravian tile. The stairway leading to the second floor is wrought iron and esnecially interesting in the execution of its detail. Off the end of the living room are a run room and a dining room Back of the dining room are the breakfast room, pantry and service quarters.

The second floor contains a master's suite of large bedroom, dressing room, private bath and sleeping porch. There are in addition to this four bedrooms with intercommunicating bathrooms. Servants' quarters are on the third floor. The choice of materials, color scheme and the selection of the variegated colors of the slate roof present what may be called the very best taste in our modern domestic architecture. The house will cost more than $50,000.

MOTION PICTURES TO SHOW MAKING OF MAJESTIC HOMES

Francis R. Lowther, advertising manager of Majestic Homes Corporation, will address the Women's Advertising Club, at their luncheon meeting, Monday, Sept. 15, in the Daniel Boone parlor, Hotel Statler, demonstrating, with motion pictures, the creation of a modern community.

A complete record of the Majestic Homes operation: surveyors laying out the city; immense grading machines loading dirt into dump wagons, giant oak trees blasted out by dynamite; logs and temporary buildings moved away by caterpillar tractors; teams and tractors competing in excavating cellars; concrete mixing machines pouring foundations, bricklayers and carpenters in action, trenching machine, eating its way through the ground, for the sewers; laying the concrete streets over steel re-inforcements; panorama views of the start and finish, from the virgin forest to a completed city.

All the various steps in the home building operation shown in an educational way in motion pictures. Lowther says these pictures will be preserved and duplicates of them placed in the public libraries, as a record of the construction methods of this age.

U. S. POLO TEAM WINS FIRST GAME FROM BRITONS, 16-5

Giants Rout Sothoron to Beat Cards

Victory by 12 to 2 Score Enables McGraw's Men to Increase Lead Over Dodgers to Full Game.

By G. W. Daley,
Of the New York World Sport Staff

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Overwhelmed by a tidal wave of Giant hits which engulfed Allan Sothoron and Herman Bell, the Cardinals went down to defeat in the second game of the series this afternoon by a score of 12 to 2. A crowd of 55,000 roared more over the scores of the Pittsburg and Brooklyn games than over the one before their eyes after George Kelly hit a homer into the left field stands in the third and gave the Giants a winning lead over Sothoron, the man who beat them the last time the Cardinals were here.

With the Dodgers losing to the Reds, the victory enabled the McGrawmen to increase their lead over the Brooklyn entry to a full game. Prior to the battle, the Giants were pacing Robinson's crew by a single point.

Sothoron's spitter wasn't working today, and the Giants had little trouble in hitting his curves hither and yon. Herman Bell tried his hand in the sixth, got two men out and then was whaled for three hard hits, including a double, before he was taken out. Rhem would have been a fair choice, but for his wildness. He couldn't keep the ball anywhere near the plate and the Giants took full advantage of his unsteadiness.

Bentley Hurls Well.

Bentley pitched a steady game for the Giants. Bottomley made a home run in the fourth, but no other Cardinal found the plate till the eighth when Thevenow worked around. There might have been more runs in this frame, but Hornsby, who apparently has lost his batting eye completely, and Bottomley, fell down in the pinch.

Hack Wilson led the Giants to their first count. He caught a fast pitch by Sothoron on the nose and drove to center for a three-bagger in the second with one out. Jackson sent him in with a fly-ball fly, of which Blades made a fine capture.

Nine Giants went to bat in the sixth. Groh opened with a single and Frisch popped to the infield. Young singled to right and Groh stopped at second. He got under way a moment later, as did Young, when Kelly caught one of Sothoron's spitters which refused to break and drove it deep into the upper left field stands for a home run.

Bottomley Hits Homer.

The blow unsettled Sothoron and he passed Terry. Wilson forced Tennessee Bill, but Jackson singled to left and Gowdy was passed, filling the bases. Bentley had a noble chance to clinch his game, but Sothoron pulled himself together and struck out Oriole Jack for the second time. Blades and Hornsby followed on long thrusts to the outfield for the Cardinal fourth, but Sunny Jim Bottomley caught a fast ball over and sent it far. It went on a line into the right stands for a home-bagger. Sothoron was taken out in the sixth, but the pinch hitter for him, Hi Myers, failed to do anything. Herman Bell took Al's place, and after retiring Bentley and Groh easily, fell into evil ways. Each singled and Young beat out a hit toward first, due to Bell's slowness of foot.

Hornsby tried for a fast play, but his throw went wide and each went to third and Young to second. Kelly was passed and with the bags full, Terry emptied them with a line double. After Wilson was walked, the bells rang for Bell and Rhem took his place. Jackson immediately doubled against the left field wall, scoring Terry and putting Wilson on third. Hank Gowdy singled to center, counting Jackson Bill and Virginia Hack then stole second. This unusual feat went to waste, however, as Bentley struck out for the third time.

Thevenow Gets Double.

Thevenow opened the Cards eighth with a fluke double to right when was a fly ball victim of Kelly's, but Rhem drew a pass. Blades lined a single to left which sent Thevenow. Hornsby connected in his stump by forcing Blades on a crash to the box, and Bottomley struck out.

Art Nehf is liable to be the Giant pitcher today, while Jess Haines is scheduled to work for the Cardinals.

Browns Win From Boston, 6-0, Then Lose Town-Lot Game, 13-11

Replay of Protested Contest All a Mistake—Davis Turns in a Shutout, Aided by Five Double Plays.

By J. Roy Stockton,

George Sisler's Browns and the Red Sox of Lee Fohl divided a doubleheader yesterday afternoon. The Browns gained a victory in the opening contest because of Dixie Davis' fine pitching and five double plays by the St. Louis infield. The score was 6 to 0. In the second game, the Browns could not find a pitcher who could stop the attack of the Boston team and so Lee Fohl's charges won, 13 to 11.

When George Sisler protested the game of July 28, because Umpire Brick Owens would not let McMillan bat when it was his turn to bat, the Brownie supporters were glad.

One game might make a difference. The Browns still had a chance to win the pennant. The box office was glad because a doubleheader in September could be expected to draw a goodly crowd to the ball park.

All a Mistake.

But it was all a mistake. That protest accomplished nothing except the heaping of extra work on everybody concerned. The game originally was won by the sand lot score of 10 to 5 and the brand of baseball yesterday was no better. The replay merely made the players do a little overtime and it was fitting that Owens, whose bonehead work had necessitated the replay, was assigned to handle the games of yesterday.

Not even the box office had occasion to rejoice. Late September this year means nothing in a rooter's life and the stands appeared empty with only 7500 persons attending.

The first game started at 1:30 o'clock and it was 6:15 and the shades of night were doing their stuff when the last out was made.

Browns Turn Five Double Plays.

There was nothing but Davis and the Browns to the first game. Dixie held the Sox to seven hits and kept them well scattered. He gave one hit in the first, one in the second and two in the fifth.

Taking those two hits off Davis as an indication that Dixie was about to weaken, the Brownie infield began to do its fancy work, and in each inning from the sixth on the St. Louis inner line of defense turned a double play. They made five twin killings in the game.

Fullerton pitched the first game for the Sox and made it a contest until the seventh. The Browns scored a run in the second on two singles and an error and another in the fifth on a walk and Gene Robertson's double.

Then in the seventh Fullerton lost control. He walked Davis with one out.

It is always fatal to walk a pitcher or a weak batter and this was no exception. Tobin doubled and Robertson walked, filling the bases. Sisler hit to Ezzell and

Reds Win Over Dodgers, 6 to 5

BROOKLYN, Sept. 13.—Brooklyn lost to Cincinnati today by 6 to 5 and slipped a game behind the Giants. Grimes was hit freely throughout, but was supported by timely hitting. In the tenth, Walker doubled and Bressler and Pinelli singled. Ehrhardt relieved Grimes and retired the next two men, but the hits off Grimes had scored Walker with the winning run.

FIRPO PREPARING TO FIGHT DEPORTATION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13. — Luis Angel Firpo, awaiting deportation proceedings which will begin Monday at Ellis Island, said today that he would give all of his attention to defending himself against the charges before considering plans for future fights.

Firpo has remained in seclusion with friends except for conferences with his lawyer.

BALTIMORE CLINCHES 5TH SUCCESSIVE PENNANT

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13.—For the fifth consecutive year the International League pennant will remain with the Baltimor Orioles. The Orioles clinched the championship when they divided a double-header with the Reading club.

The Baltimore team could lose every game of the remaining schedule and still have an edge over the Toronto club.

U. S. Golf Team Wins Walker Cup

Americans Capture 9 of 12 Matches — Marston and Sweetser Are Defeated in Individual Clashes.

By the Associated Press.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 13.—By winning nine matches out of 12 in the two-day tournament ending today, leading American amateur golfers have captured the Walker Cup, emblematic of international team supremacy for the United States for another year.

It was the third victory for America in the three years of the competition.

The United States won six out of eight singles today and three of four foursomes yesterday, all the matches being at 36 holes over the heavily trapped course of the Garden City Golf Club, where the superior irons, back spin shots and putting of the Americans counted heavily.

The defeated Americans today were the national amateur champion, Max R. Marston of Philadelphia, and the New York star, Jess Sweetser, former amateur champion.

Tolley Defeats Marston.

Martson was defeated at the home green by another giant in stature and the mightiest hitter of the 20 players who took part in the tournament, Cyril Tolley, captain of the British team and French open champion.

The margin by which Sweetser lost was the greatest of any match in the series. He was defeated by the Hon. Michael Scott, who has held various Australian titles, by 7 and 6.

Robert T. Jones Jr., of Atlanta, former open champion, defeated Maj. Charles O. Hezzlet, 4 and 3.

Charles Evans Jr. of Chicago defeated W. A. Murray, 2and 1.

Francis Ouimet of Boston defeated E. F. Storey, one up.

Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, of the American team, defeated W. L. Hope, 3 and 2.

Jesse P. Guilford of Boston defeated T. A. Torrance, 2 and 1.

Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, Ore., defeated Dennis H. Kyle, 3 and 2.

The British had the almost impossible task today of winning at least five and one-half matches to take the cup home and their failure to do so was apparent in the afternoon when three of the first five matches to end had resulted in American victories. The British had a chance, however, after the morning round, for they led at lunch in two matches, the Americans led in three and three were even. No lead was then decisive except Scott's.

Tolley Thrills Gallery.

The victory of Cyril Tolley over Marston delighted the gallery, which received big thrills for two days from his shots. He putted badly in the foursomes yesterday but today supplemented his tee shots with good work on the greens. Marston, who is no mean hitter, was constantly outdriven.

Bobby Jones, after wavering at the start and enabling Maj. Hezzlet to hold him even in the morning, returned to form in the afternoon and played machine-like golf. As the result of going to the turn in the afternoon in 36, one under par, and equal to the day's best medal for that nine, he was 3 up and the result of the match was never in doubt after the first few afternoon holes. Jones outdrove Hezzlet by 10 to 50 yards, and the Major had nothing to compare with Bobby's back spin.

Ouimet and Storey Star.

The best golf of the day was the match between Francis Ouimet, former amateur, champion, and E. F. Storey, Cambridge University captain, who plays while smoking a pipe and wearing kid gloves. Each had the best medal of the day for the round, Storey having a par 73 in the morning and leading 2 up at lunch and Ouimet having a 73 in the afternoon.

The Garden City course, which puts a premium on accuracy, is made for a golfer of the excellence of Chick Evans with irons and while his match with Murray was close, the result was never in doubt. Evans had a lead of one hole in the morning and never lost the lead. The match ended at the seventeenth green when he laid up a chip and sank a seven-foot putt for a birdie four.

Jess Sweetser could not putt today and his opponent, Michael Scott, was off the course only

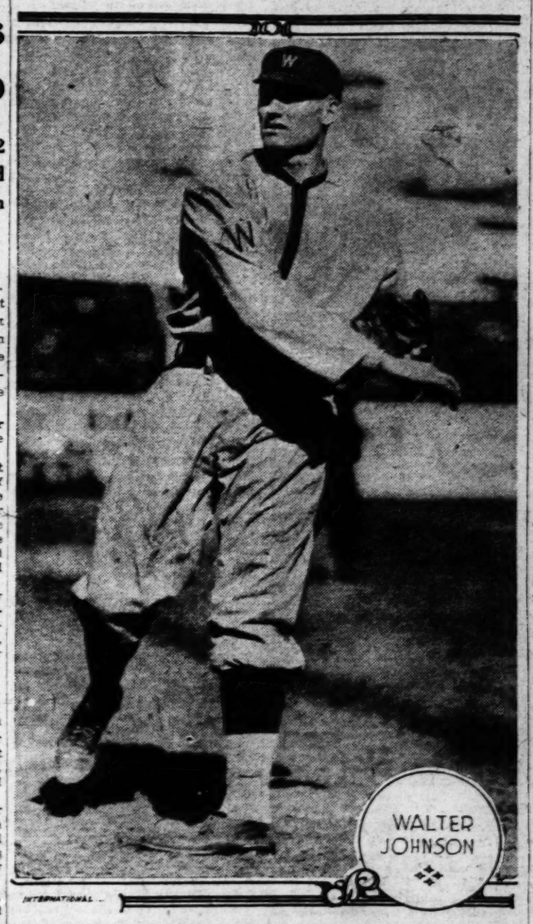
Most Valuable Player in A. L.



Walter Johnson Named as Most Valuable Player in the A. L.

Washington's Star Pitcher Chosen by Trophy Committee to Succeed Babe Ruth—Eddie Collins Second in Competition, Six Votes Behind Victor.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.

WALTER JOHNSON, pitching ace with the Washington club for 17 years, tonight was selected as the winner of the American League Trophy for 1924, which crowns him as the player of greatest value to his team during the championship season just closing.

Johnson's name goes into baseball's hall of fame along with George Sisler, manager of the St. Louis club, chosen the greatest player of the 1922 season, and Babe Ruth of the Yankee, who was awarded the honor in 1923. Johnson received a total of 55 points out of a possible total of 64 from the expert committee chosen to make the award.

Eddie Collins of Chicago, long-time king of second basemen, ran a close second in the balloting with a total of 49 points.

Collins was picked by all eight members of the Trophy Committee as the best player on the White Sox.

Johnson's name will be inscribed in the 1924 tablet on the $100,000 Baseball Memorial to be erected in East Potomac Park, Washington, and presented to the Government by the American League as a memorial to the nation's greatest sport and a hall of fame for its greatest players. As a personal testimonial of the honor conferred on him, the winner will be presented a diploma by the American League.

Has Won 20 Contests.

The selection of the Washington pitching ace was highly gratifying to President Ban Johnson of the American League.

Walter Johnson has been with Washington since 1907, performing uninterrupted service of the highest character, and with the Senators making a desperate fight for the pennant, has an excellent chance of rounding out his career in a blaze of glory.

The veteran, participating in 33 games to date this season, is credited with winning 20 and losing only 6, giving him an average of .769. In 244 innings, Johnson struck out 140 batters, by far the greatest number of any pitcher in the league, and confined his opponents runs to 85.

In voting for the winner, each member of the committee, except the chairman, selected the player on each team who, in his opinion, was of greatest service to his team this season, then ranked these eight best players, according to his individual estimate of their year's work, on a ballot so arranged that first place counted eight points, second place seven points, and so on down to one point for eighth place. The highest possible total for the winner is 64 points, which was reached by Babe Ruth, winner of the 1923 trophy.

YOST TO AID COACHES OF WOLVERINE ELEVEN

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 13.—Although Fielding H. (Hurry Up) Yost announced last year that this season would find him devoting his entire attention to his duties as director of athletics at the University of Michigan, the veteran Wolverine mentor said today that he again would have a hand in coaching the football team, as advisory coach.

Stevenson, Injured Late in Game, Stars For American Four Victorious Quartet Will Go Down in History as One of Best This Country Had Ever Produced, Says Expert.

By Peter Vischer
Of the New York World Staff.

MEADOWBROOK, L. I., Sept. 13.—A truly great American team overran British seekers after the international challenge cup, most desired of polo trophies, at the Meadowbrook Club today, pounding its way to an undeniable victory by 16 goals to 5.

Although the British opposition, despite the gallant efforts of Lacey, heroic even in crushing defeat, was hardly of international caliber, the victory stamped the American team as one of the greatest that ever took the field. This American team is one that will go down in history.

It would be unfair to single out any one member of the American team as standing out above his fellows. If any such choice had to be made, however, it would be Malcolm Stevenson. And he, unhappily, did not see the completion of the victory in which he played so great and so unassuming a part.

Just a few moments before the end of the game, Stevenson was thrown so heavily from his galloping pony that he was knocked unconscious for many moments. He had to be carried off the field, wrapped in a blanket, and, though a careful examination tonight showed that no bones had been broken, it was feared that he had suffered a slight concussion. His injury was not, however, considered serious.

Stevenson Proves Star.

Stevenson was an unselfish partner in the American victory. Chosen late for his place on the team, his choice criticised, he proved beyond the shadow of a doubt his right to a place among the great players of international polo. His was a difficult position between two stars who were certain to overshadow him. It is no easy task to play between young Tommy Hitchcock and the great Deveraux Milburn, two of the finest in the world, particularly when it's to be your task to back them up and see to it that nothing happens while they run wild.

Stevenson did it to perfection. He was all over. He was an important cog in the American machine, fine on the defense and, in addition, which had not been asked of him, brilliant on the offense. He scored as many goals as any man on the field, five. A No. 3 who can do that without neglecting his important pivot duties is coming through in style.

Milburn and Hitchcock were the stroking and riding giants polo lore has made of them. Their shots were long and strong, clever and, to the British, utterly bewildering. Milburn simply could not be penetrated by the British until quite late in the game, when the American captain found the going so tiresome in his backfield that he ventured out to do all sorts of things on the offense.

Lineup and Summary

United States	Position	England
J. Watson Webb	No. 1	Maj. T. W. Kirkwood

Webb's Playing of Lacey an Important Factor in Victory

Webb Plays at His Best.

Webb was at his best. His hard riding of Lacey—and a Lacey going at the speed which has earned him fame wherever polo is played—was courageous and successful. His crisp marksmanship made a constant threat, which the British could never afford to ignore. The fact that Webb kept Lacey so busy was an important factor in the American victory.

All in all, nothing more could have been asked of the American team. They played supreme polo, which neither the British challengers for the international cup nor any four players which could have been gathered from the corners of the world could have halted.

One hesitates to think what might have happened if Lacey had been out of the British lineup. Carrying his shoulder strapped in heavy leather and unsteady on his pony because of a recent attack of shingles, he was yet on a par with the best of the Americans.

Lacey Stars for Britons.

Lacey was superb. His riding was daring, at breakneck speed, courageous. His stroking was long and accurate and carried a bitter sting that told his American opponents that here was one man who wasn't licked and wouldn't be until it was all over. Lacey got little help. Kirkwood was lost beside Milburn, except during the last moments of play when Milburn let him ride as he pleased, evidently satisfied he couldn't do so very much damage.

Purndall was unhappy playing No. 2, which is natural enough when it is taken into consideration that he is really a No. 3. But one suspects that Purndall would have been unhappy in any position yesterday. He is a truly fine player, but he was helpless against such opposition as the Americans offered. The same goes for Atkinson. He is famed for long wallops and he got just two of the mall during the game.

Evens an Old Score.

The speed of the Americans left the British bewildered. Only Lacey was able to go at this pace and because he was alone, brilliant though his performance was, one could only feel sorry for him. Lacey evidently began to realize that his team was no team, for in the latter periods he just played the Americans.

The beating given the Britons was one of the worst in the history of international polo. Back in 1886, in one of the first matches for the international challenge cup, when Americans were just learning how to play this game, a British team won from America by 14 goals to two.

Today's little accounting just about evens that score.

Play-by-Play Account.

The play by chukkers:

At 4:15 Devereaux Milburn appeared on the field, looked around a moment, went off and soon came back, followed by various members of both teams. They batted balls around behind the south goal posts while the dressy gray and white band which had been entertaining the crowd from midfield marched off. A few moments more and the gong rang calling the players to their positions.

Stevenson was the first player to get a shot at the ball. After steadying himself a moment he passed to Milburn, who drove the ball toward

RICKARD DISAPPOINTED IN SHOWING MADE BY WILLS AND FIRP

Promoter Does Not Know Next Dempsey Rival

Asserts He Has Made No Promises to Any of Principals for Title Contest.

Renault Signs to Battle Wills in New York, Oct. 12

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.

JACK RENAULT, Canadian heavyweight, through his manager Leo Flynn, today issued a challenge to any heavyweight in the world, barring Jack Dempsey, for a battle to determine the right to meet the champion in a title match.

At the same time, Renault signed with Jimmy Johnston, Polo Grounds promoter, to battle Harry Wills Oct. 12.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—If anybody knows just what principals will take part in the next ring battle for the world's heavyweight championship, that person is NOT Tex Rickard, promoter of the Wills-Firpo extravaganza.

Rickard was keenly disappointed in the battle between the Pampas Bull and the Brown Panther and few ringsiders who raved at having to pay to see such a disappointing spectacle had more caustic things to say about the contest than the man who put it forward. In the opinion of Rickard neither fighter's display Thursday night warranted any enthusiastic consideration of a match with Dempsey; while the promoter was entirely displeased with the utter failure of Wills. Apparently a Wills-Dempsey title bout had been the match Rickard expected to make; but today he couldn't see either the Panther or the Bull as a "logical contender."

"I have made no promises in the matter of a championship contest to either Wills or Dempsey," Rickard told the writer today. "I may match Wills and then again it may be Firpo. But if there is any other prospect on the horizon that makes any sort of a showing, this winter, neither the Bull nor the Panther will get first call. On what I saw Thursday night I don't think either could command much attention from the public. Of the two, though, I would rather favor the Argentine."

Tough on Promoter.

The Jersey City affair was truly a terrible disappointment to Rickard financially. One of the weird angles of the game is that "Tex" will be lucky to come into the clear with $50,000 personal profit for all his troubles and worries whereas both fighters were paid more than three times this sum. Firpo's 37½ per cent netted him $150,000, while Wills did not exercise his 25 per cent option because the gate did not warrant it. At that his $150,000 guarantee was more than thrice the "bit" Rickard received for himself, after all the horde of politicians had been satisfied.

The low paid attendance of 50,000 was accounted for by Rickard on the score of the uncertainty attending Firpo's deportation case. He said that numberless orders for seats had been canceled and that many persons who had expected to attend from nearby cities refused to run any risk of being disappointed by last-minute action against Firpo.

Among other heavyweights suggested as potential opponents of Dempsey for the champion's next title defense were Tom Gibbons and Jack Renault. New York followers of fights do not take either man seriously and there is little likelihood that either will be matched with Dempsey in this part of the country. Neither fighter has any whole-hearted following here, although Gibbons is generally conceded to be a hard fighter to master. The promoters take the view that his safety-first tactics would make a contest with Dempsey just another Shelby, and almost as tame as the Wills-Firpo affair.

Woodman on Harry Wills.

One of the many surprised and pained followers of ring affairs to view the contest was Joe Woodman, who managed Sam Langford for so many years and who had formed an opinion of Wills' ability based on Harry's showing made in ten or more fights against "The Tar Baby."

"I had thought Wills was a really great fighter," Woodman commented, "but I have passed up that view. I think Wills is absolutely THROUGH and that he could not stand two rounds against Dempsey. Even Firpo would have got to Wills had he known just a little more about the game and been in better physical and mental condition.

"Wills has lost his punch. That knockdown was almost accidental and it surprised Wills as much as Firpo. He never made a move to take advantage of it. On the other hand I saw him crash his once great right hand against Firpo's head on several occasions with all he had. But it never even made Firpo blink.

"The fight seems to leave Dempsey all alone in the world, with nobody to bother him but the motion picture directors."

U. S. Davis Cup Players Make a Clean Sweep

Tilden and Richards Demonstrate America's Supremacy at Tennis by Defeating Wood and Patterson, Respectively.

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—America's supremacy in the lawn tennis world was clearly demonstrated this afternoon at the Germantown Cricket Club grounds here when the United States team made a clean sweep of the five-game series for the Davis Cup against the Australians.

With three victories already in hand, through two singles triumphs Thursday and a conquest in doubt yesterday, William T. Tilden II, and Vincent Richards today swept their Australian rivals off the court in the closing singles matches in straight sets.

It was the fifth successive triumph of the United States since 1920, when the American team went to Australia and brought back the International trophy.

Tilden, national champion, unbeaten in Davis cup play in five years, defeated Pat O'Hara Wood, in the first match today by scores of 6—2, 6—1, 6—1.

Richards, playing in Davis Cup singles this year for the first time, gained a sensational victory over Gerald L. Patterson, the Australian captain, 6—3, 7—5, 6—4.

Ten thousand persons saw the final matches. The day was as warm as midsummer and the wind, which annoyed the players for two days, was absent.

Tilden gained his victory with the utmost ease. O'Hara Wood never was able to extend the American champion, whose brilliant array of shots always held him in subjection.

Richards' Great Victory.

Richards was faced with the task of defeating the Australian star who, striving to gain at least one victory for the invaders, fought with all the resource and strength at his command.

Beaten in the first set, Patterson seemed likely to stem the tide in the second, when he went into the lead at five to one. At that time he was playing a wonderful brand of tennis, fortified by a forceful, accurate service and his powerful forehand shots.

But Richards, with defeat staring him in the face, engaged the Australian at the net and, outdriving him and out-volleying him, took six straight games to win the set at 7—5.

Patterson still had some splendid tennis in reserve in the third set and scored numerous placements, but Richards' game held up, his service improved and his opponent crumbled under the attack.

Richards made the first break in service in the opening set of his match with Patterson in the fourth game. Double faults contributed to the Australian's downfall in this game. Richards won on his service and then again broke his opponent's delivery and made the set safe.

Patterson got through Richards' service twice in the early stages of the second set and led five to one. With Patterson leading at 30 love on his service and the set almost in hand, Richards, by two fine lobs, went ahead and after deuce had been called, finally settled the game with a placement that hit the net cord and fell safe.

In the next game he took the net after keeping Patterson on the base line with his severe service and volleyed to a victory. He continued these tactics and won the next two games squaring the set at five games. In the eleventh game, with Patterson serving, Richards handled the deliveries with ease and pounding his opponent's back hand, rolled up a love game.

Serving for the decisive game, the American made a service ace, a fine placement, and, then keeping the ball to Patterson's back hand, made him net twice for the game and set.

Opening the third set, Richards again broke Patterson's service, as he was failing with his first ball. He won his own service and then held his opponent safe, each man winning his service to the close, with Richards holding the two games lead.

Tilden Toys With Wood.

Tilden gave an amazing display of his tennis versatility and the power of his game against O'Hara Wood. With seemingly little effort he called from his repertoire every stroke at his command and tried one after the other. The Australian was helpless against all of them. The American star kept enough pace on the ball and had sufficient length to his stroke to keep his opponent in the backcourt throughout.

O'Hara Wood, unable to resort to his strongest type of game—the volley at the net—was driven to play a back court game and constantly netted or drove out. On the few occasions that the Australian got to the net, Tilden passed him with blinding drives which he made no effort to return.

Kammann Beats Hodge in District Net Semifinal

Defending Champion Will Meet Winner of Wray Brown-Charlie Barnes Match.

Karl Kammann, who is defending his title in the St. Louis district tennis championship, advanced to the final round of the singles event at Triple A yesterday afternoon. The district champion defeated Karl Hodge in a semifinal round encounter. Only three sets were required, Kammann winning 6—3, 6—2, 6—1.

The contest did not produce very brilliant tennis, although there were some close rallies. There were very few placements, most of the points being scored on errors. Kammann will play the winner of the other semifinal match between Wray Brown and Charlie Barnes.

Barnes and Joe Werner finally completed their endurance contest yesterday. Barnes won the third and deciding set and reached the semifinal round. The match was a fourth-round affair. Play was started last Wednesday, darkness stopping the match with the score 14—14. The contest was resumed Friday. Barnes won the first set, 22—20, and Werner took the second, 9—7. Barnes won the first set yesterday by a 6—4 score. This is the longest three-set match ever played in a district event.

Doubles Results.

In one of the doubles matches yesterday afternoon Werner and Shepley, the Country Club team, defeated Teddy Eggmann and Mac Smith of East St. Louis. The score was 6—2, 6—1. Werner and Shepley surprised by winning the contest so easily. Effmann was not at the top of his game, although Smith played consistent tennis.

Wray Brown and Karl Kammann advanced to the final round of the doubles by defeating Ed Serrano and William Bierman in the semifinal round. The first two sets were easy for Brown and Kammann, but the losers furnished strong competition in the third set. Brown and Kammann won by 6—3, 6—4, 8—6.

Charlie Barnes and Elmer Schwarz, a new combination in the tournament, reached the semifinals by eliminating Bernet and Clausen, the Triple A team, in straight sets. The score was 6—3, 6—1.

Consolation Play Today.

The District consolation tournament will begin this morning, according to an announcement last night by Harvey Frohlichstein, official referee. First round matches in both singles and doubles must be finished by Tuesday night. The pairings are as follows:

Consolation Singles.

First round—T. Eggman vs. bye; George Holmes vs. bye; Ladius Ottofy vs. bye; George Reid vs. Davison Obear; H. Thompson vs. Dale Morton; J. Schweich vs. R. Hereford; J. L. twice, never took more than two putts and often sank in one. Sweetser took three putts on each of three greens in the morning and had three more three-putt greens in the afternoon.

Captain Gardner of the American team was three up as the result of the morning round and his lead remained at that all day, each winning two holes in the afternoon.

Jesse Guilford of Boston, former Amateur champion, had a close match with Tony Torrance, one of the best of the British players. They went to lunch all even and the standing was the same at the twenty-seventh hole, each going out in par 37 in the afternoon. Better approaching and putting then gave the match to the Bostonian, the last hole won being the sixteenth where Guilford laid up a mashie so close that a par four was certain.

Dr. Willing, the Portland Ore., dentist, playing number eight on the American team as he did last year, when his victory enabled the United States to triumph in an uphill battle was prepared to repeat his performance if necessary, but victory for the United States had been won today before his match had been concluded. The doctor's short game told in the end. It enabled him to go to lunch two up, although Kyle, who wears suspenders on trousers nearly up to his neck, was as good as the doctor in tee shots and irons. The doctors did some amazing putting in the morning.

United States Polo Team Wins Over Britons, 16-5

the British goal. Hitchcock found himself with a golden opportunity to score, but his pony balked on him and his shot went far off. On Lacey's knock in, the British started a drive. It was halted at midfield by Milburn, but could only be stopped momentarily.

A scrimmage followed in front of the American goal and a foul was called on the Americans. Lacey made it good with a resounding shot and the British were ahead, 1 to 0. It stung the Americans and in 30 seconds Webb had evened the score, scoring prettily after a long drive by Hitchcock. The score was tied 1 to 1. The Americans were off. Stevenson got a long try at goal, but missed by inches. A moment later Webb got a chance, but had to lean so far out of his saddle to get at it that he missed. A temporary sally by Hurndall and Kirkwood threatened the Americans then, but Stevenson halted it with a pretty backhander, shooting to Hitchcock, who, unassisted, took the ball up the field and while Webb was riding off Lacey, scored. It ended the period with Americans ahead 2 to 1.

Milburn Makes Fine Save.

Second chukker:

Hurndall got the ball at the beginning of play and passed it to Lacey, coming through like lightning and playing like a demon, despite a strapped shoulder. Lacey gave the ball a tremendous drive and it sped toward the American goal, only to be halted a few yards away by Milburn. The American captain, with one of his astounding saves, turned the ball back, then drove it with a single shot to Edgefield. A foul for a technical offense by Atkinson was called on the British and they had to hit the ball out from their own goal line. Within a moment Hitchcock had his chance, but his long shot went wide by a few yards. Then came an astonishing performance by Lacey. The great Argentine took the ball the length of the field with tremendous swipes, passed to Hurndall, got it back again, and shot at goal. His drive was straight and true, but Milburn overtook it and plucked it out of the goal posts. The Americans had all the better of it for the next few moments, thanks to an astounding backhander by Milburn, who sent the ball spinning a third the length of the field, high in the air. Webb and Hitchcock both tried for goals and missed.

But the next moment scrimmage brought a different result. From a tangled mass of players directly in front of the British goal, Webb poked through a goal. The period ended without further excitement, but for a brilliant run the length of the field by Atkinson on a speedy mare named Queen, which resulted however, without score, as his shot at goal went far wide. At the close of the second period America led 3 goals to 1.

Americans Get Four More.

Third chukker:

A foul by Hurndall of the British resulted in an American score at the opening of the third period, Hitchcock putting the ball through with a drive of incredible speed. Milburn and Hitchcock started a quick sally, but it ended unsuccessfully when the youthful American's cut drive went wide. Hurried scrimmaging in front of the British goal then gave Stevenson one chance in 10 because of the acute angle from which he had to shoot. But Stevenson made good, shooting a pretty goal. Another moment and Webb had scored.

The British seemed to be tiring, for the Americans had everything their own way. Even Lacey seemed to be getting a bit rusty in his shots, also his generalship, for in a moment Hitchcock had stolen the ball from him and dribbled it right past him for another goal. The Americans scored four goals in this period and were ahead, 7 to 1, at its close.

FOURTH CHUKKER.

Hitchcock started an American rally early in the fourth, shooting the ball to Webb, way up in front of Lacey. Webb got the ball on his right side, unfortunately for him, and, being left-handed, could not reach it. Here is where the American team play began to show itself. Hitchcok and Stevenson were directly behind Webb and when Hitchcock missed, Stevenson scored. The British were simply being swamped. They could not get started. If they had any team play, they had no opportunity to put it in evidence.

Americans Tease Rivals.

The Americans, on the other hand, were getting so confident that they began to tease the British, dribble the ball through them, steal it away from them, run it around them. Webb stole it, then waited for Lacey to overrun him, then passed to Stevenson, who dribbled it had the field and shot a quick goal.

A moment later the British had their first chance in several periods. The ball lay loose near the American goal. Hurndall pounced on it, to miss completely. Then Lacey drove it aside. The British chance was gone. A moment later Hitchcock drove the ball up the field and in three tremendous wallops had scored again. It looked like another American score a second later, when Webb and Lacey ran a pretty race down the field and Webb seemed winning when he missed his shot. But Milburn, evidently tired of waiting in the back field for British attacks that never came, was right behind him and took a shot. That, however, went wide and half time found the Americans with an insurmountable lead, 10 to 1.

Fifth Chukker.

The Americans were right at it again when play was resumed for the second half. Lacey was constantly harassed first by Webb and then by Stevenson. But no scores resulted. A British rally, inspired by Hurndall and carried out by Lacey, then sent the ball to the other end of the field, but Lacey's chance was spoiled by too many Americans. The Americans were proving themselves to be just as fast on the defense as on the offense. Heavy hitting by Milburn and Hitchcock, with some clever riding by Stevenson soon turned the tide. Webb had a chance at goal and sent the ball true, only to have Lacey deflect it for a safety shot, which Hitchcock missed by several feet. Lacey's knock-in went half the length of the field and a British drive seemed imminent, only Milburn turned it back, so far back that Webb found himself free with the ball and no one in front of him. He couldn't put it through, however, because of a brilliant save by Lacey, who, simulating Milburn, sent the ball over all the players to Hurndall, who was then free. But Hurndall was unequal to the task, partly because three Americans came pounding behind him, and before he had gone 10 strides one of them, Milburn, had taken the ball from him.

The ball was once more speeding toward the British goal and Hitchcock had a sterling chance. He missed it because Lacey was back there harrying him. But Webb was directly behind and the left-hander didn't miss. The period ended with the Americans leading, 11 to 1.

Sixth chukker:

The Americans lost a goal by carelessness at the very outset of the sixth period. Webb had the easiest kind of a chance, but hit his pony's hoofs with the ball. By the time he recovered, Lacey had sent the ball far away. He sped after it, got it and took the ball the length of the field in a stirring ride. America was so far ahead the crowd was yelling for him to make good. But Milburn wouldn't let him. Though the powerfully built Kirkwood was bumping Milburn for all he was wort, Milburn went in and sent the ball out of danger with ridiculous ease. Webb then started running the ball, passing to Stevenson, who scored easily. The British were fighting with brave fury, but they were quite helpless against the American attacks.

Milburn Scores Long Goal.

After a few scrimmages Milburn got his mallet on the ball and with a tremendous swipe sent it through from many yards away. Webb and Hitchcock were both in a position to take a shot at it if necessary but the shot was true and there was no need, Webb just furnishing a guard for it as it rolled over. The period ended with America ahead, 13 to 1.

Seventh Chukker.

By this time it was evident that Lacey was the whole British team. He was not alone the only Britisher who managed to turn back any American advances but as well the only one who managed to make any threats in American territory. He gave a demonstration of both early in the seventh period. But alone he could do nothing and the Americans again began to attack the British goal with a regularity that was becoming a bit monotonous. Even anxiety wouldn't help the British, for it caused a foul to be called on Hurndall for crossing, which Hitchcock made good with a brisk shot.

Britons Score Second Goal.

The next moment saw Lacey turn loose. With a tremendous shot from midfield, a midiron drive, he sent the ball spinning through the air to Kirkwood. The American team was taken so by surprise that no one was near Kirkwood and he had a shot that a novice could not have missed. He made it with a vicious shot, for the second British goal since the opening chukker. Within a moment, however, Stevenson had evened it up. But Lacey was not yet through. As soon as he got his mallet on the ball again he began to dribble, then to drive, passing to Atkinson, who with his first decent drive sent it spinning to Kirkwood. It was pretty team work and was so crowned when Kirkwood got another score. The period ended with America ahead, 15 to 3.

Eighth Chukker.

Early in the eighth period, with the British attempting to better their showing, Stevenson took a bad spill. His pony, going at a fast pace directly behind Hitchcock's stumbled and threw her rider over her neck. For some minutes he lay flat on his face inert, and it was feared he was badly injured. After some moments, while the game was halted and he was given medical attention, he had to be carried off the field in a blanket. His pony, Aguila, an Argentine mare, was not hurt. R. E. Strawbridge Jr., one of the most promising of the younger American players, and a substitute on the American team, took his place.

Play was resumed after 10 minutes' delay. Strawbridge was the first to get a real shot at the ball and he started a new American attack just as Stevenson would have done. It was fruitless, however, and in a moment Lacey and Kirkwood were taking the ball down to the American goal. Long seesaw runs back and forth followed, with neither side having a particular advantage until a foul was called on the Americans. Lacey got a free chance at goal and made it good. The British got some ginger out of that shot, for in a moment they were driving toward the American goal, all four together, and would not be denied. Lacey to Atkinson and back to Lacey brought about another English goal. A moment later Strawbridge scored for America and it proved to be the last goal of the game. America won, 16 to 5.

when Wamby failed to touch second after taking the throw, a run scored and the bases remained full. Another run scored on Williams' infield out and Jacobson punched a single to center, scoring the third and fourth runs of the frame.

The Terrible Second Game.

The second game was one of those atrocities. Boston scored a run in the third and two in the fourth, after which the Browns came along and took the lead with five runs.

Boston, however, pushed over six runs in the fifth and increased their total to 11 with two in the seventh.

The Browns came back with four in their half of the seventh. That made the score 11 to 9 as near as everybody could figure.

Then, just as everybody had added up the runs and had the score well in hand, the Red Sox made two more in the eighth and made it 13 to 9.

Elmore, a recruit outfielder from Bay City, started the Browns' rally in that seventh inning. He hit a nice single to center, daringly tried to stretch it into a double and succeeded when Shanks dropped the throw as Elmore collided with him.

In their half of the eighth the Browns again drew within two runs of a tie, scoring two runs after two were out on a single, two errors and two walks. But that's the best they could do.

French Davis C... Stars Will Play Here Wednes...

Borotra and Brugnon to Oppose Kinsey Brothers in Doubles Match.

By Davison Obear.

Local tennis enthusiasts have an opportunity to see members of the French Davis team in action on St. Louis courts next Wednesday. The players, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, who will play an exhibition match with Robert and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco on the St. Louis Country Club courts. The two players are on their way to California, stopping here and at Kansas City for exhibitions.

Borotra is the player who created a sensation by defeating Vincent Richards in the English championships at Wimbledon, England, in June. The French star won the singles title in that tournament and has shown great improvement in his play over last season. Brugnon participated in two of the matches in the Davis Cup series between France and America at Boston. He paired with Borotra in the doubles, Lacoste, who is not making the trip to America, being a member of French Davis Cup teams for several seasons. In the United States championships this year he defeated Wray Brown, local star, in straight sets.

Had Successful Season.

The Kinsey brothers are natives of St. Louis and have played here in exhibition matches for several seasons. They played in the recent St. Louis tournament when the National Clay Court event was held here last July. The Kinseys won the doubles title in that tournament.

Robert and Howard Kinsey have just completed the most successful tennis season in their careers. For a number of seasons they have been trying to win the United States doubles championship. This year at the Longwood Club in Boston the Kinseys won the title from a field of formidable opponents. The best doubles teams in the world were entered in the championship.

Howard Kinsey had a fine season in the various singles events. He was the winner of several events and runner-up in others as a result of his record he was chosen as the fourth player member of the United States Davis Cup team.

Time of Match Not Set.

The time of play and other announcements regarding the exhibition at the Country Club Wednesday afternoon will be made later. In order to defray the expenses of bringing the players here all those attending the matches will be asked to subscribe to a fund to be raised for the purpose. C. Raymond Jones, president of the Missouri Valley Tennis Association, in charge of the arrangements, will be assisted by Joseph Wear and Roland Hoerr of the Country Club tennis committee. Walter C. Ferris, president of the Missouri Tennis Club of which Robertson is a member, made the preliminary arrangements for the players to stop here on the way to California and is assisting in the general plans for their visit to St. Louis.

Players Ruled Ineligible b... Athletic Boa...

Schaeffering and Westhus Among Athletes Lost to Billiken Team.

PIKERS START TO WO...

First Practice of Season Scheduled to Be Held b... Wimberley Tomorrow.

With a full strength squad of more than 25 men, St. Louis University will inaugurate its regular practice sessions tomorrow at the University Athletic Field, Grand and Laclede avenues, in intensive preparation for a schedule apparently colorless but actually loaded with dynamite. The squad which Head Coach Savage will put in the field is the smallest in many years and partially to a recent order by the athletic board whereby seven players were declared ineligible, with other promising candidate has school.

The men on the ineligible list are Westhus, tackle; Luepke, tackle; Krug, tackle; Schaeffering, quarterback; O'Gorman, center; Hafern, halfback, and Bearsley, whose status has not been determined. Groschan, a heavy plunger of last year's freshman team will not return to school.

The rest of the deficiency in numbers for a squad that normally numbers 50 candidates is accounted for by the small freshman squad of last season only nine of the yearlings surviving for the fall's ordeal. They are Fischer, Karst, Kahle, Ryan, Stampfli, Mahoney, O'Halloran, Brogham and Kline.

Hannegan in Center.

Savage's troubles started in June when he lost his three centers, two of them, Betz and Geraghty, being numbered among the Billiken graduates. To fill this gap Savage has lifted Bob Hannegan from his position at fullback and placed him in the middle of the line. The understudies Hannegan will have are Cale Stampfli, fullback of last year's frosh and Brogham mer and one of Finnegan's squad. The guards the Billiken coach will have are Jim Clark, a tackle of last year's Klausner, Higi, perhaps Fischer.

Out for the tackle berths are Leo Schwartz, who achieved fame as the title of "Iron Man" for playing the entire 1923 schedule with the exception of one quarter, Simon, another of last year's players, Ryan and Carlson, both new men, and Sullivan. The ends will be comparatively plentiful. Amarel and O'Toole, two sure-fire first-class men are out as also are Kline and Fitzgerald, both playing the first year on the varsity, and Ray Bromschwig, who has fine possibilities. Kahle, another new man will try out for one of the wing positions.

Must Rebuild Backfield.

With two backs transplanted bodily into the line and two others declared ineligible, Coach Savage is faced with the task of constructing a backfield from seven men, three letter men and three ex-freshmen. The veterans are Capt. McKenzie, Ed McCarthy and Ramacciotti. The yearlings are Karst, O'Reilly and Mahoney.

Pikers Start Practice.

When "Big Bill" Edmunds, who by appointed athletic director of Washington University, and Bill Wimberley, football coach, take their active duties at the beginning of football practice tomorrow there will be a case of two former rivals working together to produce a winner for the Pikeway institution.

When Edmunds and Wimberley were introduced at Francis Gymnasium Wednesday, both men to all obviously puzzled. "It seems to me I've met you somewhere before," said Edmunds. "That's just what I've been thinking," Wimberley replied. And then it developed that the two former football stars who are going to work together to be a winner at Washington, had played against each other in 1919. Edmunds played left tackle for the Eighty-Third Division team, while Wimberley played right tackle for Washington and Jefferson.

Wimberley will be coaching for the second year at Washington, but Edmunds, who was a Piker athlete, a mentor from 1913 to 1917, has been called back to succeed Gene Rider, athletic director who resigned in June.

Letter Men Return.

The Pikers will have their first football practice of the season tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. They will workout again at 2 in the afternoon. Practice will continue twice daily until school opens. In anticipation of a much stronger team than the 1923 eleven has a basis in the fact that 11 of last year's 13 letter men are expected to report. Coach Wimberley believes that there are at least seven members of last year's first team outfit who will make the Pikers play a strong brand of football if they are to hold their place.

Washington's Schedule.

Washington's schedule calls for eight games, four of them in the Missouri Valley Conference schedule. The Players Ruled Ineligible by Athletic Board

Schaeffering and Westhus Are Among Athletes Lost to Billiken Team.

PIKERS START TO WORK

First Practice of Season Is Scheduled to Be Held by Wimberley Tomorrow.

With a full strength squad of less than 25 men, St. Louis University will inaugurate its regular practice sessions tomorrow at the University Athletic Field, Grand and Laclede avenues, in intensive preparation for a schedule apparently colorless but actually loaded with dynamite. The squad which Head Coach Savage will put in the field is the smallest in many years due partially to a recent order by the athletic board whereby seven players were declared ineligible. Another promising candidate has left school.

The men on the ineligible list are Westhus, tackle; Luepke, tackle; King, tackle; Schaeffering, quarterback; O'Gorman, center; Hefter, halfback, and Bearsley, whose status has not been determined. Groshan, a heavy plunger of last year's freshman team will not return to school.

The rest of the deficiency in numbers for a squad that normally numbers 50 candidates is accounted for by the small freshman squad of last season only nine of the yearlings surviving for this fall's ordeal. They are Fischer, Karst, Kahle, Ryan, Stampfli, Mahoney, O'Halloran, Broghammer and Kline.

Hannegan in Center.

Savage's troubles started in June when he lost his three centers, two of them, Betz and Geraghty, being numbered among the Billiken graduates. To fill this gap Savage has lifted Bob Hannegan from his position at fullback and planted him in the middle of the line. For understudies Hannegan will have Gale Stampfli, fullback of last year's frosh and Broghammer also one of Finnegan's squad. For guards the Billiken coach will have Jim Clark, a tackle of last year, Klausner, Higi, perhaps Fischer.

Out for the tackle berths are Leo Schwartz, who achieved the title of "Iron Man" for playing the entire 1923 schedule with the exception of one quarter, Simon, another of last year's players, Ryan and Carlson, both new men, and Sullivan. The ends will be comparatively plentiful. Amarel and O'Toole, two sure-fire first-class men are out as also are Kline and Fitzgerald, both playing the first year on the varsity, and Fred Bromschwig, who has fine possibilities. Kahle, another new man, will try out for one of the wing positions.

Must Rebuild Backfield.

With two backs transplanted bodily into the line and two others declared ineligible, Coach Savage is faced with the task of constructing a backfield from six men, three letter men and three ex-freshmen. The veterans are Capt. McKenzie, Ed McCarthy and Ramaciotti. The yearlings are Karst, O'Reilly and Mahoney.

Pikers Start Practice.

When "Big Bill" Edmunds, newly appointed athletic director of Washington University, and Byron Wimberley, football coach, take up their active duties at the beginning of football practice tomorrow, it will be a case of two former rivals working together to produce a winner for the Pikeway institution.

When Edmunds and Wimberley were introduced at Francis Gymnasium Wednesday, both men were obviously puzzled. "It seems to me I've met you somewhere before," said Edmunds. "That's just what I've been thinking," Wimberley replied. And then it developed that the two former football stars who are going to work together to build a winner at Washington, had played against each other in 1917. Edmunds played left tackle for the Eighty-Third Division team, and Wimberley played right tackle for Washington and Jefferson.

Wimberley will be coaching his second year at Washington, but Dr. Edmunds, who was Piker athletic mentor from 1913 to 1917, has been called back to succeed George Rider, athletic director who resigned in June.

Letter Men Return.

The Pikers will have their first football practice of the season tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and will workout again at 2 in the afternoon. Practice will continue twice daily until school opens. Expectation of a much stronger team than the 1923 eleven has a good basis in the fact that 11 of last year's 13 letter men are expected to report. Coach Wimberley also believes that there are at least seven members of last year's freshmen outfit who will make the regulars play a strong brand of football if they are to hold their places.

Washington's Schedule.

Washington's schedule calls for eight games, four of them with Missouri Valley Conference schools. The schedule follows:

Oct. 4.—Drury at Francis Field.
Oct. 11.—Grinnell College at Grinnell.
Oct. 25.—Rolla Miners at Francis Field.
Nov. 1.—University of Kansas at Francis Field.
Nov. 8.—Milliken University at Francis Field.
Nov. 15.—University of Missouri at Columbia.
Nov. 22.—University of Oklahoma at Francis Field.
Nov. 27.—Mississippi A. and M. at Francis Field.

Sam Langford, Beginning Life Story, Tells of Winning Championship in First Fight

"Boston Tar Baby," Put Out by Blindness, States His Real Age and Relates Facts of Ring Career of 23 Years.

THE following is the first in a series of articles in which Sam Langford, the widely-known negro pugilist, tells, through a representative of the Post-Dispatch, the story of his life and long fight career. Langford, who began fighting in 1901, was put out of the running this year by blindness. In his long campaign the "Boston Tar Baby" fought in all classes, beginning at 125 pounds and going up to the heavyweight division, but never getting a chance to gain the title:

(Copyright, 1924.)

I won a championship in the first real fight of my lifetime—and I won one in the last real fight I had. Betwen whiles I won a few other of those crown things, but just now I'm going to tell you some other things about my life.

My father was 6 feet 3 inches tall; my mother was just five feet high. I had seven sisters. Every one was 6 feet tall or taller. There were seven boys in our family and I, although I am only 5 feet 6½ inches, am the tallest of the boys.

How old am I? Well, if you believe some of the stories that have been printed about me I am anywhere from 45 to 84. But I was born March 4, 1886.

Born March 4, 1886.

Nobody said I was any older than I am until long after I started fighting. Then folks, knowing I was busting up boys in 1901 and 1902, and not figuring I might have started fighting at 15 or 16, said, "Oh, that Sam's cheating." Well, just to settle it all I sent Joe Woodman up to Weymouth, Nova Scotia, where I was born, and Joe looked up all the records he could find, and came back and said:

"March 4, 1886, is right, Sam."

Joe's right—March 4, 1886, is right! I don't mind people saying I'm old and all that, but I don't want doctors to think I'm so old they ought to give me chloroform.

I didn't get an awful lot of schooling. Nobody did up there in Weymouth. So after I learned some A B C's and how to figure up percentages on fight purses, they let me loose and just as I was looking around for work—that was when I was 9 years old—my mother died.

Well, my sisters kind of thought that I needed a boss and they began bossing me. I didn't like that bossing business much, so one day I packed up and ran away from home.

Worked for $5 a Month.

I landed in the wilds of Nova Scotia and got a job as helper around the kitchen in a logging camp. I worked there nearly three years and got $5 a month and board. Along about that time a Dr. Blodgett, who was interested in the camp, and came there often, asked me if I would like to work for him on his farm in Lincoln, N. H.

Soon after I started working for Dr. Blodgett I heard about Bob Fitzsimmons whipping Jim Corbett. My father's name was Bob, too, and I always did like that unanimous in this vicinity.

name. It made me sorry my people didn't call me Bob, instead of Sam. But that's what they did. I used to tell the other boys on the farm that a man named Bob, or the son of any man named Bob, could whip almost anybody.

One of the boys didn't think so. He put a chip on his shoulder while we were in the barn. I knocked it off; he smacked me—and I smacked him back. Pretty soon I had bloodied his nose, blackened both eyes—and that won the fight for me.

After that the older and bigger boys working on the farm began picking on me. I picked back—with my bare fists. It was a lot of fun—but Dr. Blodgett didn't think so. One day, in 1899, he came around to the barn and caught me fighting another boy.

"What does this mean?" he asked.

"Oh, we're just playing a little," I said.

"You're all through playing around here," said Dr. Blodgett. "So you're the cause of all these battered up boys, eh? Well, you just pack your clothes and get."

Had to Fight to Work.

I went. I walked to Cambridge, Mass., and got a job in a brickyard. A lot of tough boys worked there and they said that no one could work in the brickyard unless he proved he was a fighter. That suited me, for I just loved to fight. I fought the little fellows and the big ones—and I didn't do so bad, either.

One day I broke a brickyard rule. I fought during work hours; couldn't help it, because a boy got awfully sassy. The boss caught me—and again I was out of a job. One of my boy friends at the yards told me I might get a job up in the woods of New Hampshire, cutting down trees and logging. I went there, got the job, stayed quite a while—and then they fired me for fighting.

So I hiked to Boston—and three days later I became a pugilistic "champion."

In Boston, it seemed as if nobody had any work to do. I began skipping meals and when things got pretty desperate I walked down to the docks, thinking I might get a job on a boat.

But even the boat people didn't need any hired help. So I started back toward town. On the way I passed a saloon where the bartender was standing out in front. I stopped and asked him if he could use a nice, hard-working boy.

"Yes, where can I find one?" he asked.

"You've found him," I said.

So the bartender, Mike Foley, gave me a job cleaning up around the place and always saw to it that I had a little spending money and plenty to eat. He fixed up a place in the back of the saloon where I could sleep.

The Non-Pay Customer.

The saloon was on Cambridge street, in a tough Irish section of Boston. One day Mike had to step out of the place, and he left me in charge. A big rough fellow walked in and didn't see Mike. So he ordered me to serve him a beer. Then he ordered another and then he ordered more.

Pretty soon he started to walk out—without paying. I ran after him and asked for the money. He tried to push me away and said:

"You don't belong to the Bartenders' Union. You're just a scab. I don't pay scabs."

Just as he started to walk out again Mike Foley came back and asked "what is all the noise about?"

I told Mike that the customer owed him for beer. Mike just grinned and said:

"Sam, he doesn't owe me any thing. If any money is owing, it's owing to you and you have got to collect it, if you can."

So I said to the customer:

"Give me the money."

With that, this customer, who weighed about 170, took a punch at me. I dodged it and then I tried one myself. It hit him on the chin and he went down. When he climbed up he rushed at me. I was waiting and hit him again. He went down the second time. The third time he went down and he didn't make much effort to get up.

So I leaned over him and I said:

"Come on, get up, you big bully."

Champion in Fist Fight.

He looked at me kind of sadlike and, reaching for his pocket said:

"I don't think I'll get up for a little while. I can pay you just as well from here as I can standing up. How much have you got coming?"

I told him, he paid it, got up and walked out.

Mike was laughing. "How old are you, Sam—and how much do you weigh?" he asked.

"I'm 15—and I weigh 125."

Then Mike laughed some more. "Oh, wait until the rest of that Irish gang came around," he howled.

I asked him why he was laughing. So he said:

"Well, Sam, the fellow you just licked was the undisputed champion of Chambers street. And now he ain't champion any more. Your'e the champion—you, just a little black pint of cider. Ha, ha, wait 'till I tell the other boys how you whipped that Mike O'Reilly and became the champ."

That's how I became a champion in my first real fight.

Everybody's Doing It To Carpentier; Garage Man Scores Knockdown

PARIS, Sept. 13.

GEORGES CARPENTIER, immediately upon his recent return to France, lost another battle concerning which there was absolutely no publicity before hand and as to the result of which strenuous attempts have been made to preserve secrecy.

Georges' opponent was a garage attendant and the fight was a combination of Marquis of Queensbery rules and catch-as-catch-can wrestling. The boxer entered the garage in a great hurry and ordered the attendant to take his machine to the second floor in the elevator. Such work not being a part of his particular work, this free born French citizen refused.

Carpentier renewed his instructions somewhat sharply and when the attendant persisted in his refusal and made some remark about "fresh war profiteers" Georges swung his famous right. It didn't land, for the garage man nimbly dodged, made a dive for Carpentier's legs, brought the boxer down and literally wiped the tofly, bedrimed floor with Georges' latest natty suit.

Women's District Golf Tournament To Start Sept. 29

Miss Virginia Pep, Two-Time Winner, to Defend Title in Play at Glen Echo.

St. Louis women golfers may have to obtain a new championship trophy after the district tournament, which will be held at the Glen Echo Country Club Sept. 29 to Oct. 4. Five golfers have had their names engraved on the cup twice and if one of them scores a victory in the coming competition the trophy will become the permanent property of the winner. The cup was presented to the women by the Men's District Golf Association in 1911.

Miss Virginia Pep will be the favorite in the tournament, though if Miss Audrey Faust decides to enter it may change the prospects of the defending champion. Miss Pep will pack the cup home for keeps, if she wins, as she held the championship in 1922 and 1923.

Mrs. Ray Has Won Twice.

Mrs. E. Lansing Ray also needs only one more victory to gain permanent possession of the cup. Others are Mrs. A. N. Edwards, now residing in California, who won in 1911 and 1915; Mrs. John R. Caulk, winner in 1917 and 1919, and Mrs. Louis Burlingham, who as Miss Grace Semple, won the title in 1912 and 1913.

Mrs. R. J. Kohn, runner-up last year, who was defeated by Miss Pep in an extra hole match, has been playing well this season and will be a candidate for the title.

Miss Audrey Faust, who competed in the national championship recently, will be a favorite in the district event if she decides to compete. Others who must be reckoned with the Mrs. M. J. Isler, Mrs. C. B. Abney, Mrs. L. E. Wasson and Mrs. Milliken.

The Greens Committee of Glen Echo, of which George Fowler is chairman, is making every effort to have the course in good condition for the tournament.

The officers of the Women's District Golf Association, which will have charge of the tournament, are Mrs. J. A. Corbett, president; Mrs. George E. Mix, vice president; Mrs. C. C. Pangman, honorary vice president; Miss Audrey Faust, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles W. Scudder recording secretary; Mrs. Maurice Obear, treasurer, and Mrs. E. Anson More, sports chairman.

Mrs. A. E. White, who is chairman of the Glen Echo, will be the active chairman of the tournament. Mrs. R. O. Kennard will be chairman of the Hospitality Committee.

YDE YIELDS 3 HITS, PITTSBURG WINS FROM BOSTON CLUB, 7-0

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 13.—Pittsburg beat Boston 7 to 0 today, behind the three-hit pitching of Emil Yde, who now has won 14 and lost only two games.

The hitting of Moore and Carey for the Bucs was sturdy and running catches by Cuyler and stops by Grimm were sure death to apparent Boston hits.

GOOD HOPE TEAM WINS CRAFTSMEN'S HONORS

The Good Hope team won the championship of the Craftsmen's League defeating the Beacon team, 7 to 5 at Forest Park No. 8, yesterday. Good Hope scored three runs in the first and was never headed thereafter. They added three more in the fourth round. Wild starred for the winners. At bat he gathered a single and a three-base hit, while he handled eleven fielding chances. He held the Beacon team to seven hits.

Shells Beat Gruendlers in Municipal Elimination Tilt

Freight Accounts, Present City Champions, Gain Easy Victory Over St. Casimirs—Semifinal Contests to Be Played Today.

The Shells, Tower Camp, Freight Accounts and Curlees advanced to the semifinals in the Municipal Baseball Association championship series, as a result of victories in the games played yesterday. The Shells play the Freight Accounts in the first of a double-header at Fairground No. 1 today, starting at 1:30 o'clock, with the Curlees and Tower Camps battling in the second. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

The Curlees defeated the Schenbergs, 5 to 4, at Carondelet Park. Two errors by the Schenbergs in the ninth proved costly. Nahn's error allowed Friesmeyer to reach second, while Becker was safe when Fred Ludwig juggled his drive down the first base line. Friesmeyer scoring the deciding run. The South Side Leaguers opened with two runs in the first by bunching four hits. A triple and a double netted another run in the second. The Curlees, aided by an error, found Wallace for two runs. A base on balls, a single and a two-base hit enabled the Curlees to tie the score in the fourth. Two errors, a base on balls and a single gave the Schenbergs a run in the fifth, but the Empire Leaguers came right back and knotted the count.

Shells Beat Gruendlers.

The Shells defeated the Gruendlers, 5 to 4. The game was tied at the end of the fourth inning after the Gruendlers had scored three runs in the first inning on three bases on balls, a pair of infield errors and a sacrifice. The Independent Leaguers scored one run in each of the second, third and fourth innings. The Mercantile League entry scored one run in the sixth on a walk, a sacrifice and Flieger's single. The Shells scored two in their portion of the inning to win the game. An outfield error, a walk and two singles accounted for the runs.

The Tower Camps won from St. James, 16 to 6, at Sherman Park. The Commercial League champions, after failing to score in the first two innings, got busy and scored three runs in the third round to take the lead. They buried the Evangelical League representatives in the fourth and fifth rounds, scoring 10 runs.

Freight Accounts Win.

The Freight Acounts of the Missouri Pacific League present champions, downed the St. Casimer nine, City League champions, at Forest Park, 16 to 4.

The Heitz team defeated Zion Evangelical team 14 to 4 in first game of the junior championship series at Carondelet No. 2.

$40,000 Offered For Sweep Park Before Futurity

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Before the Futurity was run at Belmont Park today, Montfort Jones offered E. Gay Drake $40,000 for Sweep Park, at that time unbeaten in four races.

Drake refused the offer with the belief that she was capable of winning the rich prize of close to $70,000, and believing also that even if beaten she would run well enough to be worth the price offered.

When she finished last Drake was in no way downcast over refusing the offer. He knew she did not run her race.

By G. F. T. Ryall,
Of the New York World Sport Staff

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Mother Goose, in the last strides of the futurity, won a fortune for Harry Payne Whitney, and no more popular solution was possible of the classic for two-year-olds, for the turf was returning to a sportsman and a breeder some of the money he had expended in fair season and foul for the advancement of the American thoroughbred.

Her nose is not very large, but large enough this afternoon to change the scales in the rich stake and get the decision over Marshall Field's Stimulus, the son of Ultimus, and Single Foot, J. E. Griffith's Maryland wonder in the early spring.

Passing the stand, Single Foot was in the lead, but Mother Goose was coming fast, and Stimulus on the outside was locked to Single Foot's saddle skirts.

Race Worth $70,790.

It is hard to judge a race on a straight course, but it appeared when the great field first broke into view coming down the tenpin alley that at least 20 of the youngsters were abreast.

At the start Single Foot showed out in front. His record at Bowie last spring, when he broke the track record on his first out was remembered for the first time, and the cry was Single Foot, but then a roar went up for Mother Goose. She, too, had broken a record at Havre De Grace her first out, and had come to life. American Flag, Sweep Park and other favorites were far back.

McAtee rode the winner. The time was 1:10 4-5. This was two-fifths of a second slower than the race of St. James a year ago.

Forty thousand saw the Futurity, which had the largest field in its history of 36 years. Twenty-nine went to the post, George D. Widener's Chatterer and J. S. Cosden's Rockstone being the only scratches which left the value of the stake at $70,970.

Much Betting on Race.

The weather was perfect and the track fast.

The first two races were regarded as preliminaries to the big event of the third. With 29 starters, there was little standing room on the track for the nervous 2-year-olds, a field worth at least $2,000,000. Two jockey boards were required for the list of jockeys.

The favorites were American Flag, Sweep Park, Pas Seul, H. P. Whitney entry, and Nedana, each around 6 to 1. The others ranged from 15 to 1 to 50 to 1.

Betting was wild on everything in the race. American Flag and Sweep Park were the centers of all eyes in the parade. Sweep Park unseated Garner going to the post. She was uncontrollable with life, although conceding weight to everyone in the race.

My Play Gains Victory.

E. F. Sims' My Play, a brother of Man O' War, beaten a head in the Saratoga cup, made every post a winning one in the Jockey Club gold cup at two miles, the other feature of the card. King Solomon's Seal was second.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own, the odds on favorite, chased the pair all the way only to falter and was beaten a head for the place in the last few strides. Mr. Mutt, which beat My Play in the Saratoga cup, the other starter, broke down at the end of a mile and a half.

There was not much of a race to the Gold cup. All the others appeared to be waiting for My Play to stop and he never did, that was all.

The only thrill was the battle of My Own to outlast King Solomon's Seal in the last furlong. The time for the two miles was 3:25 3-5.

GREY LAG BREAKS DOWN IN TRAINING; RETIRED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Grey Lag, 6-year-old Rancocas Stable thoroughbred, has broken down in training and will not be a contender in the second of the international series at Aqueduct track Sept. 27 in which Epinard, French crack, will appear. The veteran came out of a three-eighths mile workout with a bowed tendon and will be retired from racing, according to Trainer Sam Hildreth.

Moss Fox II Is Victor in Aurora Handicap Race

Sets New Track Record in Beating Sanola—Dobson Stars.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Change of ownership, a timid rider and a concession of 15 pounds to the winner, proved too much for the game filly Sanola in the featured Rialto Theater Handicap at Aurora this afternoon. Moss Fox II won at six furlongs in 1:12 3-5, breaking the track record by 2-5 of a second.

Sanola carried her crushing weight gamely in the lead for about two-eighths, when the top impost began to tell and then she dropped out of the money. Go Foin was second and Kaulia third.

Sanola running under its own initiative came again in the last sixteenth despite the floundering tactics of D. Jones and was over running Kaulia at the finish only to lose show money by a head.

It was the second track record broken during the afternoon, Dobson having reduced the mark for a mile and 70 yards.

ERRORS BY INDIANS GIVE MACKS GAME, 5-3

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 13. — The Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Indians, 5 to 3 in the first of their two-game series at Dunn Field, today. Errors figured in all of the Athletics' run making.

Stan Baumgartner started for the Athletics but was taken out for a pinch hitter in the fifth after the Indians had nicked him for two runs and the lead in the fourth frame. Slim Harris then went to the box for the Mackmen and held the Tribe scoreless for the remainder of the game. Sherry Smith hurled the entire game for the Indians and was hit hard. However, he might have won but for the five errors behind him.

FUTURITY

BOWLING EVENTS WILL BE HELD AT RECREATION STARTING NEXT WEEK

Local bowling circles showed plenty of activity during the past week, due largely to the opening of the new Rogers Recreation Center, and with the special features that will be inaugurated within the next two weeks, the action will increase.

The first feature will be the recreation mixed doubles contest, to be held on the second and last Sunday night of each month. The first will be held Sept. 28. The entry will be $3 a team, which includes bowling.

Individual and two-man contests for men will be held the first and third Sundays each month. Bowlers will be classified according to their averages, one night being exclusively for bowlers between 150 and 170 averages, and another for bowlers above 170.

The first two-man tourney will be held Sept. 21, followed by the closed two-man contest, Oct. 5. The entry fee in these contests will be $4 a team, which includes bowling.

Zion Plays Bethlehem.

Zion plays Bethlehem in the first of a three-game series to decide the championship of the Concordia Baseball League at St. Louis U. Athletic Field today. The game starts at 2 o'clock. Norman Engler and Al Rathert or Carl Nagel will be the pitchers.

MODERATE REACTION IN STOCKS

Decline Credited Chiefly to the Magnitude of Previous Advances—Foreign Exchanges Experience Rally.

Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept 13.—The Evening Post in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

"Another week of moderate reaction in the markets has tended to confirm the theory that the decline is due chiefly to the magnitude of the previous advances. Aside from pool issues, there has been comparatively little liquidation. Short selling has disclosed general weakness. Under the influence of cheap money and opportunities for the rise, the market has been overbulled. A corrective reaction, based on profit taking and realisation of the fact that prices could not cheapen indefinitely developed. This reaction has made moderate progress. It may go further. The incentive to buy stocks is offered by the spectacle of rising prices has, for the time being, been removed. The bears are in control of the position. Temporarily they have sentiment somewhat on their side. However, if they again oversell the market they will lay the foundations for another upward movement, because the news from industry and the money market is by no means discouraging.

The Industrial Situation.

Certainly there has been no signs for the worse in industrial affairs. The rebound in the steel industry from the sharp curtailment of the early summer has continued. As has been the case since transportation and other forms of activity attained their present efficiency, changes in the volume of business are quickly followed by changes in production. Since output jumped up sharply during August, after the moment production is holding fairly stationary.

The whole industrial situation, both as between different industries and different companies in the same industry, is "spotty." But this has been "spotty" for some time and is showing a tendency to be more or less so rather than more so. The present indications also confirm the view that no sudden and sharp lightening in the money market is to be expected. The holiday demands for currency have passed, and the passing has brought a correction of discounts and circulation at the reserve banks.

It is an effect the reserve banks which have bought heavily of short term and Government paper, an operation that tends, of course, to make credit cheap. The gold inflow is diminished, but has not been stopped or reversed. There is no gain in domestic business to make any added demands for accommodation at the banks. Foreign finance is the subject of much talk and the larger operations still are matters of immediate import. The examination of the protocols agreed at the London conference indicates that the way has been prepared for a German loan. Further details will be required, however, to work out the details, arrange for the participations, and devise put matters in proper shape. Another two months might be before bonds could be offered the public. Meanwhile other pieces of foreign financing likely to be held in abeyance like a money market is to be left in something approximating it's present condition. The same token American business probably will move during the largely in response to domestic

French Credit Renewal.

After reacting on profit taking the need for dollars created by American purchases of American securities, the foreign exchanges experienced a natural rally. Proval of the $100,000,000 credit France played a part in the ment. It illustrates Europe's to command funds in the American market. After all it is natural that a Europe that is living budgets and entering into plans that will restore economic peace should have the benefit of steady exchanges. Short term to take care of seasonal should be fairly easy to arrange in a country where money become something of a drug the market."

It was a dull period today on Stock Exchange. Where price ges occurred they were for the part unimportant and without significance. Firmness in the for the commodity tended sugar shares from a rut while ing the rails there were signs strength when buying for consion was the generally accredited e. The week-end industrial reads added further to the constive sentiment and gradual exse was thought to be in store long lines of endeavor. Some developed in crude oil prices a dampening effect on pe- shares. Bonds were dull steady.

Foreign Exchanges Steady.

Except for a continuation of the ional rise in Chilean exge the market for foreign bills ained the usual week-end dull- The tone was steady, how- and business at the start was active. Brisk demand in the half hour resulted in a broad in European exchanges with high for the week in guilders 11.53 cents. After this demand had been filled, however, the tone of business contracted and ations narrowed. Leading ncies, including rates on Scandinavia, remained steady. Local exchange dealers were unable to explain the advance of nearly a cent in Chilean pesos during the week with a new high level in today's trading. It was generally believed, however, that this is some way connected with political developments which have shaken the South American republics and a possible Canadian crop of 291,000,000 bushels whereas a month ago it looked as though the Dominion yield would not exceed 250,000,000 bushels was expected and the present price trend seemingly forecasts a desire to have the trade settle on an even keel. Corn also slumped as profit taking developed on the part of Western operators. The trade was prone to regard weather conditions as the dominant factor with the pivotal point hinging on whether maturity would come into the late crop without serious damage by frost. The lowest prices in about two years were reached by cotton. An indicated total supply for world spinners' requirements of 16,000,000 bales appeared to have its weight in speculative consideration of this commodity.

public recently. At 10.40 cents the peso was up nearly a cent since last Saturday and established a new high for several months.

Grain in Reaction.

The forward pace of the two preceding days which advanced wheat more than 6 cents a bushel was halted by a reactionary movement in which several cents were lopped from prices of the active months. Due more than anything else to a covering flurry wheat had gone ahead in a manner suggestive that the lately issued crop report was to be ignored but profit taking was apparent in today's brief session. That some revision of opinion must naturally follow in the wake of the Washington bureau figures indicating the 826,036,000 bushels of wheat in contrast with earlier estimates of 786,000,000 bush-

ACTIVE EXPORT DEMAND IS PRIME FACTOR IN TREND OF WHEAT PRICES DURING WEEK

Corn and Oats Advance in Sympathy With Wheat—Rye Sells Higher Due to Export Demand.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The grain market was strong with advances in all grains during the week ending Sept. 13, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States Department of Agriculture. Wheat prices advanced 6c for the week. The Canadian forecast on Wednesday of 291,000,000 bushels was smaller than had generally been expected and considerable frost damage was thought to have occurred since the compilation of the report, while reports of European crop conditions continued pessimistic. These factors overbalanced the rains reported in Argentina and foreign markets were strong and heavy export sales were reported. British crop authorities estimate the world crop as very little over requirements, and foreign markets proved sensitive to reports of shortages. European buyers were covering their requirements more freely than they have for some time and export sales over Wednesday night and Thursday were estimated at 7,000,000 bushels, including United States spring and winter wheat and a fair amount of Canadian. The flour demand continued good and mills bought freely. The Minneapolis cash market was first in sorts of heavy arrivals, with cash premiums closely following the advance in futures. Choice offerings were in good demand at firm premiums over futures, while lower grades continued to move mainly at future price. Mills were active buyers at Kansas City and Northwestern mills continued to purchase high-protein hard winter wheat. Export demand from the gulf continued active, relieving the congestion at Kansas City, with sales for September 6½c to 7c over Chicago December f. o. b. Marketing of winter wheat continued heavy and exporters were buying all classes of wheat at Wichita. Soft winter wheat continued in active demand with receipts light at St. Louis. Mills were the chief buyers at Cincinnati. The milling demand for durum wheat improved and cash durum was in excellent demand. No. 1 amber sold 1c to 3c over Duluth September, which closed Friday at $1.28¾.

The corn market was firm in sympathy with wheat with higher hog prices and cooler weather in the corn belt strengthening factors. Traders, however, were cautious at present price levels and profit-taking sales checked the advance. The Department's Sept. 1 forecast of 2,513,000,000 bushels was higher than private estimates, but private investigators stressed the poor condition and the prospect of a lower proportion of merchantable corn in case of an early or average frost. Country offerings were reported slightly heavier than for the preceding week, with demand fair. Offerings, however, were readily absorbed. The feeding demand continued light, and the movement of corn was mainly to the industries.

The oats market was firm in spite of the increased heavy movement and with the position of corn and good export demand the chief elements of strength. Receipts at Minneapolis were very nearly set a record and the stocks at this market increased 2,950,000 bushels for the week. Heavy offerings were well absorbed with all classes of domestic buyers in the market. The demand from the South was only fair at Omaha and Kansas City and cereal mills and exporters absorbed all offerings at Milwaukee.

The rye market was very strong with heavy export sales, principally to Germany Norway and Denmark. The Canadian crop was estimated at 12,793,000 bushels against 23,231,000 bushels last year. The demand was active at Minneapolis with mills and exporters competing for receipts, and elevator stocks at the market decreased 810,000 bushels for the week. No. 1 and 2 rye sold largely at 1c over Minneapolis December, which closed Friday at 92¼c, an advance of 6½c for the week.

The barley market was steady. Receipts were liberal at Milwaukee, with a good demand from malsters and exporters and the market was unchanged to 1c lower. Monday's receipts at Minneapolis were heavy and cash prices sagged, but demand improved later in the week and cash barley sold Friday 70c to 83c. Minneapolis September barley closed Friday at 85c, a gain of ¼c for the week.

The demand for flaxseed was good and mills bought steadily. September at Duluth advanced 11 cents for the week, closing Friday at $2.31, but cash flax did not follow the full advance of the futures. Yields 6 to 20 bushels to the acre are reported and the quality of the arrivals has been uniformly good. Some late sown flax was reported to have been damaged by frosts especially in central North Dakota.

WHEAT LOWER FOR DAY BUT HIGHER FOR WEEK AT CHICAGO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept 13.—Grain markets today lost part of advance scored for the week. Speculative confidence was undermined by a report published in one of the morning papers, erroneously crediting the Department of Agriculture with the intention that the prices fixed for the world's wheat situation. Although wheat was 1¼ to 1½c lower than the day before, prices closed 4½c to 5c higher for the week. The features of the week were the bullish Canadian Government report which frightened many of the foreign buyers into anticipating their future needs. European crop news also was very bullish. Indications of liberal needs appear more than confirmed. Today's markets and numerous unloading their wheat because of the statement referred to above, served to emphasize that this statement was issued by the Department of Agriculture. The wheat situation was not so strong today as some reported good export sales and others claimed they were light. No flour sales were available as to the actual volume of business. Shipping sales were 500,000 bu. One vessel room was chartered for 650,000 000 bu wheat.

Corn scored gains of 1¾c to 2¾c for the week despite the fact that today's trading resulted in losses of 1¼c to 2c. The week's feature was the bullish Government report and the unfavorable weather. Local general cash trade was steady but the markets had a badly overbought appearance for a time. At the close today it looked as though liquidation is about over. Cash corn sold readily at unchanged to premiums. Shipping sales were 500,000 bu. Vessel room was chartered for 150,000 bu.

Oats also finished the week with gains. Prices at the close today were 1¼c to 1¾c higher than the previous week, but showed losses of 1½c to 1¾c for the day. Prices early in the week were lower on the bearish Government crop figures. Later in the week the shortage of feedstuff developed the belief that oats would be consumed in greater volume because of this fact. Liquidation was the cause of the weakness today and was stimulated by slumps in other grains. Shipping sales were 86,000 bu. Vessel rooms was chartered for 100,000 bu.

Rye was 3c to 7¼c lower for the day and week. Ribs were 2½c to 10c higher than yesterday and 35c to 50c higher than a week ago. Bellies showed no change for the day, but registered gains of 27½c to 40c for the week. The strength was all noted early in the week and was based on increased foreign buying. Today's market was weak owing to the slump in corn and hogs.

Crude Oil Prices Reduced.

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 13.—The Ohio Oil Co. today reduced the prices of six grades of casing-head white crude oil 10 cents a barrel. New prices are: Lima, $1.75; Indiana, $1.30; Illinois, $1.52; Princeton, $1.32; Trenton, 90c; Illinois Pipe Line, $1.55. The price of Waterloo was cut 20 cents a barrel to 90 cents.

Foreign Exchange

(By leased wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The Evening Post, in its weekly copyrighted foreign exchanges review, says:

"The foreign exchange market developed an unexpected degree of strength in the progress of business during the past week, which could be measured by the fact that demand sterling, after selling at $4.41½ on Monday, rose to $4.46 Friday. This improvement progressed in the face of continued offerings of cotton and grain bills, which became heaviest after a display of strength Friday, but buying by bankers and institutions was effective in absorbing all the offerings from various sources, making the market respond quickly to increased inquiries that came at intervals during the week. It was generally understood that a good part of this buying represented renewed activities by Government agents, and it was insisted in some quarters that when weakness recently occurred declines were due to sales of exchange in order to partly provide for Government payments next December.

"French exchange had a fairly wide range, selling as low as 5.20 for checks on Paris early in the week and then advancing to 5.37. This recovery from a low level is believed to be a result of the announcement that the bankers' con mittee is placing funds which financiers in position to resist any effort to again unsettle French currency. There were wide movements in many other continental exchanges, among them being Dutch exchange, which, after falling to 38.07, came to move 38.50 toward the end of the week. Danish exchange continued an upward movement that had been in progress many weeks, making for a further advance that carried the price of crown checks to 17.50, and the rate is predicted to be reacted to 16.80 and then rallied again. South American exchanges developed strength, Argentine checks rising up about 1 cent to 35.25 and Uruguay rose over 2 cents, both making new highs for this year. Japanese exchange was heavy all through the week, yen checks yielding to 40.75. Canadian exchange, after receding sterling to 4.32 premium.

"Except for a continuation of the sensational rise in Chilean exchange the market for foreign bills Saturday presented the usual week-end dullness. The tone was steady, however, and business at the start was fairly active. Brisk demand in the first half hour resulted in a broad rally in European exchanges with a new high for the week in sullivers a. 38.33 cents. After this demand had been filled, however, the volume of business contracted and fluctuations narrowed. Leading currencies, including rates on Scandinavian exchanges, were steady. Local foreign exchange dealers were unable to explain the advance of nearly a cent in Chilean exchange during the week with a new high level reached in today's trading. It was generally believed, however, that it was in some way connected with the political developments which have shaken the South American republic recently. At 40 cents the peso was up nearly a cent since last Saturday and established a new high for several months, ended to 9-16 discount."

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Sugar stocks were the strong point in a very dull market today, Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, crossing 66, was up over a point. So was Punta Alegre around 56. Some buying came into Cuban Dominican preferred and American Sugar got above 48. The strength in these stocks followed the recent advance in raw sugar prices and the belief that it would carry further.

Among the motors Studebaker was well sustained, but made no progress. Maxwell shares were the feature.

The oil shares continued to feel the depressing influence of Friday's cut in gasoline prices in the Middle West. Talk of Pennsylvania buying caused a further advance in Norfolk & Western at the start but the stock reacted later. Delaware & Hudson was bought by people who reckoned on a separation of the coal and rail properties and the disclosure of a value in the former far greater than anything revealed in present earning statements.

Public utility stocks stood out again. Rumors of a dividend increase were responsible for the strength of Columbia Gas. There was a revival of interest in United Railways. Investment preferred which ran up very sharply. This drew with it in a moderate way Philadelphia company stock.

More light was thrown on the recent strength of Utah Securities today by the report of subsidiaries earnings for August and the 12 months ended Aug. 31. The balance for August after taxes, but before interest, depreciation, etc., amounted to $469,935, as against $432,664 in August, 1923. The 12 months balnace was $5,349,054, as compared with $4,982,467 in the previous year. But probably the idea of a deal with other public utility interests frequently mentioned had more to do with the run up in Utah securities than the report.

The strength of Punta Alegre Sugar was the feature of the sugar group. At the same time ordinarily inactive Cuban Dominican Sugar preferred attracted fresh buying at higher prices. Cuban raw sugar sold at 4¼c a pound, which was practically unchanged from the preceding day. In the case of Punta Alegre Sugar the talk of possibility of higher dividends continues the chief incentive to the buying. Punta now pays $5 a year.

The market closed quite with varying net changes.

The Bond Market.

Prices held firm in today's short session of the bond market. High-grade rails such as Union Pacific first 4s, Atlantic Coast Line 4s and Baltimore & Ohio first 4s all maintained their best prices of the week. The demand for this class of security has been very strong of late notwithstanding the low yield and the belief freely expressed by leaders that prices are around the peak. The buying, however, keeps up especially in the low coupon bonds. Presumably it is banks and financial institutions which have been taking these high-grade bonds. If so, it would indicate that bankers do not expect higher interest rates.

There were some signs today of an increased interest in foreign bonds although prices were only fractionally changed. Belgian 7½s and 8s were in fairly good demand, probably in tardy recognition of the fact that the seasoned Belgian bonds are selling on a higher yield basis than the new 6½s which have enjoyed an advance of two points over the offering price. Belgian 7½s have the additional speculative attraction in that $2,000,000 are called annually, the numbers being drawn by lot at 115. Belgian 8s will also be callable for the sinking fund at 107½ beginning in 1926.

There was also today a better tone for French bonds, both the 8s and the 7½s scoring slight gains. Sentiment was helped by the renewal of the American Bankers' credit to France and the talk about a new French loan to be placed after the German bonds have been marketed.

The rally in St. Paul bonds which followed yesterday's optimistic statement credited to the vice president of the road as to earnings for the balance of the year was maintained in today's market. Prices did not advance, however. On the week the feature has been the collapse in all the junior St. Paul liens, the largest loss being sustained by the 4s of 1925.

International Great Northern adjustments were strong again today above 57 which is a point above the low of the week.

In the tractions the feature today was Hudson and Manhattan incomes approaching 68, only a half point below the high of the year.

New issues this week totaled nearly $46,000,000, the greater part of which were state and municipal offerings.

IMPORTANT CAPITAL ISSUES TO BE FLOATED IN LONDON

Special Wireless to New York Evening Post.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post in financial review today, says:

"Outwardly the stock markets present a cheerful and even a strong appearance. Professional dealing is absent, owing to the holidays. Meanwhile the public steadily buys both investment and speculative descriptions, and, the volume of securities being scarce, prices continue to move ahead, while there is much anxiety about the industrial outlook, owing to impending German competition and indications of labor difficulties here, that circumstance partly helps securities, because it is considered that, without a revival in our trade, dear money is unlikely. This argument, however, is largely unreliable, because German capital requirements are enormous. Already important trusts in London and New York are acquiring interests in German industrial concerns, and if, within the next few months, German marks for capital are foreign rather than local, there is all the greater likelihood of a rise in money rates. The return of financial magnates at the end of the month and the reassembling of parliament are likely to bring many problems.

"Capital issues to be floated this autumn are important. They include a Greek loan, probably for £6,000,000. Possibly there may be a tendency to accelerate the German loan, because the knowledge of it is calculated to restrain the success of other flotations. The best quarters consider that £10,000,000 to £12,000,000 should represent London's maximum for a German loan, leaving the balance chiefly for the United States and partly for the continent.

"The rise in the French bank rate gives a reminder that, despite recent hardening in our money rates, London still is the cheapest monetary center in Europe, which scarcely is consistent with the prospect for large demands for capital likely to be made on this center by Germany and other countries. Nor is it possible to ignore the fact that our advance visible trade balance for the first eight months of the current year of £190,000,000 is £66,000000 greater than a year ago."

IMPORTANT TRANSACTIONS MARK WEEK ON CURB

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Brisk advances in a large number of industrial securities along with recoveries in several higher priced petroleum shares featured an exceptionally active opening for a short session on the Curb Exchange today. Lehigh Valley Coal opened with an overnight gain of half a point, selling at 64 and then rose to 41½. Dubilier Condenser also was strong and American Light and Traction was prominent in the public utilities, moving up about five points.

Prairie Oil became weak soon after the opening when the quotations declined about 4 points. Other issues of that group held fairly steady, however, with the exception of Vacuum Oil and International Petroleum.

Transactions on the Curb assumed quite an important character during the week when the securities traded in were generally of a more substantial kind than has constituted the trading list at any time since this market has been conducted under a roof. This essential change in condition was slow of development but apparently these conditions have become firmly established. In the industrial list the baking group was strong in shares of both United Bakeries and Ward Baking issues being in urgent demand at advances.

Another feature was the initial trading in Pittsburgh Terminal Coal certificates issued, representing segregation of the Pittsburg and West Virginia coal properties. The company's stock started at 42½ and moved up to 52.

Hudson and Manhattan issues also were prominent in trading, the directors taking vote to distribute the holdings of the Hudson Company.

In the petroleum group Vacuum Oil was a strong feature, advancing to 69 on large dealings.

In Financial Field

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—An unusually heavy turnover of funds in the New York Federal Reserve district is expected next Monday as a result of the announcement of United States Treasury's operations up to Sept. 15. The local bank expected to handle in excess of principal and interest payments on Liberty bonds and treasury certificates, which may total $500,000,000. Receipt for the new treasury notes, will approximate $400,000,000, and about $250,000,000 will represent quarterly tax payments. The Government will withdraw from banks in this district $9,482,150 on that date.

Operating income of the Western Union Telegraph Co. in July increased to $1,100,047, compared with $854,119 in July, 1923. Gross was $8,363,239, against $8,078,818. For the seven months to July 31, 1924, however, operating income fell to $7,177,467 from $7,699,988 a year ago. Net profit declined from $4,587,575 to $4,214,304.

Surplus of $10,780,391, reported by the New York Central Railroad to the State Public Service Commission for the quarter ended June 30, shows a gain of $2,814,780, compared with the second quarter of 1923. Total income was $24,108,479 against $23,125,305, while gross revenue fell to $90,477,466 from $112,978,627 in the same period last year.

August surplus of Market Street Railway after charges, but before Federal taxes, was $114,762, against $153,364 in August, 1923, and for eight months in 1924 also before Federal taxes, $904,884, compared with $1,053,868 a year ago.

Railroad Briefs

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Indications that the Southern Pacific will soon take definite steps to bring the Rock Island Railroad into its system at an early date were seen today in reports from Boston that interests believed to be acting for the Southern Pacific had acquired about 200,000 of Rock Island's 750,000 common shares. Reports were current today that approval of the Southern Pacific-El Paso & Southwestern merger now before the Interstate Commerce Commission would be followed by acquisition of the Rock Island. The latter road has been assigned to the Southern Pacific in the commission's tentative consolidation program. Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the Southern Pacific company, recently admitted that an eventual consolidation of the two roads was planned. In addition to the Rock Island and the El Paso & Southwestern, the greater Southern Pacific system proposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission would include the San Antonio & Aransas Pass, Midland Valley, Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific and the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railways.

Sheep Stead yto Strong.

Receipts were generous in the sheep and lamb department last week, offerings for the six-day period totaling 16,750 head, compared with a run of 10,907 for the previous week and 16,750 for the same six days last year. Quality taken as a whole showed very little variation for other weeks recently, a usual large number of native lambs and Southwest offerings making up the greater part of the supply. Buyers were slow to take the plain and half-fat offerings, prices bid on some of the grades being little better than for sales. The commission season opened a very plain run with a slight weakening of prices. Tuesday, however, fully retained the loss and later trading witnessed a top of $14 for lambs to a city butcher. At the week's close prices were generally steady to strong, the Choice lambs quotable in a spread of $12.75 to $13.75, medium to good grades reaching mainly in a range of $11.75 to $12.75. There was a wider spread in prices of thin and plain lambs, selling steady at $7 mostly with skips from $3 to $5, largely. Prices of the aged classes of sheep showed practically no change from the previous week, under a good demand and a light supply. Buyers took the big end of the choice light fat mutton ewes suitable for killing purposes around $5, an occasional offering of the choicest quality going higher. Medium and heavyweight offerings sold at $3.50 to $4.50, depending on weight and quality. Choosers and bucks sold at $2 to $3 and canners at $1 to $1.50. Breeding ewes ranged in price from $6 to $8.50 mostly.

Horses and Mules.

Local horse and mule receipts showed a material increase last week, combined arrivals for the six days totaling 1660 head, over 1000 of which were on commission. Southern demand was again quite broad and fair southern prices and offers likewise the better kinds of cotton mules and feeders maintaining a generally steady level. On many of the other classes of horses and mules, however, a weaker trend developed. The supply of southern mares and geldings, the breeding kinds were the most wanted. Anything in this line that was fat, however, moved without any trouble. Some of the big horses and in-between offerings did not bring very high prices. There was a good demand for thin, half-fat mules for the good of the trade. A clearance, however, was made.

Warden of Sing Sing Prison Declares "Honor System" Is a Remarkable Success

Only About 10 Per Cent of Attempts to Escape, 5 Per Cent of Violent Outbreaks as Compared With Old Plan.

By EDWARD H. SMITH.

A Staff Correspondent of the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.

WHEN it was announced, last week, that the State Prison Commission had approved plans for the construction of a wall to surround the Great Meadow Prison at Comstock, various infatuated editorial and news writers sprang into print with the bald declaration that here was proof that the so-called honor system of penal administration had broken down and been discarded. Great Meadow, they declared, had been built as an honor prison, a place where convicts were to be held without the usual bolts and locks and high stone walls, where they were to till the soil in freedom and be an agricultural community, virtually without any of the usual restraints. Now, at the end of 13 years, it was found necessary to build a wall after all. Ergo, the honor system was a failure.

The vice of all this is that everything is true but the conclusion. Great Meadow was built as an honor prison. It has been operated on this plan for 13 years. It has not been a success. Many mistakes were made. The whole plan was defective. A wall must be built and much other construction carried on before the prison can be of much use to the State. But the honor system is in no wise involved in the matter. It has not failed, and its success or failure could not have influenced the turn of events at Great Meadow appreciably. So this journalistic blast of reaction against the present trend of penological practice is based on nothing but ignorance of the facts.

To determine just what the situation is at Great Meadow, what conditions necessitated the building of the projected wall and what is the present standing of the honor system among convicts, I spent the other morning with Warden Lewis Lawes at Sing Sing and got the appended interview.

Program at Great Meadow.

"The honor system is not a failure," said Warden Lawes, "and the plan to surround Great Meadow Prison with a wall is only indirectly connected with that system. The institution at Comstock was erected in 1911 to meet two lines of modern penal ideas. It was to be, first of all, a prison where honor men could be sent and allowed to work at agriculture without being surrounded by a wall. At the same time it was to be a prison with modern equipment in the matter of room, light, air and sanitation. Great Meadow contains cells for nearly 1200 prisoners. It is surrounded by a state farm of 1100 acres. The plan of its projectors seems to have been to employ all these men on the farm. Accordingly, there were no shops or work provided at Great Meadow and there was no form of employment except that of working the land.

"Under the plan of making Great Meadow an honor prison, its inmates had to be graduated, so to speak, from Sing Sing, Clinton or Auburn. The three older institutions were to send to the newer place such men from among the ranks of their inmates as were considered safe and deserving, such men as could be trusted outside prison walls and away from the constant watchfulness of keepers. By this method Great Meadow has been in recent years the retreat of about 600 chosen convicts forwarded from the other institutions. The number of inmates there has, as stated in the newspapers, never exceeded 650. In other words, the new prison has never been much more than half full. On the other hand, the older or walled prisons are virtually full now and may be seriously overcrowded in the next few months when the courts begin grinding again and sending prisoners to us in numbers.

Prison Reliance on "Trusties."

"On the face of these facts, it might well seem that the plan of placing convicted men on their honor and allowing them outside the walls had proved a failure, but the truth is otherwise.

"First of all, the farming plan at Great Meadow proved a blunder. Not more than about 10 per cent of the land is arable, which means a 110-acre farm. The rest of the land, as suggested in the report, is fit only for dairy purposes or grazing. Consequently, since there were originally no industries at Great Meadow, that comparatively small farm had to provide the work for 1200 men, an utter impossibility. By putting in a stonecrushing plant and providing some minor shops it was possible, later, to keep 600 men more or less occupied at the prison, but no more.

"Another factor which upset the Great Meadow plan is to be found in the circumstance that the other prisons cannot and will not transfer all their honor men. At Sing Sing, for instance, we have about 350 honor or outside men working and sleeping outside the walls, most of them employed on the new building work. We cannot dispense with them to fill up Great Meadow. The same is true at Clinton and Auburn. No prison can denude itself of its trusties. We must retain at least enough to carry on our own work.

Time Test for Honor Men.

"We must consider also what an honor man is and how he is chosen. We may get a man here who has only one or two years to serve and who is yet, in our judgment, a desperate man who cannot be trusted outside. He is not an honor man. On the other hand, we may have a man serving a life term whom we have known intimately, 24 hours a day, for nine or 10 years. We feel sure of what he will do. He is an honor man. He is allowed outside, but it took him 10 years, let us say, to get to that point in our confidence. The more common type of honor man has four or five years to serve. After he has been with us a year or two and we have had a chance to know him exceedingly well he is ready to go to the outside assignment or to Great Meadow. It will be seen that in all cases these honor men have to spend from one to several years in the other prisons before they can be made ready for the honor list or for the unwalled institution. Thus, the number of such men is limited by purely physical factors.

"All these conditions being considered, the Prison Commission decided not that the honor system was a failure but that the Great Meadow Prison was a mistake, that it stood there with about 600 idle cells for which there were no suitable convicts who could be spared from the other institutions, even if there were work for them after they had been transferred. To make these cells available and to fill up the prison relieving the congestion in the other institutions, the commission felt that it must build a wall and provide Great Meadow with shops and industries sufficient to employ the 1200 men for whom there are cells. In other words, the whole thing is a matter of practical expediency."

How It Works in Sing Sing.

"How about the working of the honor system in Sing Sing, for instance?" I wanted to know. "Do you consider it a success? Are the men better off? Is there less trouble and violence? Are there, as the public has been led to be-

What Chemists Are Doing "To Save Civilization" Revealed When They Talk Shop at Convention

"FUTURE OF HUMANITY BEING WORKED OUT IN TEST TUBES"

Problems of Life, Industry and Transportation Being Worked Out on Great Scale to Enable the World to Survive the Conditions That Threaten to Overwhelm Its Growing Population Outlined and Studied When Thousand Men Who Are Thus Occupied Meet.

By ERNEST BRENNECKE,

A Staff Correspondent of the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 12.

"SIXTY-TWO thousand million dollars at stake—

"The most amazing civilizing development in history—

"The solution of the problem of feeding the world—

"The saving of hundreds of human lives—

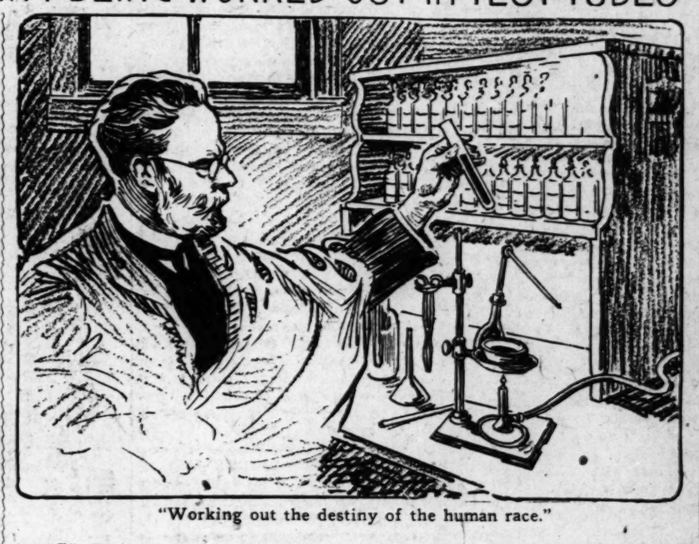
"A continent made habitable."

These are a few of the many pretty sweeping phrases which have been bandied about at Ithaca during the last few days. The men who uttered them were not merely playing with words in idleness. They were in deadly earnest, convinced in their hearts of the overwhelming importance of what they had to say, for every living human being.

They were gathered together, a thousand of them, within the walls of Cornell University. They were all fellows who made it their daily business to tinker with glass test tubes, bunsen burners and brittle microscope slides—every one a chemist. They had come together simply to "talk shop" for five full days. It was the sixty-eighth semiannual meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Now why should these dry-mannered men with acid-stained fingers indulge in all this grandiose phrase-making? Enormous wealth, civilization, food, life—could these things really have anything to do with alkalis, ammonia sulphate, carbon dioxide and the like, nay even be dependent upon them? Or were the phrases just the pure swank of science-tinkers swelled up by a false sense of their own importance?

Well—merely a list of the names and accomplishments of the principal speakers at Ithaca should be enough to dispose of that supposition. There was Dr. Leo Hendrik Baekel, and inventor of the "Bakelite" used in every radio outfit, and professor of chemical engineering at Columbia University. There was Sir Robert Robertson, chief Government chemist of Great Britain and President of the chemistry section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science; and President Livingston Farrand of Cornell. There was Sir Max Muspratt, former Lord Mayor of Liverpool, England's leading industrial engineer; and there was Dr. J. S. McHargue of the Kentucky agricultural station.



"Working out the destiny of the human race."

$60,000,000,000 Debt to Chemistry

The eminence, authority, honesty, carefulness of men like these cannot be questioned. Is there, therefore, truth in what they have to tell us? And must we really believe that the plodding professors really control the amount of money flowing through your pockets and mine, the quality of the clothes on our backs and of the food we eat, the state of our bodily health—in short, that these individuals actually hold our fortunes and our very lives in their hands? For those are the things they are asking us to believe today.

The science of chemistry, they have declared, is responsible for more than one-half of the nation's total industrial output; chemistry affords us the only possibility of conserving our vanishing resources; upon chemistry depends the progress of medicine in its eternal battle against disease and death. The whole future of our civilization, in short, is in the hands of the chemist.

Let us try and see how they back up these amazing claims for their profession.

Industry in America consists of the conservation of natural resources into products which the consumer can use. In this conversion chemistry plays the leading roll, according to the general statement issued by the society. One illustration will almost suffice to bring home this point.

Take steel: Our Twentieth century is truly the age of steel. Transportation depends on steel rails, automobiles on their hearts of steel, their engine cylinders; skyscrapers on their steel depend absolutely on their chemical composition. Small quantities of impurities can ruin the quality of the substance. Other substances greatly increase in strength. Thus the whole steel industry depends on chemistry. Likewise the paint and dye industry, the preserved food industry, the brick industry—and practically every other.

It has been estimated that over $60,000,000,000 is now invested in this country in industries more or less dependent on chemical products. This represents more than one-half of the nation's manufactures. And inasmuch as the nation's wealth depends largely upon the prosperity of its manufactures, it follows that chemistry is a controlling factor in the economic condition of each citizen's pocketbook.

Agriculture and Conservation

As the country's population increases, the problem of finding an adequate supply of food for everybody becomes more and more pressing. The life of man depends on the sustenance he can wrest from the ground. How, then, can the earth be made more fertile, in order to bear more food for the ever-growing human family? The fertility of the earth depends upon certain very definite substances needful for growth. These are not always present in the soil. Chief among them are phosphates, potash and nitrogen in combined forms. These must be employed more and more as population increases.

"One of the most important of all recent scientific achievements," declared Sir Max Muspratt in his address, "is the discovery and development of chemical methods for extracting nitrogen from the air for use in fertilizers and in explosives. In our pre-war days of ignorance, every field and every country in the world had its own nitrogen fertilizer production hanging up above it, and did not know how to use it. But now, stupendous results will soon be achieved by phosphates—and this may solve the problem of feeding the world for all time. Chemical advance will revolutionize mankind and will serve as a guide to human effort. Through chemistry, man is now on the eve of the most amazing civilizing development in history."

When Resources Are Exhausted

Aside from the problem of food, there exists the absolute certainty that in time the natural resources of our country will be exhausted. The ground underneath our feet simply does not contain enough iron, enough coal, enough oil, to last us forever.

How, then, are we going to get material to build our machinery, fuel to keep us warm and to drive our locomotives and motor cars? Substitutes for these precious necessities must be discovered in time, if our scientific and industrial civilization is to continue. But no one save the chemist can possibly make these necessary discoveries. If he makes them, civilization is saved; if he does not, man will not be able to multiply, perhaps not even to survive. The future flourishing, or death, of the human race thus may depend entirely upon the chemist.

The human body is nothing more than a chemical machine, composed of some 20 different elements, combined into nerves, blood cells, tissue, bones, muscles, in an infinite number of complex ways. This human machine is driven by the chemical energy released by the slow burning up of carbon compounds. Obviously, a complete knowledge of the working of this machine is dependent ultimately upon the knowledge of its chemical reactions.

This was the attitude toward human health voiced by Dr. S. P. L. Sorenson of the Calberg Laboratory of Copenhagen, when he discussed the methods which chemists have devised for driving out, killing or rendering impotent those tiny germs which get into our blood, poison us and condemn us to the ravages of dreadful diseases.

The Endless Battle With Microbes

The microbes which destroy us do so by producing from the various compounds, which they find in our systems, deadly poisons. Nature combats these poisons by forming other substances, which combine with them to form harmless matter. Gradually chemistry has learned to manufacture such protective substances outside the human body, to inject them at the proper time and thus aid Nature in combating the microbes and their poisons.

Thus the modern chemist, by deliberately manufacturing a compound that does the most damage to the body poison and the least to the normal parts of the system, has largely relieved the physician from the chance and guesswork which was for many years associated with his profession.

In former times, too, a dose that was aimed at a disease germ was as likely as not to kill a healthy cell. But now chemistry has put into the hands of the doctor a rifle instead of a shotgun, and medicines are being made that actually hit the mark, and nothing else.

This line of thought is practically identical with that adopted by Dr. H. H. Dale, president of the section of physiology, in his recent address before the British Association at Toronto.

Some Recent Medical Developments

"Chemotherapy," he said, "may be defined as the specific treatment of infections by artificial remedies. These remedies are like magic bullets, constrained by a charm to fly straight to their specific objectives, and to turn aside from anything else in their path."

In reviewing the accomplishments and expected accomplishments which followed upon this joining together of the forces of chemistry and medicine, the meeting at Ithaca brought forward the following items of interest:

"Bayer 205," a dye-compound discovered in Germany, and "pasteur 309" probably the same thing rediscovered by Fourneur in France, now promises, as a cure for African sleeping sickness, to make half a continent habitable.

It is hoped that "optochin," a derivative of quinine, may eventually become a specific for pneumonia, although it is still too poisonous to be used in sufficient quantities in the body.

Acids taken out of chaulmoogra oil and combined with ethyl alcohol have been found to combat leprosy successfully.

Certain natural secretions of the body organs have been isolated and manufactured. The most spectacular of these in its effects is insulin, the famous remedy for diabetes.

A new field has been opened up in the study of vitamines. It has been discovered that codliver oil contains substances which prevent rickets in children deprived of adequate sunlight.

It is still a mystery why these vitamines

U. S., Germany and Russia Alone Can Restore Trust in League, Lloyd George Says

'Until These Nations Join, Its Decisions Will Be Viewed With Suspicion by All Countries Defeated in World War.'

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, M. P.
War-Time Premier of Great Britain.

(Copyright, 1924.)

LONDON, Sept. 13.

THE great peace demonstration at Geneva, which was to be the peroration of London, has ended in emphasizing the fundamental disagreements of Britain and France. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's pronouncement on peace and universal concord has infuriated Frenchmen of all sections and divided Europe into two rival camps. The Right and the Left in France are, for the first time, in agreement. They both profess unqualified disappointment, rising into indignation, over the British Premier's declaration. His apologists can only plead that he was vague and merely meant to be rhetorical and not mischievous.

When it was officially announced that M. Herriot and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald meant to travel together to the Genevan shores, it was assumed they had a common message to deliver to the expectant nations. It is now quite clear that the two Premiers had never compared notes before they left for Geneva. The Chequers' mistake has been repeated. They interchanged platitudes, perfumed with the incense of the applauding multitudes from the Clyde to the Saone, and took it for granted that a repetition of these phrases meant agreement. But they both disdained particulars as a menace to harmony. Hence, the unfortunate discord of Leman coming so soon after the accord of London.

Will Revise London Terms.

It was appropriate that the League of Nations should discuss peace arbitration and disarmament. That is its main function. Every year since its foundations were laid at Versailles (for the covenant of the league is the first section of the treaty of Versailles) debates of the same kind have adorned its annual assembly and orations of the same high order have thrilled and inspired its delegates. Nevertheless it remains that every effort made by the league to negotiate reduction of armaments amongst its members has failed, and that the only effective international agreement to reduce armaments was reached at a conference summoned outside the league by a Power which had refused membership. It is further true that the one question which, since the war, has disturbed the peace of Western Europe has just been debated and "settled," for the fourth time, at a conference for which the league had not the slightest responsibility and to the counsels of which it was not asked to afford the slightest help.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald says that the results of the conference have changed the outlook in Europe. Let us hope so. It is too early yet to predict with confidence the effect on peace of pouring fresh blood into the depleted veins of Germany. A full-blooded Germany will not be as submissive as an anaemic Germany. It, therefore, requires no special foresight to prophesy another conference in a couple of years to revise the London terms. That, also, I trust, will end in another "permanent settlement," further improving the outlook. Be that as it may, it will certainly result in lightening the terms of the last conference, for the allies will then encounter a stronger and a more defiant Germany.

But from the point of view of the league, the outstanding fact is that, in the working out of the London settlement, for better or for worse, it was completely ignored. Many a time have I heard the Coalition Government denounced by Socialist orators for not summoning their conference on reparations through the agency of the League of Nations. We were told that the league was being snubbed and disdained by open and hidden enemies. Now that these critics are in office, one finds the same old and condemned methods adopted for the smoothing of difficulties which have arisen in operating the treaty of Versailles. When there is any business to be done, they call together the same old supreme council of signatories of the treaty in order to transact affairs and when there is only talking to be done, they hie off to Geneva to pour out platitudes about peace arbitration and disarmament into the blue waters of the Rhone.

Mussolini Defied the League.

The only other question which, within the last year or two, has constituted a menace to peace has been the invasion of Corfu by Italy. Here Signor Mussolini successfully defied the league and the other Powers tamely acquiesced in his contemptuous rejection of league intervention.

Three years ago there was another serious dispute which disturbed the harmony of the nations—the partition of Silesia. M. Briand and I agreed to refer this troublesome tangle to the decision of the League of Nations. It is notorious that the league handled it in a manner which impaired confidences in its impartiality. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald glanced at this unhappy award in his Geneva speech. There is no doubt that the manner in which judgment was manipulated on that occasion has delivered a blow at the prestige of the league from which it will take years of sound work to recover. To put it quite candidly, whilst Britain stood on one side and did not seek to influence the tribunal, France threw the whole of her great weight and authority against Germany and, by means of certain instruments who are always ready to her hand to carry out, clandestinely, projects which she is too proud to undertake herself, guided the referees to a sinister and mischievous decision which will constitute a source of peril to European peace for many a year to come.

Nothing but a thorough reconstitution of the league will enable it to overcome the legitimate distrust of its impartiality, created by this malodorous incident. Can that be accomplished? And how? There is an essential condition. The league must represent all the great nations of the earth and not merely a few. Until America, Germany and Russia join the league, its decisions in international disputes will be viewed with suspicion by all the nations who were defeated in the Great War. To these Russia must, for this purpose, be added. The Russian Government took note of the full meaning of the Silesian award and of the repeated failures of the league to control the aggressions of Poland. Russia is convinced that France, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia run the league for their own purposes. Hence, the contempt with which the Russian Foreign Office always treats that body.

All Depends on America.

Germany is naturally distrustful of the league. Two or three years ago the British Government offered formally to support any application made by Germany to join the league and the council of the league. Italy also promised support. If the application had been forthcoming, there is no doubt that Germany would then have been admitted. But the Ger-

Trade buying steadied the 22.02c for December, however, and ly became a little more active on of further heavy rains in the The trade here yesterday was evidently inclined to believe that the rains was as much good as harm but the additional precipitation reported this morning seemed to create uncertainty. This to stimulate covering for over the and for a time the market showed erable firmness, selling up to 22.60c October and 22.35c for January. mand failed to broaden materially advance, and when the more buying by shorts had been supplied reacted under renewed liquidation Southern selling. The close was 16 points off from the best.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 98,000 bales, against 114,000 last year. Liverpool cables indicated that the tone of the market had been steadied at the decline by the sellers calling and a moderate demand.

The publication of the Government report during the week was followed by general selling and a weaker tone in prices. The official condition of the crop was not far out of line with the trade and private reports which had been previously. There had recently been considerable uncertainty as to the Government's ability to hold selling in check pending publication, however, and when this certainty was relieved the market developed under reselling by recent buyers, and there also appeared to be an increasing pressure of Southern hedging with various sources. Considerable support appeared to be for trade account developed on the weakness, particularly at such points as 22.60c for October and 22.00c for December, but again at 23.00c for October and 22.50c for December, but there was a new supply of selling and the market turned weak toward the end of the week when October receipts broke through 22½ cents and December declined to approximately 22 cent level. There were rallies on reports of general rains in the Western belt, but while it was felt that these rains would probably improve the grade of open cotton, there were a number of reports that the moisture was also delaying fitting later cotton and might improve the staple. On the whole the optimistic tone of the rain news appeared to be overdone in the market, which was still more or less feverish and unsettled late in the week. Local traders realized that there are several weeks of uncertainty before the crop, including the possibility of frost or more violent rains or the chance of early killing frost, but the attitude of these operators appears to be caused by the increasing new crop movement and the expectation of still heavier daily receipts. As receipts begin to pile up in the belt, the market is expected to be influenced largely on the development of the attitude of spinners is being watched for any indication of a broadening of demand to promote absorption of the early receipts.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Trading in cotton cloth market today was quiet, the prices shaded slightly on print cloths and sheetings. Burlap prices were marked up in active trading, following an advance in primary quotations. Raw silk quotations were firm, although there was little activity in the local market. The American Woolen Company is expected to open its women's wear lines for forthcoming fall and winter weavings, suitings, sweaters and knit goods.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—Wool sales continued firm although caution was manifested on the part of manufacturers. Ohio declines now are being offered around 60c in the grease while pulled wools have moved up to $1.10 a pound clean. Boston basis. Fine territory wool is quoted as high as $1.40, although buyers are shying at such prices.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Klan Teachings Un-American.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE just read the letter in today's issue of your paper signed by Mr. John C. Cummings, 5402 Bartmer avenue, in which he states that "the big fight that the klan is making is against the violators of the prohibition laws, and not against men because of their race or religion. The latter two issues are merely smoke screens," etc.

I wish to state that I am neither a Catholic, Jew, bootlegger or a member of the "invisible empire," and my skin is white. I have two brothers who are Baptist ministers and I know that so long as the Constitution of the United States stands they can lawfully preach what they believe. True, the time has already come when intimidation at the hands of the K. K. K. has tried to prevent one of them from so doing. But under that Constitution which guarantees religious freedom to everyone so far as the Federal Government is concerned, my brothers have no more religious rights than have the Jews or Roman Catholics. And any man or group of men who would make a man's religious views a test of his fitness for citizenship with all its privileges is against that Constitution, no matter how much they prate about upholding it.

As a good klansman, I hardly think Mr. Cummings would argue that the teaching of the Jewish or Catholic religion is a good thing for the country. I know of but two ways of preventing their teaching their different views. One lawfully; the other with a mob. If done lawfully we must change our Constitution and enact a statute stating that protestantism is the true religion. Next we must decide by a vote of Congress which branch of the Protestant religion is the true religion and maybe when we elect a new Congress they will decide that the previous Congress was wrong and that we had been compelled by law to believe an untrue religion, and would pass a new law compelling us to change our minds and believe something else. That is the way it was done a few centuries ago, but, thanks to the men who wrote and adopted our Constitution, both Protestants and Catholics, we have never done it that way in this country and the knights of the Ku Klux Klan is the only body of men that I know of who have ever questioned their wisdom.

E. C. ARNOLD, Cairo, Ill.

A Difference of Opinion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AS an American I feel exactly as you do about the recent outrages in Williamson County, Ill. As a lawyer I am constrained to say that your editorial, "Federal Law and the Klan," is grossly misleading. The Federal statute which you quote does not mean what you think it means, and would be unconstitutional if it did. The statute protects a citizen in any right "secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States." The ordinary right to enjoy life, liberty and property, without interference by klan or antiklan, is not a Federal right at all. It is a state right. The right to use the Post Office is a Federal right. The right not to be shot at is a state right. The statute which you quote was fully expounded by the Supreme Court in 1876. See the Cruikshank case, 92 U. S. 542. TYRRELL WILLIAMS.

Power of Supreme Court.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHILE it is true that it might be dangerous to adopt the La Follette proposal giving Congress power, by a two-thirds vote, to repass laws declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court, as is done in the case of presidential vetoes, it is equally dangerous to permit that court, by a five-to-four decision, to override the wishes of the people, as expressed by their representatives in Congress. Why should one man in the Supreme Court have power to set aside an act of Congress when that power is denied to the President of the United States? That one Supreme Court Judge is not infallible nor is his opinion, necessarily, to be preferred to those of his four associates who are on the side of Congress and the people. The dangerous power to declare laws unconstitutional should be exercised by the Supreme Court only by unanimous vote or, at least, by decision of six or seven Judges out of the nine.

The Supreme Court has reversed itself on numerous occasions and has made decisions which do not seem just or right to the ordinary observer. Why did that court kill the child labor law and permit the prohibition act to become a law, which, you say, "is the triumph of a tyranny which the framers of the Constitution sought forever to curb"? In 1894 that court, by a five to four decision, declared an income tax law to be constitutional, and reversed itself by a five to four vote inside of 30 days, when one of the Judges resigned and a new one was appointed. It necessitated a constitutional amendment. In 1876, that court voted in the eight to seven decision, which deprived Tilden of the presidency by one electoral vote, though he had a 250,000 popular majority and the support of a Democratic Congress. One-man decisions, therefore, which cannot be reversed, are exceedingly dangerous. They are Czar-like in a free republic. JEFF MACKAY.

MR. DAWES' DEMAGOGISM.

In his so-called "brass tack" campaign Mr. Dawes arraigns Senator La Follette in his home State. In a learned exposition of the mind of the mob and the workings of the mob spirit, he charges La Follette with an attempt to destroy the Constitution by taking away the power of the Supreme Court to determine the constitutional validity of acts of Congress; and, beyond that, of rank demagogism in harping on the control of the Government by the money power. He defines his leadership as mob leadership which, if successful, will overthrow constitutional free government and lead to Bolshevism. So far as the Constitution is concerned, Mr. Dawes is right in denouncing the plank of Senator La Follette's platform which would destroy or weaken the function and power of the Supreme Court to restrain Congress from enacting measures in violation of the Bill of Rights and other restrictions of the Constiution on the Government.

Of the three branches of government established by the Constitution—the executive, legislative and judicial—one is as important as the other in maintaining constitutional free government. The Supreme Court was intended to be the bulwark of the constitutional rights of citizens against invasion and violation by the executive and the legislative branches.

When, however, Mr. Dawes sweepingly denounces La Follette's platform as destructive and his whole leadership as mob and Bolshevistic leadership because he attacks privilege and the domination of wealth in governmental affairs, he is as demagogic as he charges La Follette with being. His denunciation of La Follette for attacking the domination of Wall street and the money power in government does not answer Senator La Follette's charges. It does not answer Mr. La Follette's charges of corruption in the administration and the betrayal of the public interests by Fall and Denby and Daugherty. It does not answer the charge of privilege embodied in the infamous Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, by which protected interests plunder the people. It does not answer the charge that there is a plutocracy, a dominant money power, which controls the action of government for its own benefit. It does not answer the charge that the big interests, through governmental favor or inaction, are profiteering and plundering the people. It does not answer the charge that the natural resources of the country are being exploited with Governmental consent or connivance for the benefit of rich and powerful interests which support the Republican party.

Does Mr. Dawes deny that there are any evils in the Government at Washington? Does he deny that there was corruption in the administration, and that the public interests were betrayed in the oil leases? Does he deny that there is any privilege and favoritism in the tariff of abominations? He is silent on the subject. He does not say a word in reply to the actual charges of Senator La Follette. He does not attempt to meet the charges against the tariff and other privileges and the manifest betrayals of public interest which are charged by both Mr. La Follette and Mr. Davis, the Democratic candidate.

Mr. Dawes has not said a word about his own connection with the Lorimer scandal.

The "brass tacks" Mr. Dawes is driving are being driven only in the opposition. He is speaking out only in denunciation of the alleged sins of Mr. La Follette and Mr. Davis. He carefully avoids getting down to brass tacks about the great sins of the Republican administration. He has no remedies to offer for obvious sins of omission and commission of which the Republican administration and the Republican party have been guilty. He has no remedies to offer for manifest governmental evils and popular oppressions.

Senator La Follette says, in reply, that the worst attack on constitutional free government lies in official corruption which has despoiled the public domain and betrayed the people. He might well add that the worst kind of attack on constitutional free government and the stability of American institutions lies in privilege, in governmental favoritism, and in the domination of plutocracy in governmental counsels by which equal rights and equal opportunities are denied to the masses of the people.

The rule of the mob does not arise from mob leadership. It arises from governmental evils and abuses and oppressions, without which mob leadership would be powerless. If we do not have an honest, liberal Government which protects the rights of the people and promotes their interests against all special interests, we shall have radicalism and Bolshevism, and sooner or later they will be in power.

As for Canon Chase, let it be gratefully recorded that he did his best to prevent that Wills-Firpo scrap.

THE LIVING-DEAD LEAGUE.

The League of Nations is dead. So many times has the world been told so, by the American isolationists, that surely it must be true. Yet it is difficult to understand the remarkable activity at Geneva, where the exceedingly active ghost of the League is in fifth annual convention with itself.

When the League—in the days when it was assumed to be alive—held its first meeting, 41 nations were represented as members. That was only four years ago. Now 54 nations sit in the assembly at Geneva. The difference between 41 and 54 being 13, and 13 being an unlucky number, of course things look mighty bad for the League. Again of course, if the present number of nations in the League were 28 instead of 54, things would look still badder.

At the first session of the League no Premiers were present. Three Premiers made the opening of this spook session interesting, if not significant, by their presence. They are not, however, Premier Hughes of the United States, nor the Premiers of Russia and Germany. Those three nations still remain outside the League, and thus they are debarred from the joy of the great ghost dance at Geneva. Turkey also is outside, but all the rest of the nations worth mentioning are League members and are sitting in at the obsequies. Incidentally, 400 newspaper correspondents are present, writing up the amazing funeral.

Each of these 54 nations is deluded by the notion that the League still lives. In all the history of humanity we have no record of such a wholesale delusion. Such nations as the British Empire, the Republic of France and the Kingdom of Italy share in the silly assumption that the convocation at Geneva is thoroughly alive, that the League has accomplished much good and is certain to accomplish much more. Now isn't that an astounding situation?

The League, of course, is dead, but out of its demise has developed the most provokingly active and persistently palpable ghost of which we have knowledge.

POLITICS AND THE ROADS.

The State Democratic platform is silent on initiative proposal No. 5, which is designed to speed up road construction by increases in the price of motor licenses, levying a gasoline tax and authorizing the Highway Commission to use the remainder of the road bonds at the rate of $15,000,000 a year. The silence seems to have been dictated by politics—by a determination on the part of the Democratic convention not to indorse anything done or proposed by the Hyde administration.

It is easy to understand why such a sentiment should prevail among the Democrats. In 20 years Missouri has had no administration so persistently and at times stupidly partisan as the Hyde administration. The partisan indignation and anger of the Democrats is amply justified, according to partisan reasoning. Just the same the Democratic convention, in our judgment, did not even play good politics in declining to indorse proposal No. 5. For this proposal is an indictment of the Hyde administration's political, bungling mismanagement of the road project.

The road situation is precarious. It can only be saved by the ratification of proposal No. 5. If that proposal fails road construction will cease at the beginning of next year.

Our Highway Commission at present is operating on borrowed capital, so to speak.

Under the law it can issue only $5,000,000 of road bonds a year. This year it is issuing $10,000,000 of those bonds—the allowance for 1924 and 1925. It is doing this on the strength of Attorney-General Barrett's ruling, which was an emergency ruling to meet a crisis—a political ruling made necessary by the mess into which the Hyde administration's political juggling had plunged the road project.

If the proposal is beaten the Highway Commission at the end of this year will have all the bond money for 1925 contracted and not another dollar of that fund will be available until 1926. Of course, the 1925 session of the General Assembly can relieve the situation in part, but only in part. For no matter what that assembly does construction will come to a stop and will be resumed after an indefinite interval and on such a scale as the action of the 1925 assembly will make possible. This interruption, long or short, will probably necessitate the disruption of the present road organization and will postpone completion of the system indefinitely. In the judgment of Chairman Gary of the Highway Commission it may wreck the entire project.

That is the status of our road project. For this the Hyde administration is solely responsible. From the outset Gov. Hyde has played politics with the road project. He capped the climax last fall when he refused to call a special session of the Legislature as recommended by his own appointee, Chairman Gary. It was politics, and nothing but politics, that influenced Gov. Hyde to turn down that recommendation, and it was politics that prompted Chairman Gary's acquiescence in the Governor's decision.

But the fact that Gov. Hyde has made a political football of the road project is no justification for the Democrats to do the same thing. If there is one enterprise under the sun that ought to be above partisan politics it is this road project. It is a proposition on which either party ought proudly to be right, regardless of the other party's attitude. The sins of the Hyde administration should not be visited on the people of Missouri. Certainly the Democratic party should not be the agency to inflict this curse upon the State.

The Democratic candidates for State offices should repair the omission in their platform by supporting proposal No. 5 and urging citizens everywhere to vote for it. So, too, should the Republican candidates, but they shbuld not present it as an administration measure. They should be as mute as silent Cal himself on the administration's timid, sordid, contemptible road record.

Proposal No. 5 should be supported by all candidates of all parties not as partisans but as Missourians.

WIPING OUT FAMILIES.

"Three grade-crossing crashes cost six lives," is the kind of heading one expects to see in almost every daily newspaper. That was a news caption on Sept. 8. And it is getting to be quite common for entire families to be wiped out by these grade-crossing accidents, six of one family being killed near Appleton, Wis., on Sept. 1, and a father, mother and daughter at Marion, O., on the same day. It is usually a pleasure party composed of adults and children—gay, innocent, valuable citizens, whose tragic taking off is always to be deplored.

Warnings, posters and other methods of guarding against these accidents are, it is to be hoped, saving many lives. But the only real cure for the condition is the elimination of every one of these grade crossings. Not another should be permitted to be constructed, and every Legislature and railway corporation should move towards the costly but absolutely necessary ideal of bridging or tunneling every one of these death traps.

A NEW LEAF FOR THE LOEBS.

The zealous determination of the parents of Richard Loeb to end careers of idleness in their family is almost pathetic. The ideal of most parents to give their children more ease than their parents had has lost its charms for them. They are going to make their son, Thomas, now 12, a man of earthy toil without privilege or respite. He must report to the superintendent of their private dairy every morning at dawn and work up an appetite for breakfast carrying milk and making himself useful. After breakfast he becomes a common farm hand. This routine, of course, obtains only when school is not in session.

Manual labor undoubtedly will teach young Thomas a humility and appreciation of the struggles of his fellow men such as the elder brother never was taught and apparently never learned. It will present him with a fair sample of the burdens of life which are the making of men. To depend on a straight diet of manual labor for the desired results, however, is another matter. The general verdict seems to be that the rearing of children cannot be wholly delegated. It probably will not be in the case of Thomas Loeb. As a reaction to his elder brother's mad plunge into the abyss the poor little rich lad may become the victim of an overdose of "bringing up."

What an age!
We get up in the morning.
How beautiful it is!
How sweet and how peaceful!
It is as if the day had broken to soothe us.
As if life, the incorrigible, promised amends.

Then we go to breakfast and pick up the newspaper.
Alas, the woes of the world!
Shipwrecks in which the ships are still going down and we can hear the shrieks of the dying.
Riots.
Fires.
Fights.
Accidents.
Holdups.
Quarrels.
Murders.
Shouts.
Curses.
Somebody has been struck by a street car.
Somebody else has gone through a show window.
There is an earthquake in progress in the Pacific.
A flood is washing away a town in New England.

We have only to close our eyes and listen and we can hear fast trains hitting automobiles.
The war in Morocco droning.
The cries of the victor.
The groans of the vanquished.
Caesar's commentaries from the field by radio.
Yelps of distress.
Prayers for bread.
Shrieks for mercy.
It is either "O God!" "O Allah!" or "O Buddha!"

What a morning, too!
Damn the news! you exclaim.
Damn the telegraph.
Telephone.
Wireless.
Radio.
Damn the printing press.
Damn everything that destroys our peace of mind.
That intrudes upon us the woes and griefs of the world.

Think of Daniel Boone.
He could eat his breakfast.
When he sat down in the wilderness his soul could sit by his side.
He knew nothing of the woes of Europe.
The wars of Asia.

The Indians might be scalping his brother-in-law within a mile, but Daniel could still eat his breakfast.
By the time outside news reached him it had become history.
You know how exciting that is.
So grew he great in spirit and strong in resolution.
Self-contained.
Blessed was the pioneer.

Is it any wonder that our nerves are frayed?
That we have St. Vitus dance?
That our chief relaxation is speeding?
That judges are puzzled whether to hang or jail us?
That we die young?
That the wagon backs up for somebody every few minutes?

That if someone no more than sighs "O my;" we instinctively exclaim, "My God, what is it?

No, gentle reader.
It is no wonder.
But what an age!

A MYSTIC SPIDER.

Sir: If the mystic spider is a true prophet, J. W. Davis is to be the next President of the United States.

For two months past a number of the citizens of Prairie du Rocher, Ill., have been watching the maneuvers of a large green striped spider above the top of the door in front of the Krebs general store. He writes one day and tears it down, or at least it disappears; then he builds or writes again the plain letters, "J. W. Davis." Now, this spider may not know Mr. Davis. In fact, he may not know there is such a thing as letters; but why does he do it? The same thing happened before the Wilson election by a spider in Missouri, and the same thing happened before the Republican nomination for Governor in Kansas, naming W. Y. Morgan. Why?

Sol Smith was a stage-struck Yankee who went into the show business 100 years ago. In his latest book, The Actor's Heritage, Walter Prichard Eaton describes some of the performances that Smith used to give before his audiences of hard-boiled frontiersmen. One of Sol's greatest successes was Pizzarro, an 18-act drama, in which he acted the parts of several generals, an assassin, the entire Spanish army, the High Priest of the Sun, a sentinel, and a fife and drum corps. The stage measured eight by ten, which was just as well, for when one of the characters was killed he had to fall into the wings in such a way as to be able to play his own dirge on the piano as the curtain went down.

SUMMER LULLABYS.

In the heat of the day
When the water's voice is still,
And white clouds lie in the shimmering sky
Like sheep asleep on a hill,
Then the pines in the grove, low murmuring,
Sing to the wind, a-dreaming—
Wrap her in shade and a cool coverlaid
Where thin gold threads are gleaming.
And dragonflies with gorgeous eyes
Weave her about with lullabys.

Out in the hot bright sun
Meadows are fainting and sweet,
With flowers that sigh and droop and die
For a touch of the wind's light feet—
But under the pines, slow swaying,
The weary wind is sleeping
And wrought in her dream is the pale sunbeam
That light on her cheek in creeping.
And dragonflies in tender wise
Loop her about with lullabys.

Here in this pleasant place
Fern and moss knee-deep
Make a soft bed to pillow the head
Of him who would dream or sleep,
And the pines above, soft singing,
Whisper, "Be still—be still"—
"For the dew yet lies in the buttercup's eyes,
Though the hot sun parches the hill.
Sleep, sleep, till shadows creep,
And the wind awakes to walk the deep."

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reflect without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

MORE BRASS TACKS.

From the New York World.

LABOR never was so happy, Mr. Coolidge said on Labor day. "Not only the American wage-earners now receive more money, and more of the things money will buy, for their work than any other wage-earners in the world, but more than was ever before received by any community of wage-earners."

Mr. Coolidge does not read statistics. "Factory payrolls in New York State," Industrial Commissioner at Albany reports, "were a half-million dollars a week less than in June. July was the fourth successive month of contracting payrolls."

"More than was ever before," says Mr. Coolidge; but the state's figures show a drop of 36.9 per cent in totals in the women's clothing trade in July of a year ago, a drop of 23.1 per cent in the metal trades, a drop of 16.9 per cent in boots and shoes and an average drop of 16.1 per cent for all trades reported. Payrolls are $6,000,000 a week lower than they were in July, 1923, when the summer down was curtailing factory production.

Meantime, Chairman Butler of the Republican National Committee hints that employment is declining. Chairman Butler does not read the figures, either. There were 32.8 per cent less workmen employed in the women's clothing trade in New York State than there were a year ago. There were 14.8 per cent less in the metal trades, an average of 14.8 per cent, less in all trades reporting.

It is in the textile trades, however, that the high-tariff policy of the Republican party is most vigorously applied. The breakdown is most unmistakable. The American Woolen Co. passed its common stock dividend, and the prize example of Republican prosperity—the wool trade under Schedule K or 11—shows little room for cheering. Textile factories filing data with the Industrial Commission of New York report that 4000 workers accepted wage cuts in June ranging from 11 per cent to 20 per cent. Another 800 textile workers joined the list the following month. Payrolls for knitting, woolen and worsted mills were 25 per cent lower in July than in June. They were even so short a time as two years before. Payrolls in knit goods are 20 per cent lower than they were a year ago, 24.6 per cent lower in silk goods, 24.6 lower in woolen manufactures and 51.4 lower in cotton goods.

The high-tariff policy does not keep pace with its own glowing advertisements.

JUST ONE QUESTION.

From the Detroit News.

THE good Los Angeles Times talks editorially, with the statement of a gruntled homeseeker, a woman, that she journeyed to California, not in property—desert land, the Times calls it—and was disappointed and made sick when it failed to increase in value, returned to her former home, and there told the folks that: "California has the littlest houses and the biggest mortgages on this earth."

Now, we are a little too facetious perhaps in any controversy as to the merits of California land values, and whether they were done out of her money. We do not even discuss the climate. Allow us, however, to ask one question:

How do those biggest mortgages figure out of those littlest houses?

man Chancellor informed me at Genoa that public opinion in Germany was so incensed over the Silesian award that he dared not apply for entrance. Time, helped by the loan of £40,000,000, may tend to soften the asperity of German resentments, and a year hence may be a more propitious moment than two years ago.

But all depends on the adhesion of America. That would settle the attitude of Germany and afterwards Russia could not afford long to remain outside and she would lumber sulkily into the ark like a bear. But will America go in? The fate of the league for some years will be decided by the coming presidential election, and who can forecast the result of that momentous contest? It is fraught with destiny.

Until America makes up her mind to co-operate in some form of organized and sustained effort to insure peace in the world, discussions on disarmament and arbitration at Geneva must continue to be academic and the real work will be done by external conferences, like those at Washington and London. But even if the American election is adverse to the league, let its friends persevere. America, in the Dawes commission, definitely came back to Europe. She cannot retire to her tent a second time. She is now definitely committed to European settlement. She dislikes the machinery of the league, but with her inventive mind she can suggest another kind of mechanism. The present constitution of the league is more American than British. It is a written constitution on Federal lines. It would be a happy comedy if America came into the league when its constitution ceased to have the rigidity of the American and was fashioned on the more elastic and haphazard principles of the British Constitution.

STRICT MEASURES TAKEN TO KEEP BOOKS OF LIVY IN ITALY

By the Associated Press.

NAPLES, Sept. 13.—The failure of Professor Mario di Martino-Fusco to answer the local prefect's summons to appear within 24 hours to explain the details of his reported discovery of the lost books of Livy has led the authorities to take extraordinary measures to prevent the Livy manuscripts, if they exist, from leaving the country. The Minister of Public Instruction has telegraphed the customs officials at all of the land and sea points of exit from Italy, giving them explicit instructions to make the most careful examination of all baggage with a view to preventing the smuggling out of the country of the manuscripts.

Sing Sing Warden Says Honor System Is a Success

lieve, more escapes and attempted escapes?"

"The honor system especially as concerns Sing Sing is a clear and emphatic success," said Warden Lawes. "For the last five years we have had constantly between 250 and 350 men working outside the walls and part of the time sleeping outside as well. In those five years there have been just two attempts at escape on the part of honor men. One of these succeeded. Yet there were, in the course of the five-year period, more than 2000 different individuals trusted outside the walls, or, to put it another way, on honor assignments. Two attempts and one escape among 2000 in five years is a very low ratio.

"At the Peekskill building camp where we had 80 men doing road and construction work for the military camp, there were three attempts at escape in four months. One man succeeded in getting away. He telephoned me from New York the night of his flight and returned voluntarily.

"I have made very careful comparisons both of the number of attempts at escape and of the outbreaks of combativeness and violence in Sing Sing now and a few years ago, before the honor system was introduced. Today we have not more than 10 per cent of the escape attempts and only about 5 per cent of the outbreaks of violence. In other words, the conduct and mental condition of the inmates is from 10 to 20 times better than under the old order. Please say emphatically, once and for all, that the escapes and attempted escapes are not more numerous than of old. They are 10 times less numerous. This statement applies to the whole prison, not only to the outside men.

Convicts Not Repressed.

"The reasons for this great, this marvelous, improvement are clear to anyone who has ever had any experience with prisoners. The men are no longer bottled up, constrained to silence, tyrannized and brutalized by unworthy keepers, or exploited and spied upon. They are permitted some chance of self-expression, some freedom for their personalities. They are shown humane and constructive precepts and they are not repressed, screwed down and baffled. The result is that we have almost done away with these emotional explosions so common in the older kinds of prisons. All acts of violence and attempts at escape are the result of those emotional disturbances.

"I have just returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast, in the course of which I visited and inspected nine Western State prisons. In one after the other I found the old methods—repression, silence, grafting, isolation, absence of constructive programs and many of the historic brutalities. In all these prisons the outbreaks of passion and violence are matters of daily occurrence, as they used to be with us. Escapes are common and attempts so frequent that the chief activity of the keepers is the guarding of men instead of their training, employment and improvement. Any man who knows the conditions here and in the other States can make his own deductions, and he must conclude that our plan is the better.

"The present system in use at Sing Sing not only does what I already have indicated, but it is succeeding in the field of reformation. Last year we had the lowest ratio of receivism of any prison in the State, which means that the highest percentage of our men made good after their release. More than that, the percentage of released men who go straight is increasing. We have an accurate check on this because most men now are released under parole. This does not mean, as the public supposes, that they are freed sooner than otherwise. It means that if a man is sentenced to serve five years and behaves himself in prison he is released in about three and one-half years because of the usual good-time allowance, but he remains under parole for the remaining year and a half of his original sentence. For that length of time, unless he shows reason to be discharged from that obligation, he must report to the Parole Board from time to time, and we are thus able to know what our released men are doing and how they are getting on.

Inequality of Sentences.

"There is no use pretending that the present system is perfect, of course. All that can be said is that it is a vast improvement over the old methods. One of the great troubles still to be met arises out of the inequality of sentences imposed by the 180 Judges in the State who have the power of sentencing men to our prison. Each Judge has his own ideas and peculiarities, with the result that men who have committed like offenses under similar circumstances come here and find great disparity in the allotted punishments. There is no method of standardization, and this is an evil from the penological standpoint.

"Also there is the fact that men are punished for what they have done rather than for what they are. Perhaps it will be a long time before any change can be worked here, but that change must come. In all prisons today we are constantly dismissing men who should never be released, men who are certain to become confirmed professional criminals or are already members of that group. These individuals are a constant menace to life and property and there is no hope of their reform, yet they often come to prison for much shorter terms than are dealt out to casual, accidental or other first offenders or to unfortunate repeaters. On the other hand, we are constantly holding men for long terms and even for life who could be and should be released and returned to productive industry; men who are, in our opinion, certain to go straight and to give no more trouble.

"I think the day is coming when men will not be sentenced for any term whatever. They will merely be sent to prison and they will be held there until they are definitely ready for liberty until it is relatively certain that they will go forth and commit no more crimes. Under such a system some of the men will, of course, never be released, no matter for what special offense they may have been convicted. Such a plan will be a fitting of the treatment—we used to say punishment—to the man instead of the crime, a penal idea now being more and more generally adopted everywhere. The real excuse for imprisoning men is the protection of society, not the punishment of offenders."

De Pachmann to Play Here.

Vladimir de Pachmann, eccentric pianist, is to be the first of five artists to be presented this season by the Civic Music League. His recital is announced for the evening of Oct. 14, at the Odeon.

WHAT CHEMISTS ARE DOING TO SAVE CIVILIZATION

cause phosphates and calcium to combine into bone structure without entering into the combination themselves. This mystery can only be solved by chemical methods.

Dr. David Edsall, dean of the Harvard Medical School, and of the School of Public Health, some time ago expressed the sense of the assembly of chemists at Cornell when he declared: "The continued advance of medicine depends entirely upon the advance of chemistry."

Not only our money and prosperity, but the health and the very existence of ourselves and of our children, thus depend largely upon the doings of those laboratory toilers who "talked big" at Ithaca between last Tuesday and Wednesday. They have now returned to their jobs in universities, technical schools, industries and isolated research laboratories, some of which are supported by the Government. But few people will ever realize how much their researches mean for the ultimate happiness of each of us.

SOCIAL WORKER TO DISCUSS IMMIGRATION

Miss Cecelia Razovsky to Tell of Hardships of Aliens Trying to Enter U. S.

Ten thousand Jewish immigrants awaiting in Cuba the opportunity to enter the United States, has created a problem in the alleviation of which a St. Louis woman, Miss Cecelia Razovsky, has had a part. Miss Razovsky who is visiting her parents at 1117 Clara avenue is now executive secretary, department of immigrant aid of the National Council of Jewish Women with headquarters in New York. She did her first social service work in St. Louis as secretary in the work permit department of the Board of Education.

Until the recent tightening up of immigration restriction there was legitimate hope held out to transmigrants in Cuba that after a year's residence there they might be admitted to the U. S. and be nearer these shores when such opportunity offered, but now there is almost no hope. Many are refugees from Soviet Russia. Poland and other countries to which they dare not or will not return. Most of them had expected to join relatives in the United States who would help them to an adjustment to strange living conditions. In Cuba, difference in climate, difference in religion, in language and many other factors and with no intermediary agency to interpret native and immigrant to each other, had created an acute situation crying for relief.

Sent to Investigate.

Miss Razovsky was sent by her organization to investigate and make a report the result of which was that a committee representing many interested social agencies is now instituting an extensive social service program in Cuba. On a second trip to the island Miss Razovsky reports a community center, baby clinics, information and employment bureaus, classes in Spanish, a synagogue, library and club rooms all flourishing under the supervision of trained social workers with the further result that the immigrants are being absorbed into the population and are contributing their due share to the productivity of the island.

Miss Razvosky will speak at the Town Club Tuesday evening on the subject: "America closes its doors. The new immigration law," from her observation of the hardships imposed upon immigrants especially in its separation of families. Miss Razovsky made a survey in many countries in Europe and a report which containing recommendations to Congress some of which were considered in the enactment of recent laws.

Other Problems.

There are still other relaxations in the laws of which she is hopeful. She would like to see the rule which admits wives and minor children of American citizens without regard to quota broadened to include the dependent relatives of men who have taken out their first papers, since the first five years admittedly are the most critical in the making of a citizen, the period in which he most needs homelife adn responsibility. Then she is interested in seeing something done on behalf of some 5000 intended immigrants who already had their vises or passports and were waiting to take ship with the opening of the next quota but were prevented by the closing of the gates still tighter. Most of these had steamship tickets bought and are being sheltered at the ports by the steamship companies hough otherwise they are destitute and being supported by relatives on this side.

SALVAGE BIG KANSAS BANK

Two Million Dollars Raised to Reorganize Looted Wichita Institution.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WICHITA, Kan. — Within the same building where, only a short time ago, the officers of the American State bank brought ruin upon themselves and hardships to thousands of their customers, another bank opened its doors last week. Built upon the very wreck of the American State, the State Reserve bank, its successor, is doing business after months of preparation. With a capital of $500,000 and a surplus of $100,000, the State Reserve started business with 3500 individual depositors and 600 bank depositors whose accounts will automatically be entered on its books by virtue of the reorganization plans. Two million dollars was raised to put the bank on its feet.

N. Y. JUDGE IGNORES CHANGE OF CASE TO FEDERAL COURT

Will Investigate Lawyers' Action in Suit to Stop Sale of Sinaloa Stock to Doherty.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Supreme Court Justice Levy today refused to recognize the transfer to a Federal court of legal proceedings to stop the sale of property of the Sinaloa Exploration and Development Co. to Henry L. Doherty & Co., and announced he would investigate methods pursued by attorneys in an effort to take the hearing out of his jurisdiction.

The injunction proceedings were started Sept. 5 by James Drury, Albert E. Lyster and Joseph Ryan, stockholders of the Sinaloa company. They sued to stop Philip Francis, president of the concern, from selling to the Doherty company the stock of the Union Public Service Co. of Kansas and Oklahoma for $240,000. This stock previously had been purchased by Francis for the Sinaloa company for $207,000, they declared. Their suit was based on the contention that the $240,000 sale price was far below the actual worth of the stock.

Delays occurred in the hearing when process servers complained they were unable to serve necessary papers on Doherty. At a recent hearing one official complained he had been "kicked downstairs" when he attempted to make the service.

When the stockholders' attorneys appeared before Justice Levy today, presenting a process server's affidavit that the papers finally had been served on Doherty, attorneys for the Doherty company announced that they had caused transfer of the hearing to the Federal District Court.

VIENNESE DOCTOR WARNS WOMEN AGAINST SMOKING

Skin Becomes Taut, Making Noses and Chins Very Sharp in Outline.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Aug. 24.—Women who are heavy smokers lose their fair complexion much more quickly than nonsmoking women, in the opinion of Dr. R. Hofstatter, noted Viennese gynecologist, who has written a book entitled "The Smoking Woman."

The features of smoking women, he contends, are usually much sharper than those of nonsmokers. The more women smoke the sharper the nose and chin are outlined and the skin become very taut.

The lips, says Dr. Hofstatter, lose their rosy natural color and become pale, while the corners of the lips show wrinkles prematurely and there is a tendency for the lower lip of a female smoke addict to project further than the upper lip. Through this gradual change the features of the smoking woman become more and more masculine. Dr. Hofstatter claims to have observed that heavy female smokers have a pronounced growth of beard.

The eye of strong female smokers undergoes a change, says Dr. Hofstatter. The lid rises and falls much more slowly. There is a tendency to stare. Some women even become crosseyed as they smoke.

Among the women who smoke heaviest are teachers, students, female physicians, actresses, artists and piano virtuosos.

BANKS TO CLOSE DURING NOON HOUR TO PREVENT ROBBERIES

Two Institutions of New Athens Will Take Precaution Against Holdup Men.

The State Bank and Farmers' State Bank of New Athens, south of Belleville, yesterday announced that their doors will be closed for one hour at noon, as a precaution against bank robbery.

The State Bank also announces a reward of $500 for the capture, dead or alive, of any person connected with the holding up of that bank. Cashier F. W. Fries of the State Bank believes the reward will be an incentive to citizens in getting active in case of a holdup.

LABOR HOWLS DOWN KLAN

Illinois Federation Member, Who Sought "Understanding," Unearthed.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 13.—Cheers for their leaders, President John H. Walker and Secretary Victor Olander, ended the annual convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor this afternoon.

In the last few moments, Earl Meixell, a carpenter, of Pekin, the home of the grand titan of the Ku Klux Klan, attempted to "get an understanding" regarding the Federation's anti-klan action, but was howled down.

ST. LOUISAN INJURED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Milton S. Michaels Hurt at Shelbyville, Ind.—Companion Killed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Sept. 13.—Milton S. Michaels, 4543 Wabada avenue, St. Louis, is in a serious condition as the result of injuries suffered late Friday when his airplane fell here and was wrecked. His companion, Merle Niles, of this city, was killed.

Michaels, a former army flyer, came here to make flights for the Defense Day celebration. Engine trouble developed while they were ovr the downtown district and Michaels steered for the landing field. Something went wrong and the plane nose-dived to earth.

Michaels is about 27 years old. Niles, also a former air service man, was 22.

Couple Held as Chicken Thieves.

By the Associated Press.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Sept. 13.—Stealing chickens from one poultry dealer and selling them to a competitor was the charge made against Ed Wedding and his wife, who live near Fisk, before a Justice of the Peace here today. When arrested, the couple had a wagonload of poultry. Charges of theft have also been placed against the couple in Dexter, where it is alleged, they sold the poultry.

WAR MOTHERS GET PARDON FOR VETERAN SERVING TERM

Ex-Soldier Convicted for Robbery Granted Freedom After Plea.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—War mothers of Kentucky have won a victory in Gov. Fields' full and free pardon of Chester A. Markins, Ohio's war hero, Mrs. Bowan Henry, Frankfort, of the mothers, said today. Official pardon for his "one night," when he became drunk, for the first time in his life at Newport, resulting in 15 years' sentence for attempted burglary, was obtained for Private Markins, she said.

He is celebrating release from a Federal hospital at Fort Thomas, she said. He served four years, four months here.

RESENTS WIFE'S BOBBED HAIR

Husband Gets Head Shaved and Goes on Drunk.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—A Chattanooga ex-service man decided to get even with his wife for bobbing her hair so he went to a barber shop and instructed the barber to shave off his hair. The argument that followed between him and the barber almost resulted in a fight but in the end the ex-service man won and he left the shop with his head as shiny as a billiard ball.

He further insisted that her hair-cutting had completely emancipated him from the chains of wedlock and he proceeded to get drunk. He wound up in the hospital and as soon as he recovered from the effects of his libations, cried weakly for his wife to come and get him, "bob or no bob."

KANGAROO COURT IN JAIL AT KNOXVILLE TO BE ABOLISHED

Prisoners Already In No Longer to Try Those Who "Break In," Sheriff Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—"Kangaroo court" is taboo now at the Knox County jail. Although they exist in many other cities, such "courts" are not to be tolerated here any longer. This is the edict of the new Sheriff, Walter C. Anderson.

"No more will prisoners be allowed to enter into a mock trial of a new prisoner and inflict fines upon him and 'strap' him if he is unable to pay the fine," Sheriff Anderson stated.

Heretofore, when a prisoner entered the jail he was immediately arraigned by the other prisoners on a charge of "breaking into jail." For this he is tried and fined, say 75 cents. If he has not that much money he must submit to a certain number of lashes. Then the prisoners are often arraigned on other charges while in jail, and it has often been the case that they have been severely lashed. Complaints have been made by prisoners after they got out.

The Deputy Sheriff said that prisoners are arraigned for spitting on the floor of the jail, failure to take a bath, or for failure to keep the cell clean. It often occurs that prisoners in the jail take a spite at other prisoners, and there frequently forms a gang of buddies who attempt to discipline the jail inside, and to try the prisoners on various "charges." Often there are hardened criminals in the [illegible] and it has often been [illegible] that the kangaroo court is unmerciful and unjust.

Walton to Tour East.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok.—A representative of former Gov. J. C. Walton and the Anti-Ku Klux organization in Oklahoma, is leaving the former executive, now Democratic senatorial nominee, a speaking tour of the East between now and the November elections.

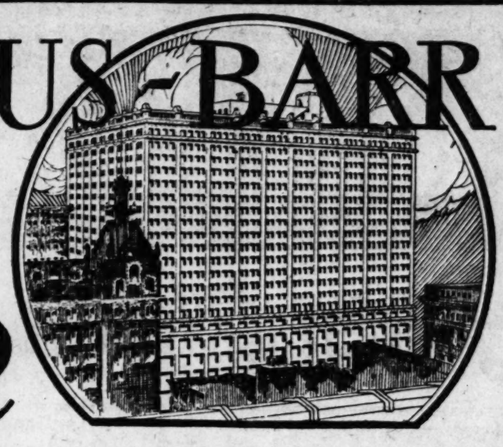
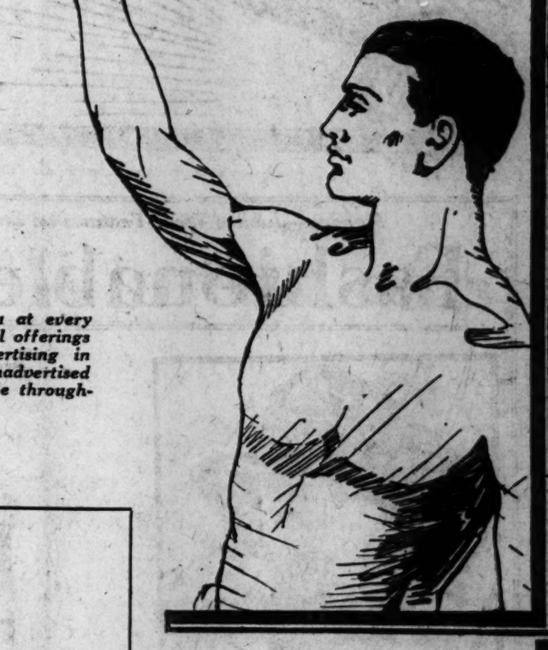
FAMOUS-BARR CO.'S Jubilee Week

See Our Other Announcements on the Following Five Pages





Conducted for the Specific and Express Purpose of Definitely Demonstrating the Merchandising and Value-Giving Supremacy of St. Louis' Foremost Store

Begins Monday, September 15th

And Continues Through Saturday, September 20

¶ For months this signal event has been in the planning — leading manufacturers, here and abroad, have lent their whole-hearted co-operation to insure its fullest success. You have profited by shopping here in the past—your continued patronage and confidence has built this wonderful institution—St. Louis' Largest Store—largest by far in volume of business—largest in stocks shown—today standing supreme in value-giving and merchandising—and so beginning Monday we inaugurate one of the most aggressive selling campaigns that St. Louisans have ever known.

Jubilee Week could not be better timed, coming just when every member of the family should be supplying Fall and Winter requirements as well as needs for the home. The savings offered in every Section should urge you to anticipate for months to come.

Jubilee Week attractions will beckon you at every turn—special price tickets mark the special offerings announced in the eleven pages of advertising in today's papers, as well as countless unadvertised offerings, all of which will remain on sale throughout the week, provided quantities last.

Additional Offerings Will Be Made Each Day—Every One Extraordinary—Look for the Newspaper Announcements

As an Added and Extremely Important Feature

TRIPLE EAGLE STAMPS

—THREE Instead of the Customary ONE Will Be Given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday With Cash Purchases of Ten Cents and Over

Eagle Stamps mean additional savings on the already greatly underpriced merchandise—so it will pay you well to do as much of your shopping as possible during the first three days of Jubilee Week.

An Extraordinary Feature of Jubilee Week and One That Is Unsurpassed in Value-Giving Is This Sale of

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' WINTER COATS

—Two Immense Groups of Coats Especially Purchased for This Event—the Latest Styles at Extraordinary Savings

Smartly Correct Coats

—every one an exceptional value at $50

¶ Here is a Coat opportunity at which you will marvel—750 approved Winter Coats, including practically every new and favored style. The majority are effectively trimmed with furs of the most popular kinds, though a few plain models are included. Every one of these Coats is silk crepe lined throughout and carefully tailored—there are many styles for various types of figures and the choice of fabrics, colorings and fur trimmings is extremely varied.

Fur Trimmings and Fabrics

Coats of Kashlora, Suava, Lustrosa, Luella, Armandale, Bolivia and Flamingo; with natural and Viatka squirrel, fox, opossum, Jap mink and platinum wolf, applied in the newest ways for the coming Winter season.

Very Handsome Coats

—really remarkable values—choice

$100

¶ 250 distinctive Coats and Wraps comprise this group—garments of real elegance for particular women and misses. The season's most fashionable materials are included and all models are luxuriously trimmed in beautiful furs—some applied only on collars and cuffs, others used in border or panel effect. All Coats are handsomely lined with crepe in self or contrasting shade. Coats in black and navy as well as cedar, penny, saddle, rosewood and other favored Winter shades.

Fur Trimmings and Fabrics

Coats of Kashmana, Jammuna, Cuir de Laine, Ormandale, Gerona, Lustrosa, Fashona and Kashmerdown; enriched by such elegant furs as beaver, natural squirrel, muskrat, Jap mink, fox, Viatka squirrel, fitch and Hudson seal.

Sizes 14 to 20 in misses' section; sizes 36 to 44 in women's section; sizes 42½ to 52½ in the extra-size section.

—At Vandervoort's Establishes the Mode in St. Louis for Autumn, 1924

VANDERVOORT'S Exposition and Sale presents a comprehensive showing of women's and misses' smart Fall apparel for all daytime wear, sports and evening occasions. Apparel of our own importation. Gowns by Nemser, Coats and Suits from Mangone and from other well-known American designers.

YOU and your friends are cordially invited to this marvelous presentation and sale, which will continue throughout the week in all the apparel shops. This will be the first glimpse to many of the smart modes soon to be seen everywhere in St. Louis wherever well-dressed women meet.

Tuesday at 2 P. M., a Wonderful Fashion Show —will be given in our Apparel Shops—the gala occasion of the entire week. Here will pirouette for the first time review the very modes women are most anxious to see. Many of these models are exclusive with Vandervoort's—an unusual opportunity to see Fall modes in entirety.

Twenty-five living models will formally introduce the New Ensemble—the New Frocks and Gowns—the New Tunic Blouses—the New Coats and Furs—the New French and American Millinery—Millinery from our own designs. One will behold the Directoire modes—beautiful Evening Frocks—gorgeous wraps, as well as a myriad of important dress accessories.

Children's Fashion Show Will Take Place on Saturday, September 20, at 2 P. M.

Fifty Charming Girls Chosen for Maids at Veiled Prophet's Ball

Excitement Partially Allayed by This Announcement Though Identity of Each Is Kept a Profound Secret for the Present.

THE unrest in society circles over the delay in announcing the maids of honor for the Veiled Prophet's ball, which was fast becoming acute, was partially allayed yesterday by a report issuing from the inner circles of the Court of Love and Beauty of His Mysterious Majesty, to the effect that 50 charming St. Louis girls have been settled upon to attend the Queen of Love and Beauty at the ball Oct. 8, in the Coliseum.

While it is known positively that the chosen 50 already have received the royal command, their identity still is a well-kept secret, and it is doubtful if any of the chosen ones know even who are to be their associates in the happy and cherished duty.

To add interest to the situation, it has been suggested that each girl keep her appointment secret for another two weeks at least.

When the interesting news begins to leak out at the end of the period of secrecy, there will then be resumed the popular fall sport of selecting, each for himself or herself, the candidate who, in the guesser's opinion, will be most likely to be selected as the 1924 Queen.

Rumors already are afloat on the subject, but, with so much secrecy being observed over the names of the maids, there can be found but little foundation for the erection of any very tangible air castles, either of hope or of speculation.

This year's Veiled Prophet carnival gives promise of being particularly interesting, especially to the fashionable set and the members of the royal entourage, because of the imperial edict removing the ball from the customary Tuesday evening and placing it on the following evening, Wednesday. Under this arrangement is offered far better opportunity of viewing the brilliant street pageant, hitherto almost impossible of consummance because of the hurry and bustle of preparing to attend the ball itself. In addition, the cavaliers of the royal train will be found much fresher and better able to "go the route" on the dance floor, with a 24-hour interval after the fatigue of the long progression over the city streets.

It also will make attendance at the ball a bit more interesting, because the coronation and attendant ceremonies and diversions will take place earlier, thus making room for a better and more varied dance program afterward.

Miss Mary Denman Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles MoL. Clark, will go to Detroit, Mich., the latter part of the month to visit Miss Dorothy Celimene Palms. Miss Clark will be a bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Palms and Edward Murphy in Detroit, Oct. 4. Another St. Louis girl, Miss Josephine Bates, niece of Mrs. William Maffitt and cousin of Miss Palms, will be one of the Palms-Murphy bridal party. Miss Bates will depart for Washington, D. C., today, where she will attend Georgetown College the coming term. She will go to Detroit about Oct. 1.

Cards have been sent out by Mrs. James Hunt Lucas for the wedding of her daughter, Miss Prudence Lucas, and Jesse Powell Henry, which will take place Sept. 24 at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lucas, 4370 McPherson avenue, uncle and aunt of the prospective bride. Mgr. J. J. Tanrath, pastor of the St. Louis Cathedral Church, will officiate at the ceremony, at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Lon V. Stephens of 5836 Cabanne avenue and Mrs. Curtis A. Betts of 218 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves, are guests of Mrs. Stephens' sister, Mrs. Charles Leonard, at Ravenswood, near Bunceton, Mo. They will remain until after tomorrow, when John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for the presidency, will attend the opening of the Democratic State campaign at the country home of Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, Mrs. Stephens' nephew, who is the nominee for Governor.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose de Olivares of Kingston, Jamaica, have been spending the past week in St. Louis. Mr. Olivares regards St. Louis as his home, although he has been in the consular service for many years and now is American Consul at Kingston. Mrs. Casper S. Yost of the Buckingham Annex gave a delightful luncheon at the Missouri Athletic Club on Thursday, in honor of Mrs. Olivares and Mrs. Russell Hollis, of Pine Bluff, Ark. The other guests were Miss Elizabeth Morse, Mrs. Katherine Snodgrass, Mrs. J. B. Comstock, Mrs. H. E. Wagoner, Mrs. A. G. Baare, Mrs. Rosalind Day, Mrs. C. A. Doolittle and Mrs. R. G. Yost. On Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Olivares and Mrs. Hollis were guests of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Yost at the Chase Hotel, the other guests being Mrs. Katherine Snodgrass, Miss Elizabeth Morse, Mrs. Frank A. Ruf, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Baare, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Yost and Mr. and Mrs. Casper S. Yost Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Olivares expect to leave Wednesday for Kingston by way of Washington, Atlantic City and New York.

Mr. nad Mrs. N. A. McMillan have returned from Colorado, where they occupied a cottage during July and August. They are at the Hotel Chase.

Among the interesting affairs on society's October schedule is the bridge party which will be given Oct. 14 at 2 p. m. at the Forest Park Hotel under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary of the Good Shepherd Convent on Gravois avenue. The proceeds will be used for welfare work in behalf of the girls committed to the institution. Table reservations may be made through any member of the auxiliary.

Miss Alice Tebbetts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Tebbetts, of Bartmer avenue, became the bride of Marion Edward DeVeaux, son of Mrs. M. DeVeaux, Wednesday afternoon at the chapel of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue. The Rev. Dr. Atwood officiated. Only members of the immediate families and a few close friends were present at the ceremony. The couple will reside at 20 Parkland place, Glendale, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Dwyer have sent out invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Margaret Genevieve Dwyer, and James Leo O'Brien, which will take place Thursday, Sept. 18, at 9 a. m., at the St. Louis Cathedral.

Misses Melville Clement, La Verne Young and Thelma Carolyn Cook entertained at bridge yesterday at 5906 McPherson, in honor of Miss Frances McRee Smith, who will be married tomorrow at the Church of the Redeemer to Newton A. Edwards.

Miss Frances Phillips, 7162 Waterman avenue, entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. F. T. Dickey, a recent bride. Announcement was made of the engagement of the hostess and A. L. Crouch Jr., of Batesville, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. William Blumenfeld, 4704 Gravois avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ella Blumenfeld, to Harry H. Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mayer, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Tea Room Opened In Former Residence On Waterman Av.

New York Custom Introduced in St. Louis With Affair Attended by Large Number of Matrons.

That the New York society custom of resort to the fashionable tea room is being generally introduced in St. Louis is a conclusion that might be drawn from the considerable group of society matrons and maids who gathered Thursday at the opening of the Chimney Corner Tea Room in the former residence of Mrs. Fidelio Sharp, 5079 Waterman avenue.

Among the women who enjoyed luncheon at the Chimney Corner Thursday were Mrs. George Niedringhaus, Mrs. Breckinridge Jones, Mrs. James M. Franciscus, Mrs. Harry Block, Mrs. Harry Knight, Mrs. Fidelio Sharp, Mrs. Tyrrell Williams, Mrs. George Tracy, Mrs. Eugene Funston, Mrs. Ingram Boyd, Mrs. David McWilliams, Mrs. George Shields, Mrs. Graham Wilson, Mrs. George L. L. Davis, Mrs. Lewis Rumsey, Mrs. Soulard Cates, Mrs. Larry Miller, Mrs. Knapp, Mrs. Hamilton Farish, Mrs. James C. Morfit, Miss Elsie Beck, Miss Claire Garneau, Miss Eppes Hawes, Miss Marie Clarkson and Miss Catherine Polk.

Mrs. Grace M. Dowler, Mrs. Jane G. Turner and Mrs. Nancy M. Conrad are hostesses at the tea room.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Matthews, 4660 Pershing avenue, and their daughter, Miss Jane Skinker Matthews, have returned from the North. Miss Jane departed Thursday for Lake Forest, Ill., where she will attend school at the Lake Forest Sacred Heart Convent.

Mrs. Francois B. Benoist, now residing at Dallas, Tex., is expected in St. Louis tomorrow to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bloodworth, 5330 Pershing avenue. Mr. Benoist will arrive in St. Louis about Oct. 1. Miss Celeste Michel, who has been the house ner and Mrs. Benoist in Dallas, will return home with Mrs. Benoist tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Porter and their daughter, Jane, returned Thursday from Colorado, where they spent the summer. They have taken a suite at the Forest Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Crunden, 4626 Westminster place, and family are expected home from Fish Creek, Wis., Sept. 20.

Mrs. W. L. Henry, 4254 Washington boulevard, has returned from a visit to relatives at Brookfield, Mo.

Coats of Character

In Fur-Trimmed Winter Models

$59 $79

We have been particularly successful in securing a wide diversity of Coats possessing true style distinction, to sell at these two feature prices. Fabrics that are the season's choice; furs soft and rich, that can be depended upon for long wear; styles that are new, and yet sufficiently conservative to remain good another year —these are the main points of interest to thrifty shoppers.

Regular and Extra Sizes.

New Fall Sport Coats

For Chilly Autumn Days

$16.50 to $65

The swagger Topcoat, always favored by the school and college girl has now become indispensable to every woman's wardrobe through the popularity of the one-piece dress. For in-between seasons it occupies an important place, and must, therefore, have a decided style and becomingness. At these prices swagger styles are fashioned of cut chinchilla, downy wool, cut suede, block angora, cut polaire and velvatone.

Striking Versions of Exclusive Modes

New Fall Hats

$15

Drooping brims of picture Hats; upturned brims of Hats both large and small, the Directoire influence in larger shapes, the postillion crown with its tailored chic, are revealed in the new styles.

Vivid colorings are introduced through embroideries, novel felt cut-outs and imported metallic ornamentations. The Spanish Sailor claims a place. Laces and feathers are extremely good. Black predominates.

Chapeaux de Luxe in a Smart Group at $10

Frocks for Autumn

Provide for Smartness and Service

Silk and Cloth $35 Black and Colors

This price embraces an interesting collection of Dresses. For every kind of daytime wear; for smart afternoon functions, for informal dinners, here are styles that will answer your requirements. Business women who occupy positions of importance, college girls who consider serviceability as well as chic, should make selections from these groups.

Satin, satin-faced Canton, Canton crepe and bengaline of a superior quality, carry out the most approved style trends. Tunics are favored; basques and fuller skirts are seen; beltless models and tubular designs. Fur trimmings, buttons, embroideries are much in evidence. Charmeen and Poiret twill are preferred in cloth fabrics. In tailored modes, they are smart to an unusual degree. Regular and extra sizes.

SHIRLEY DEANE

Introduces Herself

I AM Shirley Deane, a realist, seeing always the cold actualities of life; an idealist, hoping always that the finest will prevail over the mediocre; a dreamer of wide-awake dreams.

All my life I have believed that the path to greatness lies in hitching your wagon to the highest star. And I have hoped that some day I might become a part of a great organization that has ideals—that I might be so vital a part of its mechanism that I could thrill with the throb of its machinery, and yet be so closely associated with its leaders that I could be inspired by their courage and energy, and have great reverence for their integrity. And now I am very proud and happy because this has happened to me.

I have come to Sonnenfeld's in a position that seems to me to be an answer to my dreams. I am here to see, to understand and to interpret the House of Sonnenfeld to you. I shall be shown and told everything; and it will be my duty to tell you what I see, to keep you informed of everything of interest; to create such a perfect understanding between the Store and you that your confidence will justify their high ideal—to serve you better and better.

The marriage of Miss Fredericka Cook, daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Cook of 5395 N. Kingshighway boulevard and Virgil A. Halstenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Halstenberg took place yesterday at the residence of the bride's mother. Rev. W. Wolf, officiated. Misses Oda Helstenberg and Bernice Strickland, were bridesmaids. Mildred Lorenzen was flower girl. Stanley Vallet and Leonard Wingfield were groomsmen. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Halstenberg departed on a honeymoon journey east. On their return, Oct. 1 they will be at home at Granite City, Mo.

RECRUITS ENROLL FOR DEFENSE

Two Companies Enlist for One-Day Service at Webster Groves.

Two companies of recruits, for one-day service in army units, were enrolled at Webster Groves Friday, in observance of national Defense day. The units were Battery A, 180th Field Artillery, and Company A, 327th Engineers. More men offered themselves than were needed, including the entire membership of Webster Groves Memorial Post, American Legion.

There was a parade led by Col. Walter F. Siegmund, with the Sixth Infantry band participating. A public ceremony at Kopplin Field followed. Rev. H. L. Reader, State chaplain of the American Legion, delivered the principal address.

THEOSOPHY LECTURE GIVEN

Vice President From India Talks on Subject Here.

C. Jinarajadasa of Madras, India, vice president of the International Theosophical Society, lectured on "The Spiritual Factor in National Life," last night at the Wednesday Club auditorium, under the auspices of the St. Louis Theosophical Society. Tonight, at 8 o'clock, at the same place, he will discuss "The Coming of Christ and His Message."

"Theosophy is the underlying truth of all religions," he said. "We start with the recognition of the fundamental truth that God, or the spiritual life, is a part of every human being, of all life. Our mission is to bring about a better understanding among all peoples of the earth regardless of race, creed, social position, wealth or poverty. We work on the big platform—humanity."

348 Born, 190 Died Last Week.

There were 348 births and 190 deaths reported in St. Louis last week. Thirty-nine persons died of organic heart trouble; 20 of cancer; 24 of Bright's disease; 9 of apoplexy; 9 of diseases of the nervous system; 16 of pneumonia and 9 of tuberculosis. There were three homicide, one suicide and 12 accidental deaths.

The Harmony Literary Club, held its first meeting Friday. Mrs. H. G. Wright was hostess at a 1 o'clock luncheon. Mrs. W. C. Markham, president, opened the meeting by asking the new secretary, Mrs. George Malone, for roll call, which was responded to by current topics and "leaves from your summer notebook." The program features for the afternoon were: a paper by Mrs. Sidney Barr on Italian Women, their customs, status, and prominent women in the musical and political world.

Mrs. A. E. Davis presented Italian Cathedrals from the historic and architectural viewpoint.

Mrs. C. F. Sternberg will be the next hostess on Sept. 19.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Fries have returned from their honeymoon and are at home at 4777 Maffitt avenue. Mrs. Fries, before her marriage, was Miss Vivien Schott.

819 WASHINGTON

ROYALTY AGAIN HOLDS CAPITAL'S ATTENTION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Washington is preparing to receive another visitor closely connected with royalty, when the Duke de Alba, of Spain, a grandnephew of the late Empress Eugenie, of France, and a descendant of James II, the last of the Stuart kings of England, arrives here. He is bringing with him certain relics of great interest to Americans, namely letters of Columbus, and a chart the discoverer of America used in 1492. The Duke with his Duchess and his younger brother, Duke de Penaranda, will be in Washington for several days and will be received at the White House during their stay.

Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant has returned to Washington and opened her house on New Hampshire avenue, after spending some time in California with her son and daughter-in-law, Maj. and Mrs. U. S. Grant III. Mrs. Grant's daughter, Princess Cantacuzene, who recently arrived here from her home in Florida, is with her

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair was the guest of honor at the reception and meeting held by Democratic women at the home of Mrs. Francis Berger Moran. Mrs. Blair wore a gown of white crepe satin, embroidered all over in white, with a deep blue chiffon scarf, edged with curling ostrich tips, about her shoulders.

The Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Dwight Davis are planning a series of dinner parties for October. Mrs. Davis was ill most of last winter.

Mrs. John B. Henderson, widow of the late Senator from Missouri, and her granddaughter, Miss Beatrice Henderson, have returned to their home, "Boundary Castle." It is not yet decided whether Miss Henderson will make her debut this year, although she is expected to. Many of the prospective debutantes of the season are waiting for an announcement from Mrs. Henderson, as many of them wish to "come out" the same time as Miss Henderson.

Another Missouri debutante in Washington, who was announced for last year, but went to college instead, is Miss Nancy Benoist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Benoist. Miss Benoist, like Miss Henderson, took part in many of the social activities of the younger set during the Christmas and Easter vacations.

Mrs. Bessie Parker Bruggeman, chairman of the Employes' Compensation Commission, is one of the Republican Women Committee members who are working hard in the district, directing the work of sending out information to the women absentee voters in Washington.

14 ST. LOUISANS ENGAGED AS "POP" CONCERT SOLOISTS

Eight Noted Artists From Elsewhere Also on List for Symphony Season.

Soloists to be presented at the Sunday popular concerts of the Symphony Orchestra this season will number 22, and will include 14 persons who are either St. Louisans or have St. Louis connections. Many of them are products of local studios.

The St. Louisans engaged are Mrs. Clara Schevill, who will appear at the opening "Pop;" Mrs. Elsa Kraus Anneke, Edgar Shelton, Eugene LePique, Michel Gusikoff, Joseph Faerber, H. Max Steindel, Florence Streit, Irene Hawley, Olga Hambuechen, Chester Merton, Clarence Bloemker, Mario Lanza and Thomas Spahn.

Out-of-town soloists will include Sascha Jacobsen and John Carigliano, violintsts; Knight MacGregor, baritone; Bertha Farner, soprano, and Irma Goebel, Beatrice Wright, Mollie Margolies and John Thompson, pianists.

Director Gang, who sailed yesterday from Liverpool, is expected here toward the end of the month, and will bring, among other things, a new plan for seating the musicians on the Odeon platform.

G. O. P. TRAINING SCHOOL FOR WOMEN TO OPEN TOMORROW

Instructions Will Continue Until Wednesday When Banquet Will Close Sessions.

A training school for women in Republican politics which is to begin at the Statler Hotel tomorrow morning, will continue until Wednesday night, when it will close with a banquet at which Montaville Flowers of California will be the principal speaker.

The national, State and city Republican committees will co-operate with the Republican Woman's Club in the school, which it has styled a "Political Plattsburg." Its purpose is to instruct Republican women in matters of party politics and to endeavor to arouse them to active work in the campaign.

The school will be under the direction of Mrs. William Wolf Smith of Washington, D. C., a representative of the Republican National Committee, who has completed a similar work in Kansas City and who will have a school in St. Joseph next week.

The speakers at the sessions tomorrow will be Mayor Kiel, Gov. Hyde, Victor J. Miller, Congressman Newton; Tuesday, Secretary of State Becker, George H. Williams, Mrs. E. E. Rudolph, Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham, Republican National Committeewoman from Missouri, and Wednesday, Dr. W. C. Bridges, Prof. W. Lippincott, and Mrs. Alice Curtice Moyer-Wing.

Editorial!

We received the samples, surplus stock and mill seconds from a Blanket mill in Stayton, Oregon. The town is practically supported by this mill, mostly everyone being employed in some capacity in the making of these wonderful Blankets which are made of virgin wool gathered in the mountains from the great sheep ranches for which this state is noted. Every Blanket is as soft and downy as a sheep's back.

'LOST BOY' LOSES NEW HOME AND IDENTITY TWICE

"Arthur Tyne," 10-Year-Old Who Declares He's From St. Louis, to Be "Psychiatrized" in Chicago.

IDENTIFICATION IS AIM OF TREATMENT

Massachusetts Woman Thought Him Her Stolen Son, but He Teased "Sister" and the Cat and Lost Out.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Ten-year-old "Arthur Tyne," who says he is from St. Louis, has lost the home he found in Taunton, Mass., three months ago and is again what he was when picked up at Washington and State streets here, in June, 1923—a lost boy.

Mrs. Clarence Smith of Taunton, who identified him in July as the son stolen from her by gypsies five years ago, has decided he isn't her son after all, because he teased her young daughter and the cat, and in a few days he will be returned to the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, in Chicago, whence he came. There he will be placed under treatment of psychiatrists in the hope that he may recall enough of his St. Louis connection to clear up the enigma of his past. So far, inquiry by the society in St. Louis has failed to disclose a clew to his real identity or to the manner in which he was brought to Chicago and abandoned.

It was a vague and fragmentary story the lost boy told of his history when found. At first he could tell nothing at all. He had lost his speech as well as his memory. After being nursed in the home of a caretaker for a time, however, he recovered both sufficiently to say that his name was Arthur Tyne and to impart the information that he came from St. Louis; that he had two fathers, one who wore overalls and one who dressed up; that one of his fathers was dead and that his mother had treated him harshly and hit him on the head with a stick. This is the story to which he clung throughout the three months during which Mrs. Smith was endeavoring to confirm his identification as her son.

The Chicago Juvenile Court became deeply interested in the lad's case and placed him under the observation of a speech specialist while it conducted a nationwide search for his parents. When the quest failed, the boy was placed in the custody of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, which, in turn, surrendered him to a Mrs. Heinzelman at the court's request.

The Children's Home and Aid Society continued its search for the lad's relatives, however, and after much correspondence with Massachusetts officials, located Mrs. Smith, from whom a 5-year-old son had been stolen five years earlier. Mrs. Smith came to Chicago, examined the boy and said he was her own, the identification being based on the shape of his head, a cast in his eye, a scar on the forehead and the shape of his thumbs. After a court hearing on July 3, last, the society turned the lad over to Mrs. Smith, but retained supervision over him until some existing uncertainty about his case should be cleared up.

At the Smith home, Arthur showed improvement in speech, but his conduct quickly became a cause for grave concern. He didn't remember Mrs. Smith as his mother. He kept talking about his two fathers and was certain that Mr. Smith wasn't either of them.

He exhibited a pronounced aversion to carrying wood and performing other household chores, teased the cat, was rude to the girl they told him was his little sister and developed other traits which Mrs. Smith declared no son of hers would have developed. Finally she came to the conclusion he wasn't a Smith at all and last week turned him over to the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

There he remains a lost boy again, awaiting the arrival of an attendant from the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society who will bring him back to Chicago. Since mental examination of the lad made by the Chicago Institute for Juvenile Research last summer disclosed he had suffered a severe mental shock, officials of the Home and Aid Society believe the proposed treatment by psychiatrists may restore his memory.

Sore skin?
Kora Konia heals and protects

BLISTERED skin, galled flesh, red, raw spots—everyone suffers these tortures. Medical men asked the Mennen Laboratories to create a special substance to soothe and heal all types of skin injuries due to external causes or aggravated by internal disturbances.

After seven years a formula was perfected that acts magically on the skin. This great prescription is known as Kora Konia.

Remarkable Ingredients

One ingredient is put in Kora Konia for its cooling effect, another to absorb moisture. One constituent of the formula overcomes acidity, one protects from chafing, one is an antidote to certain skin poisons, one gives astringent effect, one is an efficient deodorant.

Another substance in Kora Konia protects the skin while the healing, antiseptic ingredients help nature to restore the skin's health and smoothness.

A Clinging Powder

To dry up moisture and discharges from injured skin, a highly absorbent element is necessary. For this reason, and to avoid the odor and stickiness of salves and ointments, it was desirable for Kora Konia to be in powder form.

To make a powder that would not rub off or wash away easily presented a great problem. Finally the Mennen chemists developed a new product to make Kora Konia adhere to sore skin in spite of rubbing or moisture. Kora Konia is therefore presented in the most effective form—a clean, white, clinging, absorbent powder—but it contains no Stearate of Zinc and it is not a talcum.

Don't suffer sore skin. Get Kora Konia for the whole family's use and comfort. A tin costs only 35c at drug and department stores. The cost of the ingredients, and its magical effect on the skin, would justify a much higher price, but we prefer to put Kora Konia within reach of everyone. The Mennen Company, Newark, N. J.

MOTHER uses Kora Konia under tight clothing for a body deodorant and for personal hygiene. Also for sunburn and prickly heat

KORA KONIA—The Powder That Heals Sore Skin

BABY ANN Mother prevents all rashes, scalding, prickly heat or chafing by applying Kora Konia every time the diapers are changed.

JOHNNIE quickly relieves insect bites, poison ivy, cuts, sores and burns with Kora Konia

FATHER likes Kora Konia after exercise and for all chafing and galling, boils, sore feet and blisters

NEW INDIAHOMA PLAN WIPES OUT STOCK INTEREST

Control of Refining Company to Be Vested in Board of Five Representing Creditors.

ST. LOUISANS HAD $2,500,000 INVESTED

Ninety-Six Per Cent of Stockholders Agree to New Mortgage Bonds Subject to Prior Lien.

Control of the Indiahoma Refining Co., now in receivership, will be vested in a board of five men representing the corporation's creditors, under the terms of a reorganization plan approved Friday by Referee in Bankruptcy Coles. Two members of the committee will represent the secured creditors, two the unsecured creditors, and the fifth will be chosen by members of the committee.

The entire issue of common stock in the new company will be vested in this committee in a voting trust, with the power equally divided between secured and unsecured creditors.

The plan wipes out the interest of stockholders, a severe blow to St. Louis investors who put about $2,500,000 of their funds into the $5,000,000 outstanding issue of stock.

New Stock to General Creditors.

The stock of the new company, which probably will be known as the Indiahoma Corporation, will be issued to general creditors in settlement of their claims. Preferred stock will be awarded on the basis of one $100 par value share for each $100 owed the creditor by the company.

A 10,000 share issue is authorized under the plan, but only 8500 shares will be issued at once. Four hundred shares of the 700-share authorize issue of common stock will be issued at this time with the voting power lodged in the committee.

It is proposed to sisue immediately $200,600 in new prior lien bonds, of which the authorized issue is $500,000. The remaining $300,000 will be issued to provide working capital if the new company decides to engage in business immediately. Lawyers at the hearing Friday said it was likely that this would await a more favorable condition of the market.

New Mortgage Bonds to Be Issued.

First mortgage bonds amounting to $1,682,000, now outstanding, will be taken up and replaced, dollar for dollar, with new bonds, subject to the $500,000 issue of prior lien bonds. Ninety-six per cent of the bondholders have agreed to this exchange. The 4 per cent who have not made known their position will be given 30 cents on the dollar if they decline to come in under the new arrangement.

The Government has against the company a claim of $708,000 for taxes, aside from property tax, but it is being disputed and no provision is made for payment of the entire amount in the plan.

I. W. Iglehart of Baltimore is chairman of the committee of creditors.

ALLEGED FORGER, WANTED HERE, HELD IN NEW ORLEANS

Police Charge H. J. Murray Passed Bad Check for $92 on Hotel Jefferson.

A St. Louis detective has departed for New Orleans to bring back Harry J. Murray, arrested at a hotel there Friday, on a charge of passing a forged check for $92 at the Hotel Jefferson here.

Officials of the hotel said Murray posed as an advance agent for "The Thief of Bagdad," a motion picture showing at a local theater, and that he gave them the check which purported to bear the signature of the treasurer of the Douglas Fairbanks Pictures Corporation. The check was pronounced a forgery. Murray checked out Sept. 6 and was traced to Memphis, and then to New Orleans, through a trunk.

Police said that Murray had given Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney a bad check for $200 in payment for some velvet, but that the store was suspicious and did not deliver the merchandise.

UNALASKA TO PRODUCE WOOL

One Shipment Already Made—Sheep Placed on Aleutians.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

UNALASKA, Alaska, Aug. 20.—The shipment of seven bags of wool from here to Portland, Ore., this summer, has brought the residents hope of a new era for the Aleutian Islands, of which Unalaska Island is one of the largest.

An attempt to establish sheep on the Aleutians, which in many parts abound in lush grasses, was undertaken last year. In this enterprise two concerns are engaged, the Aleutian Livestock Co. of Los Angeles and the Western Livestock Co. of Portland. The wool sent to Portland was said to be of prime quality.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY TO HOLD RALLY TODAY

About 600 Members Are Expected to Participate in Parade and Services.

The annual rally of the 45 branches of the Holy Name Society of St. Louis will be held this afternoon. About 6000 members are expected to participate.

The members will assemble on Grand boulevard, at Natural Bridge avenue, and parade at 3:30 p. m. to the grounds of St. Alphonsus Church, Grand and Finney avenue. Mounted police will lead the procession and a 75-piece band and several drum corps will furnish music. Boy Scouts and cadets also will be in line.

Ceremonies on the church grounds will include solemn benediction and singing by a choir of 200 boys. Addresses will be made by Archbishop Glennon, Rev. T. Palmer, pastor of St. Alphonsus' Church; Rev. S. J. Brady, spiritual director of the Society; Robert A. Josias, president of the society, and Charles Casey, attorney.

PEANUT SWALLOWED BY CHILD FORMS PO'SON AND KILLS HER

Nut Extracted at Hospital, But Acid Constituent Causes Toxemia.

Toxemia, which followed the contact of an acid constituent of peanuts with the tissues of the lungs, caused the death Friday at Missouri Baptist Sanitarium of Eula Kortrum, two and a half years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kortrum of Edwardsville.

A peanut was drawn into the child's lung July 17, when Mrs. Kortrum attempted to take away some peanuts that a stranger had given the girl. It was removed Aug. 12, when she was taken to the hospital after consultation with several physicians elsewhere. A physician said that a peanut in the lung would generate in three weeks, enough poison to overcome the system of a child less than three years old.

18-INCH FALL KILLS BABY

Child, Who Tumbled From Crib Friday, Dies.

An 18-inch fall from a crib to the floor resulted in the death yesterday of Margaret, one and a half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Nickell, 3141 Edgar avenue, Maplewood. The fall occurred Friday while the child was playing in her crib. A blood vessel was ruptured and cerebral hemorrhages followed.

Nickell is manager of the East St. Louis branch of the Monsanto Chemical Co.

SALOON MAN ALLEGES ATTEMPT AT EXTORTION

Deputy Constable in County, Caught After Automobile Chase, Loses Badge.

The two-mile automobile chase Friday afternoon, which ended in the capture of J. W. Ward Jr., of Maplewood, and a companion after they had kept an appointment to meet a saloonkeeper who alleges the tried to extort $600—has resulted in Ward's loss of his badge as Deputy Constable of Central Township, St. Louis County. Meanwhile Prosecuting Attorney Jones is investigating the case further.

Sam Fuchs, who operates a saloon near Sappington, reported to the prosecutor Friday that two men had awakened him the night before and exhibited a bottle of liquor, which they accused him of selling, and demanded, "What are you going to do about it?" Fuchs denied selling liquor and was told to call a certain telephone number next day and ask for "Jones," who would advise him what to do.

While in the prosecutor's office he called the number, the Prosecuting Attorney "listening in" on a connecting line. "Jones" answered and wanted to know if Fuchs had $600. Fuchs didn't. "Then bring all you can get and meet us at Sappington road and Lockwood avenue at 2:30," he was told.

Fuchs, accompanied by Prosecuting Attorney Jones, his assistant, David Russell, Sheriff Willmann and Deputy Sheriff Wengler, went to the designated point and waited, the officers hiding nearby. About 3 p. m. two men drove up. They refused $45 in small bills which Fuchs proffered, but insisted that he accompany them to another point. He refused and signalled to the officers.

At their approach the men leaped into their car and fled, pursued by Sheriff Willmann and Russell. The chase led to the outskirts of Webster Groves, where the fugitives were caught and Ward's star and empty revolver were taken from him. The other man said he was Clifford Jones of 6837 Balson avenue. Ward charged Fuchs with trying to bribe an officer.

As no money actually changed hands, the men were allowed to remain at liberty, but Constable E. L. Stanton, under whom Ward serves, has declared he will fire the deputy. Sheriff Willmann is investigating reports of other county saloonkeepers that money has been extorted from them by two men under circumstances similar to those employed in this case.

DEDICATION OF ST. ANTHONY'S NEW PAROCHIAL SCHOOL TODAY

Archbishop Glennon to Conduct Exercises at $150,000 Structure at Meramec and Michigan.

The new St. Anthony's Catholic parish school building, costing about $150,000, at Meramec street and Michigan avenue, will be dedicated this afternoon by Archbishop Glennon. A procession of school children will open the exercises at 2 o'clock, starting from Meramec street and Compton avenue. The route will be Meramec street, Louisiana avenue, Keokuk street, Nebraska avenue, west on Meramec to the school.

A second program will be given tonight with addresses by Mayor Kiel and Judge Charles H. Daues. St. Anthony's choristers will sing both afternoon and evening. The Maryville Dramatic Club will present "Broadway Jones," a comedy in four acts, tonight and Tuesday night.

HIGH LIVERS IN GERMANY, BAREFOOT, TRY 'GRAPE CURE'

Patients Go Out When Dew Is Still on Grass and Pick Their Own Grapes.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The "grape cure" is now at its height in the vineyards in the Rhineland and in Baden and Bavaria. Thousands of persons in these regions are living exclusively on a grape diet in an effort to cure digestive troubles and rheumatism, gout and other maladies brought on by high living.

"Back to nature" methods are being resorted to in the more radical sanitariums, where the patients are required to go barefoot into the vineyards while the dew still is on the grass and pick on the rocky hillsides their own grapes and eat them. Aged or infirm patients who are unable to endure this strenuous regimen are supplied with daily ration of grapes on the verandas of the sanitariums.

Families Routed by Fire.

Patrolman Wehmeyer, walking his beat at 3 a. m. yesterday, saw smoke issuing from a three-story brick dwelling at 810 North Seventeenth street and aroused the three families, who left their beds and found shelter with neighbors. The floors were occupied by the families of James Love, Dock Griffith and James Gray. Damage to the building was $500. Police believe the fire started from a lighted cigarette stub.

REQUISITIONS ALLEGED SLAYER

Gov. Hyde Issues Papers for Man Held in Arkansas.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 13.—A requisition from Missouri upon the Governor of Arkansas was issued at the Governor's office today for the return to Richland, Scott County of Jim Williford, wanted there on a charge of first degree murder for the killing of Luther Goodin Aug. 30 last. Williford is alleged to have fatally assaulted Goodwin by beating him with a shotgun. He is being held at Little Rock, Ark.

MILLMENS' HEARING POSTPONED TO FRIDAY

Effort Will Be Made at That Time to Wind Up Testimony.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 13.—Winding up of testimony in the anti-trust suit against the St. Louis Millmen's Association was scheduled for today in a hearing here, but was delayed until next Friday. No witnesses were produced today by defense attorneys, who stated no further hearings could be held until the Supreme Court disposes of a motion now pending before it to strike out some of the testimony in the record.

The hearing was continued until 10 a. m. Friday at Hotel Statler, St. Louis.

Barrett Wants Action.

Attorney-General Barrett served notice that he would demand that the record be closed on that date in order that the case may be submitted to the Supreme Court during the October term. Barrett's term as Attorney-General expires at the end of the year. Barrett recalled that when a hearing was held here on Aug. 25, defense attorneys stated they could close up the defense testimony at a hearing on Sept. 8. Meanwhile the defense filed a motion to strike out testimony obtained by the State from expert economists, to the effect the plan under the Millmen's Association opefated offered opportunities for restraint of trade.

The Supreme Court sustained the motion and Barrett filed a counter motion to modify the ruling, which still is pending.

Tells of Delays.

"On August 25, the defense wanted a delay to produce some mysterious expert, who could not be obtained until September 1," Barrett said, "and the hearings were continued until September 8. Then the defense attorneys had some other cases to dispose of and asked a continuance until yesterday. When we appeared yesterday neither witnesses nor attorneys were here and I was told over the telephone that the attorneys had been confused concerning the date and overlooked the hearing. It was continued until today and today no witnesses are produced and further delay is sought."

Barrett offered to waive the rights of the State in the motions pending before the court in order to close the record at once, but the attorneys finally agreed on a setting for next Friday, conditional on the Supreme Court having disposed of pending motions by that time.

BELGIAN PRINCESS VISITS SCENES OF SCHOOL DAYS

Marie Josie Spends Three Weeks at Convent in England; Meets Former Friends.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Princess Marie Josie, only daughter of the King and Queen of the Belgians, has returned home after three weeks' sojourn in England, during which she sought to forget she was a Princess royal. She spent her holiday at the Ursuline Convent, Brentwood, where she found refuge as a schoolgirl during the years of the war.

The Princess resumed the school dress and avoided social functions, except to greet old associates at a reunion. She seemed to find her keenest enjoyment in rambling through the convent grounds wearing her old school hat and blazer.

She was assigned to the bedroom she occupied as a schoolgirl, and wrote her name and the date above a mark which indicated that she had grown a foot since she was last there—the measuring marks which she inscribed as a war refugee being still as she left them.

In an interview the Princess confessed that it was a great relief to get away from the cares and circumscribed existence which are the lot of royal personages. King Albert gave only one admonition to his daughter and the nuns, and that was that she should not leave the convent incloisure unescorted.

SHOE WORKERS END VOTING

Incomplete Returns Put Gill in Lead for President.

By the Associated Press.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Sept. 13.—Incomplete returns today from the Haverhill district in the general election of shoe workers protective union, gave for general president:

Austin E. Gill of Haverhill, 718; James B. T. George, Haverhill, 501; John B. Nolan of Rochester, N. Y., 208.

Returns from New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Los Angeles will not be complete for several days. The polls closed last night. Only 1500 of the 12,000 union members in this district voted. To the office of general secretary, sought by three Haverhill candidates, Wm. J. Ryan, apparently was elected.

Negroes Held for Murder in Car.

By the Associated Press.

MONMOUTH, Ill., Sept. 13.—Two negroes, William Ross of Columbus, O., and Robert Stevenson of Kansas City, Mo., were held today by a Coroner's jury, charged with the murder of Harry Thomas. Thomas died today of wounds received when he was held up by the two negroes, it is charged, while all were riding in a freight car.

MAJESTIC

The Majestic plan is simple — and simply good business.

No down payment.

Price same as cash.

Warranty Deed Day of Purchase.

No security except the property itself.

No short time loans (but with the privilege of paying all or any part at any time).

The entire purchase price divided into equal monthly payments of but little more than rent for the same property.

AN EXECUTIVE of the Majestic Homes Corporation will be glad to confer with any business executive who would like to go into the features of this plan as they can be applied to his own affairs.

THE active executive is in the thick of a double program—his business, his family life. His is a double goal—a successful business; a home reflecting his success.

Business is a matter of wise spending—of assuming the obligations that increase production or increase sales; of keeping capital active, liquid, working and turning—of building a credit standing and using credit.

Those are the sound business principles upon which business is founded and on which it builds. A home matching up to the achievements in the business world is not only good business, but the earned desert of both the executive and his family—a present enjoyment during the period of achievement and not a reward to be deferred.

Simply—it is this. If it is good business for the business man to have a home of his own, it is good business to apply the principle of business to the purchase of that home. The man most keenly feeling the need of a home of his own, most richly deserving it, is the very man shut out from its possession. His capital is needed and is active in business. It cannot be converted into two channels. Nor is there any sound reason why it should. The usually required down payment separates the business of home buying from other business.

The new Majestic plan makes the business of home buying a part of other business. It applies to home-buying the sound business principles that apply to all other business. A business must grow and prosper out of its own income. The Majestic plan does the same thing—it permits the purchase of a home out of income and not out of capital.

QUESTION RAISED BY SHOE CO. MAY CUT CITY REVENUE

Petition to Supreme Court Says Sales Tax Should Be Imposed Only on Articles Made Here.

MANY THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS AT STAKE

Upholding of Contention Would Lessen Levies on Other Firms and Require Refunds.

A question involving hundreds of thousands of dollars in sales taxes annually paid to the City of St. Louis, is raised in an application for a writ of review, which the International Shoe Co. will file with the State Supreme Court Monday. A copy of the application has been served on City License Collector Oliver Chapman and members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Board of Tax Equalization.

The application asks the court to review a sales tax assessment on $95,298,398, for the period from June 1, 1923, to May 31, 1924, made against the International firm by the board. The sum in question represents the total sales of shoes, but the company maintains it should be taxed only on $18,427,768, the sales of shoes manufactured in St. Louis. The tax rate is $1 for each $1000.

Shoes Shipped Here.

It is argued that $76,870,630 of the total sales represented shoes manufactured outside of St. Louis, in other sections of Missouri, and in Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky and New Hampshire. The company has 43 factories. It is admitted that these shoes are shipped to St. Louis and stored here, and that orders, taken all over the world, are filled here, but it is contended the shoes shipped here constitute interstate shipments and, as such, are not subject to the local sales tax. The city's position is that all shoes sold here, regardless of their place of manufacture, are subject to the tax.

The amount of taxes in dispute is $76,870.63, but the stand of the internation, if successful, would result in lowered taxes for other firms as well, and Collector Chapman said, would mean "hundreds of thousands of dollars less revenue for the city." The International company has heretofore paid the full assessment.

City Refers to Former Case.

City officials say a similar point was raised some years ago by the American Manufacturing Co., bag makers, and decided in the city's favor. Counsel for the International deny there is any similarity or precedent in this case. The American company argued it should not be taxed for sales of goods shipped outside Missouri. The city taxed on all shipments, in or outside Missouri, and was upheld in court.

MILLIONAIRE, AT AGE OF 94, IS NAMED PRESIDENT OF HOSPITAL

Is at His Desk Daily at Corset Factory—Says Steady Work Kept Him Young.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GRISWOLD, Conn., Sept. 13.—David Hale Fanning, born in Jewett City, in this town, 94 years ago Aug. 4, has been elected president of Hahnemann Hospital, Worcester, Mass., to succeed Dr. John K. Warren, who died June 26, last. An orphan at 16, Fanning left his native town to seek his fortune, his sole capital being $2.50, which he had accumulated through doing chores, also a little Bible, the gift of his mother. For years he seemed the "very button on fortune's cap," until eventually he drifted into the manufacture of hoop skirts, when fashionable women wore those grotesque "bird cages."

Sixty years ago, he foresaw the possibilities of the corset industry, founding the Royal Worcester Corset Co. in his adopted city. Fate has added many ciphers to the original $2.50 of his boyhood capital and for years he has been rated a millionaire.

His joy has been to divide his wealth so as to make it do the most good. Not only was he instrumental in founding and endowing the hospital, but he gave $250,000 for trade schools for girls in Worcester, has presented to Jewett City a park on the site of his ancestral home, also a soldiers' monument, which stands in the park.

Every working day Fanning is at his desk in his corset factory. He is a great-grandfather, as his granddaughter, Miss Rosamund Lancaster, is married to the grandson of John Wanamaker, Barclay Warburton Jr. of Philadelphia, and they have two children.

Fanning does not yet feel his life work is over and that there is not a place for him in the industrial system of his big plant. They erected a bronze tablet to him there when he had reached 90 and when the business had been established 60 years; but Mr. Fanning was not quite ready to knock off. He felt he was really too young. He tells his co-laborers that keeping at work steadily has also kept him young.

LONDONERS FLOCK TO SEE IVAN MESTROVIC'S WORKS

Exhibition Displays Pieces Fashioned by Great Jugo-Slavian Sculptor—Is Fourth in England.

(From the London Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Artistic London is flocking to the exhibition of the work of Ivan Mestrovic, the great Jugo-Slavian sculptor, which opened here at the Fine Art Society's galleries. The exhibition was opened by Dr. Michel Gavrilovitch, Minister of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. It consists of between 30 and 40 pieces in marble, bronze, wood and plaster, several of which have not been seen before in England.

Among the new heads and figures brought from Mestrovic's home at Zagreb are "Ecce Homo," "Angels in Sorrow, and Angels in Joy," in wood; "Angel Gabriel," "Magdalen," "Contemplation," and "Mother and Child," in marble; and the "Head of the Victor," "Girl Singing with Guitar," "Madonna with Child," "Head of Christ," in bronze.

This is Mestrovic's fourth exhibition in London. The first, at the Victoria and Albert Museum in 1915, was opened by Lord Robert Cecil, then Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs; the second formed part of the exhibition of Serbo-Croat art at the Graffton Galleries, two years later; the third, again after an interval of two years, was at the Twenty-one Gallery, in the Adelphi. In the same year, 1919, a collection of his works was shown at the Serbian Exhibition at Brighton. He has since exhibited at Rotterdam, Amsterdam, Antwerp and Ljubljana.

His chief work during these last few years has been on the mortuary chapel which he has designed to the memory of the Racic family on a hill at Cavtat, in Dalmatia.

Mestrovic, who is the son of a peasant, is in his forty-first year. From the days of his childhood, which were spent as a shepherd boy, he has found the natural expression of his ideas in carving, the chief inspiration of his art being the heroic ballads of the southern Slavs.

FIRST OF SCUTTLED GERMAN SHIPS RAISED

Will Be Scrapped for Metal—Salvaging of Rest at Scapa Flow to Take Four Years.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

SCAPA FLOW, Sept. 1.—The first ship of Germany's wartime navy, which was sent to the bottom of the sea here by her officers on June 21, 1919, has been raised and will be consigned to an equally ignominious end on the scrap iron heap.

A firm of London engineers has completed the salvage of the vessel —the destroyer V70—after a year's work and many unsuccessful attempts to float her.

The V70 was a big ship of the 80 class which had sunk in 20 fathoms of water in the center of the Flow. The engineers had exhausted the best known methods of ship salvaging before using the system of underslinging heavy cables and raising the ship by means of the floating dock.

This latter method was used about six weeks ago when the vessel was raised 11 feet before the iron chains which were then used broke, thus allowing the prize to settle once again to the bottom. Wire cables were then substituted which supported the enormous weight long enough to permit the dock to be placed under the ship.

The dock was then towed near the shore where the workmen will start cutting through the heavy steel hull and dismantle the fittings. At present the engineers are unable to estimate the ship's value but after they had pierced the heavy seaweed coating they found the metal to be in a better state than was expected. They claim that the salvage work, though costly, will show a good profit but it will not make a very large contribution to aiding the reparations payments.

Several of the other ships which were scuttled in the Flow will be raised in a similar manner but it will take between three and four years to complete the work.

JAPANESE EXCLUSION ACT HITS NIPPONESE SHIP LINES

Transpacific Lines Say They Cannot Continue Without Government Subsidy.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Sept. 1.—Effects of the Japanese exclusion clause of the new American immigration act are already felt adversely by Japanese steamship companies operating transpacific service, which are now carrying only a small fraction of their former steerage passenger lists. Steerage accommodations of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, Toyo Kisen Kaisha and Osaka Shosen Kaisha transpacific liners formerly were almost altogether taken up by Japanese immigrants or Japanese residents of America. The new law has practically ended travel of this class. The N. Y. K.'s Kaga Maru, on a recent voyage from Seattle, carried only one steerage passenger.

In 1923 the three Japanese companies carried 14,733 steerage passengers across the Pacific, this service yielding an important item of income. The loss of the larger part of this income is causing the companies to urge the Government to pay them larger subsidies, declaring that without more aid they cannot continue their transpacific services.

25,000 FARMERS IN JAPAN JOIN IN PRAYER FOR RAIN

Prolonged Drouth Causing Quarrels Between Villages Where Water Supply Is Short.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

KIOTO, Japan, Sept. 1.—More than 25,000 farmers participated in a prayer ceremony held recently in Funai County, Kioto prefecture, to pray to the ancient Shinto deities to send rain. Drouth has been threatening the western and southern part of Japan with serious rice crop shortages this year.

The drouth is causing quarrels among farming communities in various parts of Southern Japan, where the water supply is inadequate. The Governor of Kumamoto prefecture has been asked to act as referee between two villages which are quarreling over the right of one highr up the stream that runs through both to dam the stream to get water for its parched crops.

MOVE TO BREAK UP THE WHOLE PLAZA SCHEME FORESEEN

"May We Not Expect Attempt to Put the Auditorium on Southern Hotel Site?"

REFERENDUM BODY'S MOTIVES ATTACKED

Plaza Committee Sends Letter to Board of Aldermen on the Coutrhouse Situation.

Motives of the Courthouse Referendum Committee, which has invoked the referendum on the ordinance locating the new $4,000,000 bond-issue courthouse on Memorial Plaza, are attacked in a letter to the Board of Aldermen from the Plaza Courthouse Committee, which favors the plaza site.

The letter charges that the real reason for the referendum is hope of personal gain in rejuvenating an old district, and declares that a change in the courthouse location may be followed by an attempt to break up the whole plaza scheme. Former Circuit Judge Charles W. Rutledge, president of the Plaza Courthouse Committee, and Chester A. Dougerty, secretary, signed the letter.

Special Session of Board.

A special session of the Board of Aldermen will be held tomorrow to consider the location ordinance again, under the referendum procedure. The Aldermen are expected to pass it again. The letter follows:

"The Plaza Courthouse Committee has been organized to back the action of the Board of Aldermen, and we are rapidly perfecting our organization for a thorough campaign of education and publicity. Public sentiment is overwhelmingly with you on this ordinance.

"The copy of an opinion by Rassieur & Goodwin (personal attorneys for John F. Queeny) that the removal of the courts will cause the title to the old courthouse to be lost, was sent you to confuse the real issue. The title is not involved and the only question is one of preference of new sites. The courthouse bond issue mentioned another site and another courthouse, so a new site is imperative. The City Counselor recently, and a committee of lawyers of the Bar Association in 1922, of which Richard A. Jones was chairman, rendered opinions that the title would not revert. These opinions were unprejudiced and not inspired by special interests.

"Personal Gain."

"The real objective of these special interests is personal gain in the hope of rejuvenating an abandoned district. The people, in voting for bond issues for the plaza, courthouse, Municipal auditorium and soldiers' memorial, unquestionably intended to approve the advertised plan to group public buildings around the plaza and centralize public business. If the courthouse is taken from this group, may we not expect these same special interests to attempt to put the auditorium on the Southern Hotel site, to give the new courthouse fitting surroundings, and further enrich themselves? We must carry on for the general public good and not for these selfish interests."

John F. Queeny, chairman of the Courthouse Referendum Committee, which favors a Broadway site for the new courthouse, between the present location and the old Southern Hotel property, owns the latter property.

ARAB WOMEN OFFER JEWELS TO GET RID OF VEIL

Moslem Feminists in Palestine Protest Publicly Against "Insulting Seclusion."

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 31.—The conservatism of the Mohammedan custom, with regard to the social isolation of the women in Palestine, may soon give way before the movement launched by Arab feminists for the removal of the veil. The Holy Land, backward also in many other respects, is behind such Moslem countries as Turkey and Egypt in breaking the shackles holding women in seclusion.

The movement for the enfranchisement of Moslem women in Palestine is of recent origin, and is traceable to the influx of people from the West, especially Jewish immigrants coming to settle in their national home.

As the first step towards their emancipation the women demand ecclesiastical sanction for the removal of the veil from their faces. If such flying in the face of age-long custom does not win official approval, some of the leading Arab women of Palestine are determined to do what their Moslem sisters did in Turkey, where the veil has been entirely cast off, or at least in Egypt, where only a light transparent veil is still worn, extending from below the nose.

It is the hope of the feminists that the admittance of Moslem women to the theatrical stage will follow the removal of the veil.

"Take us out of our insulting seclusion and remove from our faces the offensive black cloth, give us our opportunity as free members of a free people, granting us the right to fight with you for our national ideals," says in part an appeal appearing recently in an Arab language newspaper in Haifa. "Then we shall, in gratitude, sacrifice our jewels, delivering up our gold and precious stones for the establishment of the Arab National Bank."

Cigarette Popular in Germany.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—The cigarette has become exceedingly popular throughout Germany, and more cigars and pipe tobacco are being consumed since the war than in any other period. Recent statistics show that the imports of raw tobacco have increased considerably as compared with those prior to the war, and this despite the decrease of the German population.

Many Germans Go to Holland.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1924.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 13.—Despite spite improving conditions in Germany and stability of the renten mark, German penetration of Holland is not declining. Every week many hundreds of German hairdressers, cooks, waiters, office clerks and engineers cross Dutch frontiers, thus impeding thousands of Dutch unemployed in the struggle for life. A delegation from the Trade Union Congress, in an interview with Lord Minister Aalberse, protested against the continued invasion and urged him to take protective measures.

SAYS CHANNEL AT CAIRO IS HURTING BUSINESS HERE

James E. Smith Asserts Privately Operated Barge Lines Are Unable to Reach City.

ARMY ENGINEER TO VISIT HERE TUESDAY

Expert Will Make Tour of Inspection of Waterway in Order to Make Recommendations.

The St. Louis-Cairo channel of the Mississippi has been a trouble maker for the Government barge lines and has kept privately operated lines on the Ohio from reaching St. Louis, James E. Smith said yesterday in a statement preliminary to an inspection of the channel, beginning Tuesday, by Major-General Harry Taylor, chief of Army Engineers.

The trip will consume three days, since all inspection must be by daylight. Recommendations and estimates will be made to Congress, in its consideration of river and harbor improvement in the coming session, by Major-General Taylor's department. He will be met at Union Station Tuesday morning by a committee headed by Smith, escorted to the University Club for breakfast, to the municipal dock for a barge line demonstration and to the Chamber of Commerce to speak at a luncheon, and will depart shortly after 1 p. m.

Cannot Operate Large Fleets.

"The present condition of the channel between St. Louis and Cairo makes it impossible at low water periods to operate the large fleets of modern barges now in operation between St. Louis and New Orleans," Smith said. "The present eight-foot channel, which was planned years ago for the navigation of the old type of packet boats then in operation, was ample for that purpose. But it will not permit the passage of the big Government tows, which are three or four times as wide as the old packet boats and six or eight times as long."

Smith computed that delay to 34 barges carrying 42,727 tons of freight and protracted "siege" of low water in 1922, adding together the number of days lost by each barge, amounted to 1120 days—nearly three years. "While the 20 per cent saving in rates afforded by the Federal river service, coupled with a slighter slower service, is attractive to many lines of traffic no shipper or consignee can afford such delays," he remarked. "The natural result of this interruption of service in the past has been a reversion to rail routing."

Trip Expensive.

A Pittsburg steel corporation, he related, attempting to transport its products to St. Louis and Northern points by the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, had found it too difficult and expensive to use its own equipment on this stretch of the Mississippi. He continued:

"Of what value is a packet boat channel between Cairo and New Orleans to the steel trade of Pittsburg, or the great manufacturers of the Ohio Valley? They are looking forward to a channel on which they can float steel and kindred products down in great tows calculated to produce a unit cost which will greatly cheapen their present transportation. They have not been waiting for years for the completion of the great locks of the Ohio River system to find their whole operations flattened out and made impossible by the non-existence of a tow-boat channel north of Cairo. Between the period of low in the Ohio and low water in the Mississippi, they would have only about a four or five months' season of operations. No such economies can have any value to them.

"The other alternative is to secure a channel between St. Louis and Cairo which is of adequate dimensions to permit of tows of payroll dimensions throughout the year.

"It is frequently estimated that the maintenance of an adequate towboat channel in the lower Mississippi is impractical because of the great expense involved. There is annually spent on the 235,000 miles of the railroads of the United States something in excess of $1,800,000,000 for maintenance of ways and structures—about $4400 on each mile of road. The railroads find no difficulty in organizing so that this huge sum is spent with reasonable care and efficiency. No one would think of criticising the policy of the railroads in annually spending this vast sum for the maintenance of a line over which to do business.

"At the same rate of expenditure per mile on the 1200 miles of the lower Mississippi, the annual budget for this channel would be $5,-000,000. No one thinks of spending that sum or any thing like it. Since 1910 only $1,900,000 has been spent on the stretch of the Mississippi between St. Louis and Cairo. Yet these 1200 miles of river when maintained for continuous towboat operations can carry a tonnage so much greater and at so much lower cost as to leave no basis for comparison with the best maintained mile of railroad in the country."

U. S. AGENTS FIND STOCK OF NARCOTICS IN GARAGE

Officers, Hunting for Two Indicted Men, Make Discovery of Drugs.

Two men, indicted by the Federal grand jury for trafficking in narcotics, were sought yesterday by Federal Narcotic Inspector Thompson, and his agents, in a garage in the rear of 108 North Fourteenth street.

They were unable to find the two men wanted, but in investigating the premises came upon a quantity of narcotics. The lot, which was confiscated, included four ounces of cocaine, six ounces of morphine and 10 packages of cocaine which, they say, was prepared to sell at $1 per package. The agents are now seeking the owner of the garage, known to them as Harry Lenders, alias "The Spook."

KILLING OF DEPUTY MAY ENDS VIOLENCE IN ITALY

Assassination of Fascist Legislator Expected to Have Good Political Effect.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 13.—The assassination yesterday of the Fascist deputy, Armando Casalini, avowedly an act of revenge for the murder three months ago of the Socialist Deputy, Giacomo Matteotti, is expected to influence the general political situation in Italy, in that it will probbaly convince both the Fascisti and the opposition that violence should end.

Premier Mussolini has personally given orders that the most energetic steps shall be taken to maintain order. Sporadic demonstrations, which have taken place in various parts of Italy, have caused no serious trouble despite bitterness among the Fascisti.

JONES APEALS FROM RULINGS IN ELECTION FRAUD CASES

Prosecutor Takes Decisions in Which Seven Were Freed to Supreme Court.

Appeals have been taken to the Supreme Court of Missouri by Prosecuting Attorney Jones of St. Louis County from rulings in Circuit Court at Clayton by which seven of the defendants in the indictment charging participation in the wholesale frauds of the 1922 primary election were freed of the charges against them.

Charges against Fred Essen, county Republican boss; Albert Wehmeyer, William Seibel, Harry Kassebaum, William Shields, and Al G. Bruce, were dismissed by Judge McElhinney, as has been told. Similarly, charges against Julius Schoenbein were dismissed by Judge Wurdeman. It is these rulings which the prosecutor is asking the Supreme Court to consider.

WOMAN CHARMED OUT OF $125 BY GYPSY WITCH DOCTOR

Promises to Restore Patient to Health If Allowed to Wear Money Around Neck.

A Gypsy witch doctor who engaged to charm away Mrs. Emma Meadows' ill health is sought by the police on a complaint of her patient that she was swindled out of $125 and a dress. Mrs. Meadows explained that the Gypsy called at her home, 4202 West Belle place, and offered to cure her.

"How will you do it?" she asked the woman.

"Wear $125—four twenties, four teen and one five—in a bag hung from a cord around your neck," the "doctor" prescribed.

When this didn't work the Gypsy said, "Well, I'll have to wear the charm. You must give me a good dress, too." Mrs. Meadows handed her the $125 and one of her best dresses. She has not heard from the woman since, and yesterday decided to tell the police.

BOY, 8, IS KILLED BY AUTO IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Driver Says Newsboy Ran in Front of Machine From Behind Street Car.

Leo Killingsworth, 8-year-old newsboy, 822 North Seventh street, East St. Louis, was killed yesterday morning when struck by an automobile at Collinsville and St. Clair avenues, that city.

Edgar Clark Jr., 20 years old, 1507 North Twenty-fifth street, who was driving the car, accompanied by his father, to the Swift Packing Plant, where both work, told police the boy ran in front of the automobile from behind a street car.

Farmer Dies From Injuries Suffered When Struck by Auto.

Alfred Schierbaum, 52, a farmer, of Wentzville, Mo., who was struck by an automobile in front of 3855 Delmar boulevard, Thursday evening, died Friday afternoon of his injuries. Justin Brennan, 5130 Cates avenue, driver of the automobile, said he did not know he had hit anyone until he felt the impact and saw Schierbaum lying in the street.

Accident Verdict in Collision Which Killed Two Children.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned yesterday in the deaths of Mary Margaret Coop, 4, and her sister, Della Florence, 8 months old, killed Thursday at 5 p. m., when an automobile in which they were riding with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Cook, 3039 Magazine street, collided with a Cass car at St. Louis avenue and Bacon street.

The verdict exonerated the crew of the street car, Otto E. Nieweg, 2128 Rolla place, motorman, and Winette Bowers, 2722 Slattery street, who had been held under bond. Both declined to make a statement, as did the father of the children, who was driving the automobile.

Police testified, as was told Friday, that Cook was driving a Ford touring car, with his wife, Ethel, 32, sitting alongside, holding the infant in her lap, while the older girl sat in the rear. He was driving west on St. Louis avenue and started to turn into Bacon street, but suddenly halted the machine to avoid striking three men, who stepped from the curb. Then the car, coming east on St. Louis avenue, struck the automobile in the rear. The impact catapulted the two children into the street, both striking on their heads. They died a few minutes later at Mullanphy Hospital. The parents were treated there for lacerations and shock, the knowledge of the death of the daughters being withheld from the mother.

Dictionary Cost Webster $30,000 in 26 Years

Letter Telling of His Struggle to Compile the Work Found in His Cousin's Papers.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—A letter written in 1823 by Noah Webster, author of the dictionary which is said to have prevented the United States from becoming a nation speaking many dialects, in which the writer refers to his plans to obtain a reception for his work in England, has been given out by John Stuart Thomson of Jersey City.

The communication, which is described as hitherto unpublished, was addressed to Charles R. Webster, a cousin of Noah, and was found by Thomson among the papers of the cousin. It read as follows:

"New Haven, Sept. 24, 1823.

"Dear Sir:

"I expected you would call upon me the morning you left New Haven but you disappointed me and I must write what I want to say to you. You must have heard that I have been many years in compiling a complete dictionary of our language. My researches have been laborious and extensive, and I think fruitful in discoveries.

As I am drawing toward the conclusion of the work, I think of going to England next summer to revise and complete the work and to try to obtain a reception of it in that country. But my resources are too scanty for such an undertaking and I want to avail myself of all my extra means. I have on hand a new book of my own publishing, entitled 'Letters to a Young Gentleman Concerning His Education,' some of which I think may be sold in Albany. The retail price is $1.75, the work being a thin octavo. The sheet price is 90 cents and for a hundred or more I would say 80 cents. Now, sir, will not Webster and Skinner assist me, by taking a hundred or two, either bound or in sheets; bound at $1.29 or in sheet at 89 cents? If you will, it will very much oblige me.

"My dictionary has cost me 26 years of labor and about $30,000. If I succeed I shall reimburse myself and be able to compensate all my friends for their advances. If I should not, I shall be left in my old age with small means for subsistence.

"Please to present our kind respects to Mrs. W. and other friends.

"Yours with affection and respect, "N. WEBSTER."

$2,000,000 SPENT ANNUALLY IN IOWA ON CHILD WELFARE

Commission at Work Preparing Report for Legislature on Effectiveness of Methods.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, Ia. — The State of Iowa and its counties are spending annually more than $2,000,000 for the care of dependent, neglected and delinquent children, according to a preliminary report by the Iowa Child Welfare Commission. The amount is more than twice that spent in 1915 and the increase has gone on in recent years in advance of the general cost of living, the report said.

The welfare commission was appointed by Gov. Kendell in November, 1923, to investigate and make a report to the State Legislature on child welfare legislation. In its preliminary report, the commission said: "Purely from a business standpoint it is folly to ignore the efficient or inefficient ways in which these millions of hard-earned dollars, our taxes, are being spent. But above business considerations must come the welfare of the thousands of innocent youngsters whose whole future depends upon the skill with which social problems of childhood are met in the State.

"Confronted with this issue, the Iowa Child Welfare Commission has sought, and is securing, counsel from the people in the State whose daily work involves contact with the laws relating to children. It has written to Judges, to social workers, to probation officers, and to other citizens whose names it could obtain as those having experience and wisdom in child welfare work. The response has justified the inquiry."

MISSIONARY TO CHILE TO MAKE TWO ADDRESSES TODAY

Rev. Olin J. Gary, Who Recently Returned From Santiago, to Speak in Maplewood.

The Rev. Olin J. Gary, who returned to St. Louis recently from Santiago, Chile, where he served 15 months as a missionary, will deliver two addresses at the Church of the Nazarene in Maplewood today. The theme of his morning address will be "Divine Healing" and he will relate his personal experiences in Chile, where he anointed 70 ill and afflicted persons.

The Rev. Mr. Gary, who is a brother of Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, came to St. Louis in 1883, from Chicago. His ambition then, he relates, was to become a bartender, but on the train met a clergyman who influenced him to study for the ministry. After he was ordained in 1895, he served for many years as an evangelist at St. Louis missions and open air meetings and later held pastorates in Missouri, Illinois and Massachusetts. He is 73 years old.

MORE THAN 1500 FARM CO-OPERATIVES IN MISSOURI

More than 1500 farmers' co-operative marketing associations were located by tacks of various colors on a huge map of Missouri at the State Fair at Sedalia. This immense map occupied the entire west wall of the rural life booth in the University of Missouri Building and attracted a great deal of attention. Each kind of marketing organization was indicated by a tack of a certain color.

This map showed the location of 400 livestock marketing associations, nearly as many produce exchanges, warehouses and stores, 275 farmers' elevators, 100 farmers' mutual fire insurance companies, 158 farm loan associations, almost 100 dairy and fruit marketing associations and many other organizations active in the handling of tobacco, cotton, sun-flower seed, soybeans, milk and dairy products, vegetables and other commodities.

ROB PLANT WITH 40 EMPLOYES NEARBY

Pair Hold Up Watchman and Escape With $250 in Stamps and Cash.

Christian Loesche, 66 years old, a watchman for the Wrought Iron Range Co., 5661 Natural Bridge avenue, was held up in the company's offices early yesterday by four men who knocked the combination off a safe and escaped with $250 in stamps and cash.

The robbers worked with a night shift of 40 employes busy in one part of the plant. After opening the safe they tried to batter open a vault, but failed. Then they sought to intimidate Loesche, who was unarmed, into revealing the hiding place of a payroll they believed was in the office.

"The company pays by check," he told them.

"You're a liar," they said, and cursed and kicked him.

Not finding anything more of value, they fled.

MUCH LUMBER FROM THIS TREE

Six Thousand Feet Obtained From One Red Oak.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLDWATER, Miss.—More than 6000 feet of No. 1 timber was obtained from one big red oak tree recently cut by J. T. Lee, a timber dealer of Coldwater. Four 12-foot logs obtained from this tree were loaded on the cars at Pritchard a few days ago and the largest of these scaled 1900 feet. At the prevailing market price of $50 per 1000 for this grade of timber the tree was worth $300. The entire tract of 90 acres of swamp land from which this mammoth tree was cut was sold last year for $150. The existence of such a large tree on the tract was not known at that time. The land has no market value aside from the timber and probably will revert to the State after the present stand of timber has been cut.

KING GEORGE OWNS DISTILLERY

It Is Situated on the Royal Estate in Scotland.

LONDON.—Following upon the information that King George is the owner of a saloon, it is now revealed that he also owns a distillery.

It is situated on the royal state of Balmoral, Scotland, and is known as the Lochnagar distillery.

The whisky distilled is reported to be of a very pure and high order, and it is to be found in all the royal households of England.

GERMAN SPORT WRITERS GREET OLYMPIC FRICTION WITH GLEE

One Writer Frankly States It Is a Case of "Sour Grapes" Over Snubbing.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—German sport writers greeted with printers' ink cheers the news that the Olympic games in Paris this summer aroused some criticism in the United States and that a movement had been started in England proposing that the British refrain from further participation in the contests.

"Frankly," says one writer, "it is a case of sour grapes so far as the Germans are concerned, because Germany was not invited to take part in the games this year."

Considerable space was devoted by the German press to the Paris games, the sport news frequently appearing on the pages mostly devoted to politics and the writers pointing to the lack of enthusiasm among the crowds, and much attention was given to every disputed point wherever the contestants or judges disagreed.

On the Stai... Dramatic ... The Shub...

Mme. Johanna Gadski ... deville Tour at Orp... Offers Play New He...

THE dramatic season in the downtown theaters begins tonight at the Shubert-Jefferson with "On the Stairs," a mystery play by William Hurlburt, which has been showing briefly in Chicago. There is a haunted house, a stairway of which the owner was murdered; and at this spot various persons have alarming experiences, with which a Hindoo swami is suspected of having something to do. Mingled in the complications are a wealthy girl, an aspiring youth and the usual stolen will. The cast includes James Cottswood, Harold de Becker, Alan Motte, George H. Keenan, Charles Driscoll, John Hanney, Charles Kenyon, Mignon McClintock, Anne Sherman and Carrie LeMoyne.

This piece will be followed next Monday night by a musical comedy entitled "A Trial Honeymoon;" which will succeed Henning Bert's distinguished drama "The Deluge," which, though written in Swedish, has American settings and characters. An important announcement is that Walter Hampden will present his production of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" at the Shubert-Jefferson for a week, beginning Monday night, Oct. ...

"Lawful Larceny," at Pershing...

THE second week of the stock company at the Pershing will be signalized by the presentation of a play new to this city, "Lawful Larceny," a three-act comedy drama by Samuel Shipman. It was produced last year at the Republic Theater, New York, and had a season's run. The story concerns a young wife who is estranged by another woman and, thinking that the law offers no redress, takes justice into her own hands. The principal roles will be played by Rhea Dwoley, Edward Emery, Leah May, G. T. Bro... Eleanor Martin, Leslie Jones and Frank Ketterick. The Woodward company at the Empress is offering The Cat and the Canary, which has twice been seen here at the Shubert-Jefferson.

The Orpheum Theater has been seen as the scene of the first ... Gadski, one of the foremost dramatic sopranos, and an early Wagnerian actress. She will ... there all week, beginning this afternoon, at a salary reported to be $2500 a week. She has sung with the Symphony Orchestra and made her last local appearance as soloist with the St. Louis Municipal Opera at the Coliseum. She was for many years a member of the Metropolitan.

On the bill are Enrico Rastelli, juggler; Charles Judels, musical comedy mirth-maker, with Gus Edwards' Revue; Ward and Van, William Rock and Maxine, Crafts and Sheehan, James J. Corbett and Jack ...

Fatally Hurt in Lawn Game.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—"Dropping the handkerchief," ordinarily regarded as a nice, harmless lawn game, resulted fatally here for George E. Larsen, secretary and treasurer of a hardware firm. Larsen was playing the game on the lawn of his summer home at Redner, S. D., and collided with one of the women players, a knee striking him in the stomach. He died two weeks later.

On the Stairs' Opens Dramatic Season at The Shubert-Jefferson

Mme. Johanna Gadski Begins Her First Vaudeville Tour at Orpheum, and Pershing Offers Play New Here, 'Lawful Larceny.'

THE dramatic season in the downtown theaters begins tonight at the Shubert-Jefferson with "On the Stairs," a mystery play by William Hurlburt, which has been showing briefly in Chicago. There is a haunted house, with a stairway of which the owner was murdered; and at this spot various persons have alarming experiences, with which a Hindoo maid is suspected of having something to do. Mingled in the complications are a wealthy girl, an adoring youth and the usual stolen will. The cast includes James Kirkwood, Harold de Becker, Ann Motte, George H. Keenan, Charles Driscoll, John Hanney, Charles Kenyon, Mignon McClintock, Anne Sherman and Carrie Clayborne.

This piece will be followed next Monday night by a musical comedy called "A Trial Honeymoon;" to which will succeed Henning Berger's distinguished drama of "The Deluge," which, though written by a Swede, has American settings and characters. An important announcement is that Walter Hampden will present his production of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" at the Shubert-Jefferson for a run, beginning Monday night, Oct. 6.

"Lawful Larceny," at Pershing.

THE second week of the stock company at the Pershing will be signalized by the presentation of a play new to this city, "Lawful Larceny," a three-act society drama by Samuel Shipman. It was produced last year at the Republic Theater, New York, and had a season's run. The story concerns a young wife who, neglected by another woman and knowing that the law offers no redress, takes justice into her own hands. The principal roles will be played by Rhea Diveley, Edward Emery, Leah May, G. T. Brower, Elinor Martin, Leslie Jones and Jack Ketterick. The Woodward company at the Empress is offering "The Cat and the Canary," which has twice been seen here at the Shubert-Jefferson.

The Orpheum Theater has been chosen as the scene of the first vaudeville appearance of Mme. Johanna Gadski, one of the foremost dramatic sopranos, and an emiment Wagnerian actress. She will appear there all week, beginning this afternoon, at a salary reported to be $3500 a week. She has sung often with the Symphony Orchestra and made her last local appearance as soloist with the St. Louis Masque at the Coliseum. She was for many years a member of the Metropolitan.

On the bill are Enrico Rastelli, juggler; Charles Judels, musical comedy mirth-maker, with Gene Ward and Van, William Halligan and Crafts and Sheehan. James J. Corbett and Jack Norton, in "Taking the Air," a skit they played in the "Follies," are headliners at the Rialto for the first part of the week. Other turns are Rose Maura's Revue, and acts by Mae Melville and George Rule and Maximilian and Jose Novelle. The schedule to be substituted Thursday includes Harry Stoddard's orchestra, John Rucker and Sidney Perrin, Edwards and Dean, the Ward Brothers and Manning and Glass.

Grand, Liberty, Burlesque.

AT the Grand Opera House will be seen "By the Sea," with Billy Purl, Peggy Earle and Luther Yantis; the Syncopated Seven, Milt Collins, Billy Shone and Louise Squire; Achilles, with Julius Newman; Drew and Valle, Gordan and Carlell, Jeanette Childs and Wire and Walker.

The musical comedy stock company at Liberty Music Hall announces "The Follies of 1925" for its current offering, with extensive changes of cast. First appearances in this production will be made by Helen McClain, prima donna; Peggy Wilson, Charleen Anderson, Julia Goss, Jack Erickson and Robert Jones. There will be vaudeville and a film play, "The Battling Fool," with Eva Novak and William Fairbanks.

The Garrick's burlesque show in "Red Hot," featuring Libbie Hart, dancer. The Gayety announces Billy Arlington and the Golden Crook Company.

Lloyd Hughes and Florence Vidor in "Welcome Stranger"—Kings.

"What Price Glory?" Is Called Best War Play

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
Dramatic Critic of the New York World.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.

THE review I wrote about "What Price Glory?" was a sloppy piece of work. Very few of the things felt and thought about the play came out. In such cases it is usual to blame the lack of time.

That had something to do with it, but there were other hurdles. Possibly if I set the hurdles right in front of me I can hop over them. Two rise up as I think about it. There is the fact that when I first met Laurence Stallings he was on the copy desk of this newspaper. He said that he didn't like the job and that he would like to get in the dramatic department. I told him vaguely that maybe something could be done about it. And around that time something was done, although as I remember, I didn't have anything in particular to do with it.

Also Author of "Plumes."

AND in two years since Stallings left that copy desk he has written a superb novel called "Plumes" and has collaborated in "What Price Glory?" Now this play is certainly the best use which the theater has yet made of the war and it is entirely possible that it is the best American play about anything. When I try to conjure up something by Eugene O'Neill to beat down this man from the copy desk, I can't remember anything quite sharp enough.

To be sure, O'Neill has a more expert sense of stage technique, but there is nothing in which he has displayed the same understanding of the way in which people feel and behave and talk. Nobody who has seen "What Price Glory?" at the Plymouth could possibly sit through "The Hairy Ape" again without feeling the self-consciousness of the language which O'Neill set down on paper after he had bent over to put his ear to the ground.

And, naturally, I cannot lift myself clear out of jealousy. I do not suffer much when my friends do well, but this is a little too well to be accepted easily.

And another hurdle is my pa-

Frank Keenan, star of stage and screen, has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to star in the screen version of George Beaumont's story, "Dixie." Keenan will again be given the opportunity to portray the part of the stern old Southern gentleman. It was in "The Coward," that Keenan scored his initial screen success in the role of the old Southern Colonel.

Adolphe Menjou and Edgar Norton held a reunion at the Lasky Studio during the filming of William de Mille's "The Fast Set." It was the first time in nine years that the two men had worked together in a picture. In 1915 they appeared in support of Marguerite Clark in "The Amazons."

Gibson Gowland, who has a featured role in Paramount's picturization of Zane Grey's "The Border Legion," claims he grew the first real beard for motion picture purposes. It was ten years ago in a picture directed by Fred Balshoffer with the late Harold Lockwood as the star. Prior to that time, beards were glued on.

Rain, sleet and blinding snowstorms greeted Thomas Meighan and a company of Paramount players when they arrived in the Canadian Rockies during the early summer to make scenes in his latest picture, "The Alaskan." Production work was held up for more than a week.

Antonio Moreno has a "rendezvous with terror" every time he starts a new picture. The first day of work on "The Story Without a Name" which Irvin Willat directed at the Paramount Long Island Studio found Moreno in a state of excitement equal to that experienced by actors on the first night of a play. "Every time I start a new picture I am as nervous as a cat," explained Moreno. "I don't know why I should be, but I am. There is nothing harder about the first day's work than the last day's shooting, but the breaking of the ice just seems to get me. In all the pictures I have made I always have a creepy feeling on the first day. After that everything is all right."

Some of the original rolling stock of the old Central Pacific, which chugged across the plains and over the Sierra Nevada mountains in the gold days, will be seen in Thomas H. Ince's forthcoming epic of the West, "The Last Frontier."

Having purchased the screen rights to "Gerald Cranston's Lady," the English novel by Gilbert Frankau, William Fox has assembled a cast commensurate with the importance of the literary work and has started production at the West Coast Studios. James Kirkwood

"Flirting With Love," "Sinners in Heaven" On Screen Bills

Other Local Offerings Are "Bread," "One Night in Rome," and "Welcome Stranger" —Added Stage Attractions at Several Houses.

COLLEEN Moore's new First National Production, "Flirting with Love," is presented at the Grand Central, Lyric Skydome and Capitol Theaters. It is a screen version of LeRoy Scott's novel, "Counterfeit." Conway Tearle and John Patrick appear in the star's support.

The Grand Central will have an added attraction in Gilbert and Sullivan's immortal success, "The Mikado," offered in a novel way. It is called a "Screen Opera." All dialogue of the libretto has been eliminated, and this is supplanted by titles which appear in the background and explain the action of the story. Then the company performs the musical numbers. In this way a miniature version of the opera is given in short time.

"Flirting with Love" deals with the fury of an actress whose play is closed by a scientist on the censor committee. It also happens that his specialty is dual personalities and the plot revolves about the girl's attempt to dupe him into believing she has a dual personality and thus ridicule him before the world.

Art Landry, leader of the band of syncopators which bears his name, is the featured attraction of "Syncopation Weak" at Loew's State Theater.

Other features arranged for the week are the Osumans, banjoists; Mme. Elsa Stralia, dramatic soprano, and "Jazz vs. Opera," a stage presentation bringing together all the features in a battle of classic music and syncopation. A feature of the bill is a "Kazoo" chorus.

Charles Norris' novel, "Bread," in film form, is the featured screen attraction. Mae Busch, Pat O'Malley, Hobart Bosworth and Wanda Hawley have leading roles.

J. Hartley Manners' stage success, "One Night in Rome," in which Laurette Taylor appeared on the speaking stage, is the week's film offering at the Delmonte and Capitol theaters. Miss Taylor appears in the role she created on the speaking stage. In the supporting cast are Tom Moore, Miss Dupont, Alan Hale, Warner Olan and Joseph Dowling.

The story concerns a villainous husband and a wife who is touched by scandal for a deed which the husband commits just before his death.

The Delmonte will have two exclusive attractions in the Will Rogers comedy, "Goo With Genevieve" and a jazz band, assisted by Municipal Opera dancers. The Capitol will offer No. 2 of the series of Jack Dempsey "Fight and Win" pictures, and Lewis Williamson, tenor.

"Welcome Stranger," a stage success made into a movie, is the feature at the Kings. In the cast are Noah Beery, Otis Harlan, Florence Vidor, Robert Edeson and Dore Davidson. Davidson created the role of Isadore Solomon in the stage play and he has the same part in the movie version.

"Welcome Stranger" is comedy of the Potash and Perlmutter type, with an undercurrent of humorous situations. Its leading character is a shopkeeper who, by sheer force of kindliness and humanity, melts every prejudice and leaves every character with whom he comes in contact better than he found him. The play is essentially a comedy melodrama of race prejudice, and the ironic title refers to the cold shoulder given to the Jewish shopkeeper when he comes to establish himself in a small New England town one bitter cold New Year's eve.

There are two outstanding attractions at the Missouri this week in "Sinners in Heaven," featuring Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix, and the Fashions of 1924. "Sinners in Heaven" is held to the theme. The story deals with Barbara Gardner and Alan Croft, of the New York

Gypsy life made a huge hit with Gloria Swanson during the filming of "Her Love Story," her new Paramount picture. She lived the life of a gypsy at Douglaston, Long Island, for several days while a collection of Balkan camp followers was being directed by Allan Dwan.

A new vogue in coiffures may result from an innovation introduced by Dagmar Godowsky at the Paramount Long Island Studio while she was appearing in "A Sainted Devil," Rudolph Valentino's next starring picture for Paramount. In the role of an enchantress Miss Godowsky wore her jet black hair parted in the center and drawn down over the ears to a tight, round knot low at the back of her neck. To enhance the slinky, fantastic effect, a strand of hair on each side of her face formed a sort of "fish hook." Unlike the usual fish hook, however, these adornments were long and followed the lower line of her cheeks, giving her face a sinister, cruel aspect.

Gloria Swanson recently had all the women at the Long Island studio gasping for air. She appeared in a wedding gown for scenes in "Her Love Story," supposed to cost $98,000, and some odd cents. It is supposed to be the gown of a Princess and looks it. The veil was of sixteenth century duchess lace, with a coronet of pearls and diamonds. The gown itself was made of fabrique metallac, embroidered in gold and jewels. The train, six and one-half yards by four yards, had a royal crest in gold in the center and was bordered with ermine.

A large five-point star decorated with a horseshoe, four-leaf clovers and other good luck symbols, was presented to Richard Dix, newest Paramount star, to commemorate his first day as a screen luminary. The token bore a message: "Good Luck to Dix From the Gang." The "gang" is the technical crew that aids R. H. Burnside, Dix's director, with the filming of "Manhattan," at the Long Island studio.

A new wrinkle in wrinkleless silk started something in Hollywood. Marguerite de la Motte carried a handkerchief with her likeness stippled in the corner with colored inks, to a dinner party. Now all of Hollywood wants them, but can't get them, yet. Miss de la Motte got hers from Chili. An artist admirer there started the fad and now all the "young bloods" in Chili are carrying the handkerchief of their lady love in the breast pocket of their coats.

John Bowers came home from a vacation to take a rest. He had only been gone two days, but even at that he was much the worse for wear. He stopped the motor trip at a small roadhouse and tried out his strength on a punching machine that was out of order. The result was a sprained wrist. On the way back to the car he dodged a speeding motorist and sprained his ankle. Deciding that was enough vacation for two days he returned and is resting at home for his next picture.

Hardships suffered by Helene Chadwick while on location in the Sierras making "The Border Legion," were the direct cause of her breakdown upon her return to Hollywood. Fifteen hours of work daily including a long horseback ride in the high altitude along dangerous mountain trails proved to be too great a change for Helene, following her six months spent in the East. After a short rest she will continue with the interiors.

How to look like sixty without feeling like thirty cents confronted Colleen Moore. In her next picture, "So Big," adapted from the popular novel by Edna Ferber, she will play the part of an old lady through half the picture. Two weeks in advance of the beginning of the picture Miss Moore spent in making experiments in make-up. Everything was in readiness except that the contour of her face gave away her youth. Then she went on a diet, and now she is in readiness to begin the picture.

"What has become of Conway Tearle?" questioned his friends who gathered at the tennis courts, golf links and boxing bouts. They haven't seen or heard of him for the past three weeks. No one has—except at the studio where he is making "The Great Divide." He is playing the leading part of Steve Ghent in this famous book and play and has been in every shot taken during the past three weeks. This means that he is working nights and Sundays as well as the rest of the week. Sleep is his only recreation.

The stage feature is the fashion show with 10 living models and an illuminated runway. Marty—Macfarlane, piano player, has been held for an additional week.

Anarchists of Music Rage in Mozart's City

By CESAR SAERCHINGER,
Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

SALZBURG, Austria, Aug. 17.

DURING four or five days, leading American personalities, together with leading musicians, critics and music lovers of nearly every European country, have been sitting, three hours at a stretch, in the gracefully decorated hall of the Mozarteum—as the Salzburg conservatory is called, after the city's most illustrious son—and listening to new music which at first hearing seems anything but Mozartean.

Most of the listeners—a really international audience that completely filled the hall—were rather puzzled by what they heard. The composers and their exponents, however, are of opinion that the trouble is not with them, but with the critics' ears. The ears of these much-to-be-pitied folk, they say, have been spoiled by what they have heard hitherto, by "tempered" scales, by diatonic tonalities, by sentimentality and the hocus-pocus of mere "beautiful sound"—standards of beauty, in short, that are merely artificial and no longer apply. Down with Wagner and Liszt and Tchaikowsky, they cry; down with the whole nineteenth century, its romantic movement and its false gospel of subjective art! Back to music absolute, to the play instinct of the classics, but forward to new "sonorities," the objective play of movement as such!

Founded Three Years Ago.

THAT, in a nutshell, is the esthetic idea back of the musical revolution that has found embodiment in the International Society for Contemporary Music and the Salzburg festival, its annual demonstration. The society, which has taken root in 23 countries, including the United States, was founded three years ago in Salzburg, where Mozart was born nearly two centuries ago.

What was then a handful of idealists, "crazy" radicals and journalists, has become a worldwide organization of peculiarly loose structure, with Edward Dent, Cambridge university scholar and Mozart authority, as chairman. Its destinies are guided by a conference of delegates, meeting annually and frequently changing. The conference in turn elects an annual jury intrusted with the task of final selection of the works to be presented each year. The members of this jury are musicians of international renown. No two of them may be of the same nationality.

Only chamber music is performed at the Salzburg festival. Indeed, a characteristic of the new musical style is a reaction against the "inflated" symphonism—the mere bulk of Wagner, Strauss, the emotionalists and the realists. But this year's festival was preceded by an orchestral festival at Prague in May under the patronage of the Czech Government.

Stravinsky's Startling Octet.

THE programs of the four concerts this time included 28 composers, belonging to 12 different nations. Since history has shown that there are not 48 musical geniuses born in all the world in a century, it is not surprising that the works performed were not all works of genius. Yet it was easy to discern traces of genius in at least four or five.

Igor Stravinsky, whose fame is widspread and whose influence is most strongly felt in the work of the most promising of the younger men, was represented by a most remarkable recent work, an octet for wind instruments. It easily scored the hit of the festival. Despite its daring dissonances, excruciating at times in the slower sections, there was not a dissenting voice—a significant symptom of progress in the "educating" of the modern audience's ears.

While Stravinsky's immediate disciples live, like himself, in France, it is obvious from this festival that his influence has been great in Germany. Indeed, the influence of Schoenberg—more fantastic and difficult in his melodies, more ethical and metaphysical in his content—seems to have receded in favor of the more mercurial and volatile Slav.

THE two outstanding figures among the young German generation—Paul Hindemith and Ernest Krenek (politically a Czech)—both pay tribute to Stravinsky in their style. They are big talents and may prove to be geniuses. Hindemith is scarcely 30 and has innumerable chamber music compositions to his credit. Evidently he writes too easily and too much, but he is a musician to his finger tips. His new string trio, played at this festival, is a masterpiece of its kind and earned undisputed praise.

Krenek, perhaps even more gifted than Hindemith, is handicapped by a tendency to play the bad boy. He seems to delight in "rubbing in" his radicalism and showing that to him nothing is sacred. He has scandalized people by appending a fox-trot to a church chorale; and in his fourth string quartet played at this festival (he is 23 years old) he finished an outspokenly "key-less" ruthlessly ultramodern work with a classical movement in the style of Haydn and Mozart, interspersed with occasional "sour" notes. But his contrapuntal skill is simply prodigious, and makes venerable theorists' hair stand on end.

Still another composer belonging to the German school, though of Spanish origin, Philip Jarnach, made a distinct impression with his string quartet. It is an extremely serious work, adjuring all eccentricities, more deeply felt than the other two, perhaps, though not so "taking" at first hearing.

Frenchmen Most Extravagant.

THE eccentric element is strongest on the French side. Here is felt the influence of Stravinsky, and perhaps of Erik Satie, whose "Nightingale with a Toothache" and "Pieces in the Shape of a Pear" seem still to spook about in the heads of young composers. Darius Milhaud, Francis Poulenc and Satie himself, members of the notorious "Six," now defunct, all contributed works that try to be either precious or humorous, but succeed in being only inane.

On the other hand, George Auric's "Alphabeth," for voice and piano, without pretensions to modernity, showed the fine hand of the Frenchman and typical Gallic good taste.

In France and Germany musical culture has reached the highest point of abstraction. There is nothing obviously national in the music of either today, such as is evident in that of England and Italy and the newly created nationalities. Among these the strongest seem to be the Hungarians, to whom racial expression through music has always been national. Zoltan Kodaly, who had a duo for violin and 'cello played at the festival, is a strong nationalist with sufficient individuality to carry a personal message as well. The work had a genuine success.

English Works Pale.

THE English, represented by Arnold Bax, John Ireland, Vaughan Williams and Peter Warlock, seemed pale against the full-blooded complexion of the other nations, and only Vaughan Williams, with a distinctly English song-cycle, "Oh Wenlock Edge," made a real impression.

The Italians, in Francesco Malipiero and Mario Castelnuovo-Tedesco, seem still to be strongly under the influence of French impressionism, just as the Czechs are still subject to a sort of German intellectual tyranny. Poland was represented by Szymanowsky, the most eclectic composer of the festival, and Russia, besides Stravinsky, by Alexander Schenschin, whose very beautiful and deeply felt songs proved that, musically, Soviet Russia is not revolutionary, but is still strongly under the influence of the late Alexander Scriabin.

"WHAT PRICE GLORY?" IS CALLED BEST WAR PLAY

cificism. It is something to which I cling a little precariously. It rests on a philosophy and not upon an emotional experience. "Plumes" bolstered me up because this was a book by a man who had lived war and when he said that it was all wrong he spoke not alone out of his reason, but with the passion of every twinge.

Hardboiled Romance.

AND so I came to "What Price Glory:" expecting to see a play which would blow war out of the water. In it I did not find the muscular Christian with the Y. M. C. A. heroine waiting for him just back of the first-line trench. And nobody spoke of ideals. But what I did find were figures far more glamourous, because they had not had the bones taken out and been cleaned. These soldiers were not puffed out and poached. They were hardboiled. And romance of such toughness is deadly dangerous to all of us who want the world to hate war. The jingoism of a Coningsby Dawson can be put to flight with a grin of doubt, but you can't laugh off a Mulvaney of Rudyard Kipling or a Captain Flagg of Maxwell Anderson and Laurence Stallings.

Even when a Dos Passos charges in fury he does not destroy the hardboiled. It is not enough to push them off the high wall to which they have been lifted by romantic imagination. Capt. Flagg won't crack and disintegrate like Humpty Dumpty. He will bounce back again even before the men and horses of the King have come to his rescue.

PERHAPS we pacifists have been pretty dumb about the whole business. We have been too ready to applaud the writer or the speaker who said, "There is not one vestige of anything admirable or appealing in the hundred miles of front of a great war."

No case can be won with inaccurate testimony or even without all the testimony. "What Price Glory?" is a witness to be believed. Some of the marines in this play I have seen and I feel just as sure of the authenticity of the rest whom I met for the first time in the theater.

And when the play was done I said to myself with a scared and sunken feeling, "Why, the American Legion could go to this play in a body and like it."

That's fine, although I did not realize it at the time. Things which are to turn and move the thought of people must not strike them in the face like hailstones. A fine mist works in deeper. There is no direct thrust of propaganda in all the play with the single exception of the infelicitous title, "What Price Glory?" The soldiers of the piece at the Plymouth are never concerned with their relation to any problem of world philosophy. To them the war is a local issue. They are not defending civilization but only a little French village. They are not concerned with getting the Kaiser. What they want is a small railroad station.

Soothsaying of Capt. Flagg.

IT was so. Men who know will watch "What Price Glory?" without bridling or clutching fast to canned concepts and slogans. And as they sit, easy like and laughing, they will hear Capt. Flagg when he is urged not to brawl in the tavern over the French girl—they will hear him as he roars, "Hell! This is the first time in six months I've had anything to fight about. The Germans don't want my woman. I've been working against them for $8 a day."

And everybody will roar with joy at that and it will stick when the very best pacifist editorial ever written has been forgotten.

Strictly speaking, "What Price Glory?" is not a play about the war. It is a play about one company of United States Marines. It is a study of the character of the professional soldier. The war is a tiny brawl compared to the conflict between Capt. Flagg and Sergeant Quirt over the girl. Few figures have come to the stage more completely than these two men. Indeed, I believe that Quirt has a right to have himself in mind when he says, "Generals and Captains, they pass on. I've seen hundreds of them go and come. But Top Sergeants is eternal. They don't never die."

Editorial Writer, Too.

INCIDENTALLY, "What Price Glory?" is a collaboration and the name of Laurence Stallings has figured more in this article than that of Maxwell Anderson. I can explain that. Anderson is an editorial writer on this paper. I'm not so jealous of him, because I always did have an inferior feeling in respect to editorial writers. I am not suprised when they turn to and create literature.

It's the other one, Stallings, who has me worried, because I knew him when he was nothing but a (if I may borrow a line from the play) —— —— copyreader!

Additional Opinions on Lewis B. Ely's "Thoroughbreds."

FURTHER reviews are at hand concerning "Thoroughbreds," a play in three acts, by Lewis B. Ely of St. Louis and Sam Forrest, which was produced Monday night at the Vanderbilt Theater. Stark Young, in the New York Times, headed his Tuesday article "The Tuckytown Portia," and proceeded to this effect:

"In 'Thoroughbreds' last night at the Vanderbilt, a young lady lawyer has an office but no clients. She has, in a measure, fled hither from her family county to escape some mystery about her father that weighs upon her. A lover from New York continues to woo her. The Judge comes with what is to be her first case, to defend a horse thief.

"It turns out that the County Attorney also loves the young lady, less scrupulously than the New Yorker; he will be dishonorable if he must to win her hand. The horse thief tells the girl his story and speaks of the son for whose sake he must not go to the penitentiary. She feels drawn somehow to the old man and decides to help him evade the law. Then, while the young lady has gone to the Judge—who from the first, you can see, must marry some one, doubtless the aunt, the only other woman in the story—the horse thief is discovered to be the father not of a son but of the girl, the husband of that mother, long since dead, whose family had disowned her for marrying beneath her station.

"The horse thief is willing then to go to prison for life in order not to bring shame on the child of the woman he had loved. This eventually she will not have and there is a trial scene with several pounds of flesh in the Judge's drawing room. There is happily also an amusing moment of the aunt's confusion of the privileges of blue blood and ladylikeness with the power of the law. And finally we have a scene in the aunt's drawing room, where all goes well.

"Slight but Tedious."

THE story of this comedy should be set forth clearly, for the sake of the admirers that it may win for the play. As a play, Thoroughbreds, seemed to be slow most of the time, and without either the conviction and point of actuality or the grace of successful fiction. As a play it was slight but tedious, like the man in Chekhov, who had a small but disagreeable voice.

"The casting, in view of the inconsequence of the parts, was good, so far as J. K. Hutchinson's Sheriff went, Katherine Emmet's Miss Winchester, Calvin Thomas' Mr. Barbee, Ann Harding's Sue, and of course George Marion as the horse-thief father. Over most of the evening was a blur of something badly learned, but intended for the Southern accent. It was good in Mr. Thomas' case, it evaporated after Miss Harding's first five minutes on the stage, and with Miss Emmet, whose own English is so clear and right, it was elegantly negroid and variably one thing and another, nothing quite settled, and usually from the wrong place in the throat.

"Ann Harding brought her own charming quality to the play, but done too much acting. If the play is to be taken as holding any reality, then the life of this girl she played was a thing of pain, courage and dread of disaster, as well as strong character and legal training. If we were to take her as just a dear girl in a magazine story, Miss Harding need not have applied herself so assiduously to the solemn tale. In either case more study was needed. George Marion put upon the character of Doc Pusey a lovable excellence of his own art, far beyond the power of his lines."

"Everything but Drama."

THE play had everything but drama, according to E. W. Osborn of the Evening World, whose review was as follows:

"AFTER a week which began with 'Havoc' and ended with 'What Price Glory?' we of the first-night constituency were entitled to something different; something neat, sweet, old-fashioned and restful. We got it at the Vanderbilt Theater last night in the play called "Thoroughbreds," as written by Lewis B. Ely and Sam Forrest.

"Here was Kentucky drama with not quite 57 varieties of blue grass dialect to prove the point. Here was a dear and kindly old horse thief who had had a past in which he ran away with the daughter of an old Lexington family, and in due course, had a girl child of his own. Here was the fine old scamp, caught cold in the long-after years having his own grown-up daughter assigned to his defense, who having become a lawyer under the care of a fond, proud aunt, and never having known her father at all, and here were three acts in

THE primary purpose of the annual exhibitions of American paintings held by the leading museums of the country is to further a general familiarity with the work of contemporary painters and to afford artists, students and patrons in each community the opportunity of study and comparison of the work and progress in various cities and sections of the country. Thus the East and the West may see what the other is producing, and the Midwest compare its work with that of both coasts. Also, a generally accepted standard is set the authenticity of which is proven by the fact that the pictures forming over three-fourths of any one of the big museum shows, at New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Cincinnati Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, etc., are invited from one to the other.

The nineteenth annual exhibition of paintings by American artists which opens tomorrow at the City Art Museum, is composed of two divisions: the work of out-of-town artists and paintings by St. Louis artists. There will be few visitors to the show to whom the idea of comparison will not occur. The painters themselves will have the same opportunity of considering their own pictures beside the works of Lawson, Benson, Newell, Miller, Savage, Henri and other foremost American artists.

"Fiesta, San Juan, New Mexico," by Oscar Berninghaus, is one of the most outstanding pictures in the local group. Its refined beauty, its perfect color and its excellence of composition entitle it to the pinnacle it easily takes. Along blazing yellow sands, brightly costumed figures gather in neat profusion, the intricacy of the pattern of the foreground being emphasized by the simplicity of the earth and sky which form their background. Congratulations are due the artist on the beautiful handling of a spectacular sky. A subtle haze of dazzling light descends obliquely across an azure sky in which a single cloud floats lazily. The effect of the ensemble is one of movement and light plus nice design.

All the portrait work by local painters is commendable, showing a generous sincerity, an honesty of effort and a close study of the difficult technique of figure painting. William Schevill's "Portrait of a Young Man," shown previously at a Guild Show, is displayed here and deserves to be by reason of the excellence of workmanship and the unusual and successful adaptation of a decorative color scheme of halftones to a portrait subject. Difference in taste affects opinion and appreciation of this picture. A certain number of people will not be offended by the subject matter. Others will feel the inappropriateness of the costume and the incongruity of its detail, and however great their admiration for the technique, composition and color of the painting, will never be able to dissociate from those qualities the impression that that particular state of negligee, less admirable than when indulged in by the feminine gender, was one slightly inopportune to choose for a portrait costume.

Four local women painters of still life are represented in the show by interesting examples of their work. "A Piece of Chintz" by Emily Phelps is exceptionally well managed; its spaces are as decorative as its pattern. The artist has successfully put bright colors very near one another without letting them clash. The subject is splendid, the arrangement, color and manner of work very good. We should call this picture the best we have ever seen by Mrs. Phelps.

Florence Ver Steeg's "Still Life," though a little heavy with "things," is attractive as are all other floral still lifes of the "Gloucester" classification. Color that is fresh and plentiful without being "raw" always attracts. Although this picture is still a little hectic, it is an improvement over the artist's figure work. When it achieves sufficient control, Mrs. Ver Steeg's floral still life paintings will possess the qualities that make a picture desirable as a companion in the home.

"Dahlias" by Agnes Lodwick, is a firm, conscientious, successful effort. Strange composition is seldom undertaken by even the strongest still life painters, and that Miss Lodwick has succeeded so well in her aim bespeaks her ability. At the extreme left end of a table on which a Paisley shawl is draped, stands a bowl of dahlias. The fold in the corner of the shawl, immediately beneath the vase, reiterates the contour of the pottery object. The only flaw in composition that one might detect is the uselessness of the final three inches on the extreme left of the canvas. But lovely color harmony and well executed work properly executed work, re- sate this trifle.

Mary McCall is represented by "A Dozen Tangerines" which is difficult to classify because of its fleeting parts. The lower corner is as nice a bit of painting as one would see; greens and well-modulated blue and yellow predominate. one is disappointed in the against which the objects are shown. And finally it nitely decide that we do not experiment with red there the spectator so forcibly instance of the dozen tangerines shown before a cerise background is exactly a case of taking primary colors, beginning and working one step The curtain is red-blue, oranges red-yellow. The object of all this was, no doubt, to concentrate the brilliance play of a searchlight, to the title role.

Robert Klimack also still life painting. "The Table," with its glass crystal, offers possibilities ever, the present canvas considered only as a study cially when one knows the and scope of the artist's

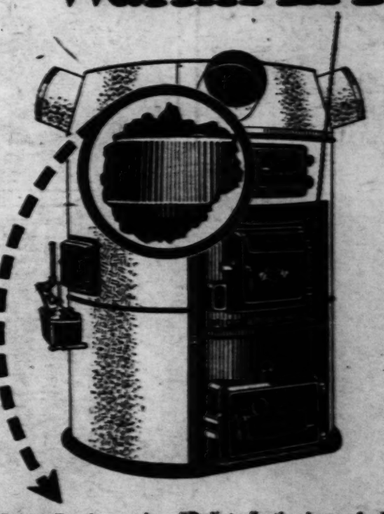
SUPERIOR STOVES & RANGES

If you are building a new house or planning to install a heating system in your present home, you should know all about the Bridge-Beach Warm Air Furnace. Bridge-Beach Furnaces are better built—supply plenty of invigorating heat—first cost is low—with little or no upkeep expense. Unusually satisfactory because they represent nearly 50 years' experience in building heating appliances of every description.

BRIDGE-BEACH
Warm Air Furnaces



Bridge-Beach healthful heat is of important to you and your family.

Heat that is too dry or not properly circulated becomes stagnant and oppressive. It dries the delicate nose and throat membranes — causes headaches, colds, influenza and sore throat. Fruit and flowers quickly wither and die in such a dry, stuffy atmosphere. You can indicate, better than anything else, the effects of improper heating.

The Bridge-Beach Furnace is a wonderful heater. It warms the air, but gradually moistens and then circulates it. Safeguards against illness and discomfort. comfortable conditions so often found in houses that are full of dry, overheated air improperly circulated.

The Bridge-Beach one-piece "Radiator"—the dome of which is placed over and directly exposed to the heat rays from the fire. The radiator has an extensive surface which is kept at a relatively high temperature. Since practically two-thirds of the air to be heated passes between and around the surface of the Radiator, an unusually generous transfer of heat results. This reduces chimney losses to a minimum.

Before you buy any furnace investigate the Bridge-Beach. Send for illustrated book, "Bridge-Beach Furnaces." Write, or phone Colfax 300—ask for Furnace Department.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK TO START HERE OCT. 5

City-Wide Demonstration to Mark Observance of Week Throughout City.

Fire Prevention Week will be observed in St. Louis the week of Oct. 5 with a city-wide demonstration in which all civic organizations, clubs, schools, churches, motion picture theaters, and public utilities companies will participate, according to plans outlined by the Fire Prevention Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Literature and posters warning against fire danger will be distributed and displayed through the medium of schools, civic organizations, and public utilities companies. Safety playlets will be presented by school children in competition for a silver loving cup donated by M. E. Holderness, a member of the executive committee of the St. Louis Safety Council. It is also planned to organize Boy Scouts into a Junior Fire Prevention League to inspect the premises of their schools and homes for the purpose of reporting unsafe conditions.

Slides dealing with the subject of fire prevention will be shown in movie houses, and radio talks on fire prevention and fire fighting will be broadcasted from stations "KSD" and "WCK" throughout the week. The Fire Department will give a life-saving demonstration on an especially constructed tower on Twelfth boulevard on one day of the campaign. It has been estimated that 85 per cent of all fires in the country are the result of carelessness, and that there is an annual loss of $5 per capita per annum from fire.

Is Husband Grouchy? Then Try This

"Grouchy" Feeling Mostly Due to Stomach

"There is nothing I have not tried for stomach trouble. Until I heard of Adlerika (intestinal antiseptic) nothing would help. NOW I can eat, sleep and have not that 'grouchy' feeling I used to have. Friends are all pleased with it." (Signed) Jack Ryder.

Intestinal Antiseptic.

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a complete system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows:

It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It cleans out BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes foul matter which poisoned the system for months. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much MORE foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occational constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach or sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long-standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians.

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. P. (Name withheld by request).

"Adlerika is the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"Cannot describe awful IMPURITIES eliminated from my system (by Adlerika). Feel better than for 20 years." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, because of its quick, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Sold in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 7th and Washington, and Enderle Drug Co. and other leading druggists.

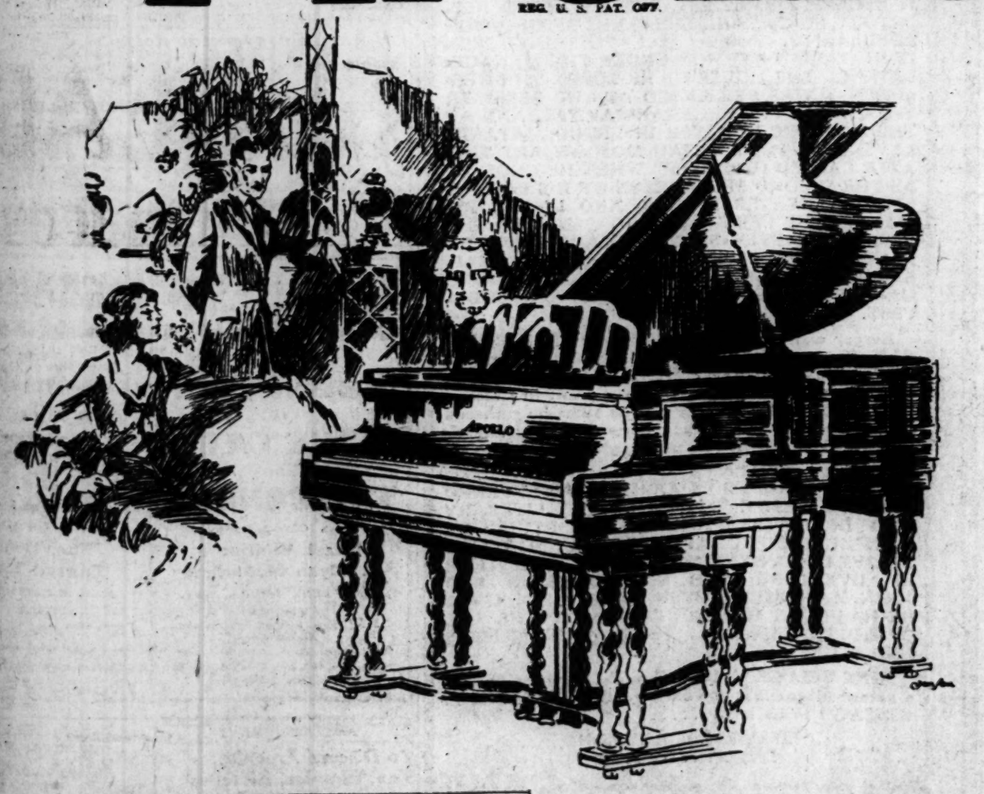
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.



YOU will never really know what a piano can do until you listen to the APOLLO—a "miracle" piano that is in reality the very soul of Paderewski, Godowsky, Bauer and a host of other great pianists. To hear the APOLLO will amaze you with its uncanny accuracy in reproducing your favorite selection by your favorite pianist. The APOLLO differs from the living pianist only in that, in one case, the artist is actually present; in the other he is not at the keyboard. Truly, the most wonderful piano in the world—and nothing can compare with its marvelous reproductions. To own an APOLLO is to possess the key to the glorious kingdom of music. Attend an informal APOLLO reproducing concert this week at Wurlitzer warerooms. Evening concerts from 7 to 9. Admission is without charge.

EXHIBIT DRAMATIC CRITICS

Vienna Cabarets Have Criticisms Read After First Performances.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The Central European dramatic critics are so vitriolic that they have become curiosities and the cabarets have begun to employ them as attractions. One Vienna cabaret, which is being imitated in other cities, has engaged the most caustic dramatic critic in Vienna to appear immediately after every first-night performance of a play and read to the midnight crowds his criticism which is to be published the next morning.

The management of the cabaret has guaranteed to protect the critic against personal violence.

This is the Steck Grand Duo-Art at $2085. Think of the years of pleasure this would bring to your home.

PADEREWSKI and

The DUO-ART REPRODUCING PIANO

Paderewski will not be in America during the coming season, but the Duo-Art will bring his playing to your own home as realistically as were he seated, himself, at the keyboard. And only the Duo-Art, for Paderewski entrusts his art to no other reproducing piano, having signed a life contract to record his playing exclusively for this wonderful instrument. Eighty per cent of the world's great pianists likewise record only for the Duo-Art! Here is overwhelming proof of its superiority!

Duo-Art prices are from $695 and upwards. Very convenient terms can be arranged. Illustrated Duo-Art portfolio on request. The Duo-Art is built in the following pianos:

which the good old judge of good horseflesh tried his darndest to be not found out by his child.

"Piece Was Restful."

"DURING these three acts almost everything happened, according to our playwrights. There were perjury, burglary, contempt of court, threats of assault with intent to murder, proposals of matrimony, attempts at blackmail. The one thing omitted by our dramatists was drama. That, we assume, was why the piece was restful.

"'Thoroughbreds' made its nearest approach to a dramatic crisis in the second act, when court was informally assembled in Judge Busby's own library and Sue Winn, the lawyer, daughter of the horse-thief, got everybody under oath in her effort to find out what everybody was hiding from her.

"This scene gave Anna Harding her only shining opportunities of the evening. Miss Harding was the Sue Winn of the cast. We have seen more than on Portia who looked less a lawyer than did this leading lady, despite her shining silver-blond hair. And few Portias have been more eloquent in voice and act.

George Marion's Horsethief.

"FOR 'Doc' Pusey, the horse-thief, there was George Marion, and it goes without saying, for those who have seen Mr. Marion at his constant best, that here was a piece of character acting full of high lights.

"Other members of a small cast, playing by no means on the same level, were J. K. Hutchison, loud of voice, as Sheriff Tom Bourbon; John Litel, ardently, in the role of Bob Kitchell, in love with Sue; Katherine Emmet, gray-haired and comely as the spinster aunt of our heroine; Calvin Thomas, as a Prosecuting Attorney who had his ugly traits, and William Corbett, as a Judge whose Kentucky gallantry to the ladies was by no means totally eclipsed by his dignity of the bench.

"'Thoroughbreds' is a Sam H. Harris production with very comfortable scenic backgrounds."

NEW DANCE FLOOR TO BE INSTALLED FOR V. P. BALL

A new dance floor will be installed in the Coliseum for the Veiled Prophet's annual ball to be given Wednesday evening, Oct. 8.

The Arrangements Committee yesterday announced that Gene Rodemich will be in charge of music. His concert orchestra will play before and during the coronation of the Queen, but will surrender its place to his jazz orchestra when the dancing begins.

The time for dancing is limitless, inasmuch as the Prophet has decreed that music will be available as long as dancers remain.

The Veiled Prophet's parade has been set for Tuesday evening, Oct. 7, the evening prior to the ball. This is a departure from the old doors custom of having both the parade and ball on the same evening.

MAUDE HANAFORD, LATE FEATURED LEADING LADY WITH JOHN AND LIONEL BARRYMORE, HEADS A CONSUMMATE CAST OF ARTISTS, AND I CONSIDER HER THE PEER OF ALL AMERICAN ACTRESSES TODAY—THE PRODUCTION IS AS PERFECT AS LIMITLESS MONEY CAN CREATE—WHEN PLACED AT THE DISPOSAL OF EXPERTS IN STAGECRAFT. OF SOLID MAHOGANY BUILD, IT REQUIRES A DOUBLE MECHANICAL CREW, AND TAKES FIVE HOURS TO ERECT.

FREDERICK DONAGHEY in the Chicago Tribune, June 16th, said:

"THE DELUGE" BELONGS TO ANY LIST OF THE SEASON'S TEN BEST (OR BEST TEN) PLAYS WHICH I SHOULD COMPILE. IF THE LIST WERE CUT TO FIVE, IT WOULD NOT BE AUTHENTIC IF "THE DELUGE" WERE OUT OF IT. IT WOULD BE IN ANY CORRECT LIST OF TWO PLAYS AND ITS QUALITIES ARE SUCH THAT I WOULD NOT DISCARD IT IF I WERE CONFINED TO A CATALOGUE OF ONE....AND IT IS THE BEST OF THE ALLEGORIES SINCE SHAKESPEARE WROTE THE "TEMPEST" AND SOMEBODY ELSE WROTE "EVERYMAN".....

Henning Berger's "The Deluge," translated into English by Frank Allen and Carl Hjalmar Lundquist from the Swedish "Syndafloden," is familiar to theater-goers of nearly every European capital. I have made the present presentation in answer to the demand of the many who deem it worthy of the same familiarity in this country where the author placed its action.

FROM ITS FIRST PERFORMANCE IN 1907 IN THE THEATER MEPHISTO, IN THE BY-WAYS OF PARISIAN MONTMARTRE, IT WAS RAPIDLY CARRIED TO OTHER STAGES AND OTHER LANGUAGES. ITS PREMIERE IN ITS NATIVE TONGUE OCCURRED IN SEPTEMBER, 1908, AT THE ROYAL THEATER IN STOCKHOLM, WHERE IT BECAME FIRMLY ESTABLISHED IN THE REPERTORY, SURPASSING THE PLAYS OF IBSEN FOR POPULARITY. ROME AND NAPLES HAVE SEEN IT IN ITALIAN VERSION UNDER THE MANAGEMENT OF THE HOUSE OF RICCORDI. IN GERMANY IT WAS PRESENTED AT THE BERLINER THEATER IN THE PRUSSIAN CAPITAL, AND AT THE HOFBURG THEATER IN VIENNA. STANISLAVSKY OF THE RUSSIAN MOSCOW ART THEATER CALLED IT "POTOP" WHEN HE CHOSE IT AS THE SECOND PRODUCTION OF HIS FAMOUS STUDIO THEATER IN 1915, AND IT HAS REMAINED THE MOST FAVORED PIECE IN THE REPERTORY EVER SINCE. IN ADDITION THE PLAY HAS BEEN PERFORMED AT THE FHALSTROM'S THEATER, CHRISTIANIA, AND IN HUNGARIAN AT THE NATIONAL THEATER IN BUDAPEST.

Berger chose an AMERICAN scene and AMERICAN characters for his play and that atmosphere has been preserved wherever "THE DELUGE" has gone. Out of a vagabond life as an immigrant in Chicago and the Middle West, from 1892 to 1899, he gathered the shrewd and penetrating observations of American life which he put into this play as well as into his short stories and novels.

AS A VISITOR FROM ABROAD WHO TURNED FAILURE, WHILE WITH US, INTO LITERARY AND DRAMATIC FAME AND FORTUNE BY WRITING ABOUT US AFTER RETURNING TO HIS NATIVE LAND, HENNING BERGER IS A BROTHER IN ADVENTURE WITH KNUT HAMSUN AND JOHN MASEFIELD. EVEN MORE THAN THEY, HE HAS BUILT HIS REPUTATION ON THE USE OF THE EXPERIENCES HE HAD IN OUR STREETS AND CITIES.....

"THE DELUGE" is being brought to your city with a record all-summer run at the CORT THEATER in CHICAGO to its credit.....

To Discard Freckles, Tan, Pimples, Blotches

It is said that creams containing animal grease cause hair to grow. You run no risk of acquiring superfluous hair from using ordinary mercolized wax. There is nothing better for a discoloring skin, as the wax actually absorbs the offensive cuticle. The latter is naturally relaxed by a clear, smooth, healthy complexion, full of life and expression. It's the sensible way to discard a freckled, tanned, sweet-red, blotchy or pimpled skin. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any druggist's and apply nightly like cold cream, washing in the morning with soap and water. Soon you will observe a most remarkable transformation.

—a winged horse flies to the clouds.

—a magic carpet rises above the house-tops and soars up the pathway of the moon.

—a cloak renders its wearer invisible.

—a magic army springs suddenly from nothingness.

A glorious fantasy that takes you back to Bagdad of the days when the salt of life was love and the wine of life adventure. Drama, Romance, Adventure—a marvelous fairy tale that whisks you into the land of dreams and makes you glad to live and love.

Presented here with the same colorful atmospheric effects, Symphony Orchestra, original score, Mohammedan Chanter and full scenic investiture—a replica of the presentation at the Liberty Theater, New York.

"THE VULTURES GATHER."
(From the Daily Worker, Communist.)

THE king of world finance, Mr. Morgan, is sailing for Europe. Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, one of the wealthiest men in the country and the leading Pittsburg banker, is now in London, keeping a watchful eye on the reparation conferences.

Never before in the history of American finance or politics have so many bankers engaged in an exodus, as it were, to Europe. One tends to wonder what is it that is drawing our moneyed lords to Europe. What has caused our bankers to rush in droves to Paris and London?

Our financial powers are preparing a coup d'etat in their drive for the throne of world commerce and industry. When one goes over the list of big bankers who will be in the capitals of Europe during the summer, he is impressed with the galaxy of financial wizards. We find in addition to the above mentioned that Europe will be the summer vacation and hunting ground of Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; A. H. Harris, chairman of the finance committee of the New York Central Railroad, which has close connections with the First National Bank; Owen D. Young, one of the fathers of the Dawes plan, and the directing head of the General Electric Co.; Seward Prosser, chairman of the Bankers Trust Co., and James Speyer of Speyer & Co.

Many other banks will be represented in Europe by their leading spirits. The vacation of Mr. Harris is especially significant in view of his being a recognized authority on railroads and railroad finance. Germany's railroads are a coveted prize.

Yes, the vultures are gathering. The birds of prey of American imperialism are gathering in Europe to fatten on the misery and suffering of a continent. Our bankers are congregating in the capitals of Europe in order to put the finishing touches on their scheme, the Dawes plan, to turn the countries which were once the Central Powers and others into coolie colonies, into American sweatshops.

And the State and Treasury Departments are there along with them, pledging them the full monetary, military and naval support of the United States Government in their desperate effort to enslave millions of people across the Atlantic.

Today the American bankers are "over there." Tomorrow the American workers will be "over there." Today the American bankers are sowing the seeds of another world war. How soon will our workers and dispossessed farmers wake up to this monstrous danger?

SAME PRINCIPLE.
(From Industrial Solidarity I. W. W.)

THE belief in ghosts was general, and they were greatly feared. • • • Ghosts clung with a special tenacity to the lower jawbone and, if this was removed, the ghosts would follow it anywhere. • • •

"The king was expected to visit the temple of his predecessor, which was in charge of the dowager queen. When about to leave the king would suddenly give an order that all persons who had not passed a certain sport arbitrarily named by him should be seized. This order was at once carried out by his bodyguard, and the persons seized were bound and gagged. Then they were sacrificed to the ghost of the dead King so that their ghosts might administer to his."—Goldenweiser, "Early Civilization," "An African State."

Herbert Mahler, Joseph Oates, William Moran and Pietro Nigra were distasteful to the kings of American finance. In the big ghost dance after the World War the kings looked around for some spot Herbert Mahler et al. had not passed. They made a law that anybody who had already been convicted of a certain fanciful crime called "espionage" should be exiled. Mahler and the other three had been, of course, convicted two years previously of "espionage"—in other words, they had failed to pass the spot the king selected.

Some people think that American millionaires and their puppets, the Federal officials, are a little more honest than savage Kings and their Ministers. Consider the case of Mahler et al. and be convinced that they are not. If Mahler and his fellow-workers are not to be executed and set to watching the ghosts of Morgan's ancestors, it is only because the other people around here are more civilized than Morgan. It does not mean that the king of the money bags is any better than the King of Uganda.

THEY DECIDE TO QUIT.
(From the Daily Worker, Communist.)

NO one is surprised at the mounting number of suicides in Germany. Conditions of life are being made so intolerable by the combined exploitation of German and Entente capitalism, through the Versailles treaty and now through the Dawes plan, that it is taken as a matter of course that thousands of Germans will decide to quit, and with 15 cents worth of gas, shuffle off the mortal coil that binds them as slaves to Morgan. Germany is a poverty-stricken and ruined nation.

Louis Lockard and his young wife did not live in Germany, however; they lived in Chicago. For those who are not familiar with

City life and Constipation—fellow conspirators

DO hard work and good health go hand-in-hand? Ask workers in every city quarter as motormen, machinists and others who suffer habitually from constipation simply because their working hours cannot be interrupted.

Pluto Water appeals especially to those who must be "on the job" continuously. It acts thoroughly in 30 minutes to two hours. It clears out all the accumulated waste—leaves the system in tip top, healthy condition.

Remember, time counts when you need a physic. Don't trust to overnight cathartics. Take quick-action Pluto. A water physic—it is safe and non-griping.

Physicians prescribe Pluto Water. Druggists sell it. And it is bottled at its source in French Lick Springs, Indiana.

COUNTESS FLIES THROUGH FOG

Former Miss Longworth Breakfasts in Morocco, Lunches in France.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The Countess de Chambrun, nee Longworth, breakfasted last week at Rabat with her husband, who is the French general commanding the French expeditionary forces in Southern Morocco, and had luncheon with her son at Toulouse, France, seven hours later, having been one of the first women to fly from Morocco to France.

The plane in which the Countess flew left Morocco in a dense fog, but shortly afterward emerged into the sunshine and thereafter the journey was under favorable weather conditions.

TO INSPECT CAIRO TO ST. LOUIS CHANNEL

Army Engineer Chief's Visit Renews Hope for Improvements.

Hope for improvement of the Mississippi channel between St. Louis and Cairo, where its present condition has impeded development of the river as a profitable trade route to the sea, is inspired among St. Louis shippers by the coming, next Tuesday, of Major-General Harry Taylor, Chief of Army Engineers, to make an inspection of the channel.

Legislation now is pending for completion of an all-year navigable channel. Government barge line operations above Cairo have been halted in the winter time, and a protracted season of low water, two years ago, dealt the traffic a blow from which it was slow in recovering. It is in preparation for the coming consideration of congressional appropriations for channel improvement that Major-General Taylor plans the inspection.

Reception for Gen. Taylor.

A reception to be held here for the officer who recently succeeded Major-General Lansing H. Beach, retired, is being worked out by a citizens' committee, headed by James E. Smith, president of the Mississippi Valley Association; W. Palmer Clarkson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Sam Plant, president of the Merchants' Exchange. Gen. Taylor will arrive Tuesday morning and will be met here by Brigadier-General T. Q. Ashburn, chairman of the advisory board of the Inland Waterways Corporation, the Federal agency which operates the Mississippi-Warrior barge lines.

Gen. Taylor will depart late Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by Smith, Gen. Ashburn, Col. Charles L. Potter of the Mississippi River Commission, Maj. John C. Gotwals, army engineer in charge of this district, and the Cairo-St. Louis channel, with Majs. G. R. Young and William Mitchell of Maj. Gotowal's office, Congressman Newton and Col. G. M. Hoffman, chief of the New Orleans district office.

No Money Since First Year.

In the last two years $1,000,000 has been provided for the Cairo-St. Louis channel. This was after the expiration of a 12-year period, in which Congress had voted to construct a permanent eight-foot channel, at an estimated cost of $21,000,000. Funds were not provided after the first year, however, so that, since the bill was passed, only $1,000,000 has been expended.

Reciting those facts yesterday, Smith said that "If that same policy of Government expenditures for construction on this stretch of the river is allowed to continue, it will require 120 years to complete the project."

VOICE OF UNION LABOR AND RADICAL PRESS

Chicago, we may say that it is located in the U. S. A., State of Illinois, center of the richest country in the world. With untold wealth surrounding them, with strong bodies at their disposal which they offered for sale to the buyers of labor, with youth and the thirst for life, Louis and Grace came to Chicago, the city of great wealth and opportunity. But the doors were locked. Something had been taking place within the system that controls wealth and opportunity; "unemployment," "crisis," no work for Louis.

So Louis and Grace decided to quit that much. No capitalist will be held responsible for their death. Every one will shrug his shoulders. There will be no elaborate funerals. No "national mourning" will take place. It is the "normal" condition of capitalism.

SEEK PUBLIC AID FOR POSTAL SALARY BIL.

Employes Here Start Campaign for Support of Passage Over Veto.

Public support of an attempt t enact, over President Coolidge veto, the Kelly-Edge bill, grantin salary increases averaging $300 year to postal clerks, carriers, in spectors, supervisors and assistan postmasters, is sought in a circula signed by the Legislative Committe of the Allied Postal Employes o St. Louis.

President Coolidge, remarkin that carrying out the increas would entail addition of approxi mately $68,000,000 annual expend ture, without provision for carin for this by additional postal rev enue, vetoed the bill as an unwar ranted drain on the public trea ury.

Statement Issued.

A statement broadcast from Washington as news material by the Railway Mail Association asserts that this bill "more nearly meets the needs of postal workers than any other measure it is possible to enact." The President suggested in his vetoing message that consideration, in connection with the salary question, of a report then in preparation or an inquiry into postal rates, would be possible at the coming session o. Congress.

"An organized campaign of propaganda and publicity is afoot to create the impression that the President and the Postmaster-General will favor a salary bill in the next session, if 'reasonable, and scientifically drawn,'" the statement declares; "and that a conference between all concerned should be held to reach a compromise agreement on such a bill. But it is significant that no official statement has been issued by or for the President on this subject. If the Postmaster-General regards the bill recently published in the General Orders as 'reasonable and scientific,' a little study of that bill will readily show that it will not do. It is discriminatory against railway postal clerks; contains 'jokers' in the classification clauses; the increases are inadequate; and it would fasten on the service the vicious principle of payment by the hour instead of on an annual basis."

Passage of Bill Unlikely.

Passage of any new salary bill is improbable, the statement continues, because the vetoed bill must be disposed of in the Senate, and the session will be automatically adjourned by March 4. Exception is taken to the President's suggestion that revenue and salary expenditure should be considered together. The statement concludes, "Substitution of any other salary measure probably means the entire failure of salary legislation in the next session."

FUTURE OF MARLBOROUGH HOUSE TO BE DETERMINED

Prolonged Stay of Dowager Queen at Sandringham Brings Rumor She May Relinquish It.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The continued retirement at Sandringham of King Edward's widow, the Dowager Queen Alexandra, bowed by the infirmities of her 80 years, has given rise to the report that she may relinquish Marlborough House, her town residence in St. James Park.

The future occupant of this famous house is yet to be determined. Built by Sir Christopher Wren, the famous architect, in Queen Anne's time, for the first Duke of Marlborough, it has long been a favorite home for royalty. Alexandra lived there nearly 40 years as the Princess of Wales, and returned there when Edward died.

As the present Prince of Wales seems to have an equal affection for bachelor life and his bachelor home, York House, rumor has it that King George's second son, the Duke of York, and his Duchess, may take Marlborough House.

Queen Alexandra, although in almost complete retirement, has been very reluctant to relinquish any of her royal prerogatives. It is many months now since she has been in Marlborough House and at Sandringham she lived in the most seclusion.

When the weather permits, Alexandra, who has been called the orld's greatest lover of dogs, vis- s her kennels. Occasionally also she looks over the pretty little model dairy which she designed many years ago along the lines of the dairies she knew as a girl in her native Denmark.

FACE BROKE OUT WITH PIMPLES
Looked so Badly Was Ashamed. Also on Body. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled with an itching of my body and face. My face broke out with pimples and blackheads and looked so badly that I was ashamed to go out of the house. I tried every remedy I could think of without any improvement. A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some. After using them a short time I could see an improvement so continued the treatment, which completely healed me." (Signed) Miss Alberta Rogers, 254 W. Cerra Gorda St., Decatur, Ill., Apr. 1, 1924.

Cuticura Soap to cleanse and purify, Cuticura Ointment to soothe and heal and Cuticura Talcum to powder and sweeten are ideal for daily toilet purposes.

CONGRESS HERE THIS WEEK OF ACCOUNTANTS

Twenty of 90 Men Expected Attended Similar Meeting Here During World's Fair.

Twenty out of 90 accountants who attended a congress of accountants here at the World's Fair in 1904 are expected to attend the annual meeting of the American Institute of Accountants, which will open at Hotel Chase tomorrow and last till Thursday. Two of the 20 are St. Louisans, David L. Grey and E. G. H. Kessler.

The opening day will be devoted to registration and meetings of the council of the institute, the board of examiners and the foundation. The Rev. Edmund Duckworth, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, who opened the accountants' congress in 1904 with prayer will deliver the invocation at the first general session, Tuesday morning.

Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., will address the afternoon session on the value of public accountants to financial institutions. This and ensuing sessions will include various discussions of details of accountancy, including one on "The Fetish of the Calendar Years as a Fiscal Year," and one on "University Accounting Courses," by Chancellor Hadley of Washington University and Prof. J. O. McKinsey of the University of Chicago. The annual dinner will be Wednesday night.

Increases in Financial Crimes.

A recent letter-bulletin issued by the American Institute of Accountants called attention to the fact that the present-day crime tendency does not run entirely to burglary and robbery. Excerpts from this statement follow:

"This alarming tendency expresses itself, although the fact is not generally known, as definitely in office and financial crimes as in crimes of violence. Members and associates of the institute are especially familiar with the rising tide of crime which expresses itself in embezzlements, forgeries and fraudulent misrepresentations for the purpose of obtaining credits or of selling spurious securities. * * *

"Generally speaking, losses from financial crimes result from forgery, embezzlement and financial misrepresentation—crimes that are not ordinarily associated with violence. The losses from financial crimes cannot be guarded against to any appreciable extent by armed guards or steel vaults, and even the detection of such losses is often a matter of difficulty. The prevention of losses depends principally upon the use of procedures and office appliances and upon the making of audits, which discourage embezzlement, forgery and financial misrepresentation.

Discouraged by Audits.

"Professional accountants are everywhere extending help of this kind—they are constantly engaged in making audits that tend to discourage or that lead to the detection of commercial fraud; and, of even more consequence, they are often engaged in devising and installing measures for preventing fraud and other irregularities.

"The total annual losses from financial crimes has been estimated by fidelity and surety company officials to amount each year in this country to the stupendous total of $3,000,000,000—a sum comparable to the value of the entire annual imports of the nation. More than one-half of these losses are of especial interest to practicing accountants because of the relation that their work bears to the prevention and detection of the losses. These losses, amounting to $1,600,000,000, are as follows: Losses from embezzlements and forgeries, $200,000,000; losses from credit frauds, $400,000,000; losses from stock frauds, $1,000,000,000.

The seventeenth annual conference of the National Tax Association will be held coincidentally with the accountants' meeting at Hotel Chase, running from Monday to Friday. Means of relief from the "well nigh intolerable situation" as to inheritance and estate taxes will be discussed principally. An attempt will be made to obtain concerted action towards relief.

Tax Relief to Be Discussed.

William Bailey of Salt Lake City, Utah, in an advance statement, said the following alternatives will be discussed: "Either abandonment of inheritance taxes as a source of State revenue, or collection of such taxes by the Federal Government, with distribution by it or part or all of the yield among the states, or abandonment of these taxes as a source of Federal revenue, with a working agreement among the states to accomplish equitable results."

Among speakers will be Dean Isidor Loeb of the school of business and public administration, University of Missouri, with an address on "Problems of Tax Administration in Missouri," and Dr. W. F. Gephart, vice president of the First National Bank, speaking on "Significance of the Growth of Public Expenditure in a Democracy."

Got the Real Thing

"For five long years I suffered with stomach trouble and what the doctors called gall stone colic, and all said nothing but an operation would do me any good. A friend who had taken your medicine advised me to try it, and I found it to be the real thing. I feel better than I have in eight years, and I am praising God for Mar-o Wonderful Remedy." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph (3 stores), Hudnis Drug Co. (6 drug stores), Brown-Clougbly, Johnson Bros. Drug Co., and druggists everywhere.

MACDONALD SAYS BEING PRIME MINISTER IS HARD

Doubts if Future Premiers Can Hold Out for More Than Twelve Months.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The strenuousness of present day political leadership in England is reflected in a speech made by Premier MacDonald this week, when, upon receiving the freedom of the city of Dundee, he declared that one year as Prime Minister was about all any man could stand.

"Whatever pleasures being Prime Minister may give," he said, "they are very hard bought. The price is very high and I sometimes doubt whether it will be possible in years to come, with long sessions in the House of Commons, with a little bit of unscrupulous party fighting, with no mercy shown and no favor extended to one, that anybody can ever be Prime Minister of Great Britain for more than 12 months."

Total	$3,931 66

Contributions to the Post-Dispatch Free Ice for Babies' Milk Fund during the past week amounted to only $77, bringing the total in the fund to $3931.66, which is still far short of the amount needed to meet the summer's budget, which provides ice for tenement families in which there are babies and small children. Approximately $6500 is needed for the season's work.

An ice cream social at 6240 Famous avenue on Aug. 14 earned $35.40, the largest addition of the week to the Ice Fund. Those who promoted the affair were: Beatrice Geminden, Evelyn Rogers, Alice Gilbert, Cora Gilbert, Lucia Gilbert, Goldie McLaughlin, Naomi Itinger and Mildred Blower.

Play Adds $16.50.

The play "Cinderella," given at 5167 Dresden avenue, added $16.50 to the babies' fund. The entertainment was given on the lawn with the co-operation of neighborhood children and their parents. Lemonade, cake and ice cream were sold following the performance. The workers were: Elizabeth Mussler, Jack Herget, Katherine Kunkler, Helen Mussler, Josephine Kunkler, Dan Herget, Earl James Renard, George Kunkler, Dorothy Marie Hewitt, Eva Marie Mussler, Miriam Ida Brecht and Anetta Rose Simon.

A recital and play, "Hansel and Gretel," given at 3904 Botanical avenue under the direction of 12-year-old Ethel Dempsey, netted $6 for the Ice Fund. Ethel Dempsey, Frank Niehaus, Robert Vletch, Florence Dempsey, Lavina Niehaus, Jeanne Libby and Janice Neville took part in the play and the miscellaneous program, assisted by Miss Blanche Wagner of Toronto, Canada.

Leon and Leslie Epstein, sons of Albert F. Epstein, 5656 Waterman avenue, collected and saved $3.10 which they donated to the Ice Fund.

Mary Donvan and Roma Landess conducted a lemonade stand at 5553 Etzel avenue and cleared $1.50 for the Fund.

Lemonade Stand Earns $1.50.

Another lemonade stand which earned $1.50 was managed by Charlotte Stemick, Marcia Stemick and Sam Roufa.

Cash donations during the week came from the American Legion Auxiliary of the Jerome L. Goldman Post, who sent $5 through their treasurer, Eva Nudelman, 935 Beach avenue, and $4 from the Sunshine Club of North St. Louis, who donated the club dues for a number of weeks. The personnel of the club follows: Louise Ballmann, Melva Brandes, Ruth Cornelius, Ruth Goblinger, Viola Hashagen and Alice Schulte. Arthur Kendall Muchmore of 3517 Park avenue sent $3 on the occasion of his tenth birthday. Arthur has been an annual contributor to the Ice Fund since his birth. $1 came from Richard L. Landau.

New U. S. Consul for Paris.

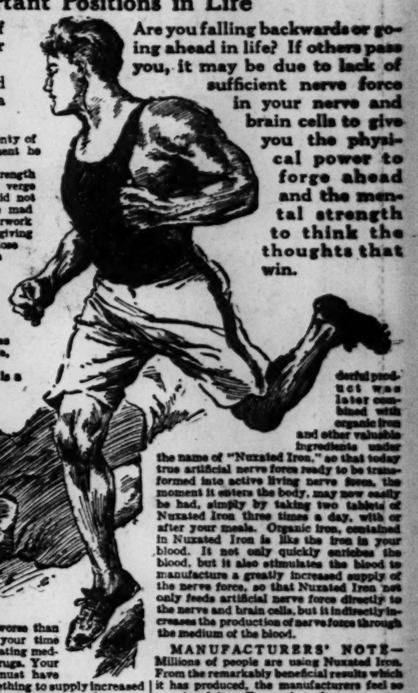
PARIS, Sept. 13.—Robert P. Skinner, who has been transferred as Consul-General from London to Paris, will take up his new post about Oct. 15. Alexander M. Thackara, the retiring Consul-General, will depart for the United States at the end of September. John F. Simmons, who is acting Consul-General ad interim, will leave for Harrisburg, Pa., at the end of October, where he will marry Miss Nancy Robinson, daughter of Mrs. Thomas H. Robinson.

Why Men With Strong Nerve Force Dominate Others—

And Fill the Important Positions in Life

Weak Nerve Force is often the sole cause of chronic ill health and lack of success in your undertakings.

How to tell if you are suffering from exhausted Nerve Force and what to do, explained by a physician for the benefit of readers.



Are you falling backwards or going ahead in life? If others pass you, it may be due to lack of sufficient nerve force in your nerve and brain cells to give you the physical power to forge ahead and the mental strength to think the thoughts that win.

A man, who keeps his nerve and brain cells filled with plenty of nerve force, makes his over-mastering presence felt the moment he enters a room.

Countless numbers of men, who started in life with youthful strength and vigor, determined to win, find themselves today on the verge of a physical and nervous breakdown, simply because they did not keep their nerve and brain cells filled with nerve force. In the mad race for success, they have allowed long hours, worry and overwork to drain from their nerve and brain cells that wonderful life giving fluid called "Nerve Force." Without plenty of nerve force, you lose your magnetism, force and courage, you feel your own weakness and others know that you are weak. The moment you enter an office to apply for a position, or try to sell goods, or put through a business deal of any kind, the man opposite you instinctively feels and knows that you are a weak character, and you are therefore doomed to failure, while the strong, courageous forceful, magnetic man, with plenty of nerve force in his nerve and brain cells, successfully faces and overcomes every obstacle and difficulty and goes on to great success in life, while you may sit, a nervous weakling, bemoaning your fate.

Medical science and chemistry have proven that nerve force is a distinct substance, similar to your blood. It is the most important fluid in your body. It gives life to your nerves and force to your brain. If you cannot think right, if your memory fails, if you are irritable and easily upset, trifling things annoy you, look into your nerve force. When your nerve force becomes weakened, all the vital organs of your body lose their normal strength and vigor, and as a result, all kinds of alarming symptoms may appear. From the pains across the back, one person thinks he has kidney trouble; another may think his spine is injured because of the tender spots which may occur thereon. The dull heavy pain in the lower part of the head or the back of the neck, leads another to think he is going to have paresis, and from the disagreeable fulness or pressure in the front of his head, another feels he is going to die from high blood pressure. Sleeplessness and nervous irritability, heart palpitation and indigestion are very common symptoms. Some people are born with a very small amount of nerve force, because the nerve force has been squandered by the lives led by their ancestors. Others use up their nerve force faster than the body can make it, but in every case your nerve force is your capital in life, and when it is gone, your capital is gone, the same as if you had lost or squandered your capital in business. When you lack nerve force, there is only one thing that is going to help you, and that is more nerve force. In such cases it is worse than foolish to waste your time taking mere stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs. Your starving nerves must have nerve food or something to supply increased nerve force, the same as a starving man must have bread to make new flesh and muscle. For centuries science searched for a nerve force food. At last a celebrated French physician brought to the attention of the Paris Academy of Medicine a remarkable product which contained the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force, in a form which most closely resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. This wonderful product was later combined with organic iron and other valuable ingredients under the name of "Nuxated Iron," so that today true artificial nerve force ready to be transformed into active living nerve force, the moment it enters the body, may now easily be had, simply by taking two tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day, with or after your meals. Organic iron, contained in Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood. It not only quickly enriches the blood, but it also stimulates the blood to manufacture a greatly increased supply of the nerve force, so that Nuxated Iron not only feeds artificial nerve force directly to the nerve and brain cells, but it indirectly increases the production of nerve force through the medium of the blood.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE—Millions of people are using Nuxated Iron. From the remarkably beneficial results which it has produced, the manufacturers feel so certain of its efficacy that they guarantee satisfactory results to every purchaser, or they will refund your money. If you are weak, nervous or rundown, get a bottle of Nuxated Iron today, and if within two weeks you do not feel that it has increased your nerve force, and made you feel better and stronger in every way, your money will be refunded. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package. Sold by all druggists.

NUXATED IRON INCREASES THE NERVE FORCE AND GIVES NEW STRENGTH AND ENERGY

And Then Her Dreams Came True

All their married life she had held that vision of "our home" close to her heart.

Through a happy mist of tears she clasped her hands about the deed —a home of her own at last! It was almost too good to be true.

A man's home may be his castle but it is a woman's land of dreams. All her hopes of happiness lie at the end of this delightful rainbow.

To know her children are free to play unrestrained in the rollicking moods of joyous youth—to fill their young lungs with fresh, pure air. To be mistress of her own domain and make it lovely. To feel all her tasks are devoted to something permanently her own. To sense its comfort and protection. All of these threads of contentment are woven into the fabric of a woman's dreams.

YELLOWSTONE IS BEST ROUTE TO COAST, SAYS VANE

Manager of National Auto Dealers Says He Found It Finest Highway Across Continent.

The best route from St. Louis to San Francisco or Los Angeles, according to C. A. Vane, manager of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, is the round-about trip to Beloit, Wis., the Yellowstone trail to Minneapolis and Seattle, then down the Pacific Highway into California. Vane has just returned to his St. Louis office from a motor trip to the Coast, and declares that, every thing considered, the Yellowstone Trail today is the best transcontinental route. As he easily drove from St. Louis to Seattle in nine days, and as the road from Seattle is virtually perfect hard-surfaced highway for 1,400 miles to the Mexican border, he insists tht a motorist bound for the Pacific Coast will save time, money and wear and tear on car and temper by following his course.

How He Found the Roads.

Vane left St. Louis on July 29, picked up the Yellowstone trail in Wisconsin, and followed it straight through to Seattle. "It was in generally splendid condition," he said on his return. "We were able to maintain a speed of 20 miles an hour on stretch after stretch through the Dakotas and Montana, and averaged 40 miles an hour easily on many occasions.

"The first stretch that might be called bad was in North Dakota, where about 28 miles of road were being graded. Then we hit 28 miles of bad going into Missoula, Mont., where an improved road had been allowed to go to pieces.

"We were surprised to find such good roads. I wouldn't say any of the road would be impassable in wet weather. The Wisconsin roads are always good. In Minnesota the trail is heavily graveled. In South Dakota the same is true. There is only the one bad stretch in North Dakota. In Montana the trail is largely surfaced with the red rock of the country on top of the dirt, and the result is a road almost as good as concrete. The 100 or so miles from Missoula to Wallace, Idaho, is subject to washouts through the mountains and often is rough, hard going. Wonderful work has been done on the last big grade between Idaho and Montana, on both sides. From Wallace the going is good to Coeur d'Alene and Spokane, where we took the Blewett Pass route instead of the Walla Walla Highway. It was pretty fair going over the Blewett Pass, and then good into Seattle.

WINDSHIELD STICKERS ORDERED TAKEN OFF ALL CARS IN MASSACHUSETTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—Disobeying his order to remove silhouettes of bathing girls and other stickers from windshields and automobile windows will result in revocation of license plates and driving permits, according to the State registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts. He points out that every effort has been made by automobile factories to do away with "blind spots" in cars, and declares that he cannot countenance any practice that reduces visibility through windshield or car windows.

1593 BUS LINES START IN U. S. SINCE JAN. 1

Year Will See 8000 Busses Purchased, 2000 of Them by Electric Roads.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Rapid expansion in the motor bus industry is indicated by the fact that 1593 bus lines have started operation in this country since January. Figures prepared by the editors of Bus Transportation show 5400 motor buses were purchased in that period at a cost of approximately $30,000,000. On the basis of present indications, the total number of buses purchased during 1924 will be well over 8000 as compared with 6000 last year.

Electric railways have bought 1000 buses thus far this year for operation in connection with trolley lines. On that basis they will have purchased 2000 buses before the year ends.

August reports show 70 new bus lines started in all parts of the country. Most of these are intercity. The greatest expansion is noticeable in the South, especially in Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina. Those states are now covered by a network of bus lines linking all the important cities.

STOP-LOOK-LISTEN CLUBS NOW HAVE 30,000 MEMBERS

A total of 114 Stop-Look-Listen Clubs, with a membership of approximately 30,000 automobile owners and drivers, have been organized along the lines of the Missouri Pacific Railroad since the movement was started six weeks ago by employes of the railroad in an attempt to reduce the number of accidents at railroad crossings.

The railroad company is co-operating with the employes. Pledge cards, wind shield stickers and metal tags, to be affixed to the rears of members' automobiles, are being furnished by the Missouri Pacific. The red and white tags read "This car stops for all railroad crossings."

PRICES OF STILL MORE AUTOS TO BE INCREASED

Rapidly Growing Demand for Busses Brightest Part of Outlook for Car Industry.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1924.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Although there have been many price increases put into effect by automobile manufacturers in the last 60 days, a number of companies still are planning advances. The trend, they state, is unmistakably upward with the limit as yet unfixed.

Leading officials of the important companies explain that when sales and production are in heavy volume, costs decline in direct ratio to production increases. The reverse of this condition now is true. Prices established last summer, many of which still are in effect, were based on a sales volume which has not materialized. Dealers have been stocked to the limit of safety. The industry, therefore is resigned to a small output in the remainder of the year. As costs are at, or close to, record bottom, according to the manufacturers the only way they can continue to make and sell cars without going into the hands of receivers is to advance prices.

Ford Puts Poser to Them.

In talking of costs in the same breath as rock bottom, however, the automobile men fail to explain how the Ford Co., which has been working its employes on a five day a week schedule for two months, has been able to turn out very nearly as many cars as when the workers labored and were paid fo six days a week.

It has been said that the five day week has enabled the Ford Co. to keep all its employes at work instead of laying off some during the dull period. But if output has been about the same as on a six-day schedule, this reasoning woul seem to be unsound. To the ordinary mathematician, it seems that the Ford Co. has added to its prof its a minimum of $5 a week at least for every one of the thousands employed at a daily wage of $6 or more.

Ford Stocks Normal.

Efficiency experts are watching the situation closely, feeling that if labor costs can be cut a sixth in the Ford plants, immediate steps to revise operations in other factories and industries are necessary. The Ford company is expected to maintain about the same output as in August, when the production was about 150,000 vehicles. Ford stocks are said to be down to normal, being about 15 cars to the dealer, and a considerable part of the output between Tommy Murphy Plans to Lead American Drivers on Invasion of Europe — Giant Foreign Racers Seek to Set Road Marks.

By JIM LANCE.

THE determined effort now being made by British automobile drivers to establish road speed records of 150 miles an hour and faster is expected to be intensified by the entry of a 350-horse power 'straight eight" which has been built for an Egyptian prince, and may develop into an international contest involving American, British and French cars.

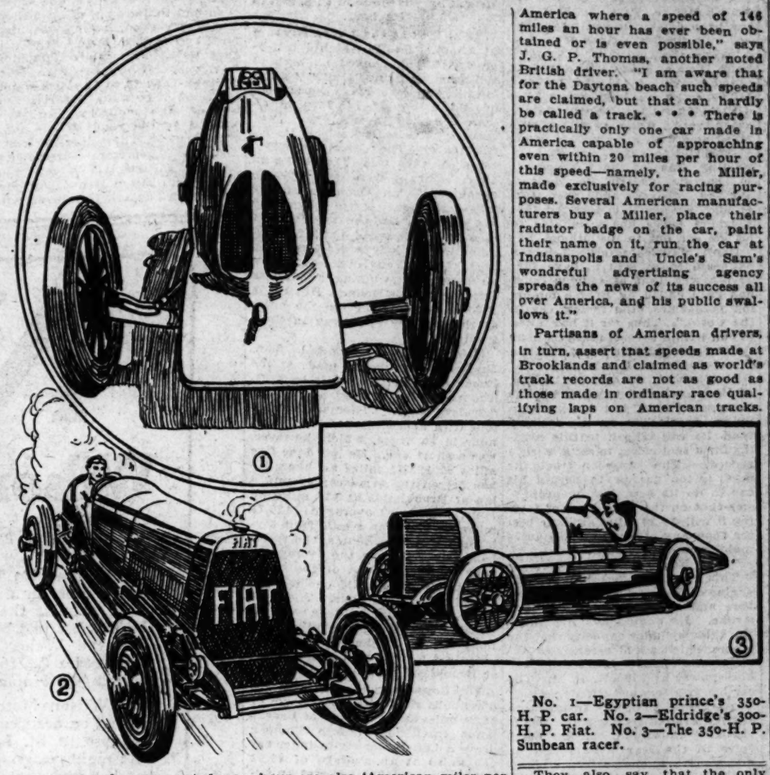
For some time there has been increasing tension in racing circles because of conflicting claims to speed records in America and England. It has been accentuated by the tendency on both sides to disparage records made in either country. British drivers would wave aside as freakish and unofficial the 141 and 156 mile an hour records claimed for Tommy Milton in Florida and on a California dry lake bed. The only records that should count, they they declare, are those made on a track, or a regular road.

British Make Charges.

They also assert that speeds in races over the Indianapolis, Kansas City, Altoona and Beverly, Cal., tracks are fictitious, that most American speedways are shorter than the stated measurements, and that consequently no American track records are entitled to serious consideration. Racing over the Brooklands track, they declare, is far more trying on car and driver than on the American speedways, and they insist that the Brooklands measurements are correct and all records made on it are valid.

Recently a British magazine printed a purported interview with an American advertising man, who was quoted as harshly criticising English automobile and tire advertising and saying that the "so-called world's records of 146 miles an hour are really "nothing but practice spins" in America. This caused considerable commotion.

Europe's Three Super-Powered Racing Automobiles



No. 1—Egyptian prince's 350-H. P. car. No. 2—Eldridge's 300-H. P. Fiat. No. 3—The 350-H. P. Sunbean racer.

Among those who commented was Maj. H. O. D. Seagrave, who drove a Sunbeam in the recent Grand Prix.

Says U. S. Tracks Are Short.

Maj. Seagrave made serious charges as to the honesty of automobile racing in America, saying, among other things, that the alleged American's remarks about 146-mile ao hour '" practice spins' merely "serve to justify what the average Englishman knows of America, which is that the majority of their records are fictitious, and the majority of their tracks shorter than the distance they claim them to be. Consequently it is a simple matter to put up colossal speeds under these conditions. The Indianapolis track, on which I have driven, is supposed to be two and one-half miles in circumference. Actually it is much shorter—or perhaps they are 'American' miles, as perhaps the 'practice spins' of 146 miles an hour are also 'American miles per hour.'"

Charge and Countercharge.

"There is not a single track in America where a speed of 146 miles an hour has ever been obtained or is even possible," says J. G. P. Thomas, another noted British driver. "I am aware that for the Daytona beach such speeds are claimed, but that can hardly be called a track. • • • There is practically only one car made in America capable of approaching even within 20 miles per hour of this speed—namely, the Miller, made exclusively for racing purposes. Several American manufacturers buy a Miller, place their radiator badge on the car, paint their name on it, run the car at Indianapolis and Uncle's Sam's wondreful advertising agency spreads the news of its success all over America, and his public swallows it."

Partisans of American drivers, in turn, assert that speeds made at Brooklands and claimed as world's track records are not as good as those made in ordinary race qualifying laps on American tracks.

They also say that the only worthwhile speeds made in Britian have been made in short races, the

CONCRETE ROAD TO FORISTEL IS OPEN TO TRAFFIC

Longest Piece of Concrete Highway in Missouri Runs Westward From St. Louis.

The concrete highway across St. Charles County, from St. Charles to Foristel, was opened officially to traffic yesterday. This gives motorists of St. Louis a 50-mile strip of concrete toward Kansas City, according to Matt F. Morse, manager of the Automobile Club of Missouri, and is the longest piece of concrete highway in Missouri.

This road has been building for two years or more, and from time to time one after another detour has been necessitated. Now there is not a grade crossing on the 50 mile of concrete, whereas the detour last used had five.

More than half of the highway between St. Louis and Fulton now is hard-surfaced, and the 50 miles concreted between St. Louis and Foristel is a sixth of the distance over Route No. 2 to Kansas City. There is now only about 35 miles of dirt road between St. Louis and Fulton. Some of this is under contract for concreting.

Opening the concrete to Foristel also does away with the detour on the highway to Louisiana and Hannibal. One can motor now on concrete to Wentzville whence he can swing north on a gravel road

The opening of the concrete yesterday was the occasion for a special celebration in charge of the Wentzville Commercial Club.

100,000-Pound Trailer in Denver.

An automobile trailer, with carrying capacity of 100,000 pounds, has just been put in service in Denver, and is said to be the largest in the world. It is 10 feet wide, as long as a railroad freight car, and has wheels 20 inches wide.

FALSE ECONOMY IN MOTORING CAN RUN COSTS HIGH

Postponing Repairs Too Long and Efforts to Get Too Much Mileage From Tires Do Not Pay.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Economy in the ownership of a car can be overdone like everything else. In an effore to get too many miles to the gallon of gas, too many miles of service from tires and too many miles of riding per dollar invested ments, car owners are paying the piper to the tune of millions of dollars annually.

Many a motorist is forced to buy an inferior tire because he can't get any other when some old shoe that he has tried to rejuvenate blows out when he is far from home. Many a man pays a double repair bill for work that could have been done at far less expense and trouble months before.

Valve Grinding Folly.

One of the most striking instances of the folly of straining for economy is in postponing valve-grinding work. It is not unusual for a motorist to run 10,000 miles without taking off the head of the engine, and there are cases where 35,000 miles still find a motor delivering. But it is rare to find an owner who appreciates the fact that it is not extravagance to have valves ground regularly, but avoiding false economy.

When valves are allowed to go for long periods without attention, their seats become badly pitted and burned. It is easy enough to reface the valves of substitute new ones, but ordinary grinding will not fix seats that are so badly damaged. It is necessary to ream out the seats and then grind in the usual way. This doubles the time required for the work and lowers the valves to a point where they do not lift quite as high as before. This means a shade less power, which may be very noticeable in a motor that is growing feeble through neglect.

False Economics.

Few car owners figure how much it is costing them in wasted gas to drive around with an engine that needs attention. If a car ordinarily does 12 miles to the gallon of gas retailing at 20 cents, and does 10 miles to the gallon when it needs valves ground and carbon cleaned out, the owner pays $29 for extra gas to postpone the job for 5000 miles.

Loose tappets—that is, tappets with too much clearance—cause power loss and fuel wastage.

After grinding in valves it is customary to leave more than the usual amount of clearance, to allow the valves to pound down and seat better. If the owner happens to be bitten by the economy bug, he may be tempted to go to some mechanic who does not know the circumstances and ask him to make a close adjustment. The result is that the valve stems expand too much and hold open the valves so they burn and must be ground again.

In an effort to save a lot of gas by coasting, one owner used his clutch excessively until one da yit failed him entirely and steered him straight to a repair shop, where he dropped more money than he ever saved on fuel. He had wasted a lot of brake lining as well, but he was not to know this until he had to have the brake relined after the usual mileage.

Mistakes With Tires.

Much false economy is practiced with tires. A motorist is certainly justified in trying to get the best possible mileage from his tires, but there is a lot in knowing how to be economical. Transferring the older and weaker tires to the front wheels prolongs the life of the average tire, but it is not a safe practice if the motorist is accustomed to fast driving. Old tires will give remarkably good mileage when the car is driven around the city, but they are no economy for a long trip.

Whether to economize by using old tires for spares depends upon your particular way of driving. If you are never in a hurry to get anywhere, an old tire will take you to your destination, because you will drive at a moderate speed. If you are inclined to try to make up for lost time after being delayed for a puncture, the chances are the old spare will never see you through. An old tire will not stand speed.

Despite many experiences to suggest the contrary, a blowout patch can be used with success. There are old blowout patches and new, good tire menders and bad, shoes that will be strengthened by a patch and those that won't. Sometimes one must spend a little more to get results.

No wise motorist ever considers oil or grease economy, for he knows that while lubrication is one of the least expenses in motoring, it is the most vital factor in service and dividends. However, lubrication economy is not always a matter of stinting the car. It is often the result of failing to invest in good oil and of taking the trouble to find out what grades of lubricant are most appropriate for the car. The only economy in lubricating a car is to give it the right kind of oil or grease at the right time, in the right place, and in the right quantities.

Whenever a motorist feels that he has had wonderful service from some particular part of the car and that it has been unusually economical, that is the time to drive to a repair shop and have the particular unit looked over. The chances are that a few dollars invented then will forestall a big repair bill that is just beyond the horizon.

More fines are paid for exceeding the economy limit than are collected by all the police courts in the country. So why be caught?

Prince Builds 350 H. P. Car To Try for Record in U. S.

longest race at Brooklands being for only 8½ miles.

Anyway, here is material all set and ready for the flare-up, especially as Jimmy Murphy, Tommy Milton, and other American drivers are talking of invading the European tracks the coming year.

The Giant European Cars.

While a number of small-bore American cars have shown themselves capable of speeds well over 110 miles an hour for 250 miles, there is no car in this country at present comparable in actual engine power with three giants in Europe.

A 300-horsepower Fiat that the British driver, F. A. D. Eldridge, has been driving recently over the 4½-mile straight stretch of road at Arpajon, about 20 miles outside of Paris, France, has made officially timed speeds of 145 and 146 and 147.69 miles an hour for a mile with flying start. Because the Arpajon road, while perfectly surfaced and with a downward grade at one end to permit crossing the starting line at high speed, is so narrow as to be dangerous for driver and spectators at high speeds, it is asserted that Eldridge never has been able to let his car out to the utmost.

Capt. Maurice Campbell has a Sunbeam racer, said to have 350-horsepower, that at various times has been called by British motoring magazines "the fastest car in the world." Thus far it has failed to run within several miles an hour as fast as Eldridge's big Fiat on the Arpajon road.

Now comes Prince Djelaleddin, of Egypt, who says that if his 350 horsepower car, just built, comes up to expectations on the Arpajon road, he will take it to this country for a real effort to set a world's record. The Arpajon track, he says, is too narrow to permit his car to do its best, but he prophesies that on the right kind of footing it will do 20 miles an hour better than any other car since automobiles were first built.

The New Racing Monster.

This car has a "straight eight" engine of four and one-quarter inch bore and five and one-half inch stroke. Its engine has five times the cubic cylinder capacity that the racers which raced recently at Indianapolis had. It develops 350 horsepower at 3000 R. P. M. The car has two forward speeds, as well as a reverse that was installed to answer French racing rules, but is virtually unusuable. It has bevel drive to the rear wheels and no differential, a one-seater streamlined body, and a wheel base of 112 inches. Its front axle is far wider than its rear, the front track being 57 inches and the rear, 37 inches. The car weighs 2000 pounds. The engine has a carburetor to each cylinder, and there is separate feed of gasoline by gravity to each carburetor. The car is to be called the "Djelmo."

Meanwhile Miller, the noted California racing car builder, is reported to be busy on new speed cars in addition to the 96 cubic inch ones for the 1926 Indianapolis race. Jimmy Murphy at various times has been reported as building a front drive racer with which to go after Milton's Florida and Dry Lake records. Ira Vail once tried a front drive racer, but the dirt tracks he raced it on were too hard on the engine and he could not gear it for board track work. The efforts of the French and Italian designers have been conscentrated on the 122-cubic inch cars for the Grand Prix and other races, so Eldridge, Campbell and the Prince have had things their own way so far as cars of super power are concerned.

There are reports that various European designers, however, are turning their attention to the possibilities of speed giants.

There probably will be plenty of news from Europe of interest to auto racing fans, if Jimmy Murphy, Tommy Milton and other American drivers compete at the Brooklands track in England, the French Grand Prix and on the new Monza track in Italy.

Recent Speeds Made in U. S. and in England.

Trial laps at the Labor day race at Altoona, Pa., in which Joe Boyer was killed, ranged as high as 120 miles an hour. "Ernie" Austerburg, driving his Deusenberg around a lap at 125.7 miles an hour, and Boyer's car was making 125 miles when it hit the fence. The qualifying speed for that race was 110 miles an hour. Murphy won the 250-mile event with an average of 113 miles an hour. Murphy averaged 114 miles an hour in the June 14 race at Altoona and 114.3 for 150 miles in the July 4 Kansas City race. Harry Fengler did 113 miles an hour in winning at Kansas City last year. Bennett Hill made 116.6 miles an hour for 250 miles at the Beverly speedway in California.

The best times reported from England have been made at the Brooklands track recently by J. G. Thomas with a Leyland-Thomas "straight eight." Thomas is credited with averaging 117.5 miles an hour in a race, which, however, was a short one. He has done five miles at 123.81 miles an hour. He has driven the same car around a lap at Brooklands at 125 miles an hour, and has averaged 129.73 miles an hour for a mile from flying start at Brooklands, the speed being figured from the average of runs both directions of the track straightaway. He did one mile at 131.48 miles an hour. The 300-horse-power Fiat did a lap at Brooklands at 124.33 miles per hour and the 350-horse-power Sunbeam did a mile with flying start at Brookland at 129. 7 an hour.

Joe Boyer won the 500-mile Indianapolis race with an average of 98.24 miles an hour. But at Brooklands track last month Thomas drove a Lanchester six-cylinder car 200 miles at an average of 99.93 miles per hour, 300 miles at an average of 97.95 and 400 miles at an average of 93.32 miles an hour, all from standing start. It is claimed that this car was a standard stock Lanchester with racing body.

While the recent French Grand Prix was won by an Alfeo-Romanoe car at an average of only 71 miles an hour, the Alfeo-Romanoe are credited with having done 125 miles an hour in tests and a Sunbeam racer made 125 miles an hour for a whole lap in the Grand Prix.

So American drivers who invade Europe will have their work cut out for them, and unless some new racers are built, they are likely to find themselves overmatched at short distances if they compete with the giant Fiat, Sunbeam and Djelmo cars. If the Djelmo is brought to this side, there undoubtedly will be built super cars to meet it.

YELLOWSTONE IS BEST ROUTE TO COAST, SAYS VANE

Pacific Highway is hard-surfaced. From Portland we took the wonderful Columbia River highway, which has been hard surfaced to the Dalles, whence the Oregon Trail leads over good gravel roads to Pocatello, Idaho. From Pocatello we had good going to Yellowstone Park until within about 20 miles of the west entrance to the park, which was bad. The park roads were in good condition.

"We went south into the Jackson Hole country, where one of the country's finest mountain ranges, the Tetons, is the attraction. This is scenically a wonderland.

The road from the park south was pretty fair gravel to Moran, then bad to Jackson, whence there is a pretty good, but narrow, road built by the U. S. Forest Service to Pine Dale. From Pine Dale there is a very good road to Rock Springs, then 10 to 12 miles almost impassable because the red rock dirt of the country has been heaped in the road so one must keep the car in low gear the whole distance. Then from Wamsutter to Laramie the road is in very good condition. There is a fairly good road from Laramie to Denver, with some concrete.

Finds Business Optimism.

"The best route from Denver to Kansas City, and the one recommended by all motor clubs and tourist bureaus, is the U. P. Trail, which was very good, except for 30 miles between Manhattan and St. Mary's, which was badly cut-up dirt.

"From Kansas City to St. Louis we took the route south of the Missouri River, which, incidenally, is the one that should be recommended."

Vane said he had no reason to change his optimistic conclusions in regard to business and farming conditions in the Northwest, which were told in the Automobile Section recently. The business outlook, he said, was regarded from Minnesota to Washington as generally excellent.

"I never have seen the farmers of Minnesota, the two Dakotas, Montana and Eastern Washington so optimistic," he stated. "Idaho, Eastern Oregon and parts of Colorado have been affected by lack of rain. But, despite this, the feeling is good. Business in Seattle and Portland has been very good. In San Francisco it is picking up. Colorado is all excited over oil discovery wells near Fort Collins, and Kansas wheat has graded up very high. Altogether, it looks good."

Vane said that wherever he stopped he found tourist traffic heavier than ever, and that most of them seemed to be taking their vations by making the round the national parks. A count cars in Yellowstone Park on the stickers of as many as 12 of the parks.

CARS IN DANGEROUS CONDITION BARRED FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE ROADS

INSPECTORS are busy on the highways of New Hampshire checking conditions of automobiles, in an effort to bar those considered unsafe for operation. They have been instructed to inspect all old cars involved in accidents and, if these are so aged as to be dangerous, to revoke the registration and operating license.

PRICES OF STILL MORE AUTOS TO BE INCREASED

now and spring will go into a bank of parts to provide for next seasons' requirements.

Expects 275,000 Car Month.

Two of the larger automobile plants in Detroit have reopened after temporary idleness in some departments, and this has raised industrial employment to 198,997, the highest point since employment began to decline late last spring and only about 12,000 below the total employed at this time last year.

The Chevrolet, Overland and Star factories are making slight increases in schedules, and the month will show a slight rise in output over August, although it is doubtful is September production of cars and trucks exceeds 275,000. The increase is due largely to demand for new models.

Bus Production Rising.

The brightest spot on the motor vehicle horizon is the extensive programs for bus operations reported from cities all over the country. Busses of the type designed for city use cost about $9000 each. One company alone, which desires to operate in New York, at this rate, would be in the market for at least $9,000,000 worth of equipment. A dozen other bus companies have outlined plans for expansion and increases operation in this region.

Builders of cross-country busses and bus bodies such as are used on runs from Tampa and Miami to Boston, from New York to Boston overngiht and from St. Paul to the Pacific Coast, are unable to keep up with deliveries.

Bus men predict that the time is coming when every city, even that of modest size, will have a local bus service.

15 New Studebakers

Including an entirely new type of car—the DUPLEX-PHAETON

Today Studebaker has made Automobile History and established standards of value and quality more fully and obviously than ever before.

TODAY Studebaker proves that beautiful, distinctive, stylish body lines can be originated by American body designers without following precedent or imitating or adapting what has been done before.

Today Studebaker proves that a practical and beautiful type of car can be made to combine the pleasure and performance of the open car and the comfort and protection of the closed car—and this without excessive price or compromised quality—a car "duplex" in open-car smartness and convenience and closed-car elegance and comfort—and at a price no higher than that of an open car!

Today Studebaker proves, in its new Standard Six Duplex model, that a six-cylinder car of fine quality, great power, plenty of room and impressive appearance can be made and marketed at a price of $1145.

Today Studebaker proves in its new Special Six and its Big Six Duplex models that the ultimate in all the essential features of quality in five- and seven-passenger cars can be made and marketed at a price of $1495 and $1875 respectively.

And this is possible only because Studebaker cars are made in one of the most comprehensive industrial plants in this country, 70 per cent of which is new within the last six years.

Every modern method of manufacture and long experienced management are available for the production of Studebaker automobiles.

Today Studebaker proves that the highest grade closed car bodies—framed in selected hard woods, cushioned with the best cushion work, upholstered in fine mohair fabrics and fitted with expensive appointments—can be made and marketed on superlatively good chassis at moderate prices.

This is made possible by the new $10,000,000 Studebaker closed body plants. Studebaker designs and builds all of its closed bodies in one of the best equipped and most modern body plants in the industry.

THE STUDEBAKER BIG SIX—127 in. wheelbase, 7-passenger. Engine, 3⅞x5, 75 b.h.p.—with 4 different bodies, including Duplex-Phaeton, Coupe, Sedan, and Berline.

The Ten New Closed Bodies

COMPLETELY NEW BODIES—each car a masterly expression of modern style, yet distinctly original in beautiful lines—individual, conservative, impressively elegant, but crisp enough in its departure from imitation to be entirely distinctive.

Three completely new chassis!.. 15 completely new bodies!

Completely new lines! ..... Marvelous new performance

Completely new open-closed car!

Completely new radiators, new fenders, new lamps, new seating comfort, new finish, new colors in lacquer finish, three improved engines

Real balloon tires, not low-pressure cords. Sizes—21"x 5.25" to 20"x 7.30".

New Studebaker automatic hydraulic 4-wheel brakes—optional.

New values, never before equaled—even by Studebaker!

The Five New Duplex Bodies

(A new type of car originated by Studebaker to take the place of the open car)

SO ENTIRELY NEW and so different from any other body ever made before that a new name had to be created—the DUPLEX.

The upper structure is shaped in pressed steel and covered with the finest water-proof fabric. The steel construction permits the use of another radical Studebaker creation, the new roller enclosing curtains. There is the permanent beauty and durability of the steel top plus the instant convenience of the roller curtains.

Thus Studebaker engineers have solved the open-closed car problem.

The buyer who wants the airiness and practical convenience of the open car and who also wants the comfort, protection and beauty of the closed car can now get both in one car and at the price of an open car.

One moment the new Studebaker Duplex is a beautiful open car—a touch of the hand to the over-lapping roller curtains and it is a snug weather-tight closed car.

Balloon Tires

Genuine and full size balloon tires on all models. Every part that functions with the tires has been specially designed for balloon tire equipment—steering gear, steering knuckles, spindles and springs, even the fenders.

New Lacquer Finish

The Standard Six closed bodies are beautifully finished in semi-glaze, satin lacquer. The hood and lower panels are in light gray, the upper panels in darker gray. Hair-line parallel striping in oriental red. Burnished nickel radiators, jet black fenders, light golden finished, natural wood wheels and big balloon tires are contrasting touches.

The Standard Duplex Models are finished in glossy jet enamel—lasting, lustrous and wear-resisting.

The Special Six and the Big Six Duplex models are in soft satin lacquer with dark blue hoods and bodies striped in light blue and ivory. Here, too, the sparkle is added with burnished nickel radiators and light, natural wood wheels in contrast with jet black fenders and big, black balloon tires.

More Power

The universally famous Studebaker engine is more than ever a peer among power plants. The crankshaft is heavier. ALL surfaces are perfectly machined to exact dimension and balance. The bearings are larger.

The engine is in unit with the clutch and transmission. There is a force feed lubrication system with clean, strained oil always in reserve. There are many changes and improvements which result in MORE POWER, MORE QUIETNESS and SMOOTHNESS and STILL BETTER PERFORMANCE in every way.

New Brakes

Larger, more powerful, simpler and much easier operated two-wheel brakes. An entirely new emergency brake is operated from the instrument board, instantly convenient to the driver's hand where it simplifies the control and frees the floor board from the old style lever. It acts on the propeller shaft. There is uniform pressure at each wheel—equalized through the rear axle.

The regular two-wheel Studebaker brakes with their simplicity, safety and great braking power are entirely adequate.

But Studebaker 4-Wheel Hydraulic Brakes (with disc wheels) can be furnished as optional equipment on all models at extra charge if desired.

Studebaker 4-Wheel Brakes have three exclusive features not found on any other system in this country.

1. Braking pressure is furnished by hydraulic power automatically developed. A light touch to the braking pedal controls its great force like a touch to the throttle controls the power of the engine. This feature will appeal instantly to women.

2. The front wheels cannot lock.

3. There are only two adjustments required—one at each rear wheel. The front brakes are permanently adjusted at the factory. The oil in the transmission is used to generate the hydraulic power; the action of the gears and the pump keep it in circulation: it cannot congeal or freeze. Braking power is always instantly ready—in winter as well as in summer!

New Ease of Operation

New Ease of Gear Shifting—New power in braking, a touch to the pedal exerts a giant's strength at the rear wheels—New clutch action, soft as velvet—A new steering gear and steering knuckles designed for balloon tires—A new grouping on the dash, including ALL the usual instruments plus a gasoline gauge that always works accurately.

Lighting Control Switches—all on the steering wheel—instantly handy.

Automatic Spark Control—No manual attention required, so the lever is eliminated. Automatically governed to all speeds with the precision of machinery.

And the Details

The new cars are longer and lower to the ground. The line from the radiator to the rear is nearly straight. The wheelbase of all models is increased.

The fenders are much wider and deeper crowned to cover the width of the tires. They fit more closely over the wheels. The rear fenders are long and gracefully curved into the running boards.

The radiators are high and set low in the frames and convex curved just below the filler cap. The design is strikingly original and beautifully distinctive.

Entirely new head lamps and cowl parking lamps designed by Studebaker—artistically appropriate and in perfect keeping with the originality of the body and fender design.

Deeper, stiffer frames, more cross members; shorter, flatter springs for balloon tires. All bodies lower, all roomier, better and more comfortably cushioned. Seats are lower, backs and sides are higher.

Look Forward Into Next Year

The new Studebaker is here today! And no matter how sweeping your ideas of what a new model should be this car will satisfy you. It will thrill you with the very newness and originality of its beautiful lines!

You may not be in the market now, or even this year. But to see the new Studebaker is to look forward into next year—and the year after! SEE IT TODAY!

SANTA FE TRAIL THROUGH DESERT NOW A FINE ROAD

Constant Dragging Keeps It in High Speed Condition From Arizona Border to Victorville.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 13.—Here is good news for the many motorists who are planning trips to California over the Santa Fe trail via Albuquerque, N. M., and Needles. The highway through the Mojave Desert, from Needles to Barstow, has been so improved by the State Highway Commission that speeds as high as 40 miles an hour may be made over a road that is good to excellent all the way.

In the past, it required at least 12 hours for the average driver to cover the 213 miles from the Needles to Victorville, where the highway swings south and southwest to Los Angeles and San Diego. Now, because of the work done since the first of the year, the running time has been reduced from seven to nine hours.

A great deal of grading has been done between Victorville and Needles, and work is still in progress, one project being of 30 miles east of Newberry Springs.

Most important of all, the road sections between Needles and Barstow are being dragged thoroughly every three days by 12 drags pulled by tractors, the drags being allotted in the proportion of two to every 40 miles.

The Mojave Desert soil consists of a sort of gravel and volcanic ash. Under travel, the ash works to the surface of the road and is blown away, leaving the road covered with coarse stones and bumpy. By constant dragging, the roads can be kept in fine condition, and eventually it is hoped that the volcanic ash will work itself out of the road bed. The dragging has been a difficult task, because the heat in the desert for months is so great that most of the work must be done at night.

Among the recent promotions on Auto Row in St. Louis is that of R. R. Andrews, who has just been appointed assistant sales manager of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. by Sales Manager Joseph W. Kellerman.

Andrews has been a member of the Hudson-Frampton company for the last four years, and throughout that period always has been one of the firm's leading salesmen. He is known all along Auto Row.

POPLAR BLUFF-CAIRO ROAD OPENING IS SET FOR TODAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Sept. 13.—The last stretch of the Poplar Bluff-Cairo highway will be opened to traffic tomorrow. This will mean a good road all the way to St. Louis and Chicago. Completion of the three-mile stretch of concrete east of the St. Francis River, in Stoddard County, will be the last work on this highway, unless a three-mile stretch through a swamp in Stoddard is paved. This last is now a good gravel road, but fears are expressed that maintenance costs will make it more expensive than concrete. Of the 72 miles from this city to the Mississippi, 13 east of this city and eight miles between Charleston and Bird's Point are concrete, the rest being good gravel.

John Smith and His Car

by FREDERICK RUSSELL

THE FIRST DETOUR.

SMITH and I had been speeding along the new highway on our second day of traveling, trying to make the next point on our itinerary before sundown. I had lost sight of Smith's car for a mile or two, but then just after turning a sharp bend in the road saw that he had pulled over to the side of the road and stopped. A large sign ahead proclaimed the news:

"Detour!"

"Now what?" Smith asked.

"It's all in the game," I said. "If everything was plain sailing we'd never appreciate the sort of roads we've been riding over. However, all detours aren't alike. Some are fair to middling; some are not so fair."

"This looks like the 'not so' variety," Smith commented. "Suppose you lead the way for a while."

It was just what I was going to suggest. But 10 minutes' riding over the detour proved that it might have been better had we arranged otherwise, for when we came to a part of the road that was a few inches under water my car passed through without difficulty, while Smith's got stuck.

Smith thought it very strange that I should have been able to get through the mud without getting stuck. He accused me of being lucky.

"No luck about it," I explained. "Just experience. The moment I reached this spot I put the gears in 'second' and proceeded carefully."

"I went carefully, too," Smith insisted.

"That was your trouble," I replied.

"If We Had a Tow Line."

"You went too carefully, and in 'high gear.' If you had gone over this place fast you might have escaped being stuck, though you would have run the chance of being upset by some of those ruts in the road which are hidden under the water. Whenever you come to a place like this, put the gears in 'second,' then you won't be likely to stall the engine, and you can go slow enough to avoid an accident."

"That's all very well," Smith admitted, dolefully, "but here I am stuck in the mud, and what is there to do about it?"

I began thinking.

If we had had a tow line 15 feet long I could have pulled him out, for my car was just about that distance ahead on a dry portion of the road.

"There's something wrong with the car," Smith decided, after failing to get the car in motion for the tenth time. "Do you notice it? Only one of the rear wheels is turning."

I assured him that this was quite as it should be. It wasn't a propitious time to go into a lengthy discussion of the differential, but I did stop to explain that the function of that part was to permit one rear wheel to be turned while the other was slowed up or stopped. When a motor car turns a corner the wheel on the inside goes slower than the one on the outside. If both rear wheels were being driven ahead equally in turning a corner the car would skid and the moving parts would be strained to the breaking point.

Smith thought this over for a moment and then added:

"Then if we put something under the wheel that is slipping around, there will be traction enough to start the car."

Charged to Experience.

"No," I said. "If we keep this wheel from slipping, the power will be transferred to the other wheel and it will start slipping. Both rear wheels are never propelled equally at the same time unless they are both equally free. It may be that the one that is not slipping would really have traction enough if we could stop the other one from spinning, but I doubt it. To be on the safe side, we had better keep them both from slipping."

"Your suggestions are excellent," Smith jested, "but how is all this to be done?"

"Have you any rags in the car?" I asked. "If you have, we could tie knots over the tires."

Smith searched the pockets, but found only a few small dust cloths. These would not do. I had a notion that he would throw away all the old rags before he started the trip, so while he was searching I started breaking off branches from some of the bushes and low trees along the roadway. These we laid crosswise in front of the rear wheels. They sank down under the water, but I knew that if we laid enough of them the wheels would get traction.

"Now, let's go," I suggested. "Let in the clutch gently and run slowly in low speed. Don't try to shift to second."

A few minutes later Smith's car was out of the mud and on the way again. We charged the half hour's delay to experience.

AUTO PRODUCTION TOTALS INCREASED

August Output of Cars and Trucks 268,477, According to Shipping Reports.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Continued conservative improvement in the automobile business is indicated in the August output of 268,477 cars and trucks, the total estimated from shipping reports submitted at the directors' meeting of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The figure is 2 per cent above July, which exceeded June by 6½ per cent.

The rate of production is 22 per cent under a year ago, which is regarded by leaders in the industry as not unexpected since output in the early months of the year was much higher than in 1923. Stocks in dealers' hands are well liquidated and present manufacture is based on orders from the field.

Motor manufacturers believe the gain in the automobile trade is a reflection of generally improved industrial and farming conditions.

Dealers report the fall outlook is excellent, with expectation of sales much better than this summer and farm trade exceeding last year's.

Light truck market prospects are better than last fall in Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburg and other large cities, with heavy deliveries promising business over year ago.

The Richest Bodies that ever graced a famous chassis

TODAY are presented two new Chandler enclosed bodies, eminently worthy of the famous chassis on which they are mounted.

It is fairly to be questioned whether any of America's exclusive custom body builders has ever achieved greater harmony of line, form, finish and detail.

As a part of their construction Chandler announces the new V & V Windshield—a radical improvement in design that vastly increases the pleasure of closed car driving.

Consisting of a single plate of glass, the V&V Windshield affords clear and complete vision to persons of all heights. There is no rubber strip to strain the eyes; no split to leak air or water; no unsightly quadrants or braces; no thumb screws to rattle or stick.

Perfect Ventilation

All degrees of ventilation are provided in a manner that is absolutely new:

Instead of tilting, the entire windshield slides upward in felt lined channels, responding to an easy turning handle above the shield. With half a turn, a ventilating current of air is conducted through the cowl to the car floor—although the shield itself is tightly sealed!

On any boulevard—in any company—these two new sedans will dominate.

Their color scheme is a brilliant combination of black and Luxor Blue divided by a double molding smartly striped with gold.

Their appearance of unusual length and rakish lowness has been achieved by reducing their overall height to less than six feet without impairing head room or road clearance.

Elegance of Detail

An unstinted elegance of detail—typical of Fisher coachwork—characterizes the interiors. The soft gray mohair upholstery is applied with corded edges instead of being taped. Garnish moldings are of Circassian walnut, harmonizing with a similarly finished instrument board.

The hardware is satin surfaced with brightly burnished high lights. The seats are low, pillowy, and pitched at an arm chair angle. Even the arm rests are upholstered over springs.

In the famous Chandler chassis, the Pikes Peak Motor provides absolute mastery over all hill and traffic problems; the Traffic Transmission insures silent, certain speed changes under all conditions.

Full balloon tires eliminate the effects of road irregularities; Chandler 4-wheel brakes provide safety at a slight extra cost.

NEW STUDEBAKER MODELS SHOWN

Striking Lines, a New Six and a Duplex Use Phaeton Features.

The long-awaited new Studebaker models were placed on display today by the Weber Motor Car Co., distributer in the St. Louis district.

There are 15 entirely new Studebaker models, and each is a complete refinement of the previous lines. The designs are new, never before seen on an American automobile.

There are an entirely new type of open and closed car, a new medium weight six, a new 4-passenger closed car, optional 4-wheel brakes of remarkable design, genuine balloon tires, and 15 original and distinctive new bodies.

A car originated by Studebaker which, the company believes, will supersede the present day open car, is the new duplex body. This new Studebaker is an open car which can be converted in five seconds into a waterproof, snug and dry closed car of fine lines.

Studebaker announces an entirely new Standard six which takes the place of the former light six. While it follows mechanically the general design of that car, it has a new and larger motor, the entire car is larger, heavier and of finer appearance, and has much more room. The new duplex body entirely supersedes the former open touring car and open roadster bodies, not only in the new standard six but in the other two models, the special six and the big six.

Among the 15 bodies is an entirely new, four-passenger victoria on the special six chassis. This is the compact, comfortable four-passenger car with the driver's seat slightly forward and for the fourth passenger there is an auxiliary seat which folds under the dash when not in use.

Three New Berlines.

On each of its three chassis Studebaker provides a Berline type of body, a five-passenger on the standard six and special six and a seven-passenger on the big six. This type of car separates the driver's compartment from the rear compartment with a sliding glass partition.

Studebaker has upholstered all its closed cars in the finest mohair. The fitting of the closed cars include cut-glass reading and dome lamps, bell silver finished vanity sets, smoking sets, door handles and other metal parts; heavy wool carpets.

Three of the closed models in the standard six chassis introduce an innovation in colors. The lower panels are in light gray and the upper panels in dark gray. The separation is marked with parallel hair line red striping.

All of the Studebaker closed bodies are made by the Studebaker Corp. in its new body plant, the last of which, costing $10,000,000, was finished in 1923.

Real Balloon Tires.

Studebaker was among the first of automobile manufacturers to introduce genuine balloon tires as regular equipment.

Big wide fenders which deeply crown over the tires are said to be the first designed by any manufacturer for balloon tire.

Four-Wheel Brakes Optional.

Although the new Studebakers are regularly equipped with bigger and better two-wheel brakes than ever and with an entirely new emergency brake which operates on the propeller shaft, there is optional equipment in four-wheel brakes.

The new Studebaker four-wheel brakes are not only of the hydraulic type but hydraulic power is developed by engine power, and not by the driver's foot. Great braking force can be applied instantly and almost without effort by operating a valve which turns on the hydraulic power. The brakes are unique in this respect. Inasmuch as the braking power instantly stops when the wheels stop turning, the rear wheels cannot remain locked and the front wheels cannot lock at any time. There are no adjustments necessary for the front wheels and only two points require lubrication.

Studebaker holds that two-wheel brakes are all that is required. But when four-wheel brakes are demanded it is able to give, it claims, the simplest, most effective, and most durable and safe system ever put on an American car.

Changes in Engines.

The Studebaker engine now is in unit with the clutch and transmission, and a new force feed oiling system has been designed. The returning oil is strained before it goes back to the crank-case; thus the pump has the entire crank-case supply of oil strained and cleaned. There is no possibility of clogged screens or a lack of oil for the highest speeds.

The entire amount of oil is pumped through the motor three times for every mile of travel under a varying pressure of 15 to 25 pounds, according to the speed.

Studebaker still retains the medium compression low speed engine the same as that employed by practically all of the leading makers of this country. There has been an increase in the weight of crankshafts on all models. There are bigger bearings and longer connecting rods in two models.

Really New Idea in Automobiles

The new Studebaker "Standard Six" five-passenger duplex phaeton, which can be changed in a few seconds from an open to a closed car. It embodies a really new idea, and the St. Louis distributor, the Weber Motor Car Co., believes it will have a profound effect on the trend of automobile buying.

BROCKMAN FORMS ANOTHER CONCERN

It Will Distribute Radiator, Hub, Gasoline Tank and Tire Dust Caps.

Incorporation papers have just been received by Brockman-McDevitt, Inc., which has been organized by Philip H. Brockman, president of the De Luxe Automobile Co., to distribute products of the the Bayonet Spring Coupling Co. of Cleveland.

Brockman is president of the company, F. J. McDevitt of the Baumes-McDevitt Machinery Co. of St. Louis is vice president, and George T. Willett, general manager of the De Luxe company is secretary.

The products distributed will include radiator caps, hub caps, gasoline tank caps and dust caps for tires. Brockman said yesterday that the Dodge Brothers had made the gasoline tank cap standard equipment on Dodge cars, and that the Marmon factory had adopted it as well as a cap for oil filler. Other factories, he said, are considering using this cap.

New Five-Passenger Sedan Model

THE new Chandler chummy sedan, which is being shown by the Lewis Automobile Co., St. Louis distributor. It is a two-door, five-passenger model, designed to meet the demand for this type in a superior chassis and finish. It has the single-piece windshield.

SHIPS 100,000TH AUTO ABROAD

The 100,000th Willys-Overland car exported—a Willys-Knight—recently cleared from New York for Overland-Sydney, Ltd., distributors at Sydney, New South Wales, Australia.

On the basis of current production figures of the Willys-Overland Co., which show a total of more than 1,200,000 cars built, the shipment of this 100,000th export car means that one out of every 12 cars has found a foreign purchaser.

The John N. Willys Export Corporation maintains an office in New York City to handle the final details of shipment, and complete financial transactions carried on by foreign distributors through New York banks.

For efficiency in distributions the world is divided into two main divisions. The main office at Toledo handles Central and South America and adjoining islands, Japan, China, Korea, Manchuria, the Straits Settlements, Java and Australia.

An associated company, Willys-Overland-Crossley, Ltd., a Stockport, England, serves the British Isles, Continental Europe, India, Africa and the Levant.

Full-Size BALLOON GUM-DIPPED CORDS

ASK any owner of full-size Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords about the comfort, safety and operating economy they are giving him. Let his experiences give you the facts about these wonderful tires. His comments will match these almost word for word.

There are hundreds of thousands of Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloons on the road today. Wherever you drive you see them—and you cannot help but notice the new enjoyment these owners are getting from their cars.

This immensely increased production has brought about many manufacturing economies, which you can take advantage of today by equipping your car with Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords.

Firestone Dealers are quoting special net prices on the complete job. Trade in your old wheels on a new set built for full-size Balloons. In addition get our liberal rebate on your old tires.

Equip now for comfort and economy—as well as for the safety and better car control you will need this fall and winter.

Call on the nearest Firestone Dealer—for information—for your price—and for a quick, carefully engineered changeover to real Gum-Dipped Balloons.

Lanchester Balancer Adopted by Willys-Knight, Acclaimed

Eminent mechanical experts are impressed by Willys-Knight's new refinement, the Lanchester Balancer, in eliminating vibration. Read these comments.

Glenn Curtiss
Famous Airplane Inventor

"It is surprising. I drove the car (Willys-Knight Sedan) at all speeds up to 50 miles an hour and found absolutely no vibration."

Hiram P. Maxim
President, Maxim Silencer Company

"The Lanchester Balancer certainly takes out the vibration. It makes the motor smoother than most of the six and eight-cylinders on the road today."

W. E. Best
Works Manager, Remington Cash Register

"The smoothness of the motor was a revelation. The driver increased the speed from 15 miles an hour to approximately 45 miles and, as far as I could detect, with no vibration. It would seem that the balancer is doing the trick and gives six-cylinder operation as far as smoothness is concerned."

Maurice Olley
Rolls-Royce, Production Engineer

"From the demonstration there is no doubt that the elimination of the inherent harmonic vibration, by means of the rotating balancer, has been attained in practice to a degree which is very satisfactory to the passenger."

Willys-Knight scores again. To its famous sleeve-valve engine, that improves with use, it adds a perfection long sought by many motor cars—the elimination of vibration. Test it today—it will amaze you.

MINNESOTA FOREST TO HAVE AUTO ROADS

Vast Wooded Tract Will Be Opened to St. Louisans Over Scenic Route.

Superior National Forest, in Minnesota, is to be included in the development program of the Mississippi River Scenic Highway, which runs from Port Arthur, Tex., through St. Louis to Port Arthur, Can. Contracts have been let for two roads from the highway into the forest which will be directly connected with the highway systems of 13 Mississippi Valley states.

One route extends from Grand Marais to Hungry Jack Lake and Gunflint Lake via Gunflint Trail.

The other entrance to the Superior Forest extends 60 miles from Finland via Isabella to Ely with not a settlement of any kind on the way.

These roads will be marked with the official "MRSH" marker and hereafter shown on all maps, circulars and folders of the corporation as a service to the tourist and recreation seeker.

"Minnesota has a veritable gold mine in possibilities in the vast expanse of rugged uninhabited wilderness northeast of Duluth and extending to the Canadian boundary and served by the north shore division of the Mississippi River Scenic Highway system which is identical with State Trunk Highway No. 1," said President Truman Pierson of the Scenic Highway system in Minneapolis, following a two weeks' exploration trip in St. Louis, Lake and Cook Counties, the largest counties in Minnesota."

"Gov. Preus and Highway Commissioner Babcock have looked far into the future and planned well when they gave prominent place in Minnesota's road improvement work to the building and improvement of the road skirting Lake Superior from Duluth to Pigeon River and the Canadian border," he added. "Any argument or criticism that may have been made that over $5,000,000 may be spent on a road nearly 175 miles long through a wilderness with no population above 3000 people on the entire stretch, falls flat.

When the Mississippi river Scenic highway system a number of years ago officially laid out the Port Arthur, Can., to Port Arthur, Tex., road including the north shore road, the backers of the idea saw the possibilities to the United States and Canada of this great show road as one of the most important tourist arteries of the country. They saw the wisdom of throwing open this part of Minnesota to the countless thousands in search of a cool and invigorating summer climate.

"Gov. Preus and Commissioner Babcock have gone ahead with an improvement program for the north shore road that they hope to see completed during the former's administration.

No man of vision can explore this vast domain and fail to see the great possibilities opened up as a result of the construction of State Highway No. 1. Superior National forest as a national park, the North Shore drive as a formidable rival of the Columbia River highway, the whole country rich in resort possibilities, scenic attractions and health giving places.

WOULD BAR RIDING UPON HANDLE BARS OF BICYCLES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—In line with its policy of encouraging safety in motoring by attacking and removing specific causes of accidents the American Automobile Association will urge passage of bills prohibiting children from carrying each other on handle bars of their bicycles on public streets and highways, according to a statement by its legislative board.

"The average child is menace enough when bicycle riding along a crowded thoroughfare without doubling the chances of accident by allowing him to wobble all over the road with another child perched on the handle bars," the A. A. A. statement reads. "Two children should not be allowed riding one bicycle any more than three persons should be allowed to sit in the front seat of the average automobile."

National Truck Show.

The first national motor transportation show in the history of the industry will be held in Chicago Oct. 21 to 27 at the American Exposition Palace on Lake Shore drive, a building recently completed at a cost of $10,000,000. The show is to be held under the auspices of the Motor Truck Industries, Inc. Most member manufacturers have taken space and there is said to be a gratifying demand for the remaining desirable locations. Busses, rail cars, trailers and all units essential to motor truck transportation will be exhibited.

No Used Car Problem Here.

In the nine months ending July 1, 185,000 Dodge cars were produced and 142,000 delivered at retail. On July 1, according to a statement by F. J. Haynes, president of Dodge Brothers, there were only 16,000 Dodge cars of all kinds in stock available for delivery, while against them were 12,000 signed, unfilled orders in the hands of Dodge dealers. On the same date, Haynes says, there were only 15,400 used cars in the hands of 3500 Dodge dealers.

New Types of Highways May Revolutionize All Road-Building Methods

Cushioned and "Invisible Track" Highways Among Them—Belief Grows That Surface Can Be Too Hard.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Highways for 1925 are making their appearance as quickly as the new models that will travel over them, and in many respects are fully as interesting. Many highway departments are said to have put aside the desire to build for mileage in favor of building for permanency, and a number of highway engineers are even questioning many of the accepted principles of road building.

Perhaps the most important change is the growing belief that highways should not be too hard-surfaced. For years the trend has been to build roads to resist all weather and traffic strains. But now it is being discovered that many roads would stand up better were they not obliged to offer so much resistance. This is resulting in a definite stimulus for the further development of gravel roads, which, as every motorist knows, are among the "softest" roads to travel.

Mere Rigidity Not Enough.

When a nine-inch slab of reinforced concrete starts cracking, engineers know mere rigidity is not going to solve the problem of permanency. The Highway Bureau of New York State has reached the conclusion that a six-inch concrete is adequate, provided proper attention is paid to subsoil and drainage. What actually happens with a large number of concrete roads is that the slab is literally crushed between frost underneath and traffic on top. Experience has recently demonstrated that no matter how strong the slab, it will not endure this double strain.

That is why a top less rigid sometimes will stand these stresses. Being freer to yield up or down, it adjusts itself to conditions. When it goes too far one way or the other, however, it requires repairing, but this is usually a matter calling for conventional patching.

New York State, however, continues to have faith in the concrete road, bending its energies toward supplying for the slabs a plan that will lessen subsoil stresses. In other words, since traffic rolls over an extremely rigid surface various methods of drainage and provision for frost are being made to make the under side of the road actually yielding to natural forces.

Rubber Pavements.

Some highway engineers are going a bit farther by adding a layer of asphalt to the top of the concrete slab. This provides a "cushion" for traffic and makes the concrete slab able to stand external strains. Such roads need occasional smoothing out, but they do not crack and break up as with a concrete slab that is merely inserted between two devastating forces.

Rubber pavements are among the novelties for 1925. A section of rubber blocks covering an area of about 250 square feet laid on the Northern Avenue Bridge in Boston in May, a second section where more traffic passes being laid two months later. Approximately 1000 vehicles pass this section each hour in each direction.

A way has been found to lay rubber blocks so as to prevent creeping, and these experiments are bound to bring about some new developments in road construction. The value of a rubber-surfaced road would lie not only in minimizing shock on the more rigid base of the road but in saving wear on tires. There would also be less noise from heavy vehicles.

"Invisible Track Highways."

One of the most interesting of the new things in highways is a new road now being developed in Kentucky. The road is patented as the "Invisible Track Highway," and is just what the name implies. Concrete girders are built to resemble tracks, with crushed stone between. When the road is covered with asphalt, it looks from a distance like any other modern road, but when one starts driving over it, the car fits into its "track" and almost steers itself.

Since the tracks are a constant distance apart there is very little opportunity for drivers to sideswipe because it requires a definite movement of the steering wheel to run out of the track onto the normal surface. In night driving it is a splendid safety device for so long as cars keep in their tracks their drivers do not have to worry about clearance when passing each other.

Track highways should make for more orderly motoring, thus cutting down accidents. For some years the Chestnut street bridge in Philadelphia has had a steel track for vehicular traffic as a means of keeping the street car line clear. Without the track many motor vehicles and wagons would not allow the street cars room enough to pass.

Cushioning Tried.

Almost all the new developments revert to the "cushioning" process. It is even illustrated in the case of the track highway, where a sheet of asphalt covers the crushed-rock and concrete girders, not merely as a dressing for the road, but as a means of relieving the road of traffic shocks.

Traffic shocks, however, are generally recognized as being secondary to natural stresses which attack any road from underneath. Asphalt dressings on roads that have some sort of concrete base are, in reality, more serviceable to the motorist, since they permit of a little more "give" and cause less eye strain on a sunny day. Underneath the road is where motorists will find most of the changes.

How Maine Does It.

In Maine, they have had enough experience with frost to know how to handle the subsoil. After the road has been dug down to a fairly firm natural base large boulders are set in. On top of these go smaller rocks, and finally dirt and crushed stone. This forms a natural drainage for the road and an outlet for frost. If the road starts to get rough it is only a matter of adding dirt and stone here and there to smooth it out again. Doubtless such a base could be used as a foundation for a more permanent type of surface.

Much economy will be effected through the development of some of these new ideas in roads. A large area of any concrete road seldom is used by traffic. It is on the theory that the lesser used section of the highway should be cheapened in favor of the traveled portions that the track highway has been developed. An additional saving is effected in the same instance by building the road right over roads that have been slated for rebuilding.

TWO NEW SEDANS IN CHANDLER LINE

"Metropolitan" and Chummy Models Have One-Piece Windshield and Balloon Tires.

Two new sedan models have been brought out by Chandler. They are the chummy sedan, a distinctive Chandler two-door model that combines the advantages of the five-passenger sedan and the four-passenger coupe, and the "Metropolitan" sedan de luxe, both of them glorified models of cars that have long been leaders in the Chandler line. The new cars are being shown by the Lewis Automobile Co.

Both models are equipped with a new type windshield, a single plate of glass, so arranged in felt-lined grooves that it may be raised vertically by a regulation window crank.

The new bodies, while distinctively Chandler in appearance, are a striking departure from previous sedans of the same make. Both are much lower, giving the appearance of length, heightened by the new double belt of moulding, the lower bead running the length of the car. At the rear, the tops are rounded, giving a brougham effect, and a new type leather-covered visor makes a marked improvement at the front.

The window moldings are of circassian walnut, and the instrument board and full-width ventilator are paneled in walnut to match. The seats have been made deeper, and are covered with high-grade mohair plush in gray, with carpet to match.

An ordinary window regulator, such as is used to raise or lower the glass in the car windows, is mounted over the windshield in front of the driver. A half-turn of the regulator raises the glass vertically a distance of one inch. In this position air does not flow directly into the car, but follows a course under the lower edge of the glass into a ventilator that extends the full width of the body. The air is led down between the instrument board and the dash, setting up a circulation throughout the car.

Further turning of the regulator raises the glass still higher, so that it rises above the edge of the ventilator, admitting air directly into the body of the car. A strip three inches high, in addition to the area of the ventilator, may be opened, giving an area of 125 square inches for the direct flow of air.

Both new models are powered by the Pikes Peak motor, and incorporate the traffic transmission, with its clash-proof action. Standard equipment includes full balloon tires. Standard colors are black and Luxor blue.

ST. LOUIS - KANSAS CITY ROAD, WHEN FINISHED, WILL ADVERTISE STATE

THE best argument for rushing construction of the primary concrete road between St. Louis and Kansas City is the general condemnation by tourists of Missouri roads, says C. A. Vane, manager of the National Automobile Dealers' Association. There were all sorts of opinions expressed in the auto camps about roads in other states he visited on a recent tour to the Pacific Coast he said. But everywhere the opinion was unanimous that one experience with Missouri roads was enough. The news that the St. Louis-Kansas City road had been completed will be worth millions of dollars in favorable advertising to the State, he declared.

SUIT FOR ABOLITION OF HONOR MOTOR BUS LINE

Electric Company Seeks to Put Out of Existence Novel Competitor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—An honor system motor bus line here has just been brought into unusual public notice through the suit of an electric company for its abolition because its patrons can pay as much as they please or ride for nothing if they have no money or their consciences are elastic.

The "honor system" line is conducted on the phrase "Let your conscience be your guide."

A rich man who rides in the bus is supposed to pay 25 cents or more for a trip. The worker may pay nothing or 5 cents. Usually laborers or clerks pay 5 cents on Monday and Tuesday and nothing the rest of the week.

"No, I can't make change," is the reply of the driver to anyone offering him a dollar bill or a large silver coin.

The passenger without change drops into the coin box on the motor bus his large coin or bill or pays nothing.

The "honor system" bus line has a payroll of $2000 a week and operates eight buses.

City trustees of Culver City, which connects with the bus line, give $50 monthly to the support of the company, and prominent men in the district served make monthly donations.

BRAKE TESTING WEEK SCHEDULED IN DETROIT

All Motorists Will Be Given Opportunity to Make Test With Cars.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Sept. 13.—Tomorrow, Detroit will begin a brake test week on a basis tested in other cities. The Automobile Dealers' Association is co-operating. In several sections of the city, certain blocks will be roped off for testing the brakes of cars and trucks.

The test will consist of driving a car at a speed of 20 miles an hour up to a mark on the pavement, then applying the brakes to see whether the vehicle can be stopped before it reaches another mark, which is 42 feet from the first one. The motor transport department of the City of Detroit has adopted the 42 feet stopping distance at 20 miles an hour as the standard for city vehicles.

It is believed that every driver realizes the importance of adequate brakes, but as it is not a simple matter for him to make an actual test, he is apt to let them go until they are actually dangerous before having them inspected and adjusted. It is the aim of the Safety and Traffic Committee to make it easy for every Detroit motorist to find out just what shape his brakes are in at no expense except a few minutes' time.

Police officers and brake experts from the service stations of members of the Detroit Auto Dealers' Association will have charge of the testing stations. Stickers and cards bearing the inspection date will be given to motorists whose brakes are found to be in good working order, according to the designated test.

The Police Department does not plan compelling car owners to make the test, but feels that everyone wants to protect life and limb and consequently the great majority will avail themselves of this opportunity of their own accord.

NO INFORMATION FROM A. A. A. CLUBS FOR NON-MEMBERS

According to a new ruling of the American Automobile Association, St. Louis motorists who are not members of the Automobile Club of Missouri will not be able to obtain free information and service from affiliated automobile clubs throughout the country.

The new ruling already is in operation and many tourists who imagine that they can enjoy the advantages of A. A. A. service without giving it financial and moral support are being disappointed, an A. A. A. bulletin says.

"Any motorist who thinks he can enjoy national touring service without supporting his home club is due for a disappointment," the bulletin says. "The A. A. A. clubs mean business because they are representing those motorists who are determined to put automobiling on a saner and more practical basis. Automobile clubs pledged to serve all motorists if they are going to do it. Only those who are similarly pledged their members."

Durability the Chief Reason for Hupmobile Success

No car—whatever its price—stands higher than Hupmobile today in the esteem of the American people.

It has earned the deep respect of car owners everywhere. There are many reasons for this—but the chief reason, undoubtedly, is the way the Hupmobile stands up through years of hard service.

Corporations which supply their salesmen with cars report that no car has ever given them such low cost per mile as has Hupmobile—investment, maintenance and operation all being counted in to the penny.

It has won a name for the way it stands up in continuous travel over rough roads—under conditions that would ruin any but a car of great in-built strength and stamina.

The Parts Display shows you why the Hupmobile stands up—and contrasts the kind of construction that would cheapen its quality. Come in and see it.

Brake and clutch pedals are good examples of the safety built into the Hupmobile. They are drop-forged, double heat-treated steel, as are also the hand-brake and gear-shift levers, brake-rod clevises and toggles—much stronger and safer than the less costly low carbon steel or malleable castings which are often used at these points in many cars.

NEW USED CAR HANDLING PLAN IS TRIED IN EAST

Dealers Using It Retire From Used Car Business, Which Is Run for Them —Trade-Ins Abolished.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—A plan for handling the used car problem, which has been tried out extensively in New London, Conn., is being discussed by automobile dealers here. The scheme, known as the Noyes-New London plan, has been adopted by groups of dealers in some 16 Connecticut cities and nearly a dozen Massachusetts cities.

The gist of the plan is that dealers in a city or town agree to retire entirely from trading in or buying and selling used cars. At the same time they set up a concern whose sole business is buying and selling used motor vehicles. It is akin to the co-operative plans of farmers. There are penalties to prevent the dealers in the agreement from evading it and means of collecting such penalties.

This plan does not impose any burden upon the motor car buying public except that it eliminates fictitious values of used cars offered in trade. The seller of the used car gets what it is worth, as determined by the used car market. The dealer can still cut his prices if he wants to, but he must use some other method than trading. With much overhead expense eliminated, the prices which the owners can obtain from the sale of used cars have a tendency to rise.

The Noyes-New-London plan involves formation of a corporation by the new car dealers of a city. They buy the stock of the corporation, paying for it partly in used cars which they have in stock and partly in cash, thus providing the stock in trade and the capital for the new concern. At the same time they agree, under a severe penalty, to retire from the used-car business altogether, neither trading in nor selling used cars after their stock has been taken over by the new corporation. This means that the new-car trade devotes itself exclusively to selling the new cars.

How It Works Out.

The car owner, however, does not have to keep his old car or find a customer for it. He negotiates the same as he did before with this exception. The new car salesman does not make an offer for the used car or call in the head of the used-car department to make an offer. Instead the car is driven to the used car mart or exchange. There a competent tester is put upon it and makes a thorough examination and test, reporting in detail to the manager. The report shows the condition of the car and what it will cost to put it in first-class shape. The manager knows about what the car will bring when offered for sale. He deducts the cost of necessary repairs and a percentage for selling it and the result is the price that the owner will receive for the car.

The owner, of course, has the option of selling the car himself or of disposing of it in any way he chooses except by a direct trade in. But if he accepts the offer of the mart he receives a certificate for the amount of money and this certificate will be accepted as cash by any new car dealer as part payment for a new car. The dealer, in turn, cashes in the certificate for face value at the mart. The plan does not interfere with time payments, the certificate serving as the first payment or a part of it. The operation of the mart serves to do away with competitive bidding for used cars.

Said to Save Much Money.

Having taken in the used car the manager of the mart sends it to the service station of the dealer, who represents new cars of that make. There the necessary work is done upon it. This insures that repairs shall be made by men trained to do the work upon that particular make of car. This work is paid for by the mart at regular rates. This is added to the amount paid for the car, a charge for selling operations is also added and the car is offered to the public by the mart.

This plan is not intended as a money making process. It is designed to be operated with a very slight return upon the capital invested. But it appears to have vast possibilities as a money saving institution. The public, it is asserted, will benefit directly and indirectly. The buyer of a new car will not be influenced to take a new car of inferior make and inflated price because of an over-generous allowance on the used car. The buyer of a used car will benefit because in its price will be included the expenses of only one used car organization instead of many.

Ford Motor Co. Assets Grow.

The assets of the Ford Motor Co. on Dec. 31, last, totaled $566,501,639, according to a financial report filed recently with the Michigan Secretary of State. Its capital increased by $21,000,000 to $253,173,813. Capital stock is shown as $17,364,500. Henry Ford, Mrs. Henry Ford and Edsel Ford are the only stockholders. During 1923 the company manufactured and sold 1,333,813 cars. Profits are computed in financial quarters to have been $161.67 a share on 1,565 shares of stock.

NEW USED CAR HANDLING PLAN IS TRIED IN EAST

Dealers Using It Retire From Used Car Business, Which Is Run for Them —Trade-Ins Abolished.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—A plan for handling the used car problem, which has been tried out extensively in New London, Conn., is being discussed by automobile dealers here.

The scheme, known as the Noyes-New London plan, has been adopted by groups of dealers in some 16 Connecticut cities and nearly a dozen Massachusetts cities.

The gist of the plan is that dealers in a city or town agree to retire entirely from trading in or buying and selling used cars. At the same time they set up a concern whose sole business is buying and selling used motor vehicles. It is akin to the co-operative plans of farmers. There are penalties to prevent the dealers in the agreement from evading it and means of collecting such penalties.

The plan does not impose any burden upon the motor car buying public except that it eliminates fictitious values of used cars offered for trade. The seller of the used car gets what it is worth, as determined by the used car market. The dealer can still cut his prices if he wants to, but he must use some other method than trading. With much overhead expense eliminated, the prices which the owners can obtain from the sale of used cars have a tendency to rise.

The Noyes-New-London plan involves formation of a corporation by the new car dealers of a city. They buy the stock of the corporation, paying for it partly in used cars which they have in stock and partly in cash, thus providing the stock in trade and the capital for the new concern. At the same time they agree, under a severe penalty, to retire from the used-car business altogether, neither trading in nor selling used cars after their stock has been taken over by the new corporation. This means that the new-car trade devotes itself exclusively to selling the new cars.

How It Works Out.

The car owner, however, does not have to keep his old car or find a customer for it. He negotiates the same as he did before, with this exception. The new car salesman does not make an offer for the used car or call in the head of the used-car department to make an offer. Instead the car is driven to the used car mart or exchange. There a competent tester is put upon it and makes a thorough examination and test, reporting in detail to the manager. The report shows the condition of the car and what it will cost to put it in first class shape. The manager knows about what the car will bring when offered for sale. He deducts the cost of necessary repairs and a percentage for selling it and the result is the price that the owner will receive for the car.

The owner, of course, has the option of selling the car himself or of disposing of it in any way he chooses except by a direct trade in. But if he accepts the offer of the mart he receives a certificate for the amount of money and this certificate will be accepted as cash by any new car dealer as part payment for a new car. The dealer, in turn, cashes in the certificate for face value at the mart. The plan does not interfere with time payments, the certificate serving as the first payment or a part of it. The operation of the mart serves to do away with competitive bidding for used cars.

Said to Save Much Money.

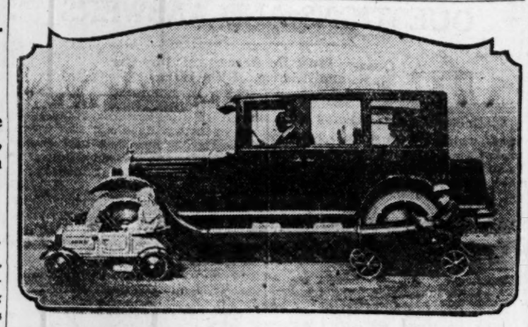
Having taken in the used car the manager of the mart sends it to the service station of the dealer, who represents new cars of that make. There the necessary work is done upon it. This insures that repairs shall be made by men trained to do the work upon that particular make of car. This work is paid for by the mart at regular rates. This is added to the amount paid for the car, a charge for selling operations is also added and the car is offered to the public by the mart.

This plan is not intended as a money making process. It is designed to be operated with a very slight return upon the capital invested. But it appears to have vast possibilities as a money saving institution. The public, it is asserted, will benefit directly and indirectly. The buyer of a new car will not be influenced to take a new car of inferior make and inflated price because of an over-generous allowance on the used car. The buyer of a used car will benefit because in its price will be included the expenses of only one used car organization instead of many.

Ford Motor Co. Assets Grow.

The assets of the Ford Motor Co. on Dec. 31, last, totaled $568,-101,439, according to a financial report filed recently with the Michigan Secretary of State. Its cash increased by $21,000,000 to $251,-278,883. Capital stock is shown at $17,344,800. Henry Ford, Mrs. Henry Ford and Edsel Ford are the only stockholders. During 1923 the company manufactured and sold 1,833,813 cars. Profits are reported in financial quarters to have been $161.67 a share on 172,-945 shares of stock.

Tiny Automobiles, Built for Children, Run 12 Miles an Hour



THE two little sons of Ralph J. Frick, of Burlington, Ia., now have their own real automobiles. Young John Frick is 6 years old and was only about 5 when he got his first automobile. His brother, Frederick, is 2 years old, yet is able to operate his own car.

The first car Frick built, modeling it on the lines of toy automobiles. The second car is a purchased toy automobile in which Frick installed the same mechanical power unit as in the first car.

The cars are electrically propelled with six-volt batteries similar to those used in automobiles. The battery is fastened under the hood of the car and is connected by wires to a self-starter automobile motor. The winding of the motor was changed to reduce the current consumption and increase the mileage obtainable on a battery charge. The motor is located under the seat and connected with the rear axle by sprockets and chain. The gearing is very low, with a maximum speed on smooth, level ground of 12 miles an hour. This reduction in speed greatly increases the power of the motor.

Control is by a spring accelerator operated by the foot the same as in regular automobiles. The accelerator, when pressed down, switches on the current. This foot switch has resistance for running either slow or fast. When the foot is removed from the accelerator it automatically springs up, shutting off the current and throwing on brakes that lock the rear wheels, making it impossible for the car to roll or coast, even when on a grade. There is a hand switch which changes the direction of the current and permits running the car backwards.

Massachusetts Beautifies Sides of Its State Roads

Program Carried On for Three Years Is Beginning to Show Results in Highway Actractiveness.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Sept. 13. — For three years the Massachusetts Department of Public Works has been carrying on a persistent program of beautifying the State's highways. Attractive results are rapidly becoming apparent.

At present the work is being carried on upon the Boston-Pittsfield road, via Worcester and Springfield. First comes the planting of trees and shrubs. A study is made of the location and the growth adapted to it, the planting is properly located, soil prepared by dynamiting, trees planted, staked and adequately nourished, ground kept open about tree trunks and intelligently trimmed when needed. Native shrubbery is being given place in proportion to its value, always with the idea in mind of preserving a clear view for traffic, safety being considered first and beauty next.

Disfiguring cuts are being planted with young vines of wild grape, woodbine, sumach, etc. It is an uphill task for them to establish themselves, but once they do so the sores along the highways are healed forever. Bare stretches of wall and fence are being broken by groups of shrubbery.

In work of this kind the removal of trees is as important as the planting of them. Blind corners are being made reasonably safe by opening up a line of sight, abutting property owners having greatly assisted by allowing a deeper cutting than limits of the State road would permit.

In addition, by cutting and removal the beauties of tumbling brooks and rivers, formerly hidden by a screen of greenery, have been uncovered. In many places a few hours of work with ax, and saw have revealed wonderful vistas of brooks, falls, meadows and mountains. Springs have been piped to the side of the road.

Wherever possible, rest spaces are being cleared where cars may be parked off the road. Wooden benches with concrete supports are being placed as seats or tables. Rubbish barrels, painted and lettered, are put in place as a reminder to careless picknickers that others will come after them, and signs on iron standards emphasize the keeping clean of the rest spots.

Trees are being watched with more care than in the past and spaces are being opened around all roadside shrubs and trees. Dead or dangerous limbs or trunks are being removed, not only along the roads but from adjoining land. Split trees are cabled or bolted and tree surgeons clean, treat and fill cavities in the trunk of any tree worth preserving. Damage to growth is trimmed and painted to stop decay. Crooked trunks are wired and staked into upright positions.

To aid in carrying out this work, a large nursery is maintained on State-owned land.

Store Sells Its Own Tire.

A New York store is selling a special tire made for it. The tire is sold under the store's own guarantee of 10,000 miles service and adjustments are made directly with the store, instead of referring complaints to the tire factory.

PENNSYLVANIA BILL AIMED AT CONSTABLES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—A bill, aimed at abolition of the uniformed constable and the fee system for police officers in this State, is to be introduced in the next session of the Pennsylvania Legislature. It will seek to relieve motorists from the necessity of stopping on State highways at the order of officers unless the latter are uniformed. The bill is being drafted in accordance with suggestions of automobile clubs which have been fighting petty grafting at the expense of their members.

In most towns in which car owners have been arrested, the constables wear no uniforms. Several of them have been reported as having pointed revolvers at motorists to compel them to obey orders.

It is also said that many men lacking police authority have been passing as constables and have been making a fat living out of the money taken from motorists.

Under the proposed law when officers stop car owners, the drivers will know they are dealing with regular representatives of the law.

Through abolition of the fee system there will be a tendency to abolish the numerous speed traps for providing extra fees and replenishing the treasuries of certain towns.

Get into an Oakland and ask it to show you

Owners of the True Blue Oakland Six know which light six is best. They have lived with it and in it.

The True Blue Oakland offers excellence in the qualities you desire most in a motor car—no matter what virtue it is you ask for. Oakland has everything!

If you want a smooth, powerful engine, with an energetic, impetuous pick-up waiting for the throttle, you will enjoy the Oakland.

If a sparing use of gasoline seems important, you will find the snap in Oakland performance is not secured from a big, gas-eating engine. Racing engine practice was followed—Swiss watch precision in building adopted. The result—the small-displacement True Blue engine gets more power and more miles out of a gallon.

If it is riding comfort and a feeling of solid road-worthiness under you and over you, glance below at the roll-call of tried-and-true, year-proved points of Oakland superiority in these attributes.

If you are particular about the finish on your car—Oakland's standard finish is Duco. It holds its lustre indefinitely—comes up smiling after unbelievable abuse.

And Oakland's rigid precision standards of building make these qualities you desire in your motor car, permanent attributes!

Come in and get into an Oakland and ask it to show you.

Then you will confirm hearsay and know at first hand that Oakland is building one of the world's finest motor cars—and selling it at a rock bottom price.

AUTO DEALERS TO MEET.

NEXT Wednesday evening, at 6:30 o'clock, the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association will hold its opening meeting of the season at the City Club. The principal speaker is to be the Rev. Dwight J. Bradley, of the First Congregational Church, Webster Groves, who is to speak on "Personality in Selling." Other speakers are to be Philip H. Brockman, head of the Police Board, who is to discuss "Co-operation in the Association;" John T. Salisbury, "Auto Shows;" F. C. McDonald, president of the dealers' association, and George Dunville, of the Tate Motor Co., who will talk on "The Salesman's Opportunity." Robert E. Lee, manager of the association, will be toastmaster. It is hoped that 500 or more auto row executives and salesmen will attend. During the meeting the past presidents of the association, dating back to 1907, will be introduced. They are O. L. Halsey, H. B. Krenning, Frank R. Tate, Samuel Breaden, J. A. Schlecht, F. W. A. Vesper, P. H. Brockman, R. C. Frampton and H. F. Fahrenkrog. The first president of the association, Valle Reyburn, is dead. The others are actively connected with the automobile business in St. Louis.

Tire Dealers to Seek Members.

SIX two-man teams were appointed at Monday's dinner meeting of the Associated Tire Dealers, at Hotel Claridge, to conduct a membership drive. A. A. Guether is chairman of the membership committee. The following members are to attend the national tire dealers' convention at Akron in November: A. P. Woehrle, of the Beverly Rubber Co.; Louis Weiner, of the Universal Tire Co.; Sam Chorlins, of the State Tire Co.; C. N. Quinn, of the Reid-Quinn Tire Co.; H. F. Schollmeyer, of the Valley Motor Co., and Roger Davison, of the Davison Tire Service. They will seek to bring the next national convention to St. Louis.

Sales Continue Good.

Domestic sales of Moon cars in June, July and August, the Moon Motor Co. reports, were more than 15 per cent ahead of the sales volume in the same period of 1923. The company thus has reason to expect that the last quarter of the year will show even greater improvement and that the volume of sales for the last half of this year will far exceed the first half of last year's business. Export shipments of Moon automobiles are running 30 per cent ahead of shipments in the same period last year. Moon has distributer connections in virtually all civilized countries, but the bulk of Moon cars exported are going to Europe, Australasia and South America.

Annual Vesper-Buick Picnic.

The Vesper-Buick Auto Co. employes and their families were entertained as guests at the Vesper-Buick annual picnic, given by F. W. A. Vesper, president of the company, at his country home, Kreamar Farms, last Saturday. They were taken to the picnic in cars provided by the company. The attendance totaled 235 persons. One feature was a home-run hit by Harry Willcockson, secretary of the company, in the ball game.

Factories Find Business Good.

The Nash factory has on hand more orders than ever before at this time of year, according to E. H. McCarty, general sales manager. The Rickenbacker factory reports that last month's business was considerably above its estimate. Other factories are reporting exceptionally good business.

Ratican to Sell Tires.

Harry Ratican, the well-known soccer player, has been appointed by Buckley, Pannell, Setzer Inc., Lee Tire distributer, to have charge of its Republic solid tire business.

Join Sales Force.

George Smith Sr. and Jesse Smith have joined the sales force of the Champion Body Co.

Special Showing of New Models.

The Flint Motor Car Co. is displaying the new Chevrolet de luxe models all this week in its showrooms, 4710-20 Delmar boulevard, which have been specially decorated for the occasion.

Marmon Entered in Paris Show.

A Marmon four-passenger sport car, finished in dark green gray Duco, has been shipped from the factory to Paris for exhibition at the Paris Automobile Show Oct. 2.

Accessory Convention.

Sessions devoted to the business outlook, to improved merchandising methods, to foreign trade and to the handling of credits will make up the annual convention of the Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' Association, to be held in Cleveland, Oct. 15, 16, 17.

Auto Men Give Band Concerts.

The public rehearsal by the Buick Jazz Band in the salesroom of the Vesper Buick auto Co. on three evenings of last week attracted a crowd each evening. The band was invited to broadcast again from station WCK, Grand-Leader, Friday night. One of the Buick dealers in the territory adjacent to St. Louis has invited the band to give a concert in his new showroom.

Sees Good Market Abroad.

J. I. Farley, president of the Auburn Automobile Co., returning from Europe, sees little chance for large sales of American cars in France and England until a smaller, lighter car of less horse power than now made is developed. Germany, he says, will become an important market for American cars, but at present Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden offer the best opportunities.

Much Motoring Into Canada.

At the ports of entry along the Canadian border there were registered during 1923 for a period of one to six months 1965 motor vehicles; for two to 30 days, 272,444 motor vehicles, and for 24 hours, 1,662,200 motor vehicles. Assuming that each vehicle carried four passenger each, who spent $5 a day and that for the shorter period all remained the full time of their permits and for the longer periods half of the time, the amount of money expended by American tourists in the different provinces of Canada last year was nearly $118,500,000.

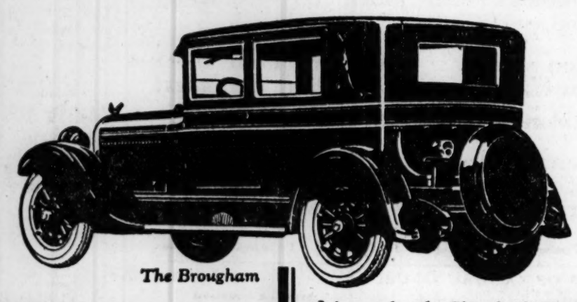
Unequaled Results With Unexampled Economy



The Brougham

Every one who drives the Chrysler Six is moved to wonder at the ease with which it rides and drives under all conditions. Unusually low center of gravity and scientific weight distribution enable it to hold the road with the tenacity of a two-ton car; a new practice in spring suspension eliminates side-sway, even when making a turn at 50 miles an hour. Chrysler-Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes contribute vastly to these driving and riding qualities and add an extra degree of safety. Special design six-ply, high-speed balloon tires are standard.

The Chrysler Six

Pronounced as though spelled, Crysler

It is true that the Chrysler Six performs in a manner that has centered the attention of America on this car. Yet the wonder of its accomplishments becomes all the more wonderful by reason of the economy with which these results are obtained.

You get better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline—in itself an achievement for a car that can travel over 70 miles an hour. But this is not the whole economy story.

The oil-filter automatically cleanses all the oil in the crankcase every 25 miles; the air-cleaner prevents the entry of dust and dirt through the carburetor; the crankshaft revolves in seven bearings instead of three or five, thus preventing destructive engine vibration.

These are some of the contributing factors to motoring results that are revolutionary—not only in themselves, but in the lower costs at which they are obtained.

You cannot grasp their full importance until you drive the Chrysler Six yourself.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. Dealers Everywhere.

RADIO FOR AMATEUR AND EXPERT

Some Problems to Be Met At the Radio Conference

Issuance of Licenses, Wave Length Assignments and Censorship to Be Taken Up for Discussion.

Apparently many fans and owners of broadcasting and amateur stations believe that Herbert Hoover can do anything, judging from the curious requests reaching the head of the Commerce Department or the desk of his aid, Chief Supervisor of Radio W. D. Terrell.

Almost daily some unusual letter is received at Washington radio headquarters or is forwarded from a district supervisor. The last question, which caused considerable commotion, came over the telephone. It was: "What kind of a detector should be used on a crystal set." Here is another: "In building a 'blank' set, should the capacity of my condenser be one or two quarts?" Technical questions when practical are answered but the commerce officials are supposed to handle administrative matters only and are kept busy at that.

Many broadcasters want their initials assigned as the call letters for their stations, not realizing that his country can use only three initial letters, W, K and N, which were allotted by the international Berne bureau. Even then, we do not get all the calls beginning with these letters; part of the "K" calls are assigned abroad. If one's first name begins with one of the three letters there is one chance in a million that the other letters can be found among the unused national calls. There are 4812 calls in use here today out of a possible 50,000 combinations.

Some of the broadcasters were lucky and got call letters which were significant of their names. It began when the official who designates call letters assigned K O P A the call of the Detroit police station. Then came the Radio Corporation station in Washington, which selected the abandoned ship call WRC, indicative of Washington Radio Corporation; WRCA was not available. The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. succeeded in getting WCAP, equally significan of its location and name, WNP, Wireless North Pole, was given MacMillan for his polar cruise. Later on, WGN was assigned to the Chicago Tribune, known as the World's Greatest Newspaper, and, finally, WNYC, supposed to signify Wireless New York City, was granted as the official call of the new municipal station. It can't go much farther; as the call man says, "there is a limit;" he can't possibly please everybody nor shift calls around until they fit stations.

Some broadcasters also desire exclusive wave lengths, regardless of whether or not they can qualify as a high-powered class "B" station, or whether the wave lengths in their zones are already assigned on a time basis between two or three stations.

A number of amateurs who own powerful transmitters want international call letters, so that they can be identified abroad, and this question will soon have to be taken up internationally. Our 16,545 amateur calls, all prefaced by a figure significant of the district, are similar to those of other amateurs. This is sure to cause confusion if long distance work continues to extend beyond the boundaries of a country. Owners of receiving sets often ask that notices of lost relatives and even pets be broadcast. The first has been done with success. The only lost pet reported as found by radio broadcast, however, was the White House cat, although perhaps Commissioner Carson's mules, which were returned soon after their description was broadcast, also come in this category.

Correspondents have asked for special codes and languages; one individual offering to show Secretary Hoover an entirely new method of international communication by a universal code.

Although broadcasters have agreed unanimously to refrain from broadcasting pure advertising, some stations seem a bit uncertain as to just where to draw the line, so this question arises again. Fortunately the Department was not forced to forbid the broadcasting of criminal trials and such proceedings, due to the fact that a learned Judge was fit to keep such matters off the air.

It is seen that not all the questions are foolish, however, and with the marvelous expansion of radio and its new applications the officials have to consider all requests carefully. Should licenses be granted for the transmission of radio pictures, still and moving? Why not? And yet, who would receive them? No one except the experimenters, until suitable receiving apparatus is on the market. This type of message or communication will require a wave channel which many other services may want or need. This is one of the serious questions which require immediate thought. Radio pictures are practical and while not yet on the air, they would undoubtedly create interference in the channels now in use. The transmission of power by radio is mentioned, which is an even harder problem to solve.

Besides the 533 land broadcasting stations, there are about six portable broadcasting stations in operation, chiefly in automobiles which move about the country from zone to zone and from one radio district to another; many more are desired. What wave lengths and hours can be assigned these operators? Of late ships are asking for broadcasting licenses and the department is hesitating to open this new field on account of the trouble a mobile broadcaster might cause in the well established and busy radio channels in operation. The S. S. Leviathan tried out broadcasting experimentally and now desires a regular license, but as yet, the Shipping Board has not been authorized to operate a floating broadcaster. Some time ago a steamer on Lake Pontchartrain, near New Orleans, tried out a similar plan, but could not compete with land local stations. For over a year the Al G. Barnes Circus operated a mobile broadcasting station, but eventually found that a portable broadcasting set was too expensive and quit. Another portable license was sought by a theatrical performer playing one-night stands throughout the country.

Some of these questions, queer and otherwise, will undoubtedly be discussed at the forthcoming radio conference. Herbert Hoover will do well if he lives up to his reputation of settling arguments through voluntary regulations.

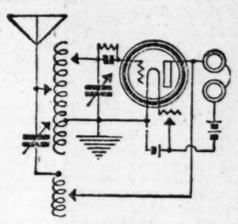
Wave Interference.

Fading of signals is believed to be the result of two waves arriving at a receiving set in such relation as to periodically cancel each other. The theory is that one of these waves has traveled over the ground and the other one has gone up into the upper layers of the atmosphere and has been reflected back to earth. The sun creates these reflecting surfaces and they sometimes last long after darkness has fallen.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

All Queries Must Be Accompanied by the Name and Address of the Writer.

Q. Enclosed is a drawing of a tuner which I have wound, consisting of two coils. I would like to know if this tube is adaptable to the Reinartz circuit and if I have the correct number of turns. If so, kindly publish a diagram of the Reinartz Circuit. S. G. I.



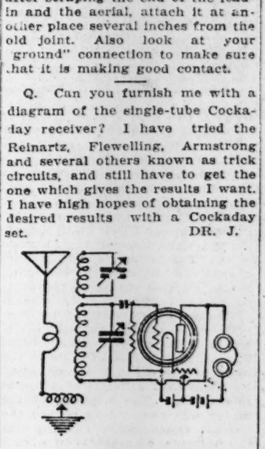
Reinartz Circuit.

A. The coil you have wound will work very well in the circuit we are publishing. The condensers may be of .0005 mfd. and .001 mfd. capacity. The Reinartz circuit requested is shown above.

Q. I have a two-wire aerial 30 feet long and 25 feet high. Until recently I have received KSD and WCK very loud but now I cannot get WCK at all and KSD comes in very weak. By attaching the set to the electric light, I can get KSD quite loud, but cannot pick up WCK. I have a crystal set with eight taps of 10 turns each and 10 taps of one turn each. What can I do to correct the difficulty? A. T.

A. In all probability your crystal is not as sensitive as it once was. Try cleaning it with alcohol and a small brush, using care afterwards not to touch the surface with the fingers. Use a cloth when replacing it in the detector stand.) If this operation does not restore its sensitivity, a new one will doubtless produce the desired results. It might be well to look over your aerial. If the lead-in is not soldered to the aerial, cut it off and, after scraping the end of the lead-in and the aerial, attach it at another place several inches from the old joint. Also look at your "ground" connection to make sure that it is making good contact.

Q. Can you furnish me with a diagram of the single-tube Cockaday receiver? I have tried the Reinartz, Flewelling, Armstrong and several others known as trick circuits, and still have to get the one which gives the results I want. I have high hopes of obtaining the desired results with a Cockaday set. DR. J.



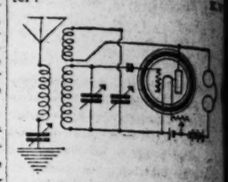
Cockaday Receiver.

A. The Cockaday hook-up requested is shown above. It is a good one and justifies the time spent in its assembly.

Q. As I am unable to afford a tube set and amplifier, I have tried to devise some method of amplifying signals from a crystal set. Would a telephone induction coil be of any benefit in the inclosed sketch, which shows a microphone button, four 1½-volt dry cells and a 75-ohm telephone receiver connected in series? G. W. G.

A. No, there is, to date, only one satisfactory method of amplification; that is by means of vacuum tubes.

Q. Can you give me in your Radio Section a hook-up of a honeycomb coil set using three variable condensers for tuning, three rheostats and a potentiometer?



Honeycomb Coil Set.

A. The circuit we are publishing is known as the Weigant. It utilizes three variable condensers, a radio frequency amplifier can be added at any time. Only one rheostat is required in this circuit as the potentiometer is unnecessary.

Q. I have a single-tube radio receiver with crystal detector. Touching my finger to one side of the crystal makes it possible to hear WCK and at the same time KSD comes in much louder than before, but if I do not touch the crystal binding post, WCK can not be heard and KSD signals are very faint. My aerial is 150 feet long and connected by a 25-foot lead-in. How long should my aerial be for use with a 25-foot lead-in? J. B. H.

A. Your aerial is too long for best results. Shortening it to 75 or 80 feet will probably correct the trouble you mention and give much better results. This may be done easily and quickly by lowering your present aerial and, 75 or 80 feet from the lead-in end, cut the wire and insert an insulator, and raise it as before.

BROADCASTING IN U. S. FAR AHEAD OF EUROPE

Has Advanced to Such an Extent as to Make Comparisons Almost Impossible.

Just returned from Europe, where he remained seven weeks visiting the leading radio engineers and scientists in governmental and private radio circles abroad, David Sarnoff, vice president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, is still a champion of long wave lengths for transoceanic radio communication, after making a thorough analysis of the developments which have gone forward in short waves in Europe, under governmental and private supervision and initiative.

"I have seen nothing, as yet, in this new field of short waves, either in Europe or at home," said Mr. Sarnoff, "which justifies the claim that the present high-power, long-wave stations employed for commercial transoceanic communication will be supplemented by the low-power stations. Reliable radio transmission over long distances during the daylight and business hours, must still be conducted with high power and long waves, such, for example, as we are now using at Radio Central, on Long Island, N. Y. The possibilities of radio development in all branches of the art, however, are too great and promising to permit any negative views that its advance will stop here or there."

Studies Short-Wave Experiments.

"While in England I saw a good deal of Mr. Marconi and his experiments with short waves. These experiments have given fresh impetus to the work of research men and radio engineers in the United States, where the short-wave field has been under scientific investigation for several years. It may be confidently expected that the use of short waves will immeasurably aid in a practical way advance the art of radio communication in the field of wireless telegraphy, as well as wireless telephony.

"To my mind, one of the greatest advantages which will result from experiments now being conducted with short waves is the increased knowledge we shall gain of the behavior of different wave lengths in the conducting medium between the sending and receiving stations. Much has already been accomplished in perfecting the radio sending and receiving instruments; but much more still remains to be learned about what actually occurs to the electro-magnetic waves in the space which separates the receiver from the transmitter. As we learn more about nature's secrets, now hiding in the great outdoors, we shall come nearer our goal of completely eliminating static, interference, fading and other scientific problems still requiring solution.

U. S. Broadcasting Superior to European.

"I investigated the broadcasting systems of England, France and Germany, and met the principal persons, both in governmental and private circles, responsible for the development of radio in Europe. My conclusions are that broadcasting, which was initiated in our own country, has advanced in the United States, both as a public service and as an industry, to so great an extent as to make comparisons with European countries almost impossible. In France it is just beginning, and in Germany it has hardly begun.

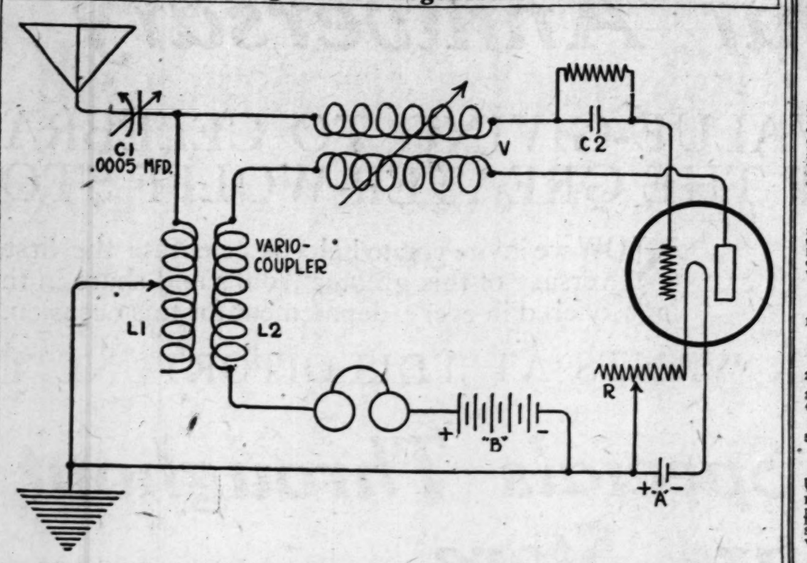
In England greater progress has been made than in other European countries. About 800,000 Government licenses have been issued permitting British listeners to receive programs from the air. But even in England broadcasting cannot be said to compare favorably with the United States, either as to quality or variety of programs, or as to effectiveness, simplicity or small cost of receiving apparatus, manufactured and sold for home use."

Radio Abroad Lacks Freedom.

"Nor is there to be found abroad the same freedom from censorship and restriction which exists here. For example, in England, where freedom of speech has been such a heralded tradition, political broadcasting is forbidden over the radio stations, which are all controlled by the British Postoffice. In other European countries governmental regulations and restrictions are even more severe, and these, in a large measure, restrict and retard the growth of the broadcasting art in Europe, and at the same time deprive their listening public of the freedom, enjoyment and instructive information available to all in the United States."

"I endeavored to interest the British, French and German broadcasters in the idea of increasing the power of their sending stations, so that the programs of London, Paris and Berlin might be easily heard by the American listening public. At the same time I suggested the possibility of American stations sending over their programs, which could be regularly heard abroad. Much interest was shown in these proposals, and I believe that an era of transoceanic broadcasting is near at hand. Realization of such a plan would greatly enhance the value of broadcasting to the public on this side, as well as on the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, and help to bring the Old and the New World a little closer together."

A Novel Single-Tube Regenerative Receiver



THE circuit shown today is purely regenerative but will be found interesting for experimentation. The system used is double regeneration. The parts required are as follows: .0005 mfd. variable condenser; vario-coupler; variometer; grid-condenser; grid-leak; detector tube; socket; rheostat; "A" and "B" batteries.

The movable plates of the variable condenser should be connected to the aerial (as indicated in the diagram). The variometer (V) is "split" so that the two windings may be connected separately. It is immaterial which winding is connected to the grid and plate. The capacity of the grid-condenser will depend upon the tube used, but in most cases a .00025 mfd. fixed condenser will work satisfactorily.

Most of the tuning is accomplished by means of the variable condenser and the vario-coupler. Feedback is obtained from the vario-coupler and the variometer. Several grid-leaks may have to be tried before the proper value of resistance is found.

TRANSATLANTIC TESTS BOOKED FOR NOVEMBER

Broadcasters Will Co-Operate in Observing Listening and Transmitting Periods.

The "voice from the other side" has a fascination for Canadian listeners-in as well as for the folks in the United States, according to the large number of letters received by Arthur H. Lynch, editor of "Radio Broadcast," who departed for Canada recently to arrange with our Northern broadcasting neighbors to co-operate with the American stations during the forthcoming International Radio week, Nov. 24-30. It was due to the efforts of "Radio Broadcast" which sponsored International Radio week last year, that the American and British stations co-operated so successfully, permitting listeners-in in both countries to receive transatlantic messages.

"The success of last year augurs well for even greater success this year," said Mr. Lynch. "In 1923, we attempted to prepare the listening public and seek the co-operation of broadcasting stations in the short space of one month, but this year the public is being informed three months in advance and the broadcasting stations are now marking off transmitting and quiet hours for every evening during the international week, and agree to lend the fullest co-operation possible. The Cuban and Porto Rican stations have likewise assured us of their co-operation. Stations in both these islands will operate and keep silence during the same transmitting and receiving periods as obtain in the United States, and we hope shortly to have the Canadian stations with us too."

Station KSD has been invited to participate in the transatlantic tests and will operate on regular schedule in co-operation with other broadcasters in their efforts to be heard on the other side of the Atlantic.

FOUR STATIONS LICENSED IN AUGUST; EIGHTEEN SHUT DOWN

Department of Commerce Announces Recent Changes in Status of Broadcasters.

The Department of Commerce announced recently that eighteen broadcasters went off the air during August, and with one exception, all were in the "A" classification. Four new stations have just been licensed in the same class. These changes leave 537 broadcasters on the active list Sept. 6, divided as follows: Class "A," 390; Class "B," 56; Class "C," 89 and Class "D," 2.

Following is the list of deletions during August, 1924.

RADIO NIGHT SCHOOL COURSE OPENS AT SOLDAN THIS WEEK

The Board of Education of St. Louis announces that free instruction will be given on radio at the Soldan Evening High School for all those interested in the subject. If there are enough people interested, classes will be maintained during the fall and winter. Competent instructors have been engaged and it is expected that a large number of radio fans will avail themselves of the opportunity to improve their knowledge of radio circuits, both in receiving and transmitting.

The classes will meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30. One hour will be devoted to general theory and practice in radio communication and the second hour to transmission and actual laboratory work on circuits, testing sets, etc.

Those desiring to attend these classes should report at the principal's office before 7:30 p. m. Monday, Sept. 15, to register.

GERMANY ENLARGING BROADCASTING SYSTEM

Strictest Regulations Govern Use of Receiving Sets; Fees Payable in Advance.

Germany's broadcasting system is gradually expanding and will soon include nine high-powered stations so located as to guarantee uniform reception in all parts of the country. The radius of the central stations will be increased eventually through intermediate broadcasters established in areas where the central stations are not heard properly.

The recently completed station at Stuttgart, which operated daily to a distance of 150 kilometers on a wavelength of 437 meters, like the other six major broadcasting stations, is owned and operated by the Federal Telegraphic Administration, which collects a fee of 2 marks per month from subscribers through the Postoffice. The Stuttgart station is not only heard all over Germany, but in England, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Austria and Switzerland, when atmospheric conditions are favorable. The other broadcasters stations are in Berlin, Breslau, Frankfurt, Hamburg, Leipzig and Munich. Koenigsberg and Munster have stations nearly completed.

Regulations in Germany are stricter than in this country and American fans may be surprised to learn that even receiving set owners must secure licenses from local postmen and pay in advance for broadcast programs. Of course all transmitting sets are licensed and subject to confiscation for breaches of regulations; houses may be searched without warrants if owners are suspected of breaking rules or conducting unauthorized communication. Native sons have little difficulty in securing a listening-in license, but foreigners are required to register and provide identification, and their countries must grant reciprocal privileges. France is not among the nations listed, whose citizens are eligible to secure receiving permits. Some leniency is granted for portable sets, and, with permission of the police, an antenna may be strung from a telegraph pole, if costs are paid, which is a concession American fans would enjoy. Owners of hotels and exhibitors must pay 30 marks a month for the privilege of furnishing guests entertainment.

The Government is generous in one other respect; fees may be waived in the case of war cripples, and blind persons, who cannot attend public performances or are poor. Hospitals and homes for the ill and infirm are exempt from broadcast and license fees, while scientists and investigators, co-operating with the radio broadcasters, may be exempted from paying radio taxes.

Receivers may only be used on wavelengths between 250 and 700 meters, the main broadcast bend being from 392 to 485 meters. Radiating and oscillating sets are forbidden. As the Germans put it, "Receivers fitted with an audion must be so constructed that they do not swing even if the tension is increased."

AUSTRALIA PERMITS RADIO ADVERTISING

New Regulations Also Grant Right to Use of Any Kind of Receiver.

Practically any sort of a radio receiving set may now be used in Australia, according to advices reaching Washington. Previously, only sets sealed and O K'd by the Government could be used, but now the ban has been lifted. Broadcasting stations already established will continue to operate, but two forms of licenses have been announced: Class "A" stations will include stations receiving remuneration from listeners in; and class "B," those broadcasting free of charge, as far as owners of receiving sets go. Broadcasting will be done on wave lengths between 250 and 2000 meters.

Strangely enough, advertising will be permitted, provided the fact is announced in advance. This is an innovation; in America it is forbidden by a voluntary agreement between operators of broadcasting stations and others concerned.

Broadcasting stations in Australia form the centers of a new zoning plan. Each state is divided into three zones; the first a circle within a radius of 250 miles of the transmitting station; the second, within 400 miles, and the third zone the balance of the state. It is thus possible for the broadcasters to become the centers of Australia's social and educational life.

NEW ARRIVALS ON THE RADIO MART

A new model Kennedy receiver has recently appeared on the radio horizon. It is known as Model XV and employs two stages of tuned radio frequency, a nonregenerative detector and two stages of audio-frequency amplification. A unique feature is the graduated selectivity control which fixes the degree of selectivity at exactly the right point for the local conditions under which the set is to be operated. At the low point of the control, the set is more selective than the average receiver, according to the manufacturers, but as this control is advanced, the tuning becomes super-selective, enabling the operator to tune out interfering stations easily. When this selectivity control is once adjusted to the best point for local conditions, it does not require further adjustment. With this new receiver, broadcast programs are said to be reproduced with unusual purity of tone and with perfect fidelity. While all circuits are tuned, the number of tuning controls is reduced to two, just enough for the manual capacity of the average human. It is necessary to log only one dial, the other dial being set by ear. Where an outside aerial is not easily obtained, the new Kennedy operates well on an indoor aerial or on a loop, and a jack is provided for plugging in the loop. Three other jacks are provided—one for the detector and one for each stage of audio frequency. These jacks have an automatic filament control which turns off the filament of all tubes not in use.

For the Notebook.

The science of radio has added 5000 words to the English language.

Underwriters forbid the use of gas pipes as "grounds" for radio sets.

Most amplifying tubes will not handle a high "B" battery unless a "C" battery is used.

A cheap lightning arrester, or one that is not properly installed, will ground an aerial, and cause signals to come in very weak.

A liquid insulation for covering bus bar, wires and coils, has been invented. The liquid "spaghetti" comes in colors, can be applied with a brush, and is said to withstand high voltage.

Mystery of the Murder of a Young Girl Solved by Mute Evidence of a Shotgun Weapon, With Forked Stick With Which She Had Apparently Thrown the Trigger, Was Found Alongside Her Body, but Neighbors, Skilled in the Use of Firearms, Proved in a Few Minutes the Shot Had Come From a Greater Distance— The Story of the Tragedy of Young Annie Belle Carter and the Part Granville Slaughter, Who Wished to Marry Her, Had in It.

By F. A. BEHYMER,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Tenn., Sept. 13.

THE day that Mrs. Jennie Capps left her home in the edge of the woods back of the Mandle clay pit, to visit her son, Louis, on yonder side of Whitlock, there was only one thing that bothered her thrifty soul. She had only put up 29 half-gallons of peach preserves for the winter's larder and she wanted to make it even 30.

She spoke to her daughter, Annie Belle Carter, 15 years old, about it. "Sister," she said, "you know we've put up 29 half-gallons of peach preserves. I'd love to make it 30. Won't you pick that tree at the corner of the garden fence while I'm gone and tomorrow we can put them up."

Annie Belle said yes, she would pick the peaches, so Mrs. Capps went away satisfied, not knowing that she had innocently signed her daughter's death warrant. For, as Annie Belle picked the peaches, a rebuffed and jealous lover had his chance. He filled her body with 12-gauge shot and there under the peach tree she died. They found her there, her wide-staring eyes expressing a childish amazement.

Her stepfather's shotgun lying with the muzzle toward her and a forked oak branch lying across the gun were intended to tell that the girl, using the forked stick to press the trigger, had killed herself, but the tale the gun and stick told was a bungling lie, quickly proven such by the physical facts.

Granville Slaughter, 29 years old, had lived with the family since last April and had wooed the child and wanted her to marry him and go away with him to his people in Middle Tennessee, but she had spurned him for the favor of Dabney Ridgeway, a farmer boy, and Slaughter was crazed with jealousy.

Forging the Chain of Circumstances

Mrs. Capps, coming home and finding her daughter dead, accused Slaughter straightway and he was arrested and brought the 10 miles to Paris and he lies in jail while a chain of circumstantial evidence is being woven about him.

Granville Slaughter's home is at Lyle, Tenn., but he came in April to the home of his uncle, Daniel Capps, and had lived there and worked with Capps in the big clay pit. He is a slow-thinking, slow-speaking fellow and it is unlikely that with less opportunity for the growth of a slow affection, he would have found anything to attract him in the blitheness of Annie Belle, large for her age but still a child. But propinquity in the cabin home did its work and when summer nights came he took her sometimes to "meetin'" at the Foundry Hill Baptist Church and to ice cream socials and other community diversions.

Uncle Dan and Aunt Jennie looked upon him as one of the family and did not account it strange that, on occasion, he took their little girl under his care. Not, at least, until lately, when the motherly eyes of Mrs. Capps began seeing signs, the hint of meaning under the man's heavy raillery, the sullen jealousy that smoldered when "Dab" Ridgeway "saw" Annie Belle home from church or spent his savings on her at the ice cream social.

She questioned Annie Belle and the girl said yes, Granville had been acting and talking like he wanted her to marry him but he had never come right plain out and asked her.

"And," she added, "if he is planning to ask me he might as well save his breath, because I don't like him and I ain't going to marry him."

Granville Slaughter was not so dull that he could not see that the girl's blithest manner was reserved for "Dab" Ridgeway, who found increasing occasion, as the days passed, to come on errands from his father's house on the big road to the cabin back of the woods.

Offered Her $10 to Kill Him

"He thought she was fixin' to marry someone else," says the grieving mother now, "and the day before she was killed she told me he had asked her to go with him Christmas to visit his people in Middle Tennessee and she told him no, she wouldn't do anything like that because she didn't like Middle Tennessee and she didn't like his people."

It depressed him to have her flaunt an invitation that was meant to be generous and the acceptance of which he apparently hoped would take her away for a while from Dabney Ridgeway and give him a chance to press his suit. He wanted to do something dramatic that would attest the quality of his devotion.

"I tell you what, Annie Belle," he said, "I'll give you $10 if you'll take Uncle Dan'l's gun and shoot me dead."

But Annie Belle had no taste for melodrama. She laughed in his face and called him an old fool and walked away. She told her mother about it and they agreed that it was just Granville's heavy way of joking but all the same Mrs. Capps was worried a little.

But there was that visit she had planned to make to Louis and it was without misgivings that she made ready for the trip, excepting only that she wished she could have made the peach preserves an even 30 half-gallons. She did not worry even though Granville had announced at breakfast that he wasn't feeling well and wouldn't go to work in the clay pit that day.

She fixed up her husband's lunch and he went away down the hill through the woods to the pit, and then, after Annie Belle's promise to pick the peaches had eased her housewifely compunction about the preserves, she said goodby and drove away in the old family buggy.

That left Annie Belle as housekeeper for the day, with Granville Slaughter moping about the place, bellikes bringing up again the matter of the Christmas trip to Middle Tennessee upon which he had set his heart, his dull zeal kindled by the housewifely way in which the child, well-trained by her mother, prepared the dinner, sat opposite him during the serving of it and then cleared away the dishes and placed on the shelves of the kitchen safe the pie and custard she had prepared for the evening meal, when her step-father would come from the pit and her mother would come back from the visit to Louis.

It may be that opportunity stimulated the sluggish fellow to an unwonted assertiveness, for the cabin was later found in some disarray, but, if so, it is probable that the girl again laughed at his clumsy lovemaking and again called him an old fool and gathered up a couple of pails and a part of the quilting frame and went out to the peach tree at the corner of the garden fence.

The fruit hung high on the scrawny limbs. She could not climb to it and the tree was too sturdy for her to shake it. So she used the quilting frame, prodding the high limbs with it and bringing the peaches down unbruised on the cushion of grass and weeds.

Intent upon her task, she was straining to her full height, thrusting among the higher branches with the frame, only the upper part of her body visible above the weeds.

What Accused Man Says He Heard

Some one came then and stood near the well, at the side of the house. He had taken Capps' shotgun from its corner behind the washstand and carried it alertly, as one who stalks game that cannot harm the hunter but may take fright.

The stillness of mid-afternoon, there back of the woods, was broken only by the droning and drumming of insects. Then, as the girl, with no thought of danger, thrust among the branches, her eyes searching out the stubborn few peaches that still clung there, the man standing by the well raised the shotgun to his shoulder, took quick aim and fired. The girl, with a scream, crumpled to the ground, the quilting frame clattering down beside her.

The scattering charge from a shotgun, at that distance, could not be relied on to cause death, but of the many shot that tore into her flesh, from the out-turned forearms that held the frame aloft, to her knees, two or three found their way to a vital spot and she quickly bled to death as she lay there under the peach tree.

Granville Slaughter now says he had gone away into the woods at the other side of the house and was loitering there when he heard a shot and a scream and he returned to the house and found Annie Belle lying there, dead or dying, with the shotgun near her and across that the forked stick with which he says he concluded she had pressed the trigger to kill herself. So when he went a little later to the clay pit and told Capps and the others there about what had happened he said Annie Belle had shot herself.

Ordinarily, a shot fired at the Capps cabin would have echoed back from the fringe of the timber and would not have been heard by anyone beyond the clearing, but it chanced that there were men prospecting for clay that day, on the slope beyond the Capps barn. They heard the shot and the girl's scream.

It was something which, in the judgment of William Wade, one of the prospectors, called for inquiry. He went up to the house and looked around. The silence of mid-afternoon again rested upon the place, broken only by the droning and drumming of the insects. He looked into the cabin and noted some disorder there. He did not go to the peach tree at the corner of the garden fence, where Annie Belle lay dead or dying. He went back to his prospecting, a little puzzled but concluding that nothing was amiss.

Suicide Story Immediately Rejected

But they had noted the time that the shot and scream were heard and so they were able to say that it was 35 minutes later when Granville Slaughter went stumbling through the woods to the pit and gave the alarm. And, when account was taken of all the circumstances, one of the things people wanted to know was where Slaughter was when Wade was looking around.

Capps and the rest, when they came from the pit, found Annie Belle lying there, her eyes wide-staring toward the peach branches, the shotgun with its muzzle a foot or so from her and across that the forked stick.

But they were men who were skilled in the use of firearms and acquainted with their behavior and they knew what a shotgun, fired at close range would do. They looked at the body of Annie Belle, punctured from head and elbows to knees, and acquitted the child at once of killing herself.

Under a white oak tree which stands at the edge of the garden and shades a part of the lawn they found the leaves and twigs that had been clipped from the forked branch. Searching among the lower branches they found where the forked branch had been severed from a larger limb. It was the thickness of a man's thumb where it joined the larger limb, but it had been severed by a clean sweep of a keen blade and showed none of the hacking which would have betrayed the awkwardness of a girl's hand.

The shotgun experts of the countryside looked then for the two wads which, first blown out of the shell, usually drop to the ground while the shot speed on to their target. One ordinarily drops a few feet from the muzzle of the gun and the other may be carried along as much as 30 feet. Six feet from the well they found the first wad. Thirty feet from the well toward the peach tree, they found the other.

If, as the wads indicated, the shot was fired from near the well, there would be further proof in the marks left by scattering shot. So the fence posts at the corner of the garden were scanned and shot were found imbedded there.

And when 'Squire McCampbell came from the other side of Whitlock and the body was examined, it was found that shot had entered the out-turned forearms of the girl, where they could only have found lodgment as she stood with upraised arms, thrusting the quilting frame among the peach branches.

Uncle Dan'l Capps' cabin, where lived Annie Belle Carter, his stepdaughter, and Granville Slaughter, who is accused of killing her.

It was all as plain as day to the gun-wise, but it was mete that tests be performed at once for the information of jurors who might not be gun-wise. So, at the 'Squire's directions, the tests were made. At four feet the charge tore through the bottom of a pan, leaving a hole as big as a man's fist. At the distance from the well to the peach tree, it peppered a slab of pasteboard, as large as the girl's body, as her body was peppered. And the wads were deposited true to form—just about as they were found after the tragedy.

Mrs. Capps came home from her day's va-

Charles Lovekamp Herewith Gives in Detail What Happened When He Brought His Cash to St. Louis So That It Might Grow by Leaps and Bounds in the Crowded Spaces Where Dollars Are Dollars and Everybody Is Busy Chasing Them—Acquired a New Wife by Advertising While Here and He Has Even Lost Her, Too, He Declares.

CHARLES LOVEKAMP is an adventurer in finance. Let that be said of him at the start. He wanted more than six per cent. He wanted to go beyond the water tank at Queen City, Mo., and become a soldier of fortune—his own fortune.

He yearned for the great crowded spaces where dollars are dollars. The big city called him. St. Louis called him. He was tired of his dull routine of farm mortgages, small loans to impoverished farmers and modest investments in country real estate. He was in fact a small town money lender with the soul of a big town financier. He wanted 100 per cent.

Four years ago, when he stood on the threshold of adventure, he had $40,000 in cash and the mellow years—from 58 on in his case—yet to live. There were those in Queen City who sought to discourage him, as there are those who seek to discourage all adventurers.

"Don't buy any gold bricks, Charley," they giggled.

His five children, all married and settled on farms said, "Well, Dad, be careful."

And he, in a manner suggestive already of the metropolitan financier, wiped his spectacles with a white handkerchief and replied, "Oh, I've cut my eye-teeth."

So Charles Lovekamp came to St. Louis with his $40,000 and his wisdom. He was the sort of man, according to those who knew him in Queen City, who would take one look at a gold brick, scrape it with his jackknife and hand it back to the discomfited confidence man. Yes, sir. He was the sort who'd tell you right off there wasn't any machine made that could manufacture banknotes except those the Government had, and he would not invest, thank you. Yes, sir. He wasn't in the market for oil stock, either. No, sir.

Indeed, he believed himself fitted to cope with any tricks the slick city fellers could show him. He aimed to treble that $40,000 pretty soon, but, of course, anything he went into would have to be safe. It would have to look good and smell all right. "I'm no sucker," he told himself, "I'm a wise old pickerel. Let 'em bring on their investments!"

Time Brings Changes in Him

YESTERDAY, a Post-Dispatch reporter called upon a sad man in a little office in the Wainwright Building.

"Mr. Lovekamp?"

"I'm the man."

"They tell me you lost $40,000——."

"Well?"

"How?"

"There!"

He waved his hand toward a pile of papers on the battered roll top desk. His spectacles had fallen low on his nose, dejectedly. His mustache had drawn up cynically under his nose. His eyes were worried. Whatever of financial braggadocio and confidence he had possessed in Queen City, Mo. four years ago was gone now.

"Notes?" queried the reporter, glancing at the neat stacks of paper.

"Mostly."

"Bonds?"

"Some."

"Stock?"

"Yes."

It seemed heartless to dissect that tell-tale pile of worthless paper. But each slip was a story and all the little stories would make the big story of how Charles Lovekamp was swindled out of $40,000.

"What was the first thing that went wrong?"

For answer he leaned over and picked out a sheet of parchment paper. It was a beautifully engraved thing with one of the most gorgeous seals the reporter had ever laid eyes on.

"Looks good, doesn't it?" asked Lovekamp. "That there is a stock certificate for $1000 worth in the Elder Steel Steamship Co. I bought it from the list of a reputable brokerage firm. They guaranteed it to be sound. I hadn't been a stockholder four months when the concern went bankrupt."

"The Shipping Board lost money, too," the reporter consoled him.

A Little Flyer in Motor Stock

"That left $39,000," he went on. "Now look at this."

It was the memoranda of the sale of 50 shares of Lexington Motors stock.

"I didn't pay $5000 for the stock," Lovekamp explained, "because they offered it at a big reduction. This was another brokerage house that I had confidence in. They told me it was bound to go up. I figured I'd make a little killing so I bought. As soon as they delivered the stock it started going down. I sold before the firm went bankrupt and only lost $2200."

"That left $36,800", murmured the reporter.

Lovekamp nodded with excusable sourness. He put the memoranda down and picked up a picture of what looked to be a barn or an ice house. The roof had fallen in and the porch-like adjunct was badly decayed.

"You bought that?"

"No. I loaned money on it. It's the Blue Goose Hotel at Panama, Ill. It was recommended to me by a friend. Hell, I believed in him so much that I never thought to go over to look at it. I loaned $2500 on the wreck."

"Did you have to foreclose?"

He nodded sadly.

"Yep. What do you think of a man who would treat a fellow that way? I never dreamed it was such a wreck. They described it to me as a fine place with running water and steam heat and full of trade. When I went over to look at it, the men at the station told me there hadn't been a customer in it for ten years. It wasn't anything but an old barn. The window frames hadn't ever been put in. I sold it to a farmer for $250."

"You lost $2250 leaving $34,550?"

Once more he nodded.

"It looked good on paper," he said by way of justification, "and they offered a big premium for the loan."

Then There Was an Arkansas Mortgage

Then he gave his visitor some figures to show how much he lost on another loan. He had taken a mortgage of $8000 on a farm in Green County, Ark. He did not pay $8000 for it; no, indeed. He was too slick for that. The difference was to make back what he had lost on other deals. It was a bargain mortgage.

"I didn't go down to look at that proposition, either," he confessed.

"It looked so good from what they told me and land was so high down there that I figured I couldn't lose. But I found out that it wasn't clear of back taxes and that the county was levying on all property owners for drainage ditches. I let the land go for the debts."

"How much did you lose?"

"About $8000, including all the expense I had to let go to get that deal off my hands."

"Leaving you $26,550?"

"That's about it, I guess."

"Where did the rest go?"

"We-ell, about this time I met the Schneiders."

The reporter understood. A great many men like Charles Lovekamp had come from the country or from their quiet city homes to meet the Schneiders. Meeting the Schneiders was a common experience about two years ago.

The financier of Queen City took from an envelope bound with thick rubber bands a piece of paper with an advertisement pasted to it. The ad read as follows:

MONEY Wtd.—Small loan immediately; will pay bonus; quick settlement.

"I always liked the idea of the bonus," said Lovekamp, "and so I called up the number given. Edgar and August Schneiders came to see me. I thought they were right nice gentlemen. Edgar borrowed $200 for a week and was to pay me $30 bonus. They were well-dressed and flashed diamonds and talked so smoothly I figured they were worth a lot and had just got pinched for cash."

"Did he pay up?"

Getting in Good With the Schneiders

"Sure. He paid up promptly and borrowed $100 more. Gave me $25 bonus for that. Borrowed some more and paid up each time. Then one day he said: 'Charley'—we had got so well acquainted that we called each other by first names—'I want to let you in on a good thing. Do you ever discount notes?'"

Lovekamp scratched his head and sighed. He had discounted many notes in his day. In fact, he seemed to indicate that this suggestion had struck him in his most vulnerable spot. To get a $1000 note for say $700 and then collect it in full—that was business, it sure was business.

"Well, I said yes, just indifferent like as though I was not much interested, but I specified they must be good notes. He said: 'They're notes of merchants all rated $10,000 or more with the mercantile agencies. Besides, they're insured with the Indemnity Company of America.'"

The man-who-lost-$40,000 went on to explain that Edgar Schneiders had told him he represented the National Distributing and Sales Corporation which distributed Tyrola phonographs in St. Louis territory. Schneiders neglected to tell him that he was an ex-convict, having served 17 months on a forgery charge, and that he was just an out-and-out promoter.

"Schneiders had what looked like a safe proposition," Lovekamp explained. "He was selling phonographs on time. He'd offer to sell a merchant $1000 worth of phonographs for $500 and accept the merchant's note in payment. The merchant would figure that he could sell the machines before having to meet the note and would have $500 clear profit at no risk. At least, that's what Schneiders told me the merchant would think. Anyway, he had the notes there and they looked good. He offered me good discounts, too.

"So I took over about $10,000 worth of these notes. But he never let me see the company's books and I refused to go any further without seeing them. I wanted to know if he was really selling the phonographs he said he was and whether they were being delivered."

It was then that the real duplicity of the slick city man came out, Lovekamp thinks.

Stack of Greenbacks Won Him

"Edgar Schneiders took me out to his fine bungalow on Arsenal street," he related. "He had the place fixed up swell. His dining room set must have cost $1500. Think of that. He had good furniture in the parlor, too. One day when I was out there I saw a stack of greenbacks lying in a corner of the room."

"A pile of banknotes?" queried the reporter, incredulously. "Real banknotes?"

"They sure were. I looked at 'em real closely. I asked him 'What you got this money lying around for?' He said real careless like, 'Oh, that's part of our profits. I'll have to take the truck to the bank, I suppose.'"

"Soon after that, he suggested that I come into the firm as a silent partner. 'Come in' he said, 'and you can see the books. You can see for yourself what a good thing we have here.' So I invested $10,000 with him accepting the company's notes instead of stock because they hadn't got a license to operate in Missouri."

"So you were $20,000 in?"

"Yes. I was."

"What happened?"

"Nothing. Only I found the notes weren't any good and then the National Distributing and Sales Corporation went broke."

"Why weren't the notes any good?"

Lovekamp snorted. He riffled the neat bundle of paper with unkind fingers.

"Young fellow," he said, "would you believe it? Schneiders lied to me. He never delivered phonographs to half the merchants, or at least they wouldn't accept 'em. Some said when I sued on their notes that they had been tricked into signing what they thought were receipts for sample phonographs. Others said they had signed, but hadn't received the phonographs. They made all sorts of excuses."

"What sort of excuse did Schneiders make?"

"He didn't make any. He just said, 'Well, Charley, the company's gone bust. Hard luck. I lost $75,000 in it myself."

"So that left you only $6550?"

"I Was a Dern Fool, I Guess"

"Not that much. I advanced $1300 on a Pierce-Arrow car Schneiders bought. His brother, Gus, had died and there was only him to split the profits. I guess he thought he needed to put on dog. He gave me a note against the car to secure my loan, but when he got it here he said, 'Charley, there is some red tape about bringing a car from another State. I wish you'd mark your note paid and I'll take it to Jefferson City and fix matters up. Your money is safe."

The financier of Queen City laughed bitterly.

"Did you mark it?"

"Yep. I was a dern fool, I guess. Yes, I know it. I stamped 'paid' on it."

"Yep."

But that was not all. Lovekamp lost $4100 on a second deed of trust on a farm he bought cheap and $500 on a bill of sale for an electric light plant, also a bargain. It turned out that the first deed of trust took up all the money the farm brought at auction and that the bill of sale was a fake. The Schneiders had nothing to do with these investments. Other smart city men handled these deals. The worst part about the farm deal was that the farm was at Queen City, his old home.

"So you were pretty well cleaned," mused the reporter.

Lovekamp scratched his head.

"Yep, and then my wife left me."

Here was tragedy upon tragedy!

"Your wife left you?"

"Yep. My second wife. My first wife divorced me before I left the country—said I was cruel and that I run her head into a water bucket. Wasn't so. Well, anyway, I figured I'd find me another woman when I got to the city. A friend said, 'I tell you what you do, Charley. You put an ad in the Westliche Post.' So I did and this Miss Sophie Schleuters came to call.

"I liked her right well and she liked me, so we got married. We got along fine until the Schneiders came along. She was a Lutheran and they were Lutherans and I was a Lutheran. She thought they was honest and kept telling me to go into deals with them and get rich. The Schneiders kept talking and talking and talking and that impressed her. If it hadn't been for her I'd be a poor man still."

"She didn't take any of your money?"

"Yep. She did. I allowed her $35.00 a month to buy things for the house. And do you know what that woman did? She saved some of it. Yes, sir. I'd ask her, 'What you doing with all your money? Seems to me like you're spending a lot.' But she saved nearly $200. And when she got it saved up and I was broke she left me. I sued her for divorce to get out of paying her alimony and here she comes back with a cross bill asking I've still got some money and ought to give her separate maintenance!"

His voice broke. The story had been told.

"What are you going to do now?"

He opened his hands in a gesture of despair.

"What can I do? Just hang around here and try to get some of my money back from the Schneiders. I'm too old to work hard again. If I had $800 I think I'd go into Altenheim."

There was a silence. Then he raised his head.

"You know, young feller," he said, "I shouldn't never have left the country!"

His wife's lawyer, speaking for her, said: "Mr. Lovekamp made Mrs. Lovekamp work in washing. He never gave her a dime to spend on herself. He'd expect her to get meals on nothing."

Edgar Schneiders, who is under bond charged with defrauding Lovekamp and several other persons out of more than $70,000 in his Tyrola phonograph deal, and who still lives in luxury at his bungalow home, 4522 Arsenal street, said:

"Old man Lovekamp is just stupid. He went into a legitimate speculation and lost. If he doesn't watch out, lawyers will get the rest of what he has."

HOLLYWOOD TELLS THE WORLD NOT TO COME THERE SEEKING MOVIE FAME

Protest Against Hordes of Inexperienced Girls and Young Men With Little or No Prospect of Getting a Chance on the Screen

And We Are Told in Booklet Issued by "Famous Authors," When They Fail, If They Have Not Plenty of Money to Maintain Them, They, Particularly the Girls, Become Easy Prey for the Vultures Seeking Them for the Vicious Resorts in Mexico Just Over the Border, Catering to Americans — Still Every Train Brings Them — Recruits Growing Among Sons and Daughters of "Idle Rich."

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 13.

A well-known and serious-minded movie actress is speaking:

"It's simply a fright the way these stage-struck boys and girls do. They see actors in a picture and right off think they can do as well with a little experience. Or they see some other actress or actor who don't half your art perform in some cheap movie picture (movie people call a picture anything no more cheap), and get the idea they could act better without any experience. Half of them start for Hollywood to get your job. The others write you letters asking if you won't give them a knock-down to George Fitzmaurice or Cecil de Mille. Then some boob picture writer for a movie magazine digs up your past and shows how you rose to stardom from the pots and pans in Macy's basement or from a manicure table at the Ritz barber shop. Well, what if it's true? You're a star now, aren't you? You're an artist. And you became a star only through years of hard work."

So, all the stars out here are getting sick and tired of it. Only the other day one of our foremost mushroom screen luminaries called in her press agent.

"You tell these crazy kids for me to stay away from Hollywood," she said, speaking frankly. "When I was driving down to the studio this morning my man couldn't get through the traffic because a mob of hungry extras was storming the casting director's office. Gawd, it was awful. What do they think they're doing, anyway? Ain't they got no idea of what it takes to be a star? You gotta have art in you. Tell them that. Make it strong."

The press agent did his best. He told how many years—three or four it must have been—a star had to "work like a dog" before she got a part in "Purple Passions." He described the long hours, the uncomfortable pots of grease paint, the blinding lights and the precarious livelihood of a picture actor.

But he really labored in vain, for nothing he could write would discourage the hundreds from Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois—there are 48 states according to postmarks on the star's fan mail—who insist on having a try at the game. There are so many young people and middle-aged people in the United States who would like to ride in a high-priced imported automobile, own a mansion in Beverly Hills and earn $10,000 a week.

Telling the World About It, Too

It has got so bad out here now that the Chamber of Commerce of Hollywood has joined with the movie folk in trying to keep the would-be picture actors and actresses away. It is bad for the industry to have it so overcrowded. The public gets the idea that there ought to be better acting in the pictures because there must be so many starving extras who could act better than some of the stars. Then, too, some of the girls who come here run out of funds and disappear. It gives the town a bad name.

"If someone would only write a book and tell these idiots what a slim chance they have of making a hit in pictures, it might help," a prominent director said recently.

An organization calling itself, "The Famous Authors of Hollywood" took up the idea and had Miss Marilynn Conners write a booklet which it has just published from its Hollywood headquarters. It is called, "What Chance Have I in Hollywood?" Miss Conners tells it straight. The answer to the question of the title is, "None," or as Miss Conners says in her conclusion, "There may be a chance, but few can afford to take it."

All the movie people who pretend to know anything about art and literature have indorsed the book. "It has the kick," a famous publicity writer said in his indorsement. "You'll want to stay away from Hollywood after you read it," a prominent actor said.

Here is Miss Conner's first warning:

"Do not come to Hollywood for the purpose of getting into the movies unless you have two thousand dollars to live on! This must be in cash and in bank, ready to be drawn on for your current living expenses; and if you have a parent or relative with you, have a like amount for each individual. You cannot get into the movies on the day that you arrive. You will have too many other things to do."

First of all, you must get settled. Living is very high, she says. Living at a first-class hotel on the American plan costs six dollars per day. On the European plan a room at a hotel of the same class costs $3 to $5 a day.

Some Hard Facts on Living Costs

A room in the average private family will cost you from thirty to forty dollars per month. A bungalow rents unfurnished (five rooms, new, with every convenience) for from sixty to eighty dollars per month; furnished, from eighty-five to one hundred and fifty dollars.

How do you break in? This is Miss Conner's advice:

"The best method to follow is to telephone the studio you have selected and make known your business. The operator will connect you—if she welcomes your call as an important one—to the department wanted; either casting, editing, technical, photographic, etc. The special operator now will interrogate you. If you have the proper introduction, she will make an appointment with the head or assistants of this department to interview you at a certain hour. Say, then, to this operator, 'Kindly issue a pass for me at the door.' She will know what you mean—you are not acquainted with the door-man or woman.

"When you arrive at the office in question, and all offices are labelled according to the department, or there is a single general gate—and be prompt by all means as studio officals are very busy!—press through the idle rows of persons waiting here, directly up to the desk or person in charge. Give your name and the name of the man or woman with whom you have the appointment, for instance:

"'Miss Crawford, to see Mr. Melford,' or 'Mr. Roswell to see Miss Mathis.'

"The person in charge will hunt through the files at her elbow and find your appointment slip. Without this it is no use to try to get in. When she (or he) has found it, she will swing the gate open immediately and a boy will take you in charge as a cicerone. Do not try to find your way about the studios on a first or second visit without a guide. There are too many departments, too much red tape, too many doors, passageways, stairs, offices, etc., and too many people, celebrated and otherwise.

The "Tests" That Eliminate So Many

"When you apply for a part in a picture—you will be requested to have 'tests' taken. No player is engaged without excellent photographs of profile, full-face and character make-up being displayed. If these show promise, or there is some part in a production that requires JUST your type, the request for 'tests' will follow. Experienced actors and actresses who have played with one or more companies, yet are applying for certain parts in a new (to them) concern, seldom will allow 'tests,' as this is one of the most difficult tasks to accomplish successfully.

"If you must make up and play one hundred feet before a camera, registering emotions at the word of a director and often without your opposite character to play to, you cannot get inside of your roles and you will be amazed when projections are made of this strip of film to see how badly you registered. A very fine actor of my acquaintance failed utterly in his 'test' at the Lasky Studio. He had played many parts in New York but was unknown in pictures in Hollywood. He lost an opportunity to play the leading role with Pola Negri in 'Bella Donna,' a part that would have promoted him into immediate prominence in the film world, simply because a make-up expert in the Famous Players-Lasky studio insisted on handling his make-up and built up his nose (for the part of 'Baroudi' the Egyptian) in too prominent a fashion.

"My goodness, we can't use SUCH a nose!" the director, Fitzmaurice, exclaimed, and Mr. Lasky dismissed the actor. He later—this same actor—refused to allow 'tests,' but referred other studio heads to his pictures in the East, some notably fine productions, and he has been engaged ever since in character roles and is about to do a lead with Mary Pickford.

"Work as an 'extra' for a beginner is the only rational introduction to the picture game. This is not paying work, strictly speaking, because an 'extra' for mob scenes receives from three to seven dollars and fifty cents per day for every day put in on the 'lot,' and for idle days, which are in the majority, nothing. Nobody can live on seven dollars and fifty cents per week or even twice that amount. Hence, you must have some support, and for that reason—as much as for the absolutely lean days that follow your arrival in Hollywood and the hundred turndowns in store for amateurs—the two thousand dollars (I am almost tempted to make it three thousand dollars!) becomes a necessity and must be the foundation capital of an aspirant to film fame.

"There is one consolation in playing 'extra' roles and that is that some of the greatest stars and directors in film work started in the same modest manner. And not all were equipped with the necessary two thousand dollars either, so that many sufferings and much heartache were in store for the majority. * * *.

MRS. JOHN HARRIMAN

The latest recruit for the movies from the ranks of the rich and prominent. Using her maiden name, Alice Laidley, she is engaged for a small part in "Classmates," a story of West Point, with Richard Barthelmess as the star.

At the right—Mrs. Harriman with her youthful husband, one of the heirs to the Harriman millions. They were married two years ago when both were 19.

LADY DIANA MANNERS

She has divided her time between the movies and the legitimate stage. Her latest stage appearance was in "The Miracle," Morris Gest's celebrated pageant-play production in New York.

MRS. THELMA MORGAN CONVERSE

Another movie enthusiast who has appeared in a number of pictures.

MRS. MORGAN BELMONT

Credited with being the first American society women to enter the movies. She appeared in David Wark Griffith's "Way Down East."

"Both stars and directors work under two systems. They are either tied to long contracts at a regular weekly figure by one concern and rented or 'farmed' out when an opposing company wishes their services, in order to keep them busy, or are free lances, signing for a single or a series of pictures over shorter periods and increasing their salary demands as their reputation (fan mail) grows. A system much in order is that of a potential star player being signed by an agent or small company, as an asset. The player, tied down at a salary of $250 regularly, let us say, is 'farmed' out with various companies in many roles at a higher price. The signer then makes a generous profit, but also takes the risk in case the potential star is 'at liberty' for an occasional period. When the potential star reaches star proportions, the company owning her (or him) starts production on its own account, starring the signee and benefiting by the reputation built up by the renting companies * * *.

MRS. LYDIG HOYT

Her career in the movies was short-lived because she did not screen well, although ranking as one of the most beautiful women in America in the opinion of artists.

"But the tide wash is constant. The really talented 'extra' of today may be the 'small bit' player of tomorrow and the 'filler' of the next day and the 'juvenile' of the next and the male or female lead of the next and the star of the final. Progress tosses aside eventually the top-notchers and the lower-notchers fill in. Besides, there is a spur to the newcomer in the fact that film audiences are fickle and their idols seldom last more than five or eight years. For this reason also are the almost inexcusably large salaries paid. The career is short and rather hectic. One must make all he can, while it lasts. Competition is keen among independent producers at this time in Hollywood and all salaries are swollen to high tide proportions.

"In summing up the advantages and disadvantages to a newcomer in Hollywood I have this advice to stress: Come here fully prepared with stage experience, or dramatic school experience, with talent assured, with money sufficient, with stick-to-it-iveness to see yourself through, or do not come at all, except as a sight-seer.

"What are the penalties for failure? They are dire! Records show that more than five thousand persons, mostly young and innocent women, disappear through the mysterious gateway of missing persons in Hollywood, Cal., every year.

"This figure is a matter of public knowledge. Newspaper accounts prove it. The girls come from every part of the United States, even further points, Canada, Australia, on every train and boat they arrive, drawn by the magic lure of the mimic world. Where they go to, few know, but the most of them, ruined, heartbroken, sick, degraded, sink in the corruption of border towns, are swallowed into the oblivion worse than death, which is the clutch of the underworld. Mexicali is another and even greater center of vice and illicit traffic. Next to Mexicali in some ways Tia Juana is an amateur in vice. Resorts in Mexicali are filled with girls, all young white women recruited without exception from the stamping-ground of beauty—Hollywood * * *."

Despite the propaganda put forth by the "Famous Authors of Hollywood" through Miss Conners and the warnings of other writers who speak for the besieged at Hollywood the yearning for fame in the movies is growing every day. Not only among those of modest circumstances does the fever find its victims, but its recruits come from the wealthy and prominent—the so-called "idle rich," sated with routine of society and looking at the movie as a rare and attractive adventure.

The latest recruit from the ranks of the rich who is striving for a star part in motion pictures is Mrs. John Harriman, 21-year-old daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, millionaires of New York City. The younger Mrs. Harriman who married two years ago when both were 19 was Miss Alice Laidley of Chicago. Young Harriman met her while she was visiting the family of Howard Chandler Christy, artist.

Even before her marriage, Mrs. Harriman had been screen-struck, but the Harriman family prevailed upon her to wait two years before going into the movies. During the past week it was announced that Mrs. Harriman was still determined upon a movie career and that her husband's family sticking by their agreement when they secured her promise to wait two years, had given their consent.

Recruits From the "Idle Rich"

From New York comes the announcement that Mrs. Harriman, using her maiden name, Alice Laidley, will make her debut in a picture entitled "Classmates," a story of cadet life at West Point, with Richard Barthelmess as the star. It is understood she will have a minor role.

The list of socially prominent persons who already have had, or are still having, a fling

HOLLYWOOD TELLS THE WORLD IT HAS TOO MANY MOVIE "STARS"

at the movies includes Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse, daughter of Harry Hays Morgan, Consul-General for the United States at Brussels, Belgium, and sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt. The first society woman to enter the movies was Mrs. Morgan Belmont. Mrs. Vanderbilt also tried the movies, but gave it up after she married. Lady Diana Manners, daughter of the English Duke of Rutland, appeared in several motion pictures, before turning to the legitimate stage. She is expected to make frequent screen appearances in the future. Mrs. Lydig Hoyt, "the most beautiful woman in America," as some artists rank her, and a woman of many talents, has tried her luck at pictures, as well as on the speaking stage, with considerable success.

Craig Biddle, of the wealthy Philadelphia family, is working hard at whatever parts he can get in the Hollywood studios.

Borden Harriman, brother of John Harriman, whose wife will appear in the Barthelmess film, has appeared in a motion picture. His role in "Grit" was that of a bartender. Princess Radziwill Pallfy, who was Miss Dorothy Deacon of Boston, and sister of the Duchess of Marlborough, last year turned to the movies to recoup her personal fortune, which was lost in the Austrian crash. Lady Cynthia Mosely, daughter of Lord Curzon, a former British Cabinet member, and Lord Pat Glerawly, son of the Earl of Annessley, are others of the nobility who have not found the movies beneath them.

Many of the wealthy aspirants, of course, are dilettantes who go into the movies as a lark or as relief from ennui, but some stick it through to better parts, and all are entirely frank in admitting they desire very much to be movie stars. They say they are glad to start at the bottom and win their way by merit, as, indeed, they must, for their wealth will avail them little.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach, accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating, are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead, get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation, and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands who enjoy their meals with no fear of indigestion.

EVENING SUIT TO DISTINGUISH GUEST FROM WAITER DEVISED

English Tailors Also Borrow From Golfer's Sartorial Gaiety to Give Men's Suits Color.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Colors are running riot in men's clothes this fall. The sartorial gaiety that has been the golfer's own has spread throughout the Englishman's wardrobe and even suits for evening wear are being made of patterned material in attempts to solve the age-old problem of distinguishing the waiters from those to be waited upon.

The Prince of Wales, it is reported here, did not create as much of an impression as was expected with his clothes in America, so his home-town tailors are prepared to heighten the effects of his suits as soon as he returns. The color effects, which they say are beautiful, are combinations carrying a dash of brilliance on a dark ground cloth such as brown shot with yellow, blue, mauve or gray.

These are in diagonal weaves, but the combination of any two contrasting colors to form a small check patteern is also popular, as are white chalk stripes on dusted grounds, especially powder blue, slate gray, navy blue and black. These stripes are said to be forerunners of the designs which will be most popular next spring.

The evening suits in patterns have a stripe in the form of a fine line or as an indistinct diamond pattern.

HOW FAT I WAS

And How I Lost 50 Pounds in 8 Weeks With Marvelous New Parisian Discovery Which Causes Sensation in New York.

Simple, Easy—Does Away With Exercises, Worthless Reducing Creams and Garments

No one can ever believe that once I weighed over 180 pounds. Those who knew me then and meet me say I look 10 years younger. I never could get clothes to fit me; all my friends called me FATTY, and even my own family thought I was a most unattractive woman. For years I suffered, until one day in Paris I discovered the real cause of excess fat—I found out exactly what to do to reduce, and I safely and easily lost 50 pounds in about two months. I have never regained one pound and never felt or looked better. I have given out my secret to hundreds of people who have obtained the most astonishing results. If YOU have tried everything known to reduce and have not succeeded—if YOU feel so discouraged that you have decided to remain fat, NOW THERE IS HOPE FOR YOU. I suffered so much for years with this burden of fat that I am glad to be able to help all fat people by giving them a real way of reducing. Go to any good drug store, get a package of the latest French discovery called SAN-GRI-NA (remember the name), take two small tablets before each meal and watch a steady decrease take place in your weight. SAN-GRI-NA not only reduces you, but it acts as a general tonic—the moment you start taking it you will feel your entire system filled with strength and energy. SAN-GRI-NA IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS. It is the only thing I ever found to reduce me after I had tried diets, exercise, drugs, worthless reducing creams and garments. Remember that with SAN-GRI-NA I took off 50 pounds in two months. I have never regained a pound since, and my health is envied by everyone. On sale at any of Speckart Bros.', Draper's, Enderle's, Otto's, Judge & Dolph's, Wolff-Wilson's or Kranson Bros.' Drug Stores.

The POST-DISPATCH is the only St. Louis evening newspaper giving Associated Press news service.

The equipment will include hea ing plant with oil burners, refri erating systems, incinerator, vent lating fans and imported cry prisms. A two-car garage, fac with white glazed brick will be each house.

The Remmert Company will im prove rather than sell the lots this fifteen-acre tract, as illustrat in Gurney Court on Magnolia av nue opposite Tower Grove Par and just east of Kingshighway, d veloped by this company.

A total of 45 houses, involving a outlay approximating $1,000,0 will be constructed in the 15 acr of which Country Club Court will form the nucleus. The tract is originally owned by the Sammel Davis estate, which surrendered to the Remmert Construction Co with the proviso that construct on the highest character be subject to its approval.

The tract adjoins old Count Club place on the north.

Superintending this work the Fidelity Guarantee Company, with offices in the International Life Building at Eighth and Chestnut streets, announces plans for the immediate construction of apart ments and bungalows in Rem Park, involving an aggregate co of $300,000. Details of these pro jects are given elsewhere.

While September has not be characterized by any large tra sactions, prevailing opinion is th existing henceforth will be on improved scale. There is alread an aggressive demand for hom sites.

Plans for Wooster Lambert Home, and Other Houses in Week's News and New Street to Relieve Traffic Pressure on Grand Avenue

Picturesque home designed for J. Wooster Lambert for the St. Louis Country Club grounds. La Beaume & Klein, architects.

Residence nearing completion at 7360 Westmoreland drive, Maryland Terrace, for Norman S. Brown. Study & Farrar, architects.

$1,000,000 TO BE SPENT IN NEW RESIDENCE TRACT

Nucleus of 15-Acre Division Will Be a Court Where Five Houses Are Now Being Built.

By Berry Moore.

An area of 15 acres on the west side of Hanley road, and one block north of Wydown boulevard, is being transformed for residence purposes by the Remmert Construction Co. The distinguishing feature of the development is designed as a horseshoe, known as Country Club Court.

Two large pillars surmounted with electric globes form an attractive entrance to the court. The ground embraced in the court is improved with a concrete street surrounding a grass plot, and is beautified by trees and shrubbery.

Approaching completion in the court are five houses, the first of 45 to be built in this area by the Remmert Construction Co., and the cost of which will range from $22,500 to $25,000 each. These houses will have seven and eight rooms, with solarium and large front and rear porches. Each floor will be provided with a bath. Specifications for the bathrooms include tiled walls and floors, recessed tubs showers and clothes chutes.

Garage in Each House.

The equipment will include heating plant with oil burners, refrigerating systems, incinerator, ventilating fans and imported crystal prisms. A two-car garage, faced with white glazed brick will be in each house.

The Remmert Company will improve rather than sell the lots in this fifteen-acre tract, as illustrated in Gurney Court on Magnolia avenue opposite Tower Grove Park and just east of Kingshighway, developed by this company.

A total of 45 houses, involving an outlay approximating $1,000,000, will be constructed in the 15 acres, of which Country Club Court will be the nucleus. The tract was originally owned by the Samuel C. Fisher estate, which surrendered it to the Remmert Construction Co. with the proviso that construction be of the highest character and subject to its approval.

The tract adjoins old Country Club Place on the north.

Supplementing this work the Security Guarantor Company, with offices in the International Life Building at Eighth and Chestnut streets, announces plans for the immediate construction of apartments and bungalows in Russell Park, involving an aggregate cost of $300,000. Details of these projects are given elsewhere.

While September has not been characterized by any large transactions, prevailing opinion is that building henceforth will be on an improved scale. There is already an aggressive demand for investment.

Favorable Downtown Conditions.

The situation in the business district is decidedly favorable for a broad resumption of operations. While occupancy has been at a high stage in this area for several years, with a corresponding increase in rentals, there has been no coincident advance in sale prices, agents declare.

This is ascribed to the fact that the demand has been restricted for sites for new buildings, east of Grand boulevard, as well as east of Eighteenth street, owing to prohibitive construction costs. The only buildings worthy of note erected east of Twelfth boulevard recently were Loew's State Theater, at Eighth street and Washington avenue, and the City Club Building, at Eleventh and Locust streets. Included also, are the Rice-Stix building and the building for the Town Club, in course of construction on the south side of Locust street, between Eleventh street and Twelfth boulevard, and the Federal Reserve Bank Building on Broadway. The Arcade Building, promoted by Isaac T. Cook, is the only lofty building for offices to go up, but that was planned before the war.

PARALLEL ROUTES CONSIDERED TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC ON GRAND

As it does not seem possible to widen Grand boulevard, in its busiest portion, to take care of present and future traffic needs, city officials are thinking of giving some of the traffic adjoining parallel routes, to relieve the pressure on Grand.

The plan printed herewith, which the City Plan Commission has approved, is intended for future reference rather than to be urged immediately. It is recognized that several other important street plans must have precedence of it.

The plan is for two 80-foot streets, parallel to Grand between Market street and Page boulevard street car tracks, one to the east and one to the west. The one to the east would be Theresa avenue, increased from its present 60-foot width. The one to the west would be a new street, cut about halfway between Grand and Spring avenue.

At Page, Theresa runs into Francis street, which, with an extension, would give an outlet to Natural Bridge avenue, the north end of the Twelfth boulevard thoroughfare. The plan shows the new street, west of Grand, extending to Cass avenue, where it runs into Spring avenue, also an outlet to Natural Bridge.

Whether the streets would be used as one-way thoroughfares, may be determined when they are nearer to actuality. The natural course of traffic would be north on Theresa and south on the other street.

Plan for new street west of Grand bl., midway between Grand and Spring, to relieve the north and south traffic pressure on Grand.

OLD ENGLISH HOME FOR WOOSTER LAMBERT

Work Under Way on Low, Rambling Structure With Picturesque Interior.

Work is well under way on a large house for J. D. Wooster Lambert on the St. Louis Country Club grounds. The residence will be one of the largest and most picturesque among those recently completed or contemplated in this attractive location. The grounds rise 30 feet above the road and are thickly wooded, the house being set in a grove of oak trees.

The plans call for a long, low, rambling structure, broken with gables, dormers and chimneys in the English tradition. The exterior walls are mainly of stucco with old oaken beams and half timber work, with rough brick and stone trimmings and details.

The roof will be covered with heavy stone slate laid irregularly in order to give a texture of mellow antiquity. The interiors will likewise be finished in the manner of an old English country seat, with oak and walnut panaling, carved Jacobean staircase and deep window embrasures. Every modern convenience, however, will be installed.

The plans were drawn by La Beaume & Klein, architects, and the work is being executed by the J. H. Wise Construction Co. under their supervision. Exact figures of cost are not available, but the house will be one of the show places of St. Louis County. It will be ready for occupancy in the spring.

BUYS 83-ACRE TRACT FOR HOME SITES

Unnamed Purchaser Acquires Land Near Old Florissant Road, St. Louis County.

Sale has been made by Grether & Co., for the Board of Commissioners of the Bryan Mullanphy Emigrant and Travelers' Relief Fund, to an unnamed purchaser of 83 acres in St. Louis County, about a half mile east of Ferguson, east of the old Florissant road and accessible to the Kirkwood-Ferguson electric line and the Wabash Railway, at Woodstock station.

The tract lies high overlooking the estate of Phillip De C. Ball to the west and adjoining the North Hill Country Club on the south, and is a short distance north of "Los Angeles," a subdivision of the Majestic Homes Corporation.

The property will be subdivided into quarter-acre tracts for home purposes by the purchaser if the tract is not soon resold as a whole. Grether & Co. are agents for the resale of the property.

SUBURB'N PROP'Y FOR SALE

A. R. Schollmeyer Announcement

On Next Saturday and Sunday the 20th and 21st on the Grounds

I will make real estate history, in the most wonderful auction, ever placed in my control—

Pennsylvania Park has some wonderful lots left and the company has commissioned me to sell them, without reserve or equivocation.

I will do so.

In the event you are the highest bidder, regardless of value, YOU GET THE LOT.

Wonderfully improved—where the city is growing fastest.

A. R. Schollmeyer R. E. Co.

104 N. 7th Street
St. Louis, Mo.

JUST A MINUTE

You must be looking for a home or you would not be reading this ad. I have for sale four beautiful homes on the Big Bend rd., just west of Webster, that I believe will merit your careful attention.

Just east of the Berry rd. is a new 5-room bungalow, all on one floor, and all large, light rooms; built as you would build your own home. The price is $9250.

Almost across the road is the beautiful 8-room brick Colonial residence of Mr. A. J. Schwartz. To one preferring this type of architecture if offers an exceptional opportunity. Among the attractive features you will find here a sleeping porch 9x28, four open fireplaces, winding stone-flagged walks, with ancient elm trees standing guard. This home is held at $16,000.

A short distance west, on the north side of Big Bend, and just east of Schultz av. (Sappington rd.), is the attractive 6-room Bungalow of Mr. A. P. Erker. Attractive in every sense of the word, set in an acre of beautiful lawn, trees and shrubbery that it would take you 20 years to reproduce. The price is $12,000.

Last but not least is the 7-room home of Mr. H. H. Crilling, just a little further west on the other side of the road. A stucco hollow-tile residence, built five years ago on a site expressly suited on account of the wonderful view, together with two acres of attractively landscaped ground, with nothing left to do but move in. This is also priced at $12,000.

With the exception of the first, the above properties are the homes of substantial St. Louis business men, and have been in the hands of the present owners for the past five years or more. Two of these offerings are made possible on account of the owners leaving the State.

This is your opportunity. What is your answer?

WM. J. HOLLOWAY.

SHERWOOD FOREST

The broad, white home that you have admired so, with the well designed central vestibule, with its white windows, green shutters, a slim gporch to be sure, situated on the very crest of the hill, having a level lawn, only slightly above the sidewalk, with those large forest oaks casting shade over the dwelling; the white exterior tends to give the comfort of the interior, with its center hall, having window light from rear, showing off to advantage the colonial stairway, the large living room with its cozy fireplace and porch to the south, the well proportioned dining room and the bright kitchen.

The bedrooms and sleeping porch above, the tiled closets and tiled bath, the built-ins are in keeping with the balance of the home; the new-style American down-draft heating plan gives 2 per cent per foot comfort to all parts of the house; a large attic assures comfort during the summer months; 2-car garage.

The owner, who sold out his St. Louis business, moving to Texas, has just returned to the city, having now decided that he will locate elsewhere, and, therefore, wants to sell this month; price accordingly.

WHAT DID YOU GET?

Go ahead, pay the landlord your good, hard-earned dollars, month after month.

WHAT HAVE YOU GOT?

Figure up what you have to show for "the hundreds of dollars" you gave him. A fat bunch of receipts.

THAT'S ALL YOU GET!

How much are they worth today? You couldn't buy a crust of bread with 'em. What will your landlord do to you if you fail to pay your rent?

HE'LL SAY "GET"

Just "figure" up the rent you have paid in 10 years. Quite a sum, isn't it? The amount—what's this? You've bought it with your sweat, blood and tears! It's all—figures don't lie. Can't you see the house or two you've paid for?

Why not telephone Main 7800 for our new listings of brick and frame cottages, residences and flats. We have a lot of good bargains now.

Office open every Sunday, 9 to 12 noon and every Monday until 9 p.m.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

H. L. B.—Repeat your question, sending stamped addressed envelope.

R. P. S.—The ten cent piece dated 1841 is worth from 10c to 25c.

WORRIED—Inquire of some reliable vocal instructor regarding your voice.

A SUBSCRIBER—Practically all fraternal organizations have benefits.

MAE.—You can obtain full information regarding parties, games and favors from books on the subject at the Public Library.

GERHARDT.—The Horse Show was held at Jefferson Barracks from May 24th to the 29th inclusive this year.

GOLDIE G.—Long Island became part of the United States with the original Thirteen Colonies following the revolutionary war.

P. R. G.—Full information regarding the evening class of the public night schools can be found in the Post-Dispatch of Sept. 8.

A. P.—You can take commercial art or mechanical drawing at the public night schools. See answer to "G. G."

J. S. G.—Inquire of anyone in the publishing houses here in the city for the information regarding the picture in question.

POST READER.—Apply to the Financial Commissioner, State House, Jefferson City, Mo., for the information desired regarding the bank in question.

A READER OF THE POST. — Watch the papers for information regarding the Chautauqua at University City and Kirkwood, Mo. One announcement was given in the paper of Sept. 6.

S. W. S.—Merger of the Fidelity Reserve Insurance Co. with headquarters at Platte, Neb., with the Mountain State Insurance Co. of Denver Col., occurred in November, 1923.

L. M. M.—The electric sign located at Clayton Road entrance to Forest Park, St. Louis, is the largest double faced electric flasher type sign in existence. It contains more circuits and consumes more current than any other sign in operation. The structure is of steel, 45 by 82 feet in size. The sign contains more than 5000 lamps, ranging from ten to 400 watts in size.

D. A. N.—Bouillon, lobster Newburg, supreme of chicken, pâté, aspic of foie gras, celery salad, ices and coffee is an appropriate menu for the wedding breakfast. Instead of bouillon, there may be caviar or an ice, grape fruit, or a puree, or clam broth. Instead of lobster Newburg there may be soft-shell crabs or oyster pate, or other fish. Or the bouillon may be followed by a dish such as sweetbreads and mushrooms, or chicken pates, or broiled chicken (a half of a chicken for each guest) or squab, with salad such as whole tomatoes filled with celery. Or the chicken course may be omitted and there and an aspic with the salad, the third. Individual ices are accompanied by little cakes of assorted flavors. There used also to be champagne; a substitute is at best "a poor thing," and what the prevailing one is to be is yet to determined. — Orange juice and ginger ale with sugar and mint leaves are two attempts at a satisfying cup that have been offered the paper of Sept. 6.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

MRS. WARREN S.—A sea captain can perform a marriage ceremony.

BERT.—It takes at least one year to settle an estate, probably longer.

P. P. A.—Ordinarily he would not be required to pay another fare, but the conductor might require him to do so.

J. R. C.—You should employ a lawyer to handle the divorce suit, and make some arrangement with him for payment of his fee later.

OKAY.—When the payee endorses the notes "without recourse on me," that means that he has no more interest in the notes, and also that he cannot be held liable for them as indorser, by subsequent holders.

WORLD WAR VET.—You can obtain an application blank for the Federal bonus at the Old Custom House, 3rd and Olive Streets, or by writing to the Veterans Bureau, Washington, D. C. No papers are necessary.

BLUE EYES.—Marriage licenses can be obtained at any county seat in Missouri or Illinois. Marriage licenses obtained at places more than 25 miles away from St. Louis are usually not published in the St. Louis newspapers.

J. A. B.—(1). You are not free to marry again unless your wife obtains a final decree, in California, one year after the interlocutory decree. (2). When you apply for a marriage license here you will not have to have a copy of the divorce decree with you.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given JOSEPH.—A hair may be swallowed and give no inconvenience.

L. D.—Under such circumstances the condition could not exist.

MARTHA C.—We advise you to make application for admission to the City Hospital.

BOBBED HAIR.—We do not know of any such preparation as mentioned in your letter.

CHAS N.—Internal remedies for such a condition are a waste of time and money, excepting as they may be an adjunct to local treatment. Dependence must be placed upon local treatment practically entirely.

LOTTIE.—Lencopathia unguium, or white nails are due to either general nutritional disturbances, nervous affections or injury. The cause should be sought out, if possible, and removed. Arsenic may be given with hopes of benefit, but its use must be long continued. Lactophosphate of lime and sulphur (Garrods lozenges) are of some value. Locally protect the nail by rubber finger stalls or other suitable means. Avoid the manicurist!

NINNY KAT.—If you mean that you are in the inclipient stage of tuberculosis get under the care of a competent physician or a tubercular sanitarium at once. Such cases can be cured and even neglect means grave danger. Cod liver oil is not "good for the lungs" it is only a nutritious upbuilder. Such cases need supervised rest, fresh air and nourishing food more than medicine. Late hours and cigarettes are about as bad habits as one in your condition can indulge in.

Truth in Advertising

The value of advertising is in direct ratio to the amount of CONFIDENCE the reader possesses. That is entirely founded on its quality of TRUTH.

The National Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers and the Better Business Bureau and the Advertising Club of St. Louis, in all of which, the Post-Dispatch holds membership, aim to eliminate fraudulent and misleading advertising. This paper will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement which does not conform to the highest standards of honesty.

During 1923 the Post-Dispatch printed 97,104 Male Help "Wants"—7258 more than the THREE other St. Louis newspapers combined.

READ THIS AND THINK

Yahlem does not belong to any trust or combine. A man of the people, he is independent of all other dealers. You'll find no magnificent fixtures, marble walls, tile floors, high salaried officers, silk shirt salesmen, high rent or other expensive "class" at Yahlem's. 'Cause why? Because all that stuff costs heavy dough and the people must pay for it.

Yahlem saves all expenses and cuts the price of his cars to the bone. That's why he saves you $100 or more on each car.

Yahlem is a used car specialist. He handles used cars exclusively. Who knows the most about used cars, the expert or the fellow who plays around with used cars as a side line? Think that over.

YOU DON'T PAY FOR FLASHY TRIMMINGS AT YAHLEM'S.

YOUR PROTECTION

is in getting one hundred cents plus for your dollar without a lot of conversation.

The reliable dealer is the man who gives you 300 to choose from and guarantees your car. Furthermore he sells 'em cheaper than anyone else—that's Yahlem.

The safest place to buy a used car is where the crowds go. Yahlem has over 4000 satisfied customers. Just for fun, come and see the mob today that are grabbing the bargains.

The big thrill in the used car business is treating the public fair and getting satisfied customers. Yahlem grew from a small dealer to the largest in the west. He got that way by treating 'em square.

IF YOU DON'T GET IN ON THIS YOU'LL REGRET IT

THESE KIND OF BARGAINS MADE YAHLEM FAMOUS

Fool the Winter
ESSEX COACH, $750
All the comforts of home and the class of royalty in this snappy, compact, cozy speedy coach. Just the thing in cold weather. Buy it now and save $600. All accessories, guaranteed. Terms or trade in your old car. Come early.

Today's Biggest Bargain
Gardner Sport, $695
Yahlem always has bargains, but sometimes they're better than ever. This is undoubtedly the season's biggest cinch. You all know the Gardner, made in St. Louis, travels over the world. Disc wheels, cord tires, bumper, painted a soft Nile green; has 5-bearing motor. A peach—a knock-out. Easily worth $400 more, but Yahlem's looking for a record. Don't miss it. You can always hold it with a deposit. Any reasonable terms.

Another Knockout!
NASH-6 COUPE
In looks, economy, thorough satisfaction and pride, you can't beat the Nash. This one, especially, has all the qualities of the much-more-expensive car. Comfy and cozy. Not a worry in it. Make an offer. $450? It's yours. Terms, too. That's Yahlem's way.

A Thing of Beauty
A MOON SEDAN
A rare opportunity to buy an excellent automobile almost brand new. Painted a gorgeous marine blue, trimmed in gold. Disc wheels, cord tires, bumpers, special dimmers, excellent upholstery, run only 5000 miles. The possession of this beautiful mechanism will make you feel 10 years younger. If your wife sees it, you're sold, no doubt about it. You can travel with the swellest with this distinctive car. It's selling today for $1150—cash, terms or trade. This is one of the things that makes competition gasp. Come early.

STUTZ!!!
ROADSTER
Bear cat? Boy, oh boy, it's a wild cat. Excellent shape, stunning red color, black wire wheels. Just step on it a little and she'll do 80 without a murmur. You wouldn't take a thousand for it, but Yahlem is letting it go today for $795. If you want the real thing, grab this.

4-Door Ford Sedan
What can you say about a Ford except that it's the best all-around economical automobile made. But here's another angle. This one sells for $495, and on terms. Can you beat it? I guess not. Nor even tie it. It's a Yahlem bargain.

Look! Hup., $425
'Nuf sed, that here's a real car looks and runs like new touring; come over and listen to the motor and you will say so yourself. Giving it away; formerly $800; easy terms or trade. 300 used cars, $50, $75, $100 down.

When a Man's Married
HIS TROUBLES BEGIN
But he can end all domestic grief by taking the wife around to her mamma's in this knock-out Moon Sport Touring and when he tells her the price—$500—she'll just flop all over him. That's the truth. Everything on it from soup to nuts. Cord tires, bumpers, swell lamps, beautiful paint job. It's a home-maker. See it. Then you'll grab it. Terms or trade.

Extraordinary Value
OLDS SPORT TOURING
For little more than the price of a Ford you can own this classy sport touring. It's been repainted a ravishing peacock blue. Cord tires, mechanically perfect. Runs like a clock with no noise but the wind. Takes you everywhere, even into society, specially priced in this sale at $595, on terms. If you don't go wild about it we miss our guess. It's going to be among the first to go. Come early.

1924 Overland Touring
TALK ABOUT SNAPS
Hold it, Deacon! This is giving stuff away. Can't help it, though. $350 is what Yahlem said. Maybe he made a mistake, maybe he meant $550—but the $350 price goes. You know that is a lead pipe cinch. Excellent condition and dirt cheap. Don't delay. Come now. Tomorrow may be too late.

BUICK 1922 TOURING
$495
Good old reliable Buick. Good old reliable Yahlem who sells it at $495 when he could get $200 more just as easy. Why buy a cheap new car when you can get this baby at a price? No use kidding, it's the grapes. New paint job, and tires, spare bumper and all the dope. The one who gets this gets a knockout. It's a Buick—nuff said. They never get old.

THIS SALE IS THE TALK OF THE SEASON! IT'S A KNOCKOUT!! A RIOT!!! EVERY CAR A LALAPALOOSA OF A BARGAIN. THEY CAN'T BE EQUALED ANYWHERE ELSE. NAME YOUR OWN TERMS.

Durant 6 Coupe
READ THIS
We could rave about this all day. So can you after you see it. You'll realize why the Durant is so popular. This coupe is equipped with bumpers, cord tires and spare, lots of accessories. Luxuriously appointed. It was the property of a very wealthy woman, who has taken excellent care of it, so that it looks like new. Really, folks, it's as good a bargain as Yahlem ever gave, and he has given some. It cost $2300, but you can buy this for $985—on terms. Hustle!

Maxwell, 1924, Coach
Here is a car that people go wild over, light on gas and oil, small tires, like new; has French upholstery, prettiest thing you ever laid your eyes on. It goes for $950 to a lucky buyer. Terms or trade. Never has and never will be a bigger bargain. Act quick.

Stutz Touring
How often do you get a chance at the famous Stutz at a price of $350? Only occasionally, and then at Yahlem's. This just came in Saturday and it's going out today. Wonderful condition. Powerful, majestic. Name your terms and make a quick deal.

1924 Buick Touring
When better cars are built Buick will build them. But when they can be sold cheaper, Yahlem will sell them. Don't have to talk much about a Buick and this one is nearly brand-new. Man alive, you gotta take a look at this one. $1150 makes it yours. If this doesn't tickle you, you can't be suited. Come now before the crowd spies it. Terms.

Atta Boy!!
CLEVELAND SPORT TOUR.
'nuf said'. The niftiest car on the street. Run? Like a scared rabbit. Looks? Say, your girl will love you to death. Price? We're not joking. $490 delivered. On terms, too. Why so cheap? Because Yahlem wants to sell 200 cars this month. He'll do it, too. A real bargain, men. I mean it.

Gardner Sedan
THE LADIES' JOY
Gaze on this and be convinced that you can still buy merchandise for 50c on the dollar. Of course, only at Yahlem's. This is a 1923 and is knocked down to $950. What a dream! What a bargain. Ladies all love a Gardner Sedan. Bring your wife along. Terms or trade. Don't forget, this car is as good as new. Has cord tires and all the trimmings. Come early. Open all day.

Wonderful!
BUICK 6 COUPE
Practically new. Yetur friends can't tell it's ever been used. A marvelous special paint job you must see to appreciate. It cost $2350 new. Disc wheels, cord tires, bumper, all the trimmings, velour upholstering. Looks, feels and sets like new. Your neighbors will envy you. Don't pass this up. See it, at least, that's a treat in itself. Today for less than half; $1150 takes it. You can't beat it, so don't waste time trying. Come at once and trade in your old car. Any terms.

300 USED CARS TO CHOOSE FROM

Paige De Luxe
PAGE YAHLEM
World's famous 80 h.p. sport touring. Built like a racing car—long racy lines, low and compact. Painted canary yellow. Makes 75 on high. The bees knees with ruffles, all yours for $375. Sure it's a shame—but you should worry. Just hurry.

Cleveland Sedan
ONLY $595
Do you know the cool days are coming on? Here's a car that is the prettiest thing we ever had on our floor; 4-door, light, economical upkeep. Its like riding in a airplane to sit in this car. Come over and see for yourself. You'll buy it in a minute. The price of a Ford—$595 takes it. Hurry; terms or trade.

Studebaker 6 Sedan
THINK OF IT!
$1075
No use telling you about the Studebakers. Ask any tourist. Will stand more punishment than you can give it. This peachy sedan is in wonderful condition. Snappy paint job, disc wheels, accessories, comfortable upholstering. Looks like a million dollars—in fact, a millionaire owned it. Only Yahlem can offer such high-class merchandise at such ridiculous low prices. You get the gravy. Come and name your terms.

NOW There Is a Standard of Value for Used Automobiles in St. Louis

THIS EMBLEM - - - -

Copyright 1924, U. C. B.

THE Used Car buyer of yesterday took a chance. He might have purchased reliability and satisfaction with his Used Car. He might not.

Now he can be sure.

Fourteen of St. Louis' leading motor car distributors are co-operating in this campaign of education concerning Used Cars.

At each of these fourteen dealers' salesrooms you can see the emblem shown on this page.

This emblem establishes a standard of value for Used Cars. It is your assurance that any Used Car on sale by any one of these fourteen firms is worth every penny asked for it. It is your guarantee of satisfaction—backed by each and every one of these fourteen reliable firms.

If you want good, reliable transportation for every cent you put into a car, look at the Certified Exchange Automobiles at the salesrooms of the dealers named below. Have the satisfaction of a good car, now.

FORDS! FORDS!

Tourings, Coupes, Tudor, Four-Door Sedans and Two-Door Sedans

See this wonderful line of Ford cars—most of these cars are as good as new—some with the original paint. You can't tell them from a new car. You can save as much as $200. Mechanical condition excellent. Good tires and many accessories. These cars have been traded in on new Jewetts. They are not like Fords that are traded to the average Ford dealer. When a man trades his Ford in to a Ford dealer, as a rule, it is because the car is pretty well worn out, but not the case with us on the Fords we have.

Come and see for yourself. Prices from $75.00 up. Small down payments; the balance a year to pay.

SPECIAL! JEWETTS!

We have an excellent line of reconditioned Jewett Roadsters, Touring Cars, five-passenger Broughams and Sedans.

See our selections of other makes of used cars from $75 to $2000.

SPECIAL SIX STUDEBAKER COUPE

4 passenger; refinished, overhauled and in very fine condition. Full factory equipment. A ride will convince you of this exceptional value.

JEWETT SPORT TOURING

5 passenger. This car has a plate-glass enclosure and the condition throughout is excellent. A great saving at our price.

PAIGE SEDAN

Light six, 5 passenger; new paint, seat covers and thoroughly overhauled. Priced very low for quick sale.

LEXINGTON TOURING

With special California top; near new tires, Continental motor, etc. The condition throughout is very fine and is a real buy.

STUTZ COUPE

4 passenger, D. H. motor; new paint and practically new tires. This car has not seen much mileage and can be brought right in price.

LIBERTY TOURING

1922 model; good mechanical condition, good tires—will refinish to suit. Priced very low.

PACKARD TWIN SIX

Latest series; 7-passenger touring—new paint, 6 cord tires, nickeled head lamps and radiator; motor and chassis excellent. We have this one priced very low.

APPERSON TOURING

Vignettes of City Life

By MANNEL HAHN.

THE CITY HOSPITAL.

"THIS is the receiving room," said the Junior Interne, showing us a large, white-tiled hall, with small rooms opening to either side, wherein we caught glimpses of couches spread for work, and all the nickel-and-crystal glitter of medical cleanliness. In one corner a group of gray-blanketed rolling stretchers reminded us of the duties that were ever present.

"Here the cases are brought," the Junior Interne went on. "As the ambulance rolls into the porte cochere the bell rings here, and the attendants run a stretcher to the door."

As he spoke, the bell, a deep, brazen gong, resounded.

"Now we shall see what happens." He smiled at us.

A sleepy clerk at the desk just inside the door lifted his heavy lids as an attendant ran the wheeled stretcher out. A moment later it returned, with a bloody, writhing figure on it, strapped to the frame to prevent the agonies from causing a further fall. Quickly the attendant ran it to one of the cubicles and the door closed.

Again the gong. This time it was a quiet figure, a man, his face hidden in the dreadful crimson that poured from his open forehead.

The clerk turned from his phone.

"Dr. North," he called. The Junior Interne smiled apologetically and went to the desk. He turned with a serious face.

"A building downtown has collapsed," he reported. "We will all be needed. If you will excuse me, I will come back for you in—well, as soon as it's over. I'm sorry." And he hurried away.

Meanwhile, the alarm had pealed again, and yet again. The body of a child, the face scarce marred by falling stones, yet with a grayish pallor that spelt doom—a young woman, stolid in pain, breathing in gasps, yet self-composed.

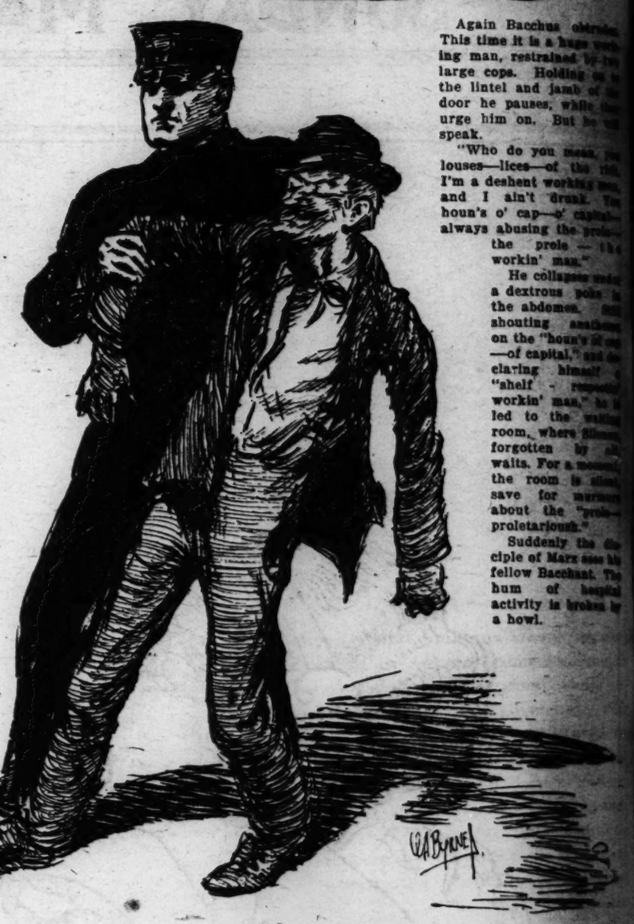
"I was standing on the corner, just going to cross the street," she says to any who will listen. "I just reached town, was walking up from the station. And I was hit. What was it?"

There is no time to answer. Attendants snatch the litter away and rush it to the dressing room.

But the gong never stilled. Again and again it rang, the ambulance leaving various lumps of battered humanity, now a man, cursing volubly, now a woman, unconscious; now a girl, shrieking with pain and fright, often more of the latter than the former, until the dressing rooms were all filled, the doctors working incessantly, and the hall became filled with the couches of pain, the occupants, mumbling, swearing, praying — bedlam and hell.

And ever and ever the bell rang, with new pain to swell the chorus. Would it never stop?

Once more it rang. The doors opened and in walked Silenus—Silenus himself. A little, wizened old man, his face wrinkled with age and exposure, a scrubby beard beneath his chin, his eyes half closed, exuding good will and the odor of cheap whisky. He reeled, he hobbled, and but for the strong arm of the law supporting him, would ofttimes have unceremoniously seated himself on the floor. Staggering and smiling, with ecstatic little gestures, he passed across the room and into the dull waiting room beyond.



It was done. The train of tragedy was broken. Bacchus had broken it, it is true, but it was impossible to keep from laughing. Attendants, without relaxing their care, smiled, the doctors' brows unfurrowed for an instant, even the less seriously injured smiled.

It made the tense minutes easier to bear. Again the stream of crushed flesh and battered bone came in, but more slowly. Now and then a glimpse of normal moments. A couple, sick with influenza, came from a hotel. A man, groaning, his leg crushed by a truck.

"Wha' d'you mean, putting me here with a drunk?" he shouts. "I'm deshent, 'hpectable work'man, and I won't be put wisha drunk."

Silenus stands up. He wavers for a moment, then, with an inane grin, precipitates himself at the Marxian, throwing his arms around his neck.

The sounds of battle are dimmed by the watching policemen. The doors swing closed, and whatever transpires within is now hidden from the curious.

But the work has been going on rapidly. While the revels distracted all, litter after litter has been wheeled away.

Some of the patients now appear, their minor wounds bandaged, ready to go home.

Others are wheeled to the wards for further treatment.

Two have passed beyond the care of the hospital staff.

The Junior Interne appears.

He has flitted through the scene at intervals, treating this or that one as they are moved to the room where he officiates.

He has chapged his apron now, and seems as carefree as if it had never happened.

"Do you want to see the rest?" he queries.

"You have had a splendid chance to see how the receiving room works."

"A bit too good," we answer.

"What we have seen must suffice us for a while."

And as we drove away a red-crossed ambulance drove up to the hospital, into the porte cochere, wheeled and backed, the hospital door opened, and another suffering body was in the receiving room.

"There goes that bell again," someone volunteered.

And in imagination that bell continued to ring in our ears until we were many blocks away from the hospital.

Again Bacchus obtrudes. This time it is a huge working man, restrained by two large cops. Holding on to the lintel and jamb of the door he pauses, while they urge him on. But he will speak.

"Who do you mean, you lousses—lices—of the city? I'm a deshent workin' man, and I ain't drunk. You houn's o' cap—o' capital always abusing the proletariat—the proles — the workin' man."

He collapses under a dextrous poke in the abdomen, still shouting anathema on the "houn's of cap—of capital," and declaring himself a "shelf - respecting workin' man," he is led to the waiting room, where he is forgotten by all. For a moment the room is silent, save for murmurs about the "proles—proletarjoush."

Suddenly the disciple of Marx sees his fellow Bacchant. The hum of hospital activity is broken by a howl.

The New Substitute for the Home Kitchen

Barbecued meats supplied while your automobile waits, on the roads of St. Louis County—Sandwiches for swift devouring on the spot, or choice cuts to take home and relieve the housewife or the hired cook of worry about the Sunday dinner—This new industry, based upon an ancient method of preparing meats, has developed surprisingly in this vicinity the present season :: :: ::

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

A NEW discovery to summertime seekers after easy means of sustenance and gastronomical pleasure is the roadside barbecue, where sandwiches containing meats prepared by this ancient, superior, though neglected method of roasting in the open over live coals, are dispensed to the automobile class of patronage.

Refreshment stands where a sandwich of barbecued meat is offered along with a cold though innocuous bottled drink, dot the populous automobile highways in St. Louis County at almost every turn of the road and are doing a thriving business these hot evenings. One of the tradesmen told me it is not unusual for him to prepare and dispense 500 pounds of spareribs over a week-end; and on another "off" evening, early in the week, another barbecued meat merchant had 90 pounds of various cuts of meat on his grill which he expected to dispense at a good profit before morning.

The trade is attracting all sorts of caterers who are discovering many improved methods of preparation and dispensation while adhering to the one principle of long and thorough roasting over live coals.

Some of the cooks contend for the superiority of one kind of fuel over another and patrons are busy sampling the wares of one caterer and another until just the preferred tang in the finished product determines which is their favorite barbecuer.

The difference in fuel makes a difference in the flavor, it is contended. Some of the cooks hold to the superiority of slow-burning hickory wood, whose smoke lends a certain desired flavor. Others employ charcoal as a means of getting the steadiest heat, without smoke, while others are feeding their fires with coke as the means of getting the hottest fire, with the most thorough results.

All the cooks have dispensed with the old-time method of digging a pit in the ground and roasting the whole or half carcass at once, as has been done for picnics and occasional usage, frequent rains rendering such pits impracticable for steady usage. Improved pits, built of brick or iron, with a grill of crossed iron wires, are the generally accepted method. One enterprising young merchant on the St. Charles Rock road has erected a rotary grill, an upright fireplace built of bricks, in front of which on a rack are placed horizontal spindles piercing hams, joints or ribs, and turned slowly but constantly by means of an electric motor. This ingenious device is employed by a youth whose trade has increased until he has been obliged to call into service as helpers his five younger brothers and his father and mother, who, during the day, conduct a farm [illegible] neighborhood.

It doesn't make any difference if a few drops of gravy find their way into one's ears, nor that the contents of the best-equipped vanity case are required to repair the damage.

One refreshment stand is conducted by a family that lived but recently on a plantation in the South. A soft-voiced daughter of the house told how they had heard of the money to be made upon our highways by the primitive method of preparing meats with which they were so familiar as a mode of feeding their cotton pickers; had transported one of their old expert darkey barbecue cooks and were now in the fullness of their prosperity, gladly furnishing information to other aspirants as to original and time-tested methods of barbecuing.

"We use charcoal as fuel," she said, "and the secret of really good barbecuing lies in cooking the meat a long time. These short cuts the others are using are not genuine at all. Why, the other day my aunt on the plantation had a birthday and there was to be a barbecue feast in celebration. She wrote me on a Thursday that the negroes had dug the pit and prepared the beef and would place it above the charcoal that night, though it was not to be ready to serve until the following Sunday.

That is the way real barbecued meat should be prepared, and it is just plain dirty to let the meat get so near the fire that ashes can be blown into it.

All the cooks, I observed, employ the same

Now the Terrifying PIASA BIRD is Coming

The painting that awed and frightened the Indians many moons ago is being reproduced at its original site by a young artist whose imagination is aided by traditions—At the same time, and what's of more importance to the race, a learned man insists that the picture, first described by Pere Marquette, is of Chinese origin instead of American redskin—Perhaps the Chinese saw it first, meaning the Mississippi River, and were the earliest discoverers of the vast valley—Anyhow, the story of the winged monster that ate 'em alive is a thriller

By F. A. BRIMMER.

THE Piasa Bird is coming back, to perch again on the bluff at Alton, Ill., from which it was blasted long ago for the making of lime. But it will return with its legendary reputation tarnished by an iconoclastic historian, who says that instead of its having been a man-eating bird-beast, a thing of evil for the tribe of Illini, as the legends say, it was the familiar dragon of the Celestial Empire, placed on the rocks by prehistoric Chinese, first to explore the Mississippi Valley.

Not with equanimity is the Chinese version heard, for the legend of the Piasa Bird is Alton's dearest possession, not to be surrendered without impeccable proof of its Chinese origin. But there are those who say that when the bird has been brought back and again perches on the Alton bluff it will give silent testimony to its Chinese ancestry, for in figure and lineament and even in the cut of its whiskers it is far more Chinese than Indian.

And there are others, more bold, who go so far as to say that no Indian, under the most glamorous inspiration of the most glorious firewater, ever would have been able to paint a thing as weird as was the Piasa Bird, while the fashioning of dragons is the Chinaman's particular art.

But whether the bird was Chinese or Indian, it is coming back. The Alton Boy Scout Council has decreed that this shall be; and Herbert Forcade, an 18-year-old artist of that city, has undertaken to do the work. Scaffolding has been erected against the sheer face of rock nearest the spot, profaned by quarrymen three-quarters of a century ago, where the original painting was, and the rock has been chiseled smooth and is ready for the pigments.

For his inspiration the young artist will have the pictures made by artists from the descriptions which have been handed down, dating as far back as the time of Father Marquette, two of whom are claimed to have had the advantage of seeing the petroglyph made by Marquette. If he sees fit to contribute embellishments of his own it will be no more than the other artists may be assumed to have done, for there is something about the Piasa Bird that invites embellishment.

It is to Father Marquette, believed to have been the first white man to look upon the fearsome picture of the Piasa Bird, that the world is indebted for the only recorded description of the monster before time and the elements had so obscured it as to make description difficult.

From his account of his historic cruise down the Mississippi River in 1673 it appears that there were two of the monsters, for his observation to that effect was there set down. Whether there was one or two has been ever since then a matter of dispute. There are suggested explanations of the discrepancy. But first read Father Marquette's version:

"As we coasted along the rocks, frightful for their height and length, we saw two monsters painted on one of these rocks, which startled us at first, and on which the boldest Indian dare not gaze long. They are as large as a calf, with horns on the head like a deer, a fearful look, red eyes, bearded like a tiger, the faces somewhat like a man's, the body covered with scales and the tail so long that it twice makes the turn of the body passing over the head and down between the legs and ending at last in a fish's tail. Green, red and a kind of black are the colors employed. On the whole these two monsters are so well painted that we could not believe any Indian to have been the designer, as good painters in France would have found it hard to do as well; besides this, they are so high on the rocks that it is hard to get conveniently to them to paint them."

From which it appears that even Marquette had doubts of an Indian having been the "designer," since good painters in France would have found it hard to do as well, but if it occurred to him that a Chinaman might have done the work he did not set it down.

Inaccessible as the painting was, high on the cliff, it is presumed that the priest made only a cursory inspection, and that his description and the sketch he made were reproduced later from memory, which might account for the omission of details mentioned by later writers. Either that, or the later writers felt that the description needed embellishment; or, as is suggested in explanation, the painting presented different aspects during different atmospheric conditions, which had the effect of increasing or diminishing visibility, the increase sometimes giving the impression that these were two birds, one standing behind the other.

At any rate, since Marquette wrote, the accouterments of the monster have been elaborated to include scales that encased its body, a segmented tail and two long, squared shoulder wings.

Marquette's estimate of the size of the picture also has been disputed by later writers, one calculating from data gleaned from old-timers that it was between 16 and 18 feet in length, another going so far as to ascribe to it a length of 30 feet and a width of 12 feet.

All in all, it may be doubted whether, if there ever was a Piasa Bird, and if it could come back to its old haunts, it would recognize itself in the pictures that have been painted from memory and embellished out of the fancies of the artists' imaginations.

But there is no dispute that there was for a long time, how long nobody knows, a picture on the Alton bluff and that it represented a creature hideous enough, after all allowance has been made for the enthusiasm of the writers of descriptions, that was a faded thing as it survived when the early inhabitants were young, which it might well have done, for it was exposed, there on the face of the rock, to every vicissitude of weather and every season.

A peculiarity, as has been noted, was that when conditions affected its visibility, but as late as the middle of the last century, when the conditions were right, this peculiarity could be discerned. Then along came commercialism. Quarrymen worked the limestone on which was the priceless painting, and blast did for the Piasa Bird, and it was reduced speedily to lime.

The legend which was told about the campfires of the Illini did not die. It has survived to this day, with such variations and flourishes as poet and prose singers have seen fit to supply, but in the main it remains as the Indians told it, undoubtedly believing it true. The Piasa Bird, so ran the tale—bird, beast or devil, or the three combined—cast its shadow over the land of the Illini long before the white man came, nesting in a cave beneath the cliff. As Frank C. Riehl, poet of the region describes it:

> "Twas a fearsome thing to look on, with its great, ferocious head,
> And its mighty, vicelike talons, sharp as spears and bloody red.

...nd the body safe protected with a rugged coat of mail.

At break and close of day it went forth in search of prey, and its favorite food was man. So that:

Many a squaw beheld her warrior borne toward that fatal height;
Many a huntsman, home returning, found his wigwam bare at night.

Then Chief Ouatoga, in a vision, after prayer and fasting, heard the voice of Manitou, telling him to offer himself a sacrifice for the salvation of his people.

Then he chose his twelve best warriors, and they journeyed in the night,
Armed with bows and poisoned arrows, to the demon-haunted height.

On a rock above the cavern the chieftain took his stand, concealing his braves in a crevice near at hand, and bade them there abide until the monster's wings were spread and then speed their arrows to its under side.

"Sunrise and the chieftain's chanted death hymn, And the 12 secreted archers as they listened in dismay, saw the grewsome bird rise upward and swoop down upon its prey."

But they aimed with trained precision, and a dozen twanging strings
Hurled as many deadly arrows deep beneath the monster's wings.
With a scream of rage and terror, such as never since was heard,
Backward, o'er the towering hilltop, dying, fell the mighty bird.

Then anon the tribe assembled at a great thanksgiving feast,
Where they praised the Blessed Spirit for their King, so safe released;
For, though badly bruised and mangled by the demon's final throes,
The old chief survived—and after conquered many daring foes.

And the likeness of the monster on the precipice was engraved,
That they ever might remember from what fate they had been saved.
Now after, when the warrior drifted by in his skiff, He discharged a poisoned arrow at the picture on the cliff.

And James T. Callahan, columnist of the Alton Telegraph, in his little book, "Stray Scraps," with a columnist's license, gives to the old story a certain new and flippant flare, beginning this way:

I'm wondering now if you all have heard
Of the critter they called the Piasa Bird.
Leopard and lion, and wolf and lynx,
Were all of them parts of this Piasa jinx.
Eagle and buzzard and vulture and hawk
Each was a part of him, out on a lark.
Partly feathered, but hairy, too,
With wings and fins and eyes of blue.
Eyes that shone like electric light
And chased the shadows away from night.
The thing could fly, could swim, could walk,
And always the Indian plump would stalk;
Would not only stalk but would grab and eat,
And always wanted more Indian meat.

It was that sort of a thing, if Callahan is to be believed, that swept down one day, when Ouatoga's daughter was on her way to Lovers' Leap, another main attraction, for

A warrior not of her father's klan
Had won his place as her only man.
But he had not won from the maiden's pa
Consent to make her his loving squaw.

The bird found them there and was for eating them on the spot, but, locked in each other's arms, they threw themselves from the rock, which to this day is known as Lovers' Leap. Ouatoga made a vow to get that bird—

And his prayer was answered on one fair day
When the bird was out on a hunt for prey.
Where the spirit led him the chieftain sat,
Concealed in bushes that made a mat—
While a decoy Indian danced near by,
To lure the bird as it circled high.
And the trick worked fine, as he downward sped,
Ouatoga's arrows went through his head.
Went through the head of this bird, and heart,
And gave the Illinis another start.

It is a pity to take from the lovers of legend, the poets and sweet singers the story of the Piasa Bird; but now comes E. W. Payne, a Springfield historian, who has been looking into the matter, and he gives it as his mature judgment that all this stuff about the Piasa Bird is bunk, mostly created by said lovers of legend—the poets and the sweet singers—out of very thin and indefinite material.

The bird is Chinese, says this intrepid destroyer of idols. Anybody, by looking at it, can tell that it is Chinese. And then there is the circumstance, which he thinks sufficiently established, that the Chinese discovered Alton and all the country round about long before the Illinis moved in. And they painted the Chinese dragon on the Alton rocks to claim the region for their sovereign and leave a record of their conquest.

"Probably about the time that Christopher Columbus was landing on the eastern extremity of North America," says Mr. Payne, "Chinese explorers arrived at the west coast of the country and, following the best marked trails, the Platte Trail and the Clark Trail, which was centuries old before Clark ever saw it, they penetrated to the Mississippi River and the capital of the continent at Cahokia. Like Columbus and Balboa, they claimed the country, and in doing so placed the Chinese flag on the cliffs at Alton. This was later known as the Piasa Bird. A superficial examination of the painting shows that it is undoubtedly a Chinese dragon, the national emblem of the empire.

"The time of this exploration is very hard to fix. Limestone weathers easily and as the dragon could still be seen 50 years ago, it seems improbable that it was painted more than five centuries ago. The theory that the dragon was painted by aborigines of Oriental stock is not tenable, as it could not have survived on the cliffs that long. There is no doubt in my mind that it was painted by the Chinese explorers who came at a recent date, historically speaking.

"All accounts of this petroglyph are merely descriptive. The Indians knew nothing of its origin, although they had their legends and traditions. Tradition seldom carries more than 150 years. All opinions are merely conjecture; but I think, beyond question, it was the national emblem of the Chinese Empire. Nearly all our Stone Age relics, which undoubtedly are Mongol, emphasize this conclusion."

It is possible to give full credence to the claims of the Chinese to Alton's bird; but there is still hope for the legend, for out of the dispute may come the conclusion that the Illini, finding the monster on the rocks, found also in it the inspiration for the legend of the man-eater which they reasoned must have existed—otherwise his picture would not have been on the rock. So Alton saves its legend, even though the Chinese are given credit for the art which is being replaced.

As the Piasa Bird is supposed to have looked. This is one of several old-time depictions of the frightful monster that made the Illini Indians' lives just one scare after another.

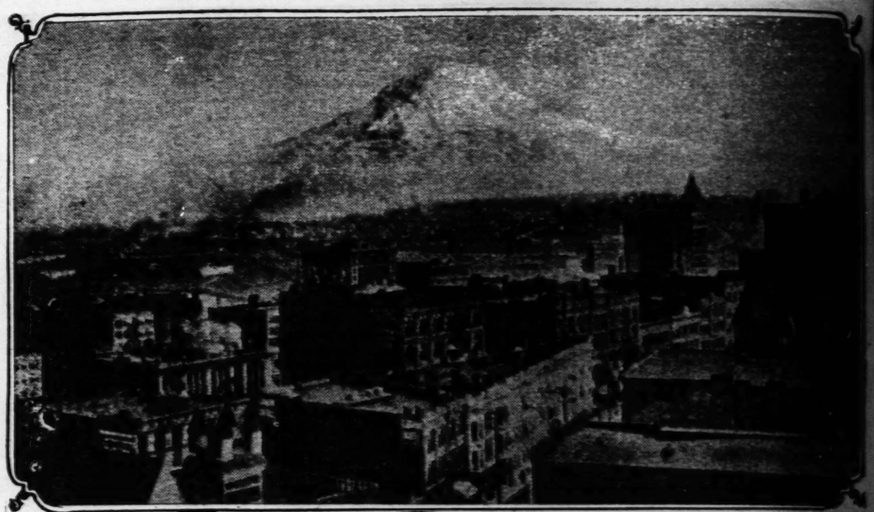
Voice Pictures to Diagnose Nervousness

THERE have been invented in recent years a number of machines and combinations of scientific devices with which the exact nature of the human voice can be pictured in the form of a wavy line on a chart, just as an assemblage of such lines makes what we call a map; a picture, that is, of the land surface of a city or a farm.

Now these voice pictures have been used to determine the nervous condition of patients suffering from various disorders. Everyone knows that one of the pronounced symptoms of nervousness is an alteration of the voice. It becomes shrill and "edgy." Dr. E. W. Scripture, a distinguished European expert in the study of sound, has been able to detect these nervous voices and to distinguish between different kinds of nervousness—by the use of the voice pictures described. It may be that a "camera" for photographing the voice will become a regular fixture in the office of the up-to-date physician.

The American Mountain Battle

The Olympians (of Olympia, Wash.) have launched a new defensive against Tacoma—Old Rainier doesn't even shake or nod his hoary head while puny men in the plains and foothills plan new campaigns—How the "Rainier" and "Tacoma" factions thrice have carried their banners to the national capital—Was the British Admiral Rainier a pirate or was the mountain named for a brand of beer?—How the controversy throttles publicity for a national park



The city of Tacoma, with Mount Rainier (beg pardon—Mount Tacoma!) in the background—The mountain is 50 miles from the city, but it looks close up.

WHEN the mountain would not come to Mahomet, he went to the mountain.

Thus far, no one seems to have thought of changing the name of Tacoma, Wash., to Rainier, and so one of the most remarkable controversies in history goes on, and is going strong—just now stronger than ever—after 41 years of hate, strife, recrimination and boycott, the far-reaching effects of which have spread all over the West and Northwest, including British Columbia and Western Canada, and have sent their vengeful echoes rumbling through the legislative halls at the nation's capital. Piracy and beer have played strange parts in the conflict.

The nub of this controversy is that the city of Tacoma, nearest large community to a certain celebrated mountain, known for more than a century as Mount Rainier, has been making a valiant and persistent fight to have the mountain's name changed to Tacoma.

A resolution authorizing the change was approved by the United States Senate in April of this year, but the same resolution died in committee in the House of Representatives.

The United States Geographic Board twice has refused to change the name of the mountain. The failure of Congress to take definite action has thrown the question back to this board, which, however, is tired of climbing mountain peaks of evidence and argument. The latest pronouncement of the board, through its secretary, James McCormick, is that it "will let Congress handle the question."

The narrow squeak by which the change of name was avoided in the last Congress has aroused opponents of the change to new activity. The Chamber of Commerce of Olympia, Wash., has been moved to the publication and distribution of a 32-page pamphlet on the subject. In this it had the co-operation of the Thurston County Pioneer and Historical Society.

In addition, the latter society has issued this warning:

"Newspaper and magazine offices are being flooded with beautiful views of Mount Rainier for publication, but with captions falsely stating that Congress has changed the name to Mount Tacoma, 'the old Indian name.' All editors should beware—no such action has been taken by Congress. The resolution to change the name rests in the Public Lands Committee of the House, awaiting report and advice from the United States Geographic Board, to whom it was referred."

On both sides of the controversy pamphlets enough to make a fair-sized library have been issued. One of the most interesting of these is "The Name," by S. H. McKown, an ardent supporter of the Tacoma side of the question. He voices one of the principal objections to the present name of the mountain—that it was called Rainier in honor of a British Admiral who fought against the American colonies. McKown writes:

"Admiral Rainier was an obscure Britisher who ravaged our coasts in the time of the Revolutionary War, robbed our citizens, killed and destroyed our people, carried away men, women and children, and consigned them to the hold of his ship, maltreated and starved them to death and heaved their bodies overboard as so much common garbage."

Other writers did not hesitate to put Admiral Rainier in the pirate class and picture him as a scourge of the seas, unworthy of the honor of having a mountain named for him.

To offset this, the opponents of the movement to change the mountain's name have dug up historical data to show that Admiral Rainier never was a pirate and that as an officer of the English Navy he never was closer to the American shores than the West Indies and that he fought only one engagement with an American ship—a privateer. They quote from the Dictionary of National Biography:

"On May 3, 1777, Lieut. Rainier was promoted by Vice Admiral Clark Gayton to the command of the Ostrich sloop and in her, on July 8, 1778, captured a large American privateer after a hard-fought action, in which he was severely wounded."

The biographical sketch goes on to say that after this victory Rainier was advanced to post rank and appointed to the Buford, a 64-gun ship in which

This photograph, hailing from Tacoma and marked "Not Copyrighted," bears the caption "Mount Tacoma, in Rainier National Park." If Seattle or Olympia had sent it out, the picture would have been labeled "Mount Rainier," but it would show the same splendid old sawtooth peak.

Discussing the objection to having a mountain named for a foreigner, the writer of the Olympia pamphlet says:

"British royalty and British nobility have been generously recognized on the Atlantic seaboard in the nomenclature of states and cities. Even the hated name of King George was given to Georgetown, almost within the shadow of the dome of the Capitol; and, without offense to our patriotic sensibilities, it is perpetuated in the name of a sovereign State. We have had a war with Spain, and still the Californians live without serious mental anguish in cities with the Spanish names of San Francisco, San Jose, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and San Diego. We have had a war with Mexico, and still we have a State of New Mexico. No other name bestowed by Mount Rainier's discoverer, Vancouver, has been questioned, although many of them, notably Mount Baker, Mount St. Helens, Bellingham, Hood's Canal, Port Townsend, Puget Sound, Whidby Island and Vashon Island, honor British royalty and British army and navy officers.

"America's national shrine, Mount Vernon, was so named by Lawrence Washington, a brother of George Washington, in honor of his British friend, Admiral Vernon, with whom he fought the West Indian campaign. George Washington, who inherited the property, saw no reason why he should change the name of this estate because the colonies had engaged in a war with Great Britain."

But aside from the objection to having the mountain named for a British Admiral, the Tacoma advocates have another string to their bow. They assert that Tacoma was the original and traditional Indian name for the mountain and urge that it is in keeping with American practice to retain, wherever possible, these basically American names.

This argument started the philologists and language students on a big hunt designed to track the word "Tacoma" to its lair. It was found hiding between the pages of a book called "The Canoe and the Saddle," written by the celebrated writer, Theodore Winthrop, who, in his youth, in 1853, made a canoe and horseback trip through the Cascade Mountain regions as an employe of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. and was killed in battle as a Union officer in the Civil War. The book was published in 1862. In it occurs this short paragraph, which has been of tremendous import in the controversy:

"Of all the peaks from California to Fraser's River, this one before me was royalest. Mount Regnier, Christians have dubbed it, in stupid nomenclature, perpetuating the name of somebody or nobody. More melodiously the Siwashes call it Tacoma—a generic term also applied to all snow peaks."

Elsewhere in his book Winthrop usually applies the official name Rainier to the mountain and in a personal letter to his mother he writes:

"Over the trees that belted the river, nearer than ever, arose graceful St. Helens, and now, first clearly seen, the immense bulk of Rainier, the most massive of all—grand, grand above the plains. Had a jolly time; a splendid sheet of water, with islands and nooks of bays, Mount Rainier hung up in the air."

Despite Winthrop's use of the name Rainier for the mountain, the proponents of the change in name have never tired of citing him as an authority in support of their contention that Tacoma is the traditional Indian designation.

One of the State of Washington's historians is Thomas W. Prosch, publisher of Tacoma's first newspaper and son-in-law of Gen. M. M. McCarver, who platted and named the townsite of Tacoma. In a Washington State Historical Society publication he writes:

"I feel quite sure that prior to 1866 Tacoma had never appeared in any Washington Territory publication and I feel equally sure that it never appeared in print anywhere until the coming of Theodore Winthrop's 'Canoe and Saddle' in 1862. I have never been able to find it in any written letters, diaries, narratives or the prints of the Territory, or the nation. None of the early representatives of the British or American Governments—Vancouver, Lewis and Clark, Wilkes, Elijah White, Fremont, et al—seem to have heard of it, though it was directly in their line, and so also may be said of the first missionaries, the Hudson's Bay men, the Governor Stevens expedition, the settlers of 50 and 60 years ago" (this was written in 1908), "no one as far as I have learned wrote the word, put it in type, or otherwise used it before Winthrop. He may have heard it, or something like it, among the Indians.

"Winthrop was a stranger, a mere passer-through, and it must have been difficult for him to communicate intelligently with the savages about him. If you don't think so, try it even now with an Indian who cannot speak the English. He also wrote his book several years afterward and then, with the aid of a Chinook jargon dictionary. I only mean to say that the word was not in use on Puget Sound before 1866, and that after it came to us but few of us for a number of years knew its alleged meaning. The knowledge was spreading rapidly, however, after the name Tacoma was given to the town on Commencement Bay by Gen. McCarver."

Judge Elwood Evans of Tacoma, author of "The History of the Pacific Northwest," has this to say about the name in his book, "Mountains of Oregon":

"This beautiful name of our city is a pure invention. Its very euphony divests it of all claim as the Indian nomination of old Mount Rainier. • • • Tacoma is a word of extremely modern origin invented by or used first by Lieut. Theodore Winthrop, U. S. A., in his readable book, 'Canoe and Saddle.' • • • The writer first heard it late in the '60's, when Capt. D. B. Finch presented a building in Olympia to the Good Templars and his gift was christened 'Tacoma Hall.'"

Contemporaneously, Tacoma City, now the First Ward of Tacoma, was thus named by some Portland town builders. Then the leading hotel of Olympia assumed that title, but a whole decade passed before the attempt was made to obliterate the time-honored name of the great mountain peak of Northwest America conferred by the first visit of white men in 1792. Late in 1878 a lithographed map and bird's-eye view of the embryo city of New Tacoma was published under the patronage of the Tacoma Land Co., entitled 'New Tacoma and Mount Rainier.' At that date the name Tacoma existed, but it was not applied to the mountain, nor was it ever dreamed that the town was named from the Indian name of the mountain. The fact is that the name 'Mount Tacoma' has been recently conferred on the mountain by white men. A decade back the name will not be found on the maps of Washington Territory and it is to be hoped that the attempt to obliterate from the maps of the world the name conferred by that illustrious contributor to geographic names, Capt. George Vancouver, R. N., will prove unsuccessful." •

Then follows a long statement of interviews with many Indians on the subject, and the conclusion:

"The writer finds no warrant for adopting Tacoma as an Indian word nor does he believe that

The Stars, Like Animals, A[illegible]born, L[illegible]

"The life of a star," according to modern science, "as the life of a man, is but a brief interval of brilliance between dark and dark"—That "brief interval," however, may be some billions of years—Until days comparatively recent it was assumed that all the stars (there are two or three billions of them, it seems) were solid globes like our sun, but now the learned men tell us that many are merely vast bodies of thin gas—These gaseous gatherings grow unspeakably hotter before they begin to cool off—They contract in size, live out their little terms of a few billions of years, and become cold corpses of worlds buried in infinite space —There are "giants" and "dwarfs"

Inside the steel observatory building on Mount Wilson, near Los Angeles, showing the operating mechanism of the great 100-inch reflecting telescope through which astronomers are learning marvelous things about the stars. The mirror or lens can be lowered automatically into a room beneath, where the mirror can be resilvered.

"This is the life of stars: Out of the black night of space they come together, we know not how, as the thin and dimly shining giants. Gradually they wax. Still more gradually they wane. Back they go, at the end, into invisibility and night. The life of a star, as the life of a man, is but a brief interval of brilliance between dark and dark."

amongst stars, and the sun is a dwarf—Compared with some of the giants, he is almost unworthy of notice, just a little old yellow dwarf moving about between the paths of the Goliaths :: ::

By E. E. FREE, Ph. D.,
Fellow of American Association for the Advancement of Science.

IT USED to be imagined by the astronomers that all the stars are like the sun. The number of stars is well over a billion; it may be as great as two or three billions. All these were supposed to be hot, shining globes of semi-liquid matter similar in every way to the one star that rules the solar system and supplies us with our light and heat.

This idea has been abandoned. We know now that the stars are of many kinds. Only a few of them are suns like ours. Others are vast bubbles of thin gas, far less dense than air; less dense, in fact, than the most perfect vacuum that we have ever produced on earth. They are almost nothing, but they float in a space so empty that it is a still more perfect nothing.

Other stars are denser than this but still light enough to be gaseous. Some of them are so hot that if they occupied for one second the place of our sun the earth and everything on it would be burnt to a cinder. And still other stars, we believe, are so dark that we do not see them at all; dead suns that have already lived out their lives and been buried in the blackness of space, perhaps to lie there always, perhaps to be rejuvenated in some later age by some cataclysm that we cannot foresee.

And amid all this diversity of stellar worlds, as amid the diversity of human lives, there runs a thread of history. Stars do not just exist. They are born; they last awhile; they die.

In a village of a thousand persons there will be some babies, some adolescent youths, some mature men in the prime of life, some oldsters whose paths are moving toward the shadows. So with the stars. Among the two or three billions of them we know to exist there are some just born into the stellar family. Others are bright and vigorous, in the best milleniums of their lives. Others are old and dying; dim of eye and sluggish in energy, even as are their counterparts among men.

Stars differ, as everyone can see, in brightness. This fact was always obvious, and the ancient astronomers classified the stars according to their apparent brightness, what is called scientifically their "magnitude." Even when allowance is made for the dimming effect of greater distance from the earth the stars continue to display great variations in real brightness. Some of them shine much more brightly than our sun, others more dimly. The differences in brightness exceed a millionfold; a greater difference than that between the brightness of the most powerful arc lamps and the brightness of a burning match.

On top of this there is another great difference among the stars. They differ in the color of their light. Some are brilliant white, like the dog star, Sirius. Others are yellow, like our sun. Still others are red, like the famous Betelgeuse, the great red star at the shoulder of Orion.

One of the earliest applications of the spectroscope to the study of the stars was to the confirming of this apparent difference in the color of the starlight. This instrument will analyze the light of a star just as successfully as it analyzes the light of a test flame in the laboratory. It will tell you what chemical elements are in the star and something of the state that these chemical elements are in; whether they are in the form of cool vapors, or red-hot liquids like molten iron, or glowing gases like the flame of an oxy-hydrogen blowpipe.

Sir Norman Lockyer, one of the first to use the spectroscope on starlight, discovered that while the chemical elements in the stars were about the same everywhere they were in very different conditions in different stars. The white stars, for example, seemed to be very much hotter than the red ones. Some of the chemical elements in these white stars seemed actually to have been decomposed. The elements that were left were all in the form of white-hot, brightly glowing gases. The red stars, on the other hand, showed spectroscopic evidence of a much lower degree of heat.

Lockyer suggested, therefore, that the stars might be arranged in an evolutionary series according to their temperature. It was possible, he thought, that all of them had been once as hot as the brilliant white stars still are. Some had cooled more [illegible] the others. The life history of a star, according to Lockyer's view, was a mere cooling from a [illegible] of white-hot gas down to a cold and non-luminous cinder.

Stars, he thought, were like the pieces of iron that a blacksmith draws out of the fire. At first they were brilliant white, gradually they [illegible] through the orange and yellow into the red, just as the blacksmith's iron does. Finally they were cold and black.

It has been discovered, however, that this [illegible] picture of star history is too simple to be true. Some of the stars are growing hotter, not cooler. The brightest stars are not really the newest ones, the babies of the stellar family. These bright ones are in middle age, already with a long life behind them.

The beginning of this newer knowledge was [illegible] that stars vary tremendously in [illegible] that the astronomers call the [illegible] much smaller and are called dwarfs. [illegible], vast as it seems to us, is not in the dwarf one. Its diameter [illegible] 900,000 miles, more than a hundred times greater than that of the earth, but a mere trifle with the tremendous sizes of the [illegible] these giants belongs, for example, the star Betelgeuse in Orion. When the Mount Wilson Observatory measured this star a year or so ago they found its diameter of about 215,000,000 miles, enough to have occupied the place of our sun, which would actually be inside the star, so vast is its bulk.

[illegible], however, these bloated giants are [illegible] than the sun. They are made of [illegible] gas. In the case of Betelgeuse [illegible] ample, it is probable that the substance of the star is so thin that if we were transported there we would think ourselves in a vacuum. The inside of an electric light globe after the air has been pumped out as completely as possible still contains, it is probable, more matter per cubic inch than is contained in the substance of one of these giant stars. There is a vast difference in condition between these clouds of glowing gas, far thinner than the thinnest air, and the more nearly solid, dwarf stars like our sun.

This difference, astronomers now believe, arises from age. The great gaseous giants, like Betelgeuse, are the youngest stars. They have just emerged into stardom out of some mysterious previous condition that we still know nothing about.

These young giants are comparatively cool. This fact is indicated by their reddish color as well as by direct evidence obtained through the spectroscope, and indicating that these giant gas clouds contain certain chemical substances that cannot exist at the white heat of the hotter stars. The next step in the progress of these giants through the life path of stardom is that they should grow hotter.

This happens, we believe, by virtue of contraction. When you compress the gases in the cylinder of an automobile they get hot. Any kind of gas always gets hot when it is compressed by anything, even by its own weight. That is what the giant stars like Betelgeuse do; they compress themselves by their own weight.

The gas that composes them is very thin, but it occupies a vast volume of space. Like all matter, it exerts gravitational attraction. The gas particles on one side of the star attract, and are attracted by, the gas molecules on the other side. So the gas cloud tends to draw together and become compressed. Thus the star, during the first part of its life, grows hotter. Presently its reddish color brightens into yellow, then into white.

Finally, when the giant has contracted to a small fraction of its original bulk, and has heated itself up to a temperature of 20,000 or 40,000 degrees, it enters middle age. It becomes a dwarf star, but a very hot one; the hottest kind of star, in fact, that we know anything about. There are numerous stars of this type in the sky. Sirius is one of them; the star called Rigel, a companion of Betelgeuse in the constellation of Orion, is a still better example.

From now on a star enters its decline. It has contracted as much as is possible. It can heat itself no hotter. Heat begins to be lost into space faster than it is acquired by contraction and the star begins to cool.

Its color passes now through the same changes as before, but in a reverse direction. Vigorous middle-aged stars are brilliant white. As they cool they become yellow, then orange, then red as they were when they were young and gaseous giants. Finally their light fails altogether and they grow dim and dark.

Our sun, warm and vigorous as he seems to us, is well along in old age. It is probable that he, too, was once a cool and widespread giant, his matter reaching perhaps well out into the space now occupied by the planets. As time went on—billions of years of it, for these lives of stars are on a scale of time as vast as is their scale of size—the sun passed, we cannot doubt, through this time of high heat and vigorous middle age. Now he is dense (as stars go), shrunken and yellow. In the terminology of the astronomer our sun is a "yellow dwarf."

What will happen now? The sun will share, we believe, the fate of stars in general. Slowly it will cool. After a billion more years, or maybe after ten billion, the sun will have lost his yellow color and become red. As the eons pass he will grow colder and colder, dimmer and dimmer. Finally, if no stellar collision stops us in the meantime, a dead sun and eight dead planets will drift along invisibly through the blackness of space.

The life of a star, as the life of a man, is but a brief interval of brilliance between dark and dark.

Potiphar Buss Stays Home

By William Dudley Pelley

IT WAS in the late '90's that Potiphar Buss came to us—a seedy little man, as bald as an egg.

Tramp printer though he may have been, he became a fixture in our country print shop; and, with the happy combination of Potiphar Buss and the old drum press, we could always be sure of getting out a paper.

The years have come and gone with Potiphar Buss sitting on a high stool in our ad alley, a cob pipe upside down in his toothless gums, his vest unbuttoned, his cracked spectacles near the end of a cauliflower nose and his right hand swinging deftly over the case with cuff stud loosed and wristband dragging.

"Well," he commented the first night, as he washed with the rest of us around the battered corner sink, "this looks like a good place and I guess I'll stick. All the same, some day I'm goin' to take a trip around the world!"

He said it in 1898; he said it in 1908; he said it 1918. But something always prevented him from realizing that great ambition.

One day, in the spring of 1919, we returned from dinner to find waiting around our office a young man who looked as though he had contracted all the brands of hard luck loosed on the world. The Robbins boy's face was pitiful because, aside from the lines of anxiety and wistfulness, which should never show on the features of a boy, his right eye was almost white—going bad from cataract. The lad's clothes looked as though they had been slept in for a thousand nights; he needed shaving; his hair was unkempt and curled down over a soiled collar from beneath a rusty cap. His age could have been 20; his face was that of an old man.

"Say, now, please can I have work?" he implored us. "I'll do anything if you'll pay me money. Please, can I have work?"

Sam Hod, the proprietor, looked the boy over keenly. Drink wasn't responsible for such a condition. "Where you from?" he demanded.

"I, now, come from Maryland. I been working, on and off—lots of places. But, now, I'll work faithful—I promise I will! I'll try my hardest to stick to a steady job."

Sam said to Fred Osgood, the local real estate man—who was in the office to advertise for a bunch of lost keys:

"Something wrong with that boy, Fred; screw loose somewhere." He turned back to the lad. "Do you know the printer's trade? Can you set ads?"

"Yes, sir!" the boy responded, eagerly.

"All right! We'll see! Take him into the back room, Bill. Turn him over to Potiphar Buss."

"And, now, the wages," asked the boy. "How much money can you let me have?"

"Nine dollars a week ought to be pretty good pay for a lad of your years—not worth much more than an apprentice"——

The lad's disappointment was pathetic.

"You, now, couldn't make it twelve?"

"Why!" exclaimed Sam, "I can get half the boys in town for $9 a week to start. Why do you want twelve?"

"I—now—well, never mind! I'd rather have nine than nothing. But if I work hard I wish you'd make it twelve."

"We'll see how well you know your business first. Here's this ad for the classified column Mr. Osgood's just written. Old Potiphar will show you the case of six-point. Tell him I said to put you setting the classified ads for today's paper."

The boy went out; was duly presented to Potiphar and loaned one of the latter's black aprons. He climbed upon a stool and started setting the classifieds. It was only a little four-line advertisement saying that Fred Osgood had lost a key ring with a metal tag marked "L. C. Stevens." But he required the balance of the afternoon to finish it.

While the last forms were being locked, and we were standing around watching the paper go to press, he said to old man Buss:

"How does it happen a man named Osgood is advertising for keys marked Stevens?"

"They probably belong to the old Stevens property out on the North Foxboro road," replied Potiphar. "Fred's caretaker for the property, winters. The Stevenses go to New York durin' snow times."

"And leave it furnished?"

"Yeah," returned the other, impatiently. He was intent on a clothing ad that refused to "lift."

That night as we were washing up, the pressman asked the new boy:

"Where you livin', sonny?"

"Nowhere—yet!" the boy replied:

"Come over with me t' Mis' Mathers—she'll take you in," said Potiphar Buss. "The paper's got an arrangement with her to board its help. If they don't have t' price, the widder takes it out in advertisin'."

It was Friday morning that "Blink" Robbins—as the boys and girls called him because of his optical affliction—started his tryout. We had finally to admit that the lad was impossible.

He was trying desperately to make good. But he couldn't see to do his work. He had to hunt the copy and his type case over with his one good eye and that took time. He ran into things or knocked over galleys or forms or live advertisements on his blind side.

It would require courage to get rid of him, for up in these little hill towns we do not discharge our employes with the sang froid of the cities. At last, one Saturday afternoon, as kindly as he could, Sam called the lad aside, gave him $9 and broke it to him gently:

"Suppose, sonny, you sort of take your time and look around. See if you can't connect with something else to do"——

"You mean, now, that I'm fired?" he whispered, with a gulp.

"Not exactly fired—yet. You can stay around and work a spell until you find another place. But—don't be too long about it."

He worked the next week blindly—without spirit—utterly broken. He grew into such a nuisance around the office we contemplated giving him $20 and telling him to pull his freight—anywhere—so long as he got from underfoot. Meeting Mrs. Mathers on the ... After I'd learned my trade I was goin' to take a job somewhere at man's wages—and send for her—and we'd be happy together."

The printer nodded.

"The night before I came to go away we took a long walk, Mr. Buss—we came to the edge of the bay across from the city. It was sort o' a misty evening, Mr. Buss. All the world was raw and cold and lonesome—an' we looked at the lights of the city across the water and it seemed as if it was we two against the whole world—there was nobody to mind, nobody to care. And a great big homesickness came over me then, Mr. Buss. I was afraid something would happen—that I'd lose her. I said: 'Mary, let's get married tonight—and when I've landed that job up in New England I'll send for you' "——

"You didn't have the money t' take her with yeh?" asked Potiphar.

"No, only had the money for the minister and the license and my railroad fare t' the job. And I married her that night—it seems years ago!—and it was all over so soon—I was frightened"——

"An' yet it was bindin'—bindin' fr life!" thought Potiphar. "Many a good man's been ruined by havin' $2 handy fr a marriage license!"

"I went away and took the job, Mr. Buss. You understand how it was! They thought I was a man—from my letters. When they saw I was only about 17 they refused me man's wages."

"And yer wife kept writin' wantin' to know why she couldn't join you"——

"That's it, Mr. Buss. And she was afraid to leave her job in the factory. She might not get another."

Potiphar thought of the long, closely written letters full of love and endearment and youthful hope and pitiful aspiration, the first he had read that noontime. Then he remembered how they had dwindled. The boy's broken

"It's only me—Potiphar Buss from the printing office! Don't be scared, Georgie — it's only Potiphar Buss!"

voice was going on feverishly again:

"I tried to make her understand, Mr. Buss. But she said I'd stopped lovin' her. She said I was spendin' my wages on myself—that I didn't want her to come on—that she'd ruined her life marryin' me on impulse—I didn't never intend to send for her."

"I understand, bub," said Potiphar Buss.

"I worked hard! God! how I tried! My eye botherin' me more and more all the time"——

The old printer sat stiffly with his chubby hands on his seedy little knees, his gaze far away. Verily he knew. Even if the boy had been given the promised pay, when divided by two and the young wife's share sent to help with the bills of her young motherhood, there would have been pitifully little indeed for the fare to bring them together, or to buy the furnishings for a home. The lad had problems which only a strong man should know.

"But every week I sent her all I could," the boy sobbed on. "I tried to get 'em to raise my pay, but they never could understand. I was getting as much as most boys of my age—why shouldn't I be satisfied? They laughed at me and said a boy of my age had no business with a baby. Then they got mad and said business was business and if I didn't like what they was payin' me, I could get out!"

"Which you did?"

"I just had to!" replied the boy. "I got another job and another! But it was always the same. I had a man's expenses but they'd only pay me a boy's wages, never mind how hard I worked. And my eye was goin' badder and badder all the time."

Potiphar thought of the hard, strange ring he had detected in the last three of the girl's letters. He thought of the long list of the baby's outfit—which he had read with an ache in his own heart—as the woman had written it—and her expenses which were mounting up, which again no boy should know. And Potiphar Buss verily understood. "Why didn't the boy want his wife and baby up there with him?"—in a score of places the distraught woman's query had sounded. And the grown man saw that the boy had not told her of his poor luck, of the injustice of his wages, of his trampings across country to get the better job and find a way out with his overburdened heart a leaden thing. Finally he remembered the ultimatum in the last letter—the letter the boy must have received while working at the local newspaper office—the doctor from the institution had said it was only a question of time—the little son's death might be averted if certain things, all costing money, were provided—and the letter no longer contained endearing epithets or outlined the future enshrined in a glorified mist. Indeed, it intimated many wild, foolish and shameful things which she would do before she'd see the baby die. And it must have prodded like a sharp bodkin into the boy's naked heart.

"And you stole Sam's payroll t' save your baby's life?" suggested Potiphar Buss.

"There wasn't any other way," replied the boy.

"But you might know you'd get arrested."

"I'd got to the place where I didn't care!"

"Where's the money, bub?"

"I mailed it to her a few minutes after I took it. Oh, I wish I could die. I'm only standin' in her way. Maybe with me gone she could marry someone who'd take care of her—her and the baby. She could get married again. Besides, the baby—my little baby—mustn't have a father in jail! It was the only way out—takin' the money. I just got to the end of my rope—the very, very end! Oh, God! if I'd only had a chance!"

Potiphar sat staring blankly at the opposite wall. On the cot the boy groaned with the fire in his blood—the greater burn in his heart—the father who was too young to be entitled to a baby—the little son he had never seen.

Did it come to the old man's father-heart in that moment—the heart stunted and disappointed by his abnormal bachelor existence during long years of loneliness—the agony and worry and tragedy in the heart of the boy? What could it have been that made Mr. Potiphar Buss sit so silently by the strange bed of illness, with the stark sorrow in hazy old eyes?

It must have been toward 4 o'clock in the morning that the boy came back to consciousness.

"Sonny," said the old printer, his voice uneven, "you can't stay here; it ain't your home and someone might come. You got to spruce up and try t' walk a piece. You got to lemme help you back to town."

The boy was a bit more sane.

"I stole money," he said, in a hollow voice. "I'm a thief an' they're after me. It's better I die"——

"No, no, sonny—no, it ain't!" declared Mr. Potphar Buss. "I'll make it all right. You trust old Potiphar. See if you can stand it, sonny. Old Potiphar will help you back t' town. F'r you've got to go back. You'll perish here. And you mustn't perish. No, you mustn't perish. Old Potiphar won't have it. Besides, there's the wife—and the baby!"

"Oh, well, I'll go back and give myself up, I guess. I s'pose it's right I should."

"Old Potiphar will fix it, sonny. Trust old Potiphar to fix it!"

"You really mean it? You ain't kiddin' me, are you?"

"Potiphar Buss never kids, bub—Potiphar Buss never kids!"

They came up Main street in the silent dawn. They met no one. The boy almost succumbed to the exertion. But for that matter, so did Potiphar.

He took the lad into the boarding house just as the widow was arising to prepare early breakfast.

"I hardly know which o' the two of us is the sickest, him or me," he said, with a wry humor, as motherly Mrs. Mathers, with exclamations of amazement and compassion, helped him to get the nearly unconscious boy to bed.

"You call Dr. Johnson, Mis' Mathers," ordered the printer. "Me—I'm goin' up right away to see Sam Hod."

He roused Sam out of bed and made him come down. The editor flung on a bathrobe and faced his moth-eaten employe across the table of the chilly dining room.

Potiphar took a fat little wallet—fat, yet battered with life-like himself—from his coat pocket. He counted out nine $10 bills and shoved them across to Sam.

"It's your payroll, Hod. I made the boy give it back," lied Mr. Buss, stoically. "He's restored your money, now you can't hold him any longer or prosecute him." And Potiphar told where and how the boy was found.

"Yes, I can!" declared Sam. "Even if he gave it back the fact remains he committed a felony"——

"No, no, Sam Hod! You won't prosecute him."

"Why won't I, Potiphar Buss?"

"Prosecute him, Samuel Hod, and I—I—I quit you cold!"

Sam smiled weakly. Finally he said: "Of course, if you feel that way about it, Pott"——

"And you'll take him back?"

"No! I couldn't do that!"

"Then I quit you—I quit you cold, Samuel Hod!"

"But Potiphar—I"——

"I ain't much use in this world, Sam Hod. I won't never set the world on fire—now. All my life's gone by. Ain't got no folks t' mind when I'm gone, Sam Hod. I saved a little money to go 'round the world, but I might as well use it t' help someone make a success of his life if I ain't made much of a success of mine."

Sam was fully awake now and staring at his old printer, aroused as he had never seen him aroused and never dreamed he could be aroused.

"I'm goin' t' send f'r his wife and little baby, Samuel Hod. I'm goin' t' loan him the money to furnish a little house. Then, if it don't cost more'n I got, I'm goin' t' send him away an' see if them city doctors can't take that fuzz off his eye. When he comes back I want you should give him a regular job in the ad alley. Not an apprentice's job—not a boy's job—but a man's job at real man's wages."

To Sam's questions then Potiphar Buss told the boy's story and produced the pitiful letters in proof. He concluded by declaring:

"Ye see, it's this way, Sam Hod: I'm old and played out an' my life's gone to seed. I'm nothin' but an old tramp printer who's wasted his substance in riotous livin'. I allus been sorry I ain't got no folks t' care about me or that I could do things for. Figgered it out as I sat by his bed last night that it's a sort

THE SIZE OF FAMILIES IN FICTION

WHEN I read in the Observer that a Tonbridge lady recently gave birth to her twenty-second child, says a writer in the London Observer, I was reminded of a letter received a few days earlier, inviting me to discuss the size of families in fiction. My correspondent points out that, as regards "effective" characters, most novelists believe in family limitation. Dickens, for example, preferred a family of two children, only rarely endowing parents with three, and often restricting them a single child.

This, as my correspondent adds, throws into interesting relief the courage of Miss Austen, who gives a family of five (all daughters) to Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, in "Pride and Prejudice," and contrives that four of them shall give value and point to the story.

It was, I believe, John Stuart Mill who made the generalization that clergymen and peers of the realm have the largest families in fact. In fiction, so far as my knowledge goes, the clergymen easily surpass the peers. The Rev. Mr. Finch, in Wilkie Collins' "Poor Miss Finch," had married twice, and having only a single child by his first marriage, he had (as Madame Pratolungo supposed, "by way of a change") a large family by his second marriage.

How large that family was, Madame Pratolungo discovered on the first day of her residence in Dimchurch Vicarage. Children whispered and giggled in every corridor and at every door, until at last the visitor reached the presence of "a large, light-haired, languid, lymphatic lady," who proved to be Mrs. Finch. "Such was my first experience of the Rev. Finch's wife—destined to be also the experience of all after-time. Never completely dressed, never completely dry; always with a baby in one hand and a novel in the other—such was Finch's wife." As Madame Pratolungo was guided by a maid to Mrs. Finch's rooms, the evidence of the presence of children grew stronger:

"Every door opened as we passed; children peeped out at me and banged the door to again. 'What family has the present Mrs. Finch?' I asked. The decent elderly woman was obliged to stop and consider. 'Including the baby, ma'am, and the two sets of twins, and one seven months' child of deficient intellect—14 in all.' Hearing this, I began—though I consider priests, Kings and capitalists to be the enemies of the human race—to feel a certain exceptional interest in Rev. Finch."

Mr. Quiverful, the vicar of Puddingdale, in Trollope's "Barchester Towers," is only beaten by Mr. Finch by a single child, if we include Mr. Finch's daughter by his first marriage. His wife uses their 14 children as 14 arguments for his choice to be the new warden of Hiram's Hospital instead of Mr. Harding. And Mrs. Proudie admitted the force of the arguments. Mr. Quiverful was given the post, and it was Mr. Harding who introduced the new warden to the hospital:

"All the Barchester world, including the five old bedesmen, treated Mr. Quiverful with the more respect, because Mr. Harding had thus walked in, arm in arm with him, on his first entrance to his duties. And here in their new abode we will leave Mr. and Mrs. Quiverful and their 14 children. May they enjoy the good things which Providence has at length given them!"

What was the exact size of Rev. Horace Crewler's family in Dickens' "David Copperfield"? I am unable to answer the question, though some (but probably not all) of the data for making a calculation are provided by Tommy Traddles, Mr. Crewler's son-in-law, in the last chapter of the book:

"I really have been able, my dear Copperfield, to do all that I had most at heart. There's the Rev. Horace promoted to the living 450 pounds a year; there are our two boys receiving the very best education, and distinguishing themselves as steady scholars and good fellows; there are three of the girls married very comfortably; there are three more living with us; there are three more keeping house for the Rev. Horace since Mrs. Crewler's decease; and all of them happy."

"Except"—— I suggest.

"Except the Beauty," says Traddles.

"Yes. It was very unfortunate that she should marry such a vagabond. However, now we have got her safe at our house, and got rid of him, we must cheer her up again."

Two other families for which Dickens is responsible may reasonably be described as large. After eight years of married life Mr. and Mrs. Kenwigs, in "Nicholas Nickelby," were the parents of at least six children. An enumeration of those present at the supper given on the anniversary of the Kenwig's wedding proves this.

"After a great deal of trouble, and the administration of many slaps on the head to the infant Kenwigses, whereof two of the most rebellious were summarily banished, the cloth was laid. * * * Everybody having eaten everything, the table was cleared in the most alarming hurry * * * and the four little Kenwigses disposed on a small form in front of the company, with their flaxen tails towards them, and their faces towards the fire; an arrangement that was no sooner perfected than Mrs. Kenwigs was overpowered by the feelings of a mother, and fell upon the left shoulder of Mr. Kenwigs dissolved in tears."

Mrs. Micawber had also the feelings of a mother—in all his experience of the Micawber family, David Copperfield "hardly ever saw both the twins detached from Mrs. Micawber at the same time"—but we are not told that her maternal emotions ever caused her to be dissolved in tears. Unfortunately, neither are we told the number of Mr. Micawber's younger children, who, when Mr. Micawber resided in Port Middlebay, Australia, were "instructed to observe, as closely as circumstances will permit, the habits of the pigs and poultry maintained in the poorer parts of this city."

Engineers, both in fiction and on the stage, are usually worthy and often heroic characters, and it is but fair that at least one engineer should be included among the heads of large families. His name is Mr. Burton (of the firm of Belfby & Burton), and the size of his family is disclosed by his daughter, Florence, when she dines at the house of Sir Hugh Claverling, in Trollope's "The Claverlings":

"All my sisters are married."

"And how many are there?"

"There are five married."

"Good heavens! Five!"

"And they are all married to men in the same profession as Harry."

"Quite a family affair," said Sir Hugh."

"Why, Harry," said the Baronet, "if you will go into partnership with your father-in-law and all your brothers-in-law you could stand against the world."

"You might add my four brothers," said Florence.

"Good heavens!" exclaimed Sir Hugh, and after that he did not say much more to Florence.

Fiction, I am afraid, has not been able to equal the achievement of the Tonbridge lady, but perhaps some of my readers will remember that even she has been surpassed.

WHAT DO WE TALK ABOUT?

"AND when I wouldn't give him a date for the next night, he got sore"——

"There wasn't a bank in town that would lend us a nickel in those days. Now"——

With women it is men, and with men it is business! At least that is what three psychologists have found, after analyzing chance conversations of persons on Broadway, New York, and in Columbus, O. As for health, it has little conversational interest to anyone who is well.

Listening in on the conversation of others has always been an absorbing pastime, and many a dull journey has been enlivened for a lonely traveler by overheard conversation.

Two psychologists, M. H. Landis and H. E. Burt of Ohio State University, recently analyzed 500 conversations which they overheard in that community, with a view to finding out what are mankind's chief interests. They compared their findings, with those of the psychologist Henry T. Moore, who several years ago made a similar analysis in New York of conversations heard on Broadway.

The two Ohio scientists included in their investigations the conversations of persons in restaurants, at basket ball games, in theater lobbies, in front of store windows, on the university campus, in barber shops, in churches and on the street.

Conversations were classified under 10 headings—business and money, men, women, clothes and decoration, sports and other amusements, college work, health, self and weather. The results at Columbus, O., in general agreed with those observed on Broadway. The psychologists tell of their finds in the Journal of Comparative Psychology.

Men's most frequent topic is business—49 per cent in Columbus and 48 per cent in New York. The third topic of men's conversation is men—12 per cent in Columbus and 13 per cent in New York.

Women's leading topics are men, 22 per cent, and clothes, 19 per cent. For New York the figures were men, 44 per cent, and clothes, 23 per cent. The next topic is other women, about 15 per cent.

In mixed company men most frequently talk to women about amusement, and next of business and money. They further seem to talk to women considerably about themselves—17 per cent—which is more than when talking to other men.

Women most frequently converse with men about amusement; secondly, about clothes; thirdly, about themselves and about men.

The results were classified also as to the social status of those concerned. Business people talked about business and money in 70 per cent of cases, as compared with 43 per cent for industrial workers and 9 per cent for students.

Although health was one of the subjects catalogued, it is important to notice that it had little interest for those who were well.—From Hygeia.

Light and Smell Are Aids to the Sense of Taste

WHAT we know as taste is a somewhat more complicated sense than is commonly supposed. Now, with the sense of taste alone it is only possible to detect four flavors, which are sweet, sour, bitter and salt. All the more delicate flavors are discerned with the aid of the sense of smell. This is easily proved by holding the nostrils when eating any kind of jam, for instance. In such conditions it is quite impossible to detect the special flavor of the fruit.

A yet more curious point is to be found in the fact that the ability to taste is to an extent, at any rate, dependent upon sight. Few persons can detect the difference between beer and stout if they drink with their eyes closed. There are also a certain number of persons about who cannot tell tea from coffee if they shut their eyes when drinking.

Most of the men blinded during the war lost all pleasure in smoking; they said the tobacco had no flavor to them. In many cases by using stronger tobacco the lost pleasure in smoking has been regained. An interesting test for ordinary people, suggests a Scientific American authority, is to close the eyes while smoking a pipe or a cigarette. It is amazing the difference that it made, proving beyond all doubt that seeing the curling smoke has a great deal to do with appreciating the aroma of the tobacco.

So all this seems to indicate that, after all, the sense of smell and sight are highly important in exercising our full sense of taste.

English Girl Decides Against Mohammedan Fiance

AN ENGLISH girl who recently went to a London register office and obtained a license to marry a Mohammedan returned several days afterward and begged for the help and advice of the Registrar.

"Your marriage will be quite valid throughout the British Empire," said the Registrar, "and while you are domiciled in this country your husband will have to practice monogomy, but as soon as you return with him to his own country he is at liberty to marry several more women of his own religion, in spite of the English marriage laws.

"It is doubtful, should he choose to bring you and his polygamous wives to this country, if he could be prosecuted for bigamy. Moreover, a Mohammedan may by Mohammedan law divorce his wife at will without any legal authority; all that he has to do is to repudiate her and discharge the mahr, or marriage settlement.

"He can divorce you by these means in his own country, but if you return later to your native land and wish to marry again you will find that, according to English law, you are still a married woman."

The girl left the office full of gratitude and assured the Registrar that the license would not be needed.

The New Substitute for the Home Kitchen

metohd of basting and seasoning—mops on long handles dipped into buckets of highly seasoned sauces, though the seasonings differed in intensity of spiciness and in ingredients. All the seasoning contains vinegar or lemon juice as a means of rendering the meat tender, with fat, water, pepper and salt and possibly Worcestershire sauce, tomato catsup, herbs, onions, in a greater or lesser degree. The seasoning of his output is one factor in determining which is your favorite barbecuer.

All of them insist they use only Government-inspected packinghouse meat. It is chiefly a night-time trade, from parties returning from long rides in the country, so the merchants may carry on other occupations by day, and the money earned at barbecuing is simply "velvet."

Just how the business of barbecuing gained such impetus in one short season is not a matter of record. This method of preparing meat is as old as time, antedating all labor-saving and heat-conserving ovens. Its methods and results probably are not dissimilar to those coincident with the first discovery by man that meat cooked tasted better than raw meat. This discovery, according to tradition, back before history began, was made by a Chinese when his house burned down and his pig was roasted. I was reminded of this bit of lore by one of the roadside merchants, indicating that he hadn't always pursued this business to the exclusion of all other interests. He had read Charles Lamb's famous "Dissertation on Roast Pig."

Getting nearer home, the barbecue method of roasting is one that has been in favor in the South all through its history, maintained and developed by the negroes and imported by them to the city. The barbecue as a method of community cooking, avoiding the heating up of kitchens in the crowded tenements, has long proved the solution of a hot-weather problem among our negro population.

Barbecued meat has a number of advantages to offer over the same viands oven-roasted. One of these is that all the grease drips out and all the seasoning and all the intrinsic flavor appear to be retained and to become more deeply imbedded in the meat. A piece of barbecued pork has more the appearance of the roasted white meat of chicken. Another advantage is the appetizing odor given off in the fumes wafted through the atmosphere.

Persons flitting through the negro sections of the city in automobiles cannot help but have noticed these odors and commented, "How good that smells! It makes me hungry."

Probably some passerby with enterprise and vision connected the comments with the source of their inspiration and capitalized the idea, and that is the way the first barbecue catering to those who ride on rubber tires happened to be started on the county highways. Possibly the first patrons were persons who had become familiar with the superiority of barbecued meats in the South and their recommendations spread from ear to ear—or from mouth to mouth. Anyway, the business, once started, is prospering amazingly.

Parties stop and sample a sandwich, and find it good, so good that it doesn't matter if a few drops of gravy find their way into one's ears or down one's neck, nor that the contents of the best-equipped vanity cases are required to repair the damage wrought.

Having found the sandwiches highly satisfactory, it occurs to the provident housewife that here is the solution of the problem of tomorrow's dinner. So she orders a few slabs of spareribs or a ham or a joint of beef wrapped up and she takes it home; and, sure enough, it proves the piece de resistance, a wholesome, succulent morsel far superior in nutritive and appetizing appeal to the hastily fried or the boiled or roasted one, at the expense of adding to the heat of the already overheated apartment.

The wonder is that the idea had not been thought of or come into such general practice before this summer; and the wonder will be that, to people who fare forth in automobiles every evening, the practice of getting meats ready cooked, and cooked in so thorough and appetizing though ancient a way, does not again supersede one of our boasted modern though iniquitous customs of cooking ourselves individually along with the preparation of our exclusive and individual family meals.

THE SWEETEST SMELLS IN THE WORLD.

NEARLY everyone likes the smells of freshly cut flowers, of violets, roses and others that belong to the sweet-smelling varieties. But psychologists who have studied the matter scientifically find that flower odors are not really the ones most intensely and universally pleasing to the human nose.

This distinction belongs to the spicy odors such as cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and the others of similar character. Among hundreds of persons tested, always with odors that they could not identify by seeing the flower or in any way except by the sense of smell, not one person failed to describe a faint smell of cinnamon as being pleasant, while a number of persons were found to vote against each one of the flower odors.

The American Mountain Battle That Has Lasted Forty - One Years

such a word, or its approximate, was a name conferred by the Indians upon the mountain or exclusively recognized as the name of the mountain by the aboriginal natives of this region."

Philological science was not to be denied its opportunity to take part in this discussion. Dr. C. M. Buchanan, a noted authority on Indian customs and language, gave this learned explanation of the name:

"My belief is that the word is merely one of several variant forms of the word that is descriptive rather than nominative, an adjective rather than a noun, a description of something rather than the name of something or anything. The essential connotation is white—applied to mountains, any mountain, or in fact anything that is white. The word would be used in describing a whitewashed fence or a blank piece of white paper. The connotation is white in a strictly color sense. Winthrop may have heard the word 'White' (Tkohph or Tkohbh) and rendered it Tacoma instead of Tuh-koph-huh, or Tuh-koh-bhuh, or Tuh-hohm-huh, or Tah-kohp-hah, or Tah-kohm-hah, or Tah-kohb-hah, which are all the same, just as whites have changed Sdoh-hoh-bsh into Snohomish, Sdoh-kwahlb-bhuh into Snoqualmie, etc.

"Indeed, Winthrop did this very thing with the name of his original cicerone, whose Indian name was Doo-Kih-yohk, but which he facetiously rendered 'Duke of York.' 'White' does not designate, connote or particularly belong specifically to Rainier any more than 'fat' would mean myself and nobody else, or 'long' would mean Prof. Meany and no one else, or 'rich' mean John D. Rockefeller and no one else. Adjectives are common properties of classes or objects having that particular characteristic in common. After all, however, after the tumult and the shouting dies, when one is saying 'Tacoma' he is merely attempting to say a descriptive word (an adjective, not a substantive) meaning 'white' and used in describing any white object of any kind (including mountains, but not specifically mountains)."

It's a poor bow that hasn't more than two strings. And that's where the beer argument comes in. One of the statements circulated in a pamphlet was that in 1890, when the United States Geographic Board had a hearing and unanimously sustained the name Rainier, the then United States Senator Watson C. Squire, "as attorney for the Rainier Brewing and Malting Co., got the decision through by unfair means." Says the pamphleteer:

"A whole carload of beer and finer intoxicants rolled in, in connection with the scandalous midnight proceedings by authorities in Washington 30 years ago, fastening the name Rainier upon the mountain, thereby prostituting this noble mountain to be an advertising agency for a brand of intoxicating liquor; such are the two things whose memory is perpetuated in this insulting name upon America's grandest mountain—the British marauder's atrocities and a brand of lager beer.

"A shame, a burning shame, is this to the lofty-toned America of 1917 and 1918. A lasting insult to the men of 1776 who fought our battles and won our freedom for us. The writer is not a swearing man; if he were he would lift aloft the Henry Watterson war cry in the late Hohenzollern strife and paraphrasing it devoutly cry: 'To hell with the name Rainier from Mount Tacoma.'"

To this the upholders of the name Rainier have replied that former Senator Squire never practiced law and that the Rainier Brewing and Malting Co. never existed. They point out that the Seattle Brewing and Malting Co., which made Rainier beer, was not organized until 1893 and the first bottle of its product was not turned out until 1894, four years after the hearing. Rainier beer, they say, doubtless was named after the mountain, as were the Rainier Club in Seattle and the Rainier Lodge of Odd Fellows in Tacoma.

The long controversy was complicated at one time by the fact that between 1883 and 1890 the mountain was designated as Mount Tacoma on the maps, time tables and advertising literature of the Northern Pacific Railroad. This designation was dropped by the railroad officials after the United States Geographic Board declined to sanction the change in name.

Stephen T. Mather, director of the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior, recently told a Post-Dispatch correspondent that the district around Mount Rainier, including Mount Rainier Park and Mount Rainier National Forest, is losing a great deal of publicity because railroads will not advertise the park through fear of causing sectional antagonism. Nevertheless, many tourists journey thither and sojourn briefly or camp through a season, enjoying the wonderful scenery, and to them the name matters little.

Potiphar Butts Stays Home

o' duty I owe the old world to take a youngster like him and make a man of him, to take my place—only a better place—in society, when I'm gone. When I come to stand up 'fore God Almighty and He says to me: 'Potiphar Buss, what did you ever do in life that entities you to a place in Paradise?' I want t' be able to say: 'There's a young chap I've left back on earth, God, that's growin' into the stature of a real man, a good father and an honest citizen. There's a woman back on earth, God, who's been saved from going wrong, a satisfied, happy young mother in a little house where love is, because I butted into their affairs. And there's a little kid back on earth, God, whose life I saved with the substance I'd been selfishly hoardin' f'r wordly travel—growin' up to be a comfort and a blessin' to 'em both. That's my record, God, an' I hope it's strong enough to leave me stick around these heavenly parts a spell an' meet my folks that's somewheres around here that I won't be lonesome for, no more.' That's what I'm up to Sam Hod, and I ask you sincerely not to hinder my alibi for my presence in Paradise."

"All right, Pott—if that's the way you feel about it! Of course, I'm not one to stand in your way!"

The next morning the charge against young Robbins was withdrawn. He had a good room in Mrs. Mathers' house, and the news that his wife and baby would be with him by the end of the week was greater than any physician's medicine. He began to mend.

And the next Saturday the boy's wife arrived. The old man had rented the furnished bungalow belonging to Fred Osgood in Cedar street and had it ready for them.

The girl got off the train with the baby on her arm. She was thin, emaciated, pretty in a pale, starved way, and her baby showed the effects of poverty and malnutrition. But you'd have thought that little, red, weazened-up worm was worth a hundred thousand dollars, the way the half-blind Robbins boy acted.

Mr. Potiphar Buss saw them safely housed in their bungalow and then he fled.

"I got to hustle back to the office and set an ad," he declared, huskily.

But Mr. Potiphar Buss had told a little white fib. He did not have to hustle back to the office and set an ad.

GALL Stones and Gall Bladder Troubles

Relieve sticking dangerous and complex gall duct troubles, without X-Ray. Free Book 14, Kansas City, Mo., which tells of his successful home treatment. 22 Years' success in chronic ailments—Write today.

Mr. Potiphar Buss went home in the early evening to his boarding house. Slowly he mounted the steep, narrow, creaking stairs and opened the door into his stuffy little chamber.

Having reached his room he sat down on the edge of the bed. He took off his derted derby hat and laid it beside him. Finally came a sigh, a long-drawn sigh that trembled with pain. He moved across the room to a cluttered closet beside the chimney. He felt around until he located an out-of-date telescope valise. He went slowly back across the room to the west window and ran the curtain to the top so that all the light from the afterglow of the sunset could illuminate what he held in his hands. Then in an ocean of time he untied the strings.

They were letters he held—letters bedimmed by the musty hand of Time and perfumed with the saffron scent of long ago. Mr. Potiphar Buss opened them. One by one he read them. And in doing so, as he had done on countless nights in other years, he counted his rosary.

For the letters which he read were penned in a woman's hand. They were love letters—written in a time when Potiphar Buss was not old and gone-to-seed and bald as an egg. Shadows and night had closed down on the one who had penned them. Yet through the years the man had kept them, treasures which were sacred. Over the years they had been a solace when the cares and disappointments of life had weighed too heavily upon him. Letters once—now whispers from the dead.

The gnarled old printer read again those faded pages which had been written by one who had loved him in life's springtime. And after a while he came to a photograph which he knew when he opened the packet he would come upon. From the faded old print there looked up at him the features of a young woman. And in the hollow of her arm there lay a little child.

"Mary! Mary!" he whispered, in anguish, "if someone had only done the same for me!"

* * * * *

Mr. Potiphar Buss works each day in our office. Yesterday, having taken his cob pipe from his toothless gums, removed his spectacles and washed up at our sloppy old sink in the corner, he remarked from force of habit: "Well, I ain't always goin' to do this. Some day I'm goin' to take a trip around the wor"—— But he stopped in the middle of a word. He took down his coat. He put it on and went out.

"Oh, well," he mused, "it really don't matter! The parts I wanted most to see has all been shot to pieces, anyhow!"

* * * * *

Down in Boston now there is a young man with a good pair of eyes, a commendable ambition, a resolute determination to make good an old printer's altruism. A girl-wife with a song in her heart is helping him to make a success of his life and a $10,000 child binds them both.

Stars Are Born, Last Awhile, and Die

scientists stationed at the Mount Wilson Solar Observatory in Pasadena, Cal., this is a mere trifle in a day's work. With the aid of the comparatively new 100-inch reflector telescope, largest in the world, these scientists on the mountain top are not only able to tell the age of a star but also its size, composition, velocity, temperature and distance from the earth.

Light from one of the more distant stars reaches the earth 100,000 years later; and light travels 186,000 miles a second. The fact that this light when seen by the scientists is thousands of years old makes little difference in the calculating of stars' ages, for the scientist takes about as much cognizance of 10,000 years as an ordinary person would of 10 minutes, with a whole day in which to catch his train.

Since 1904, when the Mount Wilson Observatory was founded by Andrew Carnegie as a department of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, many startling discoveries of a scientific nature have been made by the corps of world-famous men in charge. Study and experiments carried on in this institution have brought facts of great importance to the world in general. At present problems of the sun are being worked out.

The Department of Astronomy was founded by Dr. George Ellery Hale of Pasadena, who for 18 years was the director of the observatory. Now Dr. Hale is conducting research work of his own and his place as director is being filled by Dr. Walter S. Adams. The sun is, without question, the most important object of study for the Mount Wilson scientists. Study of the temperature, composition, movements and atmospheric and electrical condition on and about the sun, which in reality is the nearest star to the earth, is carried on painstakingly. The first instrument used was a 60-foot foil length telescope.

Observations are made from towers, as it was found that at a height of 75 feet spectroscope examinations of the sun's rays could be made without interference of heat and magnetic waves which exist near the earth's surface. The spectroscope itself is placed in a deep pit or well directly under the tower. In this pit the temperature is constant; therefore no adjustments need be made on the instrument during experiments. This is an item of extreme importance to the scientists. The spectroheldograph, an investment invented by Dr. Hale, is used daily to photograph the surface of the sun in the light of hydrogen, calcium and helium. This instrument allows the study of each element separately and in this way any change in the surface of the sun is detected easily.

Perhaps the most important objects of interest on the sun are the sun spots, which come and depart with frequency. At times there are more than 100 such spots, or storm centers; then for one month in a period of 11 years none at all are seen. Every night these spots are counted and examined with the aid of powerful telescope reflectors. The center of each sun spot is a magnetic field and is either of a positive or negative pole. Generally they run in pairs, one of each pole. This brings to light one of the most important discoveries ever made at the Mount Wilson Observatory. Every 11 years, it was discovered, the cycle changes and in turn the poles on the sun spots are reversed. For instance, for 11 years the spot connecting the negative pole will follow the spot of the positive pole, but when the cycle changes the path of the spots changes similarly. No reason has been found for this peculiar action. This is one of the important problems now being worked out.

Some idea of the size of these sun spots may be determined by the fact that each is larger than the earth. They are in a gaseous form, as is the sun, and operate on the principle of the electric motor. To powerful telescopes they appear like cyclonic storms. These spots affect the earth in many ways. They are directly responsible for the Northern Lights, or Aurora Borealis. They cause disturbances in telegraph wires and underground cables and are responsible for the static noises heard over the radio.

All instruments used at the observatory are manufactured in Pasadena at a branch laboratory conducted by the Mount Wilson institution. The 100-inch telescope reflector is by far the most interesting and most valuable instrument used. The reflector alone, made of the purest of French glass, cost $50,000. Money for this was donated by John D. Hooker of Los Angeles and work was started in 1913. Five years later the reflector was completed, after nearly a million dollars had been spent. The mounting in which the glass is held cost approximately half a million dollars. Faint stars can be viewed and photographed with apparent ease by means of this instrument.

Work of this kind is necessarily slow, as the making of one photograph takes as long as 10 hours. Many valuable photographs of nebulae have been taken in the past few years. Nebulae appear in the photographs like clusters of 10,000,000 stars. Five hundred million stars are visible at one time in the mirror of the 100-inch telescope.

Another important observation made through the 100-inch instrument is that the sun's surface rotates in sections; that is, one portion of the sun which is at a high temperature revolves much faster than a section of lower temperature. This observation shows that the sun is either in a liquid or gaseous form.

Since the Mount Wilson Observatory was founded 20 years ago it has encouraged research work in every way. At almost any time of the year foreign astronomers and scientists may be found at the observatory studying various branches of the work carried on there.

Says New Method Heals Rupture

Kansas City Doctor's Discovery Makes Truss or Operation Unnecessary

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of Dr. Andrews, well known hernia specialist of Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrew's ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of the Post-Dispatch who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today.

Marvelous New Curling Cap Marcel Waves Any Hair

Startling New Invention Makes Marcelling Quick and Easy

Here's the best news you've had in many a day! You no longer have to spend long hours in a Beauty Shop—and lots of money—keeping your hair in the Marcel that Style demands. Now you can Marcel it yourself in the privacy of your boudoir as simply and quickly as you formerly combed your hair when it was long.

It makes no difference how you wear your hair or what condition it's in—whether it's soft and fluffy, or stiff and unruly, thick or thin, bobbed or even long—this great new beauty invention will transform it into a mass of lovely ringlets, waves and curls in 15 minutes' time. And we guarantee it!

Like all great inventions, McGowan's Curling Cap is very simple. There is no complicated apparatus. Nothing to catch in your hair or get out of order. It is a simple device that applies the principle of the curling iron, using a specially prepared, safe and harmless curling fluid—Spanish Curling Liquid—in place of water and heat.

You can see at a glance how the Curling Cap works. Elastic head-bands hold the six rubberized cross-pieces in place. The hair is held in "waves" by the crosspieces until it dries, when the Curling Cap is removed, and you have a beautiful Marcel that would cost a dollar or more at a Beauty Shop and take about an hour's time.

A Timely Aid to Beauty

There never was a more timely invention than this, when nearly all girls and young women are wearing bobbed hair—and wondering how they will keep it curled through the summer. Tennis, golf, boating, swimming and other summer sports always have played havoc with Marcels and make it nearly impossible for the average outdoor girl to keep her bob looking as smart as it should. But now she can laugh at her former worries, for with McGowan's Curling Cap and a bottle of Spanish Liquid she can have a Marcel every day in less time than it took to comb her hair when it was long.

Curly Hair's the Thing Now

No matter what style of bob you favor, or even if you wear your hair long, you've got to keep it curly and wavy if you want to be in style. There never was a style more universally becoming and there never was one more rigidly demanded by the arbiters of fashion. This device is a godsend for the water nymph, for every time she goes in, the curl comes out. Now it's just a matter of a few minutes to restore all the lovely curls and waves.

For Any Length or Style of Hair

Girls and women with long hair will find this great invention just as big a help to them. Fashion demands curly hair for them as well as for the "bobbed heads," and it is even harder to Marcel long hair. But with Spanish Curling Liquid and McGowan's Curling Cap it is as simple as combing the hair. It makes no difference, either, whether you prefer the waves running across your hair or from front to back. The Curling Cap is adjustable either way.

Read This Amazing Offer

If you are familiar with the price of other curling devices—none of which is to be compared with the Curling Cap—you would expect this one to cost at least $10 or $15. In fact, when Mr. McGowan first showed his invention to his friends many of them advised him to sell it for that price because it is easily worth it. But Mr. McGowan wants every girl and woman to get the benefit of his great invention, so he decided to put the price within reach of all. By selling in tremendous quantities it will be possible for him to make a price of $2.87 for the entire outfit, which includes a large-size bottle of Spanish Curling Liquid as well as the newly invented Curling Cap. This delightful hair balsam is not only a marvelous curling fluid, but a splendid tonic as well. It makes the hair soft and glossy and promotes luxurious growth. There is no heat to sear the tender strands of hair and dry out the scalp.

Send No Money—Just Mail the Coupon

You don't even have to pay for this wonderful curling outfit in advance. Just sign the coupon and in a few days the postman will deliver the Curling Cap and Spanish Curling Liquid to you. Simply pay him $2.87, plus postage—and then your Marcel worries will be at an end. If you don't find it the greatest beauty aid you ever used—if it doesn't bring you the most beautiful Marcels just as we promised—if you are not satisfied with McGowan's Curling Cap and Spanish Curling Liquid in every way, just return the outfit and your money will be refunded.

You no longer have to spend hours each week—and lots of money — keeping your hair marcelled. With McGowan's Curling Cap and Spanish Curling Liquid you can always have a beautiful Marcel like this in 15 minutes' time. The cap is made of elastic and may be carried in your purse.

1 After moistening hair with Spanish Curling Liquid, furnished free with every Curling Cap, place cap over the head and pull the hair forward through the perforated crosspieces with the fingers.

2 The hair is held in "waves" by the crosspieces and allowed to dry in this position—meanwhile you can read or finish dressing.

3 After 15 minutes the hair is dry, the cap is removed—and your mirror reflects as beautiful a Marcel as you ever had in your life.

The Curling Cap can be adjusted to wave the hair from side to side as shown in the larger illustration, or from front to back, as shown here.

Knitted Crepe Dress

$2.98

This is the greatest dress bargain ever offered. The material alone is worth more than double the price we ask for the dress. Dress would ordinarily retail for about $5.00. It is a copy of a fine imported model. Knitted dresses are very fashionable.

The material is a knitted crepe jersey cloth of excellent heavy weight and will give wonderful satisfactory wear. It is the most fashionable material ever designed.

THE DRESS is made in slip-over style, knitted full and roomy. Has long set-in sleeves and narrow self-cloth sash. The collar, cuffs and patch pockets are made of a checked knitted velour cloth in contrasting color, which is very stylish. Dress can be worn for sport or everyday wear and is one of the prettiest, most becoming models ever designed. (Our picture remarkably low.

COLORS: Gray, tan or brown. Misses' sizes 14 to 18 years, women, 32 to 46 bust.

Slender Women are more popular—

A graceful slender girl holds a fascination which only slender women have.

Men admire a youthful silhouette. Instinctively, they are drawn towards the woman whose figure is graceful and shapely. That's why slender girls are always popular.

But why worry about being overweight? It's easy to reduce. Use Marmola Tablets (thousands of men and women each year regain healthy, slender figures this way). These tablets will make you slender again. Try them. No exercises or diets.

All drug-stores have them—one dollar a box. Or they will be sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, by the Marmola Co., 1700 General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

A coach to his team

"In all sports and athletic contests muscle and endurance are the things that count — but endurance counts most. This power of endurance comes from food as well as training — food that is rich in muscle-making elements that do not overtax the digestive organs.

"That's the reason I recommend Shredded Wheat for men who are training for contests that call for physical endurance. Many great athletic events have been won by men trained on Shredded Wheat. The head coach of the Olympic Team that won all the honors in Paris in July instructed the Olympic Committee to take on board ship a supply of Shredded Wheat for the athletes.

"Shredded Wheat contains all the muscle-building elements of the whole wheat grain prepared in a digestible form. It is on the training table of nearly all the schools, colleges and universities in this country."

Watch The Danger Line!

A SLENDER stretch of weathered rope is a Danger Line that warns bathers of deep or treacherous water. . . .

To prevent accident and promote public welfare, civil officials have marked many Danger Lines on land and sea. Likewise, to aid in the prevention of illness and disease, dental and medical authorities have pointed out other Danger Lines which demand our constant respect and serious attention.

One of the most important of these is The Danger Line where teeth meet gums.

In the little V-shaped crevices along that Danger Line food gathers and ferments. Acids form and then decay begins. Unless Acid Decay is prevented here, pyorrhea may next develop. Serious illness, such as rheumatism and heart-disease, often result from Acid Decay.

You Can Prevent Acid Decay

Milk of Magnesia is recognized throughout modern dentistry as a thorough, safe, sure means of counteracting acids which attack the teeth and irritate the gums. Squibb's Dental Cream is made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. It neutralizes the acids which might cause decay. It reduces the chances of pyorrhea. It soothes tender gums. It allays tooth sensitiveness. It cleans thoroughly and brings out all the natural beauty of your teeth. It is the only dentifrice that does all these things and does them effectively.

Buy Squibb's Dental Cream today. You'll like its pleasant flavor. Enjoy sound teeth and healthy gums. Use it at least two or three times a day. To get children to brush their teeth regularly, give them Squibb's Dental Cream. It's absolutely safe for all. It cannot harm even the baby's young teeth and tender gums.

Lingette

Everybody thinks its silk

You can trust your very prettiest "undies" to the laundry —when they're made of Lingette!

LINGETTE is the fabric that has set women free from the drudgery of washing their own dainty lingerie! It has the exquisite lustre and caressing texture of silk but—because it is woven all of extra-strength, superfine cotton—you can entrust all your pretty Lingette undergarments to your laundress, or to the laundry, with no more worry than if they were made of plain muslin!

The only care you need give is to make sure that what you buy is Lingette. We want you to enjoy Lingette's permanent finish; its remarkable wear-resistance; and have done all in our power to protect you from the disappointments that come from poor materials. But all our care will be of no service to you unless you match it with an equal care—unless you see that the word Lingette is on the selvage, or that the Lingette label is stitched in the ready-to-wear garment.

ALL THE MUSIC OF ALL THE WORLD

Enrich
His Mind and Life with Music

IN CERTAIN happy homes the names of Tschaikowsky, Mendelssohn, Debussy, come as naturally to childish lips as Grimm, Andersen and others beloved by children everywhere for their fascinating tales of romance and make-believe.

In these happy homes, no child's education is thought complete unless it includes an acquaintance with good music. Time was when this acquaintance was a cultural advantage open only to the privileged few. It meant tutors, teachers, costly lessons and concerts. To-day, through Columbia Records, all the music of all the world is made available to every child

Through Columbia Records your own small son and daughter can come to know and love the works of great composers. And they can hear these works interpreted by the finest artists and musical organizations of all countries.

In the single moment it takes to put on a record, you can fly with them to London and hear a marvelous English orchestra's rendition of that delightful fairy-tale in music—Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite." Like many immortal fairy tales, it begins with "Once upon a time" (the overture) and is about a humble heroine and charming fairy prince, for whom the toys from strange lands dance. (Record 50001 D.)

Then go in spirit to Paris and listen to the French Symphony Orchestra play "Le Rouet d'Omphale" (The Spinning-wheel of Omphale), by Saint-Saens. That it is a "symphonic poem," a term which to them may convey no meaning, will not lessen the children's enjoyment of the music or the legend of Hercules and Queen Omphale which inspired it. (Record A-6087.)

For the sheer electric thrill of it, play next, "Ride of the Valkyries," a record by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. In it is all the fire of battle as dramatized in Wagner's glorious composition.

These are but a few of the wonderful Columbia Records through which your children can acquire that familiarity with good music which stamps the cultivated people of the world.

Other records—hundreds of them, including the latest popular records—are listed in Columbia's catalog, obtainable from any Columbia Dealer. Because of the new surfacing material used on Columbia New Process Records and their laminated construction, scratching and needle noise are eliminated, and you hear the music with shadings of tone and subtleties of phrasing not possible on ordinary records. They are priced from 75c up. Columbia Phonograph Co., Inc., 1819 Broadway, New York.

THE Knit-tex Coat is different from any topcoat you have ever worn. It is guaranteed for three years.

Light as a feather, soft as velvet, warm as toast, never wrinkles, never gets out of shape, and can be worn ten months in the year.

Knit-tex is knitted—but you would never know it. It looks like a fine imported overcoating. A remarkable coat—but not expensive. It is quarter lined with Skinner's Satin.

In every city and town in the United States, there is a clothing store that will show you Knit-tex in beautiful shades of gray, brown, tan, green, blue, heather, and Scotch mixture.

If you are shown a knit coat without the Knit-tex label—beware! If the Knit-tex label is not in the coat it is not made of genuine guaranteed Knit-tex cloth.

JIMMY MILES JR. SURRENDERS ON MURDER CHARGE AND GIVES BOND

Serious Illness of His Father, Democratic Politician and Justice, Brings Him In.

COURT ACCEPTS $40,000 SURETY

Circuit Attorney's Opposition to Bail Had Kept Him Dodging Police for 7 Months.

James P. Miles Jr. today surrendered, after being a fugitive for more than seven months, charged in an indictment with murder in the first degree, in the killing of Charles O'Neal, bartender at the Washington Hotel, Feb. 5 last.

Circuit Judge Hamilton permitted Miles to give $40,000 bond for his release. William J. (Boots) Brennan and Charles (Cap) Troll signed the bond.

The serious illness of Miles' father, Justice of the Peace Miles, an influential Democratic Ward politician, was the reason for the son's desire to return to St. Louis at this time. He made his return conditional, however, on the acceptance of bond, a procedure to which Circuit Attorney Sidener previously had refused to agree.

Justice Miles is confined to his home, 1517 North Eighteenth street. Daniel E. Naughton, clerk in his court, made the arrangements for the surrender of the younger Miles.

Pleads Not Guilty.

At the request of John Neu, a lawyer, Judge Hamilton called the Miles case this morning, and Miles entered the courtroom, with Deputy Sheriff Oscar Mohrstadt. The indictment was read to him, though the lawyer offered to waive this formality, and he pleaded not guilty.

Judge Hamilton then asked Circuit Attorney Sidener to state his attitude as to the acceptance of bond. Sidener replied, "My position has been that bond should not be accepted. However, that is a matter within Your Honor's prerogatives."

Judge Hamilton then said that he had looked over the transcript of the evidence in the O'Neal murder case, and that he found the evidence against Miles to contain "proof not so certain or presumption not so great that bond may not be permitted." He fixed the bond at $40,000, and it was signed at once.

Taken to Headquarters.

As he was leaving the court, Miles was taken in custody by detectives, who took him to Headquarters to photograph him, take his finger prints and obtain other data for the Bertillon records. The absence of any photograph of Miles or any official data about him, although he had been arrested frequently on various charges, was the occasion of severe criticism of the Police Department, following his flight.

Miles did not object to the photographing or print-taking, but asked the detectives how they knew of his presence in the city. He, he said, he had "just come into town in an auto." He refused to say where he had been during his absence.

At Police Headquarters everyone seemed to know Miles, and there were many greetings of "Hello, Jimmy," and sympathetic inquiries as to the elder Miles.

Miles, in the usual questioning by the police, said he was 33 years old and a clerk. At the time when he left, he was Deputy Constable in his father's court. He said he was married, and lived at 1414 Shawnee place. He wore a new looking blue serge suit, and had $10 in his pocket. Miles is prematurely gray.

Refuses to Make Statement.

He refused to make any statement to the police as to the killing, and he was told that he would be held until the witnesses in the O'Neal murder case, or at least the chief witness, Rudolph Schaefer, could be summoned to look at him. Detectives were sent to find Schaefer.

It was learned that detectives have been keeping a watch on the home of Justice Miles since the report of his serious illness became known, but that the surveillance has been so conducted as not to annoy the family or attract the attention of neighbors. The men who have been on watch there did
